This will include two buildings, a three story office building and a new parts building. The new buildings will be completed October 1, according to Charles F. Barth, vice president in charge of manufacturing.

On the completion of the new buildings, the present office and parts buildings will be razed and a modern factory building erected in their place, Mr. Barth declared.

The new parts building will be a three story structure, 530 by 122 feet, and of concrete construction. The new office building, of brick and concrete construction, will be 260 by 60 feet.

Completion of the project will provide additional manufacturing facilities to a plant that is already one of the finest in the automotive industry.

GRANDFATHER'S BIRTHDAY CELEBRATED

Editor Union-Banner:

On June 12th we celebrated our father's birthday. The children and grand children and great grand children carried their baskets filled with good eats. We found out that there are some mighty good cooks in the Mims family. Miss Jessie Mims baked her grandfather's cake and put 83 candles on it. There were several other cakes on the table and chicken and other things cooked in many different ways. Ice cream was served in the morning, and in the afternoon all had a very enjoyable time.

The following grand children were not there: Miss Olene Mims in Jacksonville school; Miss Etta Foshee in Howard College; Mrs. Hattie Parrish of Birmingham; Mrs. Delene Cook at Florence; Mrs. Belle Dorminey.

The above was sent in by a subscriber. We have inquired for more information about the occasion, and the best we can determine is that the event was a celebration of the 83rd birthday of "Little George" Mims.

BEST CLUB WORKERS ATTEND BIG CAMP

Two Girls and Two Boys Take Part in Annual Event at Washington

Auburn, Ala., June 25.—Special. To the National Boys and Girls 4-H Club Camp at Washington, June 15-23, Alabama sent her four sweepstakes stars—two girls and two boys. The girls are Bettie Raoul and Lizzie Mae Dees of the Pike Road Club, Montgomery County. The boys are Clifton Kirkpatrick, Jr., Cahaba, Dallas County, and Eldred Garrett, Sturkie Club, Chambers County.

They made the trip to and from Washington in automobiles accompanied by Mrs. Mamie C. Thornington, home demonstration agent, Montgomery; T. A. Sims and J. C. Lowery, state club leaders, Auburn; Miss Elizabeth Forney, district home agent; and H. C. Heath, county agent of Chammbers County.

At Washington they took part in special exercises arranged for them. They saw Washington. It was an opportunity of a life-time for them. At the same time the sweepstakes winners from other states were present, all representing 600,000 farm boys and girls in the United States now engaged in club work.

To win the honor of being the best among 9000 girls in Alabama, Miss Raoul and Miss Dees had to be the best in their local club, then in their county, and next at the state short course in Auburn in 1926. Faithful, efficient, and careful work on each project were at the bottom of their success.

Young Kirkpatrick made an excellent record in the cotton club, pig club, calf club, and corn club. He was also a leader in other ways. Eldred Garrett did his outstanding work with cotton and pigs and also as a leader in his club.

Sunday was a day greatly enjoyed at this place. The all day singing proved a success in every way. At nine o'clock the doors were thrown wide open to the public and a lively congregation was soon seated and anxiously waiting for services to begin. At 9:30 Prof. Wood renered a few selections while the committee arranged the following program: Johnnie Miner, F. J. Little, R. E. Jones, E. H. Traywick, O. L. Devaughn, L. Sandeds, Mack Boswell, and Prof. Wood three songs each. This rought us up to the noon hour. After a bountiful dinner was served there was still enough for another such crowd. Friends and relatives enjoyed themselves shaking hands talking with each other. At one o'clock the program continued as follows: Durwood and Russel Cleckler, Dolton Bill, Misses Lillie Mae Weldon, Delene Lambert and Mrs. Zula Rutherford. Organists for the day were: Misses Lillie Mae Weldon, Delene Lambert, Leila Jones, and Mrs. Enil Wyatt and Mrs. Zula Rutherford.

We were thankful indeed for the splendid behavior we had throughout the day. We thank the good singers from the neighboring communities for their help and invite them to come again on the 4th Sunday in June, 1928. Let's try to make the next one even better than this one.

On next Sunday afternoon July 3, the society meets in regular session and we invite the presence of all good singers.—Nora Miner, Sec.

CLARA GLASSCOCK SELECTED AS ONE OF EIGHT HONOR STUDENTS

At the inter-session short course at Auburn this year Miss Clara Glasscock of DeArmanville was one of the honor students. These courses are held every year for the members of the 4-H clubs of the State. This year there were 82 present for the course. [illegible] county is allowed to send two [illegible]ntatives who are chosen from [illegible]s of the county.

[illegible]ear the club to which Miss [illegible] belongs, selected its work [illegible]hing. Miss Glasscock was one [illegible]ght to give her talk on the last day for final consideration.

The Kiwanis and Axis Clubs of Anniston gave Miss Glasscock her trip to Auburn. She has already made talks before each of these clubs, and she will speak to all the 4-H clubs is Calhoun County.

Clara is the 14-year old daughter of Mr. A. L. Glasscock who up until six years ago lived in the Union Grove community of Chilton County. Two years ago she attended one term at the Jemison High School. She made a fine record and many friends while at Jemison near her old home.

INDEPENDENCE HALL AGAIN TOLLS LIBERTY

Philadelphia, July 4.—Ringing the bell in Independenc Hall tower marked the opening of the Fourth of July observance in Philadelphia, where 151 years ago the old Liberty Bell sent forth its notes of freedom to the American colonists.

Guarded as a treasured relic in its shrine in the historic building, the famous old bell long since has been silent. But the bell in the tower sent forth 151 lusty peals at the stroke of midnight to usher in the celebration.

PAVING AUTHORIZED ON MONTGOMERY HIGHWAY

Paving of the Montgomery-Birmingham highway from the city limits of Montgomery to the Louisville & Nashville spur in Autauga County, and the filling in of gaps on the same highway was authorized by the Alabama highhway commission Saturday morning, with a number of other important road projects in the state. Officials said that this work would complete the highway with the exception of a link in Autauga county from the L. & N. spur to the Chilton county line, which the commission expects to pave next year.

Independence Day Was Celebrated In Clanton

PROGRAM CARRIED OUT UNDER DIRECTION OF LADIES OF METHODIST CHURCH

As has been the custom for several years past, the ladies of the Clanton Methodist church put on a program at the high school grounds in Clanton on July 4th. The attractions this year were very good, and quite a few people from over the county came here to share in the festivities and to see old friends and make new ones.

All kinds of refreshments were prepared by the ladies as well as plate lunches at noon. These were sold, the proceeds going to the Methodist church. A band was on the ground all day and made music at intervals during the day.

The biggest attraction was the baseball games, two of which were held during the day. The Selma team played against Clanton, the local boys winning in both skirmishes. The first game ended with a score of 6 to 3, and the latter one yielded Clanton 13 and the visitors 5.

There was also speaking during the day in the school auditorium. Judge L. H. Reynolds was chairman of the speaking part of the program, who made short introductory talks for the visiting speakers. Hon. Jesse B. Herring of the Montgomery Chamber of Commerce made a very fine talk along the line of independence, liberty, etc. Hon. Joe Green, representative in the legislature from Dallas County, also spoke. His subject was "Law and Order," and he made a mighty good talk. The speeches by both these gentlemen were appropriate and full of good thought. It is to be regretted that more people were not present to hear these speakers.

ALPINE NEWS

Our Sunday school is progressing nicely. Mrs. Gladys Jones gave her class (intermediate) a party and we had a very nice time.

WANTS MORE BUSINESS IN GOVERNMENT

Sam Edwards, the big man from up near Thorsby was among the visitors to Clanton Saturday. He called at the Union-Banner office to get a copy of the paper to see what had happened in Chilton County lately. Sam didn't say in particular, but we supposed he had come to town to get him some lemons and soda pop for the Fourth.

His remarks were confined to political and governmetal subjects concerning Chilton County. Among other things he said he believed it would be a mighty good thing for Chilton County if we would adopt the method of electing our county commissioners by districts. And above all, he said we ought to hasten the day when we shall have more downright business and less politics in the adminstration of the business affairs of our county.

BEAN REUNION HELD

Last Sunday, July 3rd, a reunion was held at the home of Mrs. M. A. Bean. At first it was thought of having a reunion in honor of Mrs. Bean's mother, Mrs. Emily Honeycutt, who is 92 years old. But it was decided to invite the Bean boys and all their families. Following are some of those present:

Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Gore and family, Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Smith and family, Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Gore and family, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Bean, Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Bean and family, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Collum and daughter, Delene, Mr. and Mrs. Julius Simmons and son, Princeton.

At noon a bountiful dinner was served to about 17 persons. A delicious ice course was served to all. We are glad to say the day was thoroughly enjoyed by all, and will be long remembered by those who were present.

"THE DRY YEAR"

Can you draw your faculties together and recall the Fourth of July, 1902—just twenty-five years ago? Well, if you can, you may remember that at that particular time this part of Alabama was very, very dry. In fact, from files of The Banner, and from memoirs of older citizens, this was about the dryest time this generation has witnessed. Corn was parched in the fields by the blistering sun and hot winds of weeks and weeks. Creeks and branches had long since ceased running. Cotton and other crops dried up on the stalk.

In the issue of The Banner of July 3, 1902, correspondents wrote from over the county saying that they had not had rain in six weeks and that things were getting dryer and dryer.

The Political Situation In the Southern States

Written For The Union-Banner by Mr. Frank P. Litschert Of Washington, D. C.

In speaking editorially about the political situation in the South, the New York Times declared recently: "For some time the Atlanta Constitution has been making a gallant argument that a southern man should be the Democratic presdential candidate next year. That the South should furnish three-fifths of the electoral votes needed to put a Democrat in the White House and yet that all its sons should be automatically excluded from the nomination seems to the Constitution to be humiliating. It calls for 'An end to cringing.' Let the South demand its rights. It has plenty of men fit to be President. It should now demand leadership. Even if it failed to lead to victory, it could not do so more signally than those who have led us to defeat a dozen times. Instead of thinking of a few offices under the federal government which the South might get if some northern or western Democrat were elected President, let it put political cowardice aside and assert its full right to choose the Democratic nominee for the Presidency."

No one will dispute the contention that there are able, earnest and patriotic men in the South, capable of filling the office of President with dignity. Nor can it be disputed that the South deserves something from the Democratic party for its faithful sticking to the ship through thick and thin. And yet it is the very blind loyalty to the Democratic party, or blind prejudice against the Republican party, call it what you will, which is handicapping the Southern States in a political way.

For the South is now a victim of political expediency. In the general elections, it votes for the Democratic candidates regardless of issue or personal opinions. And it is because the national Democratic leaders recognize this fact that the South fares no better in the selection of national candidates. Nobody would expect the Republican leaders to go to the South for a candidate, because Republican strength, as expressed at the polls, is negligible there. The Democratic leaders feel the same way about it. "Why" they ask themselves, "should we go to Georgia or Mississippi or Alabama for a Democratic candidate for President or Vice President? These states under their laws and customs will vote for any set of candidates we nominate. There is no need to strengthen our forces in the South. Let us therefore pick a candidate from New York or Ohio or Indiana, where his personal strength may do us some good in a normally Republican state."

No matter how the South likes this sort of argument, its leaders will have to admit that it constitutes good political strategy. Perhaps the South is entitled to more recogniton nationally. But it will only get this recognition when it discards the one party system and permits and encourages the development of two strong political parties. The one party system in the South is unique. There are, of course, states in the North which are regularly and reliably Republican, but there is in all of them an active Democratic minority ready to take advantage of any Republican mistakes, especially where local issues are concerned.

No part of the country has developed more rapidly since the World War than the so-called solid South. Its industries have sprung up almost by magic and its agriculture is annually becoming more important. The South is no longer basically Democratic, using the word Democratic in its partisan sense. The South is now interested in protection to American industries and that interest is steadily growing.

Perhaps the Democrats in the South are not entirely to blame for this one-sided political condition, although the greater burden must of course be placed on their shoulders. It may be that certain Republican leaders in that section too have been more interested in "a few cheap offices under the federal government" than has been entirely good for the development of opposition strength in that section of the country. The two party system is a wholesome one for members and leaders of both political parties and for the people in general.

PLEASANT SURPRISE FOR MR. AND MRS. P. R. DEVAUGHN

On last Monday, July Fourth the relatives of Mr. and Mrs. P. R. Devaughn met at their home on surprise to them to celebrate the 67th birthday of Mrs. Devaughn, also the Fourth of July. All their children wtre there except Bessie Gentry of Columbus, Ga., who could not be there on account of sickness and Mrs. Docia Huckabee of Birmingham.

They have seven children living, all of whom are good citizens, always ready to help any cause for better citizenship. They are the parents of the well-known singer and teacher, O. L. Devaughn, the only one of the children who has entered public life. There are 28 grandchildren, seven great grandchildren.

Mr. and Mrs. Devaughn have been in this community about 30 years and have lived such lives as will make them greatly missed when they shall have reached the end of their ways.

Everyone present had a splendid good time.—A Friend.

TO CLEAN OFF YARDS AT FRIENDSHIP CHURCH

The people near Friendship church and those interested are asked to be at the church on Tuesday, July 12, in the morning, and bring hoes and rakes to clean off the church yards. If you can't come, send some help.—H. F. McCary, T. E Wyatt, J. Dudley Collins.

THE JOYS OF THE FOURTH

Quite a lot of the fun we have on the Glorious Fourth is transitory—it is here the fourth and gone the fifth. But the fellow who spent the Fourth in the woods or on the river fishing gets one joy that lasts probably to the sixth or seventh; that is scratching red bugs.

But that is all the fun that a poor man has—scratching—anyhow.

SWEET POTATOES JULY 1ST

Mr. J. M. Queen, who lives a mile north of Thorsby, reports that he dug sweet potatoes out of his patch the first day of July.

SHILOH SINGING SCHOOL

Our singing school will start at Shiloh on Monday, July 11th. Prof. Clarence Billingsley will be the teacher and the books used will be Showalter's. Let all come who can.

We also expect to clean off the cemetery at this place on July 14th; so all come on that day who can and bring tools to work with.—L C. Keen.

B. C. APPERSON VISITOR HERE

The Union-Banner was greeted by a pleasant call Monday afternoon from our good friend, B. C. Apperson, of Birmingham. Mr. Apperson had just left the home of his father near Pletcher, where he said he had been feasting on watermelons and such like all day. From his appearance we believed he was telling the truth. He was all stuck out in front like he had swallowed a lot of something.

Mr. Apperson is secretary of the Alabama Retail Food Dealers Association, and is editor of the Grocers Journal published at Birminghham. He has won great prominence in his line of work, the above-named association having attained much prestige among the leading grocers in all parts of the state.

The food dealers' association, thru Mr. Apperson, is behind a bill before the state legislature having for its purpose the taxation of chain stores in Alabama. Mr. Apperson was going from here to Montgomery to lead the fight before the law-making body this week.

SINGING SCHOOL AT NEW HARMONY

I wish to announce that I will teach a singing school at New Harmony, beginning Monday, July 11th. Anyone who has not signed up with me is invited to attend the school.—W. L. Sanders.

MR. BINFORD LOOKING AFTER COUNTY AGENTS

Mr. E. E. Binford of Auburn, was in Clanton Tuesday to go before the commissioners court and discuss the matter of putting on a farm demonstration agent in Chilton County. Mr. Binford is the man who directs the work of farm agents in this district of Alabama.

He stated that he would make every effort to get us a good man for the work in this county. He intends to first locate a man whom he thinks will fill the bill, then bring him here and go before the commissioners and complete the arrangements for employing him.

We know personally that Mr. Binford has put on in his district some of the best and most able men in the agricultural service. His promise to get us a good man here means that we shall have a man who will be a great help to our farmers.

Coolidge Was 55 Years Old on July 4 this Year

INDEPENDENCE DAY MARKS A BIRTHDAY OF PRESIDENT OF UNITED STATES

Calvin Coolidge, of all the presidents of the United States, has a birthday anniversary of greatest patriotic significance to his nation's people—Independence Day.

A Vermont farm, near Plymouth, was the place where the thirtieth president was born, on July 4, 1872, and he took the oath of office as the executive in 1923. An ungraded village school, typical of the period and locality, furnished his early schooling.

The first intimation of his serious interest in history came in his senior year at Amherst College, when he won a medal for an essay on the causes of the Revolutionary War. After graduation he entered the legal profession and a political career at Northampton, Mass. He was mayor, then state senator and afterward governor of Massachusetts.

He attracted the attention of the country when he stopped the Boston police strike by calling out the state guardsmen. With "law and order" for a slogan he won a second term.

"Silent Cal," he became when he took over the presidential duties after the death of President Harding. "Coolidge Economy" was another phrase carried over into the present term of office to which he was elected in 1924.

SINGING SCHOOL AT PINEDALE

I will begin a singing school at Pinedale Church Monday, July 11. Will be glad to have as many enroll on opening day as possible.—A. O. Boswell.

DIED OF INJURIES SUSTAINED AT COAL MINES

William Harrison Ray, who was injured nearly four weeks ago while working in a mine for the Alabama By-Products Company near Quinton, Ala., died in the Norwood Hospital Saturday morning, July 2. The body was brought to Jemison by Martin, undertaker, of Clanton and the funeral was held at Mars Hill Sunday. Rev. R. M. Honeycutt officiated.

Ray was 29 year of age. Reports say that he was working beside his brother in the mine when a rock fell on him severely injuring his back and hip. He lived for nearly four weeks after the accident. He is survived by his wife, father, and several brothers and sisters.

Board of Revenue Bill Defeated In Legislature

SOLONS DECLINE TO UNEARTH BILL TO REDISTRICT CHILTON COUNTY

The bill which was proposed in the Legislature of Alabama to abolish the commissioners court of Chilton County, redistrict the county, and establish a board of revenue, has been defeated. The matter rests in the hands of the local legislation committee, which postponed it indefinitely. The House tabled Representative Darden's motion to require the committee to report on the bill.

The following report of the procedure in the House last Friday is taken from the Montgomery Advertiser:

The house of representatives Friday defeated efforts of Chilton County democrats supported by Representative Darden of Coosa to change the method of electing members of the Chilton County board of revenue. The measure was a senate bill providing for the redistricting of the county and providing certain changes in the method of electing members of the board of revenue.

Mr. Darden opening the fight soon after the house convened Friday sought to force the committee on local legislation to report the bill. The house by a vote of 56 to 20 voted to sustain the committee which had previously indefinitely postponed the bill by a vote of 14 to 5. Proponents of the bill claimed that under the new measure democrats could elect at least two and probably three of the five members of of the board of revenue.

Representatives Ware of Randolph, and Pegues of Jackson joined Mr. Darden in his fight. Representatives Sanderson of Montgomery, Beebe of Baldwin and Mr. Morrow, chairman of the committee defended the action of the committee on grouds that the measure was strictly a local one and that no general principles were involved. Representative Pitts, republican of Chilton County, led the fight against the bill and asked the usual legislative courtesy extended on local measure. —Montgomery Advertiser.

PROF. W. M. DEVAUGHN WILL TEACH TWO MUSIC SCHOOLS

The Union-Banner is in receipt of a communication from Prof. W. M. Devaughn, asking The Banner to tell the world that he is going to begin a singing school at Concord School house on July 11th, and will continue for three weeks or eighteen days. On Monday, August 1st, he will begin a four weeks or 24-days school at Mulberry church.

We can truthfully say that Prof. Devaughn is one of the best singers in Chilton County, and he is also one of the best teachers and writers of sacred music. Most everybody who knows anything about sacred music knows more or less about Prof. Devaughn, and they know him to be hard to beat in this line.

The above two rommunities are indeed fortunate to get the service of Prof. Devaughn in their singing and music schools. He is not only a good teacher, but he is a good Christian man, with whom no one need fear to leave the care of their boys and girls. If you live in these communities or in reach of either of these schools, you will never regret it if you will avail yourself of attending.

TREES REQUIRE LIGHT

Digests Food.

Trees must have light, although they have on eyes with which to see, according to a statement issued by the Alabama Commission of Forestry. In the case of human beings, the most obvious use of lights is an aid to eyesight. With the trees, however, the use of light is of a different character—that of digesting food.

It has long been known that lights can accomplish very peculiar things. Among the latter are certain chemical changes, such as the bleaching of colors and action on the photographic plate. The leaves of a tree correspond roughly to both the lungs and the stomach of an animal. Food rises in liquid form from the fine roots up thorugh the sapwood into the leaves. The latter also obtain from the air carbonic acid gas. The play of sunlight causes certain chemical changes in these substances so that they are digested into forms that can be assimilated by the tree, making new wood and other plant material.

One of the principles of silviculture or the gdowing of forests, is to keep the trees on each acre properly distributed so that their leafy crowns will utilize as much light as possible, allowing for other spacing requirements designed to cause the trees to grow tall and straight. Trees that receive less than their share of light are at a decided disadvantage.

Ventriloquism, the practice of making the voice come from a particular point, is believed to have played an important part in the magic and ceremonial rites of early peoples.

Child-birth

Here is a wonderful message to all expectant mothers!

When the Little One arrives, you can have that moment more free from suffering than you have perhaps imagined. An eminent physician, expert in this science, has shown the way. It was he who first produced the great remedy, "Mother's Friend." Mrs. C. J. Hartman, Scranton, Pa., says:

"With my first two children I had a doctor and a nurse and then they had to use instruments, but with my last two children I used 'Mother's Friend' and had only a nurse; we had no time to get a doctor because I wasn't very sick—only about ten or fifteen minutes." Use "Mother's Friend" as our mothers and grandmothers did. Don't wait, start today, and meanwhile write to Bradfield Regulator Co., BA 46, Atlanta, Ga., for a free illustrated book containing information every expectant mother should have. "Mother's Friend" is sold by all drug stores—everywhere.

THORSBY SECTION

(R. E. NORTON, Manager).

An always enjoyable affair is the annual picnic of the Lutheran church, which brings together not only the members of that organization but many friends of Scandanivain origin as well as a goodly number of American born residents of Thorsby. There are no closely drawn lines of nativity or denominational preferences, just a "get together meeting,, of the community . All neighbors and their friends. Such an occasion was fittingly used as a fourth of July celebration for a lot of Thorsby people. First, the day was ideal; clear skies and gentle winds fostered an exhilaration that made everybody feel good. Mr. Conrad Carlson's beautiful grove with its reaches of real grass and spreading trees flanked by comfortable seats, were conducive to social enjoyment, while the ample room for games gave pleasure to all who cared for them. Thorsby cooks are notable for the variety and excellence of their viands, which, when accompanied by ice cream, coffee, or cold drinks, leave little to be desired. And the universal verdict can be summed up as a most delightful occasion.

One feature of the week end in Thorsby was the coming home of so many of our young people, whose daily occupations and interests take them away from Thorsby. Mr. and Mrs. Martin Petersen have as their guest their son, Walter, who for the past two years has been in the U. S. navy, now on 30 days furlough from Pensacola, where he is serving as a mechanic in the aviation corps stationed there. He is the young man who wrote such a thrilling story of his experiences during the great storm which nearly wrecked the whole outfit last fall, which was published in The Union-Banner.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. A. Peterson have their daughter, Ruth, who is employed in Birmingham. They also have their daughter, Ethel, recently married to Roy Raybon, son of Mr and Mrs. Raybon of Thorsby, who, with his wife, is spending part of his time with his parents.

Mr. and Mrs. Ellery Hansen of Lock 12 paid a visit to the Steiner family. Mrs. Hansen was well known in Thorsby as Miss Pearl Steiner, and lived in Thorsby many years.

Miss Margaret Butler, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. E. W. Butler, who is employed in Birmingham, is home for a month of vacation.

Miss Bertha Littleton of Birmingham, and Mr. J. G. Littleton, and Mr. and Mrs. T. O. Farrington, of Bessemer, were visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Emmet Billingsley in Thorsby.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. S. Howard have had as their guests the past two weeks Mrs. Dell Bickell and two children of St. Elmo, Ala. Mrs. Howard, with her son, Lloyd, and daughter, Ella, returned with their guests to St. Elmo where Mrs. Howard's parents reside, on Wednesday.

Mrs. Yarbrough from Prattville, Mr. and Mrs. Gebe Luther of Deatsville, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Grover Bice.

Mrs. T. J. Smith and Miss Mattie Peyton spent Wednesday with Mrs. H. L. Walker.

Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Pate spent Tuesday in Birmingham shopping.

Mrs. H. L. Walker and daughter, Mrs. Grover Bice and two children, motored to Deatsville last Monday and spent the day with delatives.

Rev. and Mrs. Each and family were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Niswander at a birthday dinner in honor of little Clara Niswander, last Sunday.

Mr. Andrew Franzen and Mrs. C. R. Foss have been entertaining Mr Franzen's niece, Miss Lily Franzen of Santa Fe, New Mexico, for severel days the past week. Miss Frazen formerly lived in Thorsby with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Franzen, pioneers in Thorsby. They left for New Mexico 23 years ago. Miss Franzen has for many years been a successful teacher and has recently been in New York taking a special course in training school work for girls. She now holds a position as state inspector of Girls Training Schools in New Mexico. Everyone here who saw her was delighted with her personality. She left Monday for her home in Santa Fe.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Each and children went to Union church on Wednesday to attend revival meetings started at that place, a church under the pastoral care of Mr. Each.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Higgins have as their guests their daughter with her two children, who stopped on their way from Ohio, to their home in Elmore.

Last Tuesday night Miss Gertrude Steiner was hostess for the Christian Endeavor social.

The congregational Ladies Aid Society will meet for their social this week, Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Martin Peterson.

Lighting played several pranks in Thorsby Sunday afternoon. A pole supporting electric wires near Fred Howard's home was struck. Mr. Stoney Howard was standing on the front porch at Fred Howards, his hand resting on the screen door. He received a considerable shock.

Mrs. J. M. Bosworth was another who got a slight screen door shock as she stood in her home looking out, with her fingers touching the screen.

Miss Romilee Pate is spending a few days with her cousins at Mineral Springs.

Don't forget "The Path Across The Hill" to be presented at the public school building for the benefit of the Baptist Church, next Saturday night.

There will be a cemetery cleaning day at Collins Chapel July 14th. Everyone who will help, please be at the cemetary by 8 A. M. with brooms, shovels and hoes.

Mr. T. W. Lawrence who for about a year past has been conducting the store of Lawrence Brothers in Thorsby has been offered and has accepted a position that will enable him to pay his way through college at Birmingham Southern. Hence he is closing out his business here.

On last Wednesday Thorsby Chapter of the Eastern Star had with them Mrs. Cora McAdory of Auburn to inspect and grade the chapter in their work.

Butler and daughters, Margaret and Dorothy, Mrs. Earl Diefenderfer and children, Helen and Milton, Mr. and Mrs J. H. Goddard and Mary Sue Robinson made up a motor party for Gore's Pond on July the Fourth. All had a jolly good time with plenty of good eats.

Miss Gwendolyn Jones and gentleman friend, Mr. Lancaster, of Birmingham, spent Sunday evening in Thorsby as guests of Mr. and Mrs. Webb Sharpe.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Goddard, Mrs. E. N. Bentley and children, Sam and Marjorie, Mary Sue and Jennye Robinson on last Thursday motored to Spigener and Elmore and viewed the destruction wrought by breaking of the dam at Spigener prison farm.

JEMISON AND THORSBY BAPTIST NEWS

Last Sunday was a great day for the pastor at Jemison. I am glad to say that Jemison has many splendid church people. The young people are doing splendid work. We appreciate the cooperation of the church folks.

Yes, sir. You are safe to trust the good people when it comes to the test of right and wrong.

Our revival meeting is to begin the first Sunday in August. Rev. Wyatt, pastor of Powderly Baptist Church, is to help the pastor in the meeting. We hope you will make your arrangements to attend. We are expecting a great meeting, for we are in the hands of a powerful and loving God.

I am proud to say that the Sunday school at Thorsby is still growing. We had 123 present last Sunday.

Don't forget that the meeting is to begin at Thorsby Baptist Church Monday evening, July 18, at 7:30. Rev. Theo Harris, pastor at Ensley, will help us in the meeting. He is a splendid preacher and a beautiful Christian character. Mr. Herbert Lowery of Clanton will direct the music.—J. H. Roberts, Pastor.

REPORTS COTTON INFECTED BY RED SPIDER

Sheriff Collins reports that he has visited the farm of Mr. Frank Patterson and witnessed a field of cotton where the red spider is at work. He says the spider is caused from a growth of pope weed. He advises farmers to get their hoes and cut all the pope weeds they can find; also to get rid of all other weeds as nearly as possible.

HISTORY OF SOME OF CHILTON DEMOCRATIC LEADERS

A good deal of interest was worked up in Montgomery last week when the Chilton County Board of Revenue bill was again the center of activity. Anticipating the scrap that was in store for this event the Montgomery Advertiser printed the following forecast last Thursday:

The Alabama House of Representatives will witness quite a spirited skirmish Friday morning when Representative Darden of Coosa attempts to have the house instruct the committee on local legislation to report the Ellis bill which seeks to legislate against republicans in Chilton county.

Mr. Darden will be opposed in his efforts by Percy Pitts, republican representative from Chilton. Mr. Pitts will tell the house that the bill is merely an effort to "gerrymander" the county on the part of certain democrats. He will call attention to the appearance of many prominent democrats of Chilton County before the committee in opposition to the bill of Senator Ellis.

It developed at the committee hearing that J. B. Atkinson of Clanton is chairman of the Chilton county democratic committee which has endorsed the Ellis bill. Mr. Atkinson is a former Republican and was an unsuccessful applicant for United States Distriict Attorney, the place now held by Grady Reynolds, of Clanton.

S. M. Adams, known all over Alabama as "Burn My Arm Off Adams" is actively seeking the passage of the bill. Mr. Adams is a former populite, who on one noted occasion while making a political speech and referring to Senator John Tyler Morgan, said "I will burn my right arm off before I will ever vote the democratic ticket." Mr. Adams is now member of the democratic committee of Chilton County.

With all of these things in the background the fight Friday promises to be a warm one.

When Friday came and the fight was on, it was a warm one just as the Advertiser predicted. Representative Pitts was happily able to rally such a number of his democratic colleagues to his side to defeat the motion of Mr. Darden by a big majority.

It is said that the Democrats may take their nationtl convenion to Massachusetts next year. Maybe they want to find out how Coolidge did it.

TOM HERROD HERE SATURDAY

Our good friend, Tommie Herrod, from Plantersville, one time member of the court of county commissioners of Chilton County, was a visitor to Clanton Saturday. He came over to see about some business matters and was soon on his way back home to spend the Fourth with his family.

For some time Mr. Herrod has been doing contract building work in Demopolis. At the present time he is figuring on a contract to build a courthouse for Marengo County at Linden.

Mr. Herrod is one of the best citizens we ever had in Chilton County. His services here on our board of county commissioners will be long remembered for the faithfulness and honesty of purpose which he manifested for the public welfare. He was indeed a good commissioner even if he did fail in a sense to please some of the folks of his district. He was a commissioner big enough to be an official for the whole county, and in that way we think he must have made full justification for any shortcomings that might have been charged to him in his own district. The people down there who differed with him were doubtless not able to see thinvs from a county wide viewpoint as did Mr. Herrod.

We are sorry that we do not have him with us more often now. We hope some day he will catch up with runnings around over the state and come back home and settle down again. His family stil lives over at Plantersville.

ANOTHER EXTRA LARGE EGG

Mrs. Mary Gwathney of Route 8 brought to the Banner office last Saturday an egg that was layed by a White Leghorn hen. The size of the egg places it in competition with the largest ones ever seen here. It measured 6 inches around the long way and 4 inches around the shortest way. It weighed four ounces.

Mrs. Gwathney says she believes her little White Leghorn has hung up a record that is in class with her bigger sisters of the Rhode Island Red family. We agree with her.

Growing children sometimes require a tonic as do their elders

"Dear, I want you to know now that S.S.S. has been used for over 100 years—it is made from fresh roots and herbs—growing children sometimes need a tonic, as do their elders—it is helping you, and I want you to take it regularly before each meal."

Try S.S.S. and you will be surprised how quickly your appetite improves. If you are tired, run-down and listless you owe it to yourself and family to give S.S.S. a trial. It helps Nature build up red blood corpuscles. It improves the processes by which the body is nourished. S.S.S. is time-tried and reliable, and is unequalled for restoring strength and vitality.

S.S.S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.

W. M. U. QUARTERLY MEETING TO BE HELD AT OAK GROVE

The W. M. U. quarterly meeting of the Chilton County Association will meet at Oak Grove church on Thursday, July 21st, after the third Sunday in July. We invite all the pastors in this Association to be present at this meeting. We like to know if the pastors are interested enough in the W. M. U. work to have the work in your churches; if so come to this meeting and we will try to help you to get the work going in your church. It is nothing but the church at work for Christ.

If the people in Chilton County were as interested in the church work and saving the lost as they are in political affairs, we would not have so many churches falling down and there would not be so many young people going astray.

Just look ot our association minutes and see how little we are doing. We should get on our knees before God and ask Him to forgive us, and get up and get busy for our Master.

The Alabama Farm Bureau, in cooperation with the county Farm Bureau, is launching a new marketing service to help members of the organization market miscellaneous products.

IT CAN'T BE BEAT FOR CONSTIPATION

That's What This Birmingham Man Says When Speaking of Vego.

There are thousands who are discouraged after trying many medicines and not getting any results, but do not condemn Vego until you have tried it. William Wood, a carpenter living at 709 South 81st St., Birmigham, Ala., like many others was discouraged and he was from Missouri and had to be shown. "I confess that I was dohbtfhl as to whether Vego would help me. I have had headaches, dizziness, constipation and kidney troubles for some time and was unable to find a medicine that would benefit me. Vego has done the work and I am not bothered with any of my old troubles. I can also say that Vego can't be beat for constipation, no sir, it just can't be beat." Vego is giving universal satisfaction where ever it has been introduced. We know what it will do and wish to acquaint you with the facts. For that purpose we have a representative at the Upchurch Drug Company., but remember all druggists sell Vego under a positive guarantee.—adv.

FINDS FOOTPRINT THIRTY MILLION OR SO YEARS OLD

Washington, July 5—Fossil footprints of prehistoric animals impressed in rock slabs have been brought from the Grand Canyon of Colorado to the National Museum by Charles W. Gilmore, curator of vertabrae paleontology. The prints were made 25,000,000 to 30,000,000 years ago he said.

The animals were probably reptiles or amphibians, 7 or 8 feet long, living before the dinosaur, according to Mr. Gilmore, although the canyon failed to reveal any skeleton to which the prints would conform. They were made in mud or sand in the permian geological age, he said, and were found in layers from 1,000 to 1,800 feet below the surface, the various layers showing prints of different and distinct animals and each layer making a separation of thousands of years. The collection of slabs weighs more than half a ton.

REPRESENTATIVE FROM DALLAS COUNTY IS VISITOR TO CHILTON

Hon. Joe Green of Dallas County has for the past few days been the guest of Judge L. H. Reynolds. Mr. Green is representative in the legislature from Dallas county, and is one of the leading characters in the lower law making body. He has been a member of that body for several years past.

Mr. Green is a former Chilton countian, having been born and reared in the northwestern part of the county. It furnished Mr. Green great pleasure to go around over Chilton County and see the progress that has been made since he was a boy here He was especially impressed with the good country roads we have in this county. He said that he did not dream that there were such good rural roads anywhere in the state.

At the meeting of the Commissioners Court of Chilton County Tuesday Mr. Green was present. He made a short speech before the body, greatly commending them for the good work they are doing toward the advancement of the county. He especially commended the commissioners for the splendid road building program they have been carrying out recently; saying that their work is outstanding in the State of Alabama. He said he was going back to Dallas and tell his home people how Chilton is building and maintaining her rural roads.

TWO YOUNG MEN ARRESTED WITH WHISKEY SUNDAY P. M.

Sheriff Collins and Deputy Murrah went out on the Lock 12 road Sunday afternoon in search of law breakers. They came upon two young men, Spurgeon Driver and Felix Mims, each with a small amount of whiskey in his possession. The bottle was taken from Driver, but Mims broke his in the presence of the officers. Both were brought to Clanton and put in jail. They made bond and were released Tuesday.

JAKE STOUDEMIRE ARRESTED; WHISKEY FOUND IN HIS HOME

The Sheriff's force of Chilton County went to the home of Jake Stoudemire, negro, near Clanton on the old Thorsby road Monday night. While the officers were looking over the place Stoudemire's wife was seen pouring whiskey out at the back door. The officers succeeded in getting enough of the spirits for evidence in the case. The whiskey was in a fruit jar. Jake was arrested and put in jail. He has not made bond at the time this is written.

REPORTS COTTON INFECTED BY RED SPIDER

Sheriff Collins reports that he has visited the farm of Mr. Frank Patterson and witnessed a field of cotton where the red spider is at work. He says the spider is caused from a growth of pope weed. He advises farmers to get their hoes and cut all the pope weeds they can find; also to get rid of all other weeds as nearly as possible.

FORMER NEWSPAPER REPORTER PERFORMS GREATEST FEAT OF DARING

New York, July 5.—A 27-year old ensign of the coast guard who almost singlehanded captured a rum steamer with a $500,000 cargo and a crew of 22, today was hailed as one of the greatest individual heroes in the government's war against rum.

Charles Duke, armed with a rifle containing only three cartridges, leaped from a small coast guard patrol boat to the deck of the liquor running craft, bowled over a sailor who attempted to stop him, and then held off the crew for three hours until help arrived.

The capture occurred in the harbor almost in the shadow of the Statue of Liberty, after the craft, the Economy, had slipped through a cordon of 18 coast guard boats guarding the narrows, the entrance to the port. The Economy is a steel screw steamer, 793 tons.

Duke was in charge of a 30 foot cutter with a crew of three when he spied the rum ship near the narrows. In a 40 mile gale the small craft quickly overhauled the steamer which showed but two dim lights as it sped toward the Jersey shore. Commands to halt went unheeded. Two shots were fired across its bow from the light gun of the patrol boat.

The patrol boat drew alongside, sturdily plunging through the whitecaps, and Ensign Duke sprang aboard. A sailor who barred the way was sent sprawling with a blow from the butt of the ensign's rifle.

Where the patrol boat's run had failed, Duke's exhibition of bluff and bravado succeeded. When the helmsman refused to obey a command to halt, Duke shouted to his men who were keeping the coast guard boat alongside: "Turn the machine gun on this gang if they don't bring this ship up at once."

The coast guard boat carried no machine gun but Duke's threat succeeded. When the helmsman was slow in leaving to, Duke entered the pilot house, leaned on the wheel and the ship was swung about so sharply that she ran onto a mud bank between Bedloe's Island and Greenville, N. J.

Then calling another of his crew to aid him Ensign Duke herded the rum running crew below decks while he ordered the remaining two to set out for aid.

For three hours the ensign stood on guard with his rifle across his knees. Finally two larger patrol boats reached the steamer and took over the prize and its crew while Duke returned to the base to get his first sleep in 26 hours.

Inspection of the vessel revealed 160,000 gallons of alcohol. Officials said the steamer was registered in Belfast at the Greypoint. She cleared from Antwerp with her present cargo consigned to the British West Indies, they said, but stopped in Halifax, took on a Nova Scotia crew and after clearing had her name changed for the entry to New York.

Duke was formerly a newspaper reporter in Washington.

Reynolds Writes About Bill To Abolish Court

ANSWERING STATEMENT MADE IN CHILTON COUNTY NEWS LAST WEEK

Editor Union-Banner:

There appeared in the last issue of The Chilton County News an article or editorial on the front page, which was not signed and I presume, therefore, bears the indorsement of said newspaper, of which J. B. Atkinson is proprietor. However odious it might be to the reading public that personal arguments of this kind be carried on between citizens of our county, no citizen could expect charges of this character to go unanswered; and I thus feel that it is proper to make a statement in answer to the accusations of thiis newspaper and of J. B. Atkinson.

The first complaint made seems to be a lamentation upon the fact that two local bills affecting the court of county commissioners and the County Board of Education failed to pass the Legislature, as J. B. Atkinson had hoped. In regard to this the article stated that these bills do not legislate any officer of the county from office. However, I don't think it can be denied that J. B. Atkinson did all within his power to get a bill passed which would legislate people from office. You have only to turn back to a few past copies of the Chilton County News and you will find a bill was there published which would legislate people out of office, and the Chilton County News therein endorsed these bills, and also stated that they had been approved by the Democratic Executive Committee of this county, of which J. B. Atkinson is chairman and J. L. Johnson is secretary, as I am informed. And I now state it to be a fact, as J. B. Atkinson knows, the only reason duly elected officers of Chilton County were not legislated out of office is because J. B. Atkinson could not persuade the Legislature of Alabama to pass such a bill or bills. And it is not because of any feeling of charity that J. B. Atkinson has for the voters of Chilton County, but on account of the democracy and honesty in the Legislature of Alabama, which refused to pass such a bill.

I suppose Mr. Atkinson has not forgotten that memorable night at Cane Creek in Beat 11 when he was a candidate for member of the legislature, and with all the force at his command, with voice that reached every voter in the building, he uttered the statement that he was against legislating people out of office, and against abolishing the commissioners court. Yet, a few months later we find him using all the force available to remove officers without a legal hearing and for no reason whatever — officers whom those same voters he was talking to at Cane Creek on that night had voted for and placed in office.

In the next few paragraphs of the said article he refers to employment of members of one family. I would suggest to Mr. Atkinson that if he knows of any graft or waste of the money of the taxpayers that he ought to point it out in detail and not use mere generalities. Mr. Atkinson is an attorney, and he should know if there has been wrongdoing the law has furnished a remedy. Mr. A. P. Vinson, one of the county commissioners, has my son hired to run one of the county tractors. Under our road law the Probate Judge has nothing to do with hiring any road hands. I have repeatedly told Mr. Vinson if my son did not render service in return for what he was being paid to treat him as he would any other hand. I have one letter from Mr. F. A. Gulledge, which was voluntary on his part, in which he praises the road work in his district, and also the efficiency of this son's work. Mr. Gulledge is a lifelong Democrat and is not being paid one penny by Chilton County for anything, and is looking for nothing from Chilton County, any more than any other citizen. I would think his opinion along this line is worth infinitely more than the opinion of a broken-down politician who is slipping from one party to the other and from one issue to another, trying to locate a position.

The article of last week referred to buying road machinery from one company. I ask Mr. Atkinson if the town of Clanton has not bought all the road machinery they have from the same company; and also if Chilton County has not bought this road machinery at the same price that the town did. Chilton County has her road machinery all paid for. I would like for Mr. Atkinson to state to the public whether the town of Clanton has hers paid for or not.

I remember one occasion Mr. Charlie Cox was before the commissioners court trying to sell the county a second hand caterpillar. He was asked to state his opinion as to the best kind of road machinery and he said that the "Best Caterpillar" and the

THREE MEN AND 20 GALLONS CAPTURED ON RIVER BANK

J. W. Johnson, Richard Wilson and his son, Hubert Wilson, as well as their 20 gallons of Coosa County corn fell into the net of Sheriff Collins last Saturday just as the three (or rather the four, as one got away) were loading the goods on a boat at Higgins upper ferry to bring it to Chilton. The liquor was contained in kegs and jugs. The officers arrested the three men and destroyed the cargo. The men made bond.

After the arrests were made, Sheriff Collins back-tracked the men a mile and destroyed their distilling outfit, a copper still. Nine barrels of beer were also destroyed by the Sheriff.

COOPERATIVE ASSOCIATION MEETING

The Chilton County Cooperative Association will hold a regular meeting at the courthouse in Clanton, next Friday, July 15th. This will be the first meeting of the association to be held for several months. Meetings from time to time since early last spring have been postponed because so many of the citizens who are engaged in farming have been busy with their crops. However, the time has now arrived when it is necessary for the farmers to begin to make arrangements for the marketing of this years crop and this meeting is being held for the purpose of thoroughly discussing marketing problems.

During the month of June, the association marketed 2000 bushels of shelled corn and two car loads of ear corn. During the same period several hundred coops of poultry was marketed through the association.

At the present time, there is a demand for string beans, tomatoes, irish potatoes, cucumbers and many other farm products which can be profitably grown in Chilton County, however the association is not attempting to market any of these products because of the inability of the farmers of the county to prepare their products in a marketable manner, at the present time and under the present conditions.

C. E. Marcus, secretary of the association, speaking about the shipments of corn that have been recently made had this to say relative to future shipments. "The buyers of Chilton County corn have refused to place any more orders with us because of the lack of weevil control. A survey just completed shows that there is more than 20,000 bushels of surplus corn still in this county that the growers wish to market. The price as this is being written for good white corn free of weevils is $1.09 per bushel, delivered in Birmingham. The best price that we could get for the last 500 bushels we shipped was 87 cents per bushel delivered. This shipment was originally sold for $1.09 per bushel but was rejected by the buyer, because of weevils."

"Agricultural authorities tell us that we can keep the weevils out of corn, but the best time to do this is to treat the corn as soon as it is put in the cribs in the fall. It has been more than demonstrated during the past two or three months that our farmers are daily losing many dollars in this county because they do not understand or do not care enough about preparing their products so they can be profitably marketed."

Every citizen who is interested in the welfare of the county is cordially invited and strongly urged to attend the meeting at the Courthouse Friday, July 15th.

Local Self-Government In Chilton County

A Discussion of Proposed Local Legislation Affecting Chilton County, in the Legislature of Alabama.

[AN EDITORIAL]

Thanks to the lower house of the Legislature of Alabama, the cause of local self-government in Chilton County, championed by Representative Percy M. Pitts, was accorded a victory last week when that body refused to consider the local bill of Senator Ellis of Shelby to abolish the commissioners Court of Chilton County and set up in its stead a Board of Revenue.

While some folks in our county say the failure of the House to adopt this bill "is to be regretted," we feel sure that by far the majority of our citizens will accept the outcome with rejoicing—recognizing that it is a victory for the cause of local self-government, the right of the people to choose the political party and the men in that party whom they want to serve them in public office.

Much has been said and written in recent months concerning the proposed bill. Some have argued for it and some have set up their protests against it. Some contend that the bill is fair and just while others say that it is vicious, outrageous and totally unfair. According to the best we are able to analyze the argument we are convinced that the up-shot of the whole thing lies in the efforts, the burning desires, the hopes, the prayers, of a defeated and disgruntled minority in this county seeking to overthrow the county government that has been established (and has functioned well) under the expressed will of a majority of our voters. The advocates of the bill have made repeated failures in elections in our county. They have more than once been repudiated by the people. Their latest effort by this bill in the Legislature has been purely a stab to obtain by legislation that which they must surely know they can never accomplish through the will of the electorate.

Did not Senator Ellis tell the Local Legislation Committee, "Now is your chance to give to Chilton County Democrats by legislation that which they have repeatedly failed to accomplish in elections?" Did not a few local Democrats in Clanton urge upon members of the Legislature this same argument?

The advocates of the bill sought by every means to impress upon members of the Legislature that it was merely a fight between Democrats and Republicans, hoping thereby to align the Legislature (all Democrats) on their side. Representative Pitts at once characterized the movement as an effort to overthrow local self-government, making it clear that it was not purely a fight of Democrats against Republicans. His position and his argument was sustained when it was seen that there were both Democrats and Republicans in the delegation which went before the Legislature in protest of the bill.

It is generally conceded by most people in Chilton County that we have one of the best county governments in the State. This is a fact recognized not only by most people in Chilton County but also by those at the State capital. Men of prominence everywhere have taken the trouble to study our county in more or less detail, and have found our county business above the average in efficient administration—and they have said so many times. It is this widespread knowledge about our county government that caused the members of the Legislature to hesitate in acting according to the desires of the dssatisfied minority up here whose only objection is that they are on the outside and want to get in.

Who demands relief against the employment of the members of one family by the county? If the people of Chilton county are dissatisfied with the alleged "one-family rule" in the court house, or anything in the official conduct of our county business, we doubt not that they will make such changes as they think best in due season. We deny the charge that it is necessary to resort to the Legislature of Alabama in order to shake the people of this county loose from any kind of bad government or bad official. First, because such "bad" things as are charged do not exist to the injury of our county government. And if or when they do exist, our people will exercise their powers of self-government and set their house in order.

We think it was a bit of poor sportsmanship on the part of those Democratic pretenders who went down to Montgomery and told the Legislature that the only hope for Chilton County lay with the Democrats in that body. They admitted openly that there is no hope of putting over such a proposal as that bill with the people of Chilton County. So they wanted to get in so badly that a few of them got together and hatched the scheme all out, labeled it "Democrat against Republican" and delivered it into the hands of Senator Ellis with prescriptions to take it like a capsule without looking on the inside. But when it got over to the House Percy Pitts tore away the covering and it was easy to see that it was a plain case of tearing down local self-government in Chilton County instead of "Democrats vs. Repulicans."

Let us ask this question right here: If the rule of Republicans in Chilton County is so bad as this dissatisfied crowd charges, why don't they carry the case before the people

NEGRO CAUGHT WITH 66 BOTTLES OF HOME BREW

Sheriff Collins and Deputy Murrah went up to the home of Cliff Hampton, negro, near Thorsby last Friday afternoon. Upon searching the place the officers discovered a loose plank in the floor of one room. After removing a trunk from over the loose plank, it was raised, and there were stacked underneath 64 bottles of home brew. The bottles ranged in size everywhere from soda water bottles to quart bottles. The stuff was destroyed by the officers and Campbell placed under bond.

Campbell's place is close to the Gulledge-Rosenwald school, about a mile northwest of Thorsby.

TWO CAUGHT NEAR MT. ZION

The old Williams place on Blue Gut Creek near Mt. Zion church was the scene of the arrest of George Bolton and Burber Bolton Monday of this week by Sheriff Collins and his deputy. The two men were operating a wildcat still, a zinc vat type, placed in a dug-out in the side of a cut in the old Compo railroad; 250 gallons of beer and a small quantity of whiskey were poured out by the officers. There were three men operating the outfit but the third one got away from the officers.

MR. MILSTEAD HERE WITH SOCIETY BRAND CLOTHES

Mr. F. B. Milstead, representing Alfred Decker and Cohn, with the famous line of Society Brand Clothes, was in Clanton this week with headquarters at the store of W. T. Baker Dry Goods Company. The demonstration conducted by Mr. Milstead showed the new fads in mens clothing for fall and winter, and the people who saw this fine line of clothes were highly impressed with the good quality and superb appearance of the same. It was the first introduction of Society Brand Clothes to Clanton men, and the reception was very impressive. It was easily recognized by men who know good clothes that Society Brand measures up to their fullest expectations.

Mr. Milstead reported upon leaving our city that he was very highly impressed with what he saw here. In fact he thinks so much of the prospects for his line here that he has concluded to place this city on his regular itinerary. He will be back here again in October.

Mr. W. T. Baker, as a merchant and business man, has had ample opportunity to investigate mens clothing from every standpoint. He has decided to make a regular engagement for Society Brand products, which fact is ample assurance that he knows this line of clothes to be equal to if not the best he can obtain to offer his trade.

GEORGE POLK TRAVELING IN THE WEST

A card received by the Union-Banner from Mr. George C. Polk, who is traveling with his family in the west, says: "We are having a great trip and seeing lots of sights, but haven't seen anything that looks as good as Chilton County. I drove my Chevrolet with full load to the summit of Pike's Peak, about 34 miles from bottom to top."

CHESTNUT CREEK

Revival services at this place will begin the first Sunday in August. Rev. Nichols of Bessemer will preach for us. Other churches are invited to come and help us in the meeting.

Everybody is invited to come to this Church. We have a crowded building, but we will make room for you if you will come. Pray for us, and may God bless you.—J. H. Roberts, Pastor.

Col. Dinsmore Died At Hospital Here Saturday

FATAL INJURIES RECEIVED IN AUTOMOBILE WRECK NEAR VERBENA LAST WEEK

Death came to Colonel M. A. Dinsmore, prominent attorney of Birmingham, at the Central Alabama Hospital in Clanton last Saturday morning about 6:30 o'clock. Mr. Dinsmore was in an automobile wreck a mile below Verbena on Wednesday night, July 6th about 8 o'clock, in which he was fatally injured and two other prominent Birmingham men—W. E. Dickson and R. E. Sessions, were seriously injured. After the accident, all three men were brought to the hospital in Clanton. Dinsmore lived until Saturday morning, but scarcely ever regained consciousness. Sessions and Dickson have already been released from the hospital, they having practically overcome their injuries. The body of Mr. Dinsmore was shipped to Birmingham Saturday, where funeral rites were held in the North Highlands M. E. church. The remains were then forwarded to Decatur, where interment was made in the family burying ground.

The wreck came as a result of the Birmingham car, a big Buick sedan driven by Mr. Dickson, being steered into a telegraph pole on the side of the road, Dickson making an effort, reports say, to dodge a Chevrolet, which had turned in the road ahead of him. The driver of the Chevrolet, Mr. Guy H. Caffey, attempted to turn off the highway into a small road on the left of the highway going south, not noticing the nearness of the car behind him. At the same time the Birmingham car attempted to pass the Chevrolet, and the driver seeing that he was going to hit the small car steered the Buick clear off the cement trying to miss the Chevrolet in which were riding Mr. Caffey, his wife and children. The Buick struck the left front wheel of the Chevrolet and also went into the telegraph pole. The terrific force of the big car nearly broke the 8-inch pole as it struck it. The cross-arm on top of the pole was broken.

It is reported that Mr. Dinsmore was thrown several feet from the car, landing on the cement. He was thought to be dead when picked up, the blood running out of his mouth and ears. Dickson was picked up near the car and Sessions was pinned underneath. About the only injuries sustained by Sessions were the burns on his feet where the acid from the battery poured out on him. Dickson was considerably bruised up.

None of the occupants of the Chevrolet was injured, although the left front wheel of the car was demolished.

REVIVAL AT FRIENDSHIP WILL BEGIN THURSDAY, JULY 21

The revival services at Friendship Baptist church will begin on Thursday of next week, July 21. Services will begin at 10:30 o'clock; preaching at 11 o'clock. The meeting will run, according to present arrangements, the rest of that week and on into the first of the next week.

Rev. Arthur Deloach, pastor of the Verbena Baptist church, is expected to do the preaching. Mr. Gresham Lowery of Thorsby will have charge of the singing.

The public has a cordial invitation to attend both day and night services during this series of meetings. It is hoped that an old time gospel revival may be had and that the grace of God may be manifest all around. Everybody, especially those of the community, come and hear the preaching. Rev. Deloach is a young man and comes to us highly recommended as a good man and a wide-awake gospel preacher.

The lodge is open every Tuesday night, and the same good spirit that used to be there is burning afresh in the hearts of a goodly number of the faithful chiefs.

Congressman Wood Discusses Republican Representation

Mr. WOOD. Mr. Chairman and members of the committee, I desire to make a few observations which I think are of importance with reference to the state of the Union, because all matters of political nature affect the welfare of the United States and are of some importance. In the campaign that closed upon the 2nd day of November the election of the membership to this House was so overshadowed by the contests made in the election of members to the other House that a correct picture has not yet been presented to the country. For the purpose of bringing now to the attention of the House and also to the attention of the country the significance of that election, I shall digress for a few moments from the discussion of the details of the bill.

Republican Representation

The extent of this year's Democratic landslide, I am bound to admit, is in keeping with the signs and portents that a year ago enabled one Democratic seer at least to forewarn us of the bleak outlook for the future. Who does not remember the unalloyed delight of my esteemed colleague, Chairman Oldfield, of the Democratic Congressional Committee, when in a mayoralty contest on November 3, 1925, Tammany Hall again carried New York City, and on that identical and epoch-marking day a Democratic congressional district in Kentucky again went Democratic? These clouds on the Republican horizon—in very truth no larger than a man's hand—to the prophetic eye of the gentleman from Arkansas betokened Republican disaster in general and the election of a Democratic House in 1926 in particular. In all candor, I ask you, why should not my distinguished friend from Arkansas see in the results of the recent election an overwhelming Democratic victory?

Nevertheless, in the interest of historical accuracy, I am in duty bound to put some facts in the RECORD which show quite the contrary, though they must not be misconstrued as an attempt to convince my respected colleague nor to dampen his ardor. Like the man who remarked after his feet were cut off, that "the darned things were always cold anyway," his optimism is everlasting, irrepressible, and overflowing. It would be a shame to attempt to disturb it.

But to get down to the facts, quite obviously the recent congressional elections were decided along national lines—upon the record of the Republican national administration and the Republican Congress. Political history shows conclusively that candidates for the House, to a much greater extent than all other candidates for public office, are removed from the personal equation, stand or fall with the trend of national sentiment, as is entirely proper in a representative form of government such as ours.

This was never more true than in the last campaign. Republican candidates for the House, from Maine to the Pacific coast, stood upon the record of their party. The party literature sent broadcast throughout the country reviewed it in detail. Republican speakers and writers everywhere told the story of Republican accomplishments. Told of confidence restored in the face of worldwide unrest and apprehension. Of rehabilitation in governmental affairs following a period of unparalled disarrangement and disorder. Of economy and good government growing out of a heritage of waste and mismanagement. Of prosperity more general than ever before enjoyed by this or any othr people since history began. (Applause on the Republican side.)

Granted that there are still inequalities that should be cured—that all problems have not as yet been solved—it is still a truth, patent and incontrovertible, that no other people on the face of the globe are better housed, better clothed, or better fed than the American people. That no other people have so high a standard of living, or ever have had. That no other people as a whole enjoy such educational advantages or are so able to follow their individual tastes in the way of travel, relaxation, and recreation, or to indulge in luxuries considered only a few short years ago as beyond the reach of all but the favored few.

Government in itself alone can not cure all ills and create all prosperity, but it can help, and it is an insult to the intelligence of the American people to tell them there has not been a wise administration of the public affairs coincident with such material evidences of their advancement and well-being.

Gentlemen of the House, the record of the Republican Party in the fiscal affairs of the Government alone is more than enough to entitle it to the favorable consideration in the face of every claim the Democratic Party has been able to advance.

Following the Civil War the United States was left with a bonded indebtedness of three billions of dollars, a gigantic burden at that time, yet within ten years the Government, under Republican administration, without resorting to loans and at the same time meeting its ordinary expenses, had reduced the principal $888,000,000 and had refunded the balance at lower interest rates. Within 19 years after the Civil War, during all of which period the Republican Party had been in continuous control, the debt had been reduced by nearly one-half. Well could the Secretary of the Treasury, in his annual report in 1884, say that in the management of its debt the United States had been an example to the world.

Yet splendid as was this performance, how small it seems when compared with what has been done since the close of the World War. Our national debt at the close of the World War was over twenty-six and one-half billions of dollars. In five years after the ascendancy of the Republican Party to power this debt was reduced $6,000 000 000, or twice what the national debt was at the close of the Civil War. Never in the history of recorded time has there been such an example of financing. (Applause on the Republican side.)

Well could Republican speakers and writers in the last campaign review this unparalled achievement and point with pride to the fact that this enormous reduction of the interest-bearing public debt under Republican administration, with coincident reduction in interest charges and in the annual routine expenditures of the Government, had gone hand in hand with a total tax reduction of over $1,700,000,000, and the removal from the rolls of Federal-tax payers of 2,300,000 American citizens, made up of those least able to share the burden.

It is fresh in the memory of the American people, My Democratic friends, how in the recent campaign, you proclaimed that the tariff would be the issue, only to retire from your traditional ground in disorder and dismay before the first Republican onslaught. For never had the facts so controverted you. Never has the Republican protective-tariff policy emerged from a political campaign so thoroughly engrounded in the minds of the American people as the only safe policy for their Government to pursue. (Applause on the Republican side.)

And in the face of these facts and the dire predictions of Democratic leaders that the next House would be Democratic, what happened? A greater number of Republicans were elected to the House than in any previous off-year election in a quarter of a century. A greater number were elected, with one exception, than in any previous off-year election since the birth of the Republican Party. (Applause on the Republican side.)

It is axiomatic in politics that the off-year election is the zero hour for the party in power, and that an off-year slump, unless it reaches extraordinary proportions, ndicates nothing in particular except the apathy of the voters, when they are not aroused by the excitement of a presidental contest. The returns of the last election offer no comfort to an ever-hopeful opposition. Rather they indicate that the country is so satisfied with the Republican administration that, contrary to all precedent, not even the apathy of a nonpresidental year could cut down the Republican majority in the House in an appreciable degree, for it will be borne in mind that elections to the House are held in every district in the country, making them distinctly national in scope, and that any change in sentiment toward the national administration is more likely to be reflected in them than in any other elections held that year.

Searching the record, I find that the net loss sustained by the Republicans in the 1926 elections was less, and considerably less in all but one instance, than that sustained by either party in power in the off year for a period of over half a century. I will here submit a table, based on data compiled by the Clerk of the House of Representatives, showing the gains and losses of the two parties in off-year elections begining with 1874. Where there was a change of apportionment in the House of Representatives taking effect the same year as the off-year election it is noted. The table is as follows:

Year 1874 (middle of Grant's last term) Reppublican loss 96; Democrat gain 93; Third party gain 3.

Year 1878 (middle of Hayes's administration) Republican loss 9; Democratic loss 6; Third party gain 15.

Year 1882 (middle of Garfield-Arthur administration House gained 32 in membership because of reapportionment) on basis of new apportionment. Republican loss 33; Democrat gain 70.

Year 1886 (middle of Cleveland's first administration) Republican gain 11; Democrat loss 12; Third party gain 1.

Year 1890 (middle of Harrison's administration) Republican loss 85; Democrat gain 75; Third party gain 14.

Year 1894 (middle of Cleveland's second administration). Republican gain 120; Democrat loss 116; Third party loss 6.

Year 1898 (middle of McKinley's first administration) Republican loss 21; Democrat gain 29; Third party loss 9.

Year 1902 (middle of McKinley-Roosevelt administration) House gained 29 membership on account of new apportionment. On basis of new apportionment. Republican gain 9; Democrat gain 25.

Year 1906 (middle of Roosevelt's administration) Republican loss 28; Democrat gain 28.

Year 1910 (middle of Taft's administration) Republican loss 57; Democrat gain 56; Third party gain 2.

Year 1914 (middle of Wilson's first administration) Republican gain 66; Democrat loss 59; Third party loss 10.

Year 1918 middle of Wilson's second administration) Republican gain 21; Democrat loss 19; Third party loss 2.

Year 1922 (middle of Harding's administration) Republican loss 75; Democrat gain 75;.

Year 1926 (middle of Coolidge's administration) Republican loss 8; Democrat gain 13.

The figures for 1902 in the foregoing table, when a RepublicanPresident was in the White House, show an apparent gain of 9 for the Republicans, but it will be noted that the Democratic gain was 25, and that this apparent discrepancy is accounted for by the fact that in that year the House gained 29 in membership by reason of new apportionment and that the Republican gain was 16 less than that of the opposition.

The Republicans suffered a heavy loss in 1922, according to the figures, but, nevertheless, they carried the House that year by an enormous majority in the aggregate country-wide vote, and the major part of their loss was of seats picked up in the unprecedented Republican landslide of 1920 which had been consistently Democratic, notably in the border States of the solid South and New York City districts controlled by Tammany. It takes a mighty wave of resentment to sweep such seats from their traditional moorings, and it was a foregone conclusion that the Republicans would lose them at the first off-year election, because it has become a well established fact that a rapidly growing body of Democrats in the near solid South and other sections traditionally Democratic vote the Republican ticket in presidential years but yield to their inner yearnings in the off year and take a chance on some candidate for the House of thier own party, on the assumption, doubtless, that he will be powerless to interfere unduly with the successful conduct of affairs by a Republican administration.

The Democratic attitude reminds me of a fellow I once saw in a country town make a frantic race to catch a train. He came up puffing and blowing, only to see it disappearing around a curve, and when he caught his breath remarked with great apparent satisfaction, "Well, I almost made it." (Laughter.) But he was the village wag and bound to live up to his reputation in the face of disaster. As a matter of fact, as all the station loungers saw, he never had a chance to catch the train. Like our Democratic friends, he doubtless thought he had when he made his run, but unlike them, he was ready to joke when he appreciated the situation.

In this matter our Democratic friends would have us believe they are not joking. They seem to be still serious, but unless in this marvelous age, by some metamorphose in the Democratic mind, failure has come to mean to them success and defeat victory, or unless by some equally strange hallucination they are relying on a Republican majority in the next House to adopt a new rule constituting 195 Democratic Members a majority of a whole House of 435, they have failed ignominiously to catch their train and might as well make a joke about it. Republican magnanimity will scarcely extend so far. The Republican majority will be magnanimous, appreciating that a well-organized minority is essential to good government, but not to the extent of endangering Republican policies, under which this great country of ours has grown and prospered. It has its mandate, anew and direct from the people, to continue those policies, and continue them it will. (Applause on the Republican side.)

So my good friends across the aisle, though as the great bard says, you put forth "the tender leaves of hope," and on "the third day," or to be literally correct, on the second day of November, "there came a frost, a killing frost," I bid you not, "never to hope again," because hope springs biennially in the Democratic breast, but only for the present to cast aside vain hopes and be prepared to proceed as a well-behaved and self-respecting minority should.

Your seers misread the stars. The signs and portents did not point to a Democratic landslide in 1926, and if the record of 50 years counts for anything they point to still greater disillusionment in 1928.

Of the 53,000 men and women employed by the Louisville & Nashville Railroad, less than half of this number ever come in direct contact with the traveling and shipping public. File clerks, bookkeepers, auditors, rate clerks, storekeepers, construction engineers, laborers, telegraph and signal operators—all told more than 200 different classifications of employes—are contributing forces to the efficiency of the L. & N. freight and passenger service.

Many of these people live in your neighborhood—belong to your church—buy from your local tradesmen—are factors in your community welfare. Railroad employes everywhere are money earners, and money spenders.

FINE BOX OF GRAPES

The Union-Banner was the recipient last Saturday of a fine box of grapes, the donor being Mr. Enoch C. Cox. Mr. Cox is the proprietor of "Plain View Farm" just south of old Strasburg on the Birmingham highway. He has a mighty nice farm up there and he makes lots of fine produce on it. He has erected a unique little fruit and melon stand on the side of the highway on his farm where he displays and disposes of his produce. Anyone wishing fine grapes and other fruits and vegetables may get them from Mr. Cox.

Is there any reason why farm people should not have running water and good lights in their homes?

Must You Suffer With Sour Stomach

Discovers The Secret---It's VEGO

Your neighborhood druggist is sometimes your best friend, he will advise you in the absence of your family physician and such was the case of Mrs. W. T. Ray, Wilsonville, Ala., who had suffered years with nervous indigestion.

"There always seemed to be a lump in my stomach and the gas and sourness was terrible. I could not rest well at nights, but would roll and toss about. Due to irregular bowel movements and improper elimination my kidneys were shot to pieces. My druggist advised that I try Vego and I wish to go on record as saying it is the best medicine for constipation, indigestion, gas on the stomach and disorders caused by these troubles I have ever found. Vego has made a new woman of me. I do not feel all worn out at the end of the day. I would not be without Vego."

Why not profit by the experience of others. Every day dozens are telling of the benefits they have derived from its use. The Upchurch Drug Co., Store sells it at all times. If you are not satisfied after using it, your druggist will refund your money.-Adv.

HIGH PRICES

It is now generally admitted that in the United States we are living in an era of high wages and general prosperity. But the calamity howlers like to counter all references to the good times our working men are enjoying by stating that even if wages are higher the cost of living is rising just as fast and that therefore the worker is no better off than he was fifteen years ago.

The economists who advocate the high wage system and the protective tariff system as the way to promote a nation's economic welfare say that even so, the high wage system is better for the reason that first of all the American worker is a producer rather than consumer in the final analysis, and that he is therefore better able to lay away an extra dollar for the rainy day in times of high wages, low prices and unstable employment.

But it would seem now that even this last alibi of the increasing cost of living is to be taken away from the pessimists. For according to the National Conference Board which has made an exhaustive study of the situation while wages and costs are high the family income has increased faster than the cost of living since 1914, and will therefore go one third farther in providing for the family than it would in the alleged good old days before the war.

Here is something to think about, and it bears some assurance for the future. As a matter of fact the purchasing power of the dollar has increased during the past two years. It now buys 61.1 per cent as much as it did in 1914, as compared with fifty per cent only a few years ago. But that is only half the story. The weekly earnings of wage workers, because of higher wages and steadier employment are more than twice as high as they were in 1914, so that the average worker, even with the higher cost of living can buy a third more than he did in 1914. And the purchasing power of his wages is increasing relatively and not decreasing.

Here is the best answer possible to the low tariff, low wage, low cost of living advocates. Again it may be said that the proof of the pudding is the eating thereof.

"OLD GLORY"

The Stars and Stripes as the standard of the republic has been for one hundred and fifty years the symbol of liberty and union, of freedom of thought and speech, of justice and all democratic high ideals It is to be cherished in our heart of hearts. It is respected and high-honored among the flags of Christendom. Each star in its field of blue is a star of glory. It breathes of valor, hope and truth, of loyalty, sincerity an justice. We doff our hats to its splendor and majesty. It is beautiful. It stirs the soul. It stands, distinct and distinguished, among all other flags. It is the emblem of the greatest nation in the world. It commands our reverence. It symbolizes the Constitution, the greatest constructive political work of man. It is both battle and peace flag. We are ready to defend it, to follow it wherever it may lead in the cause of justice and righteousness. —Cincinnati Enquirer.

LOCAL SELF-GOVERNMENT IN CHILTON COUNTY

and muster enough votes to put the Republicans out and put the Democrats in? If their case has any merit, why can not they trust it to the people whose concern the matter is? Why must they go off to the Legislature under false pretenses?

They say Senator Ellis is fair. His "fairness" must have been measured by the rule that says "anything is fair in love, war and politics." He said before the local committee that "A Republican is not entitled to any courtesy before this Committee." No doubt that looks and sounds "fair" to those whose idea is "When you can't vote Republicans out of power, we should legislate them out."

Such is the plan of the dissatisfied minority of Democrats in Chilton County, those who seek to pass this bill in the Legislature. They are not only a dissatisfied minority in Chilton County, but they are only a part of the Democrats of Chilton County.

What if the county does buy some lumber from the brother of Judge Reynolds; or if a son of Judge Reynolds works the roads; or another son of Judge Reynolds represents the county in a law suit; or if the son-in-law of the brother of Judge Reynolds represents the county in the Legislature? Nothing in that to get alarmed about. Are any of these things carried on in a manner not legally justified? Those who object to these things cannot make a serious appeal to the people nor to the members of the Legislature, unless they can show something that has been or is being done illegally or to the injury of the interests of Chilton County.

Not much sympathy can be elicited by those who set up a howl because the other fellow is getting something and "our crowd" is being left out. That is about the fix of those who want the Legislature to do what they can't get the people of Chilton County to do.

Concernng this "one-family" business, Representative Pitts says: "The records will show that I have never received one penny from Chilton County directly or indirectly. I have never been retained by Judge Reynolds in any suits in which he or the county has been plaintiff or defendant. Some of the Democratic lawyers of Clanton have been more fortunate in this respect than I have."

"To the Victor belongs the Spoils." Is there any Democrat who does not know who first enunciated this doctrine of political patronage? Who does not remember the prominence in history which was accorded that great Southern Democrat and American president, Andrew Jackson, for establishing this practice? When he went into the White House he tore down every poltical idol that had been left by his predecessors of other faith, and every post from lowest to highest was filled with those who saw and believed and acted to suit "Old Hickory."

Now for the hue and cry that is being made by those who call themselves leaders of Democracy in Chilton County because, they say, the present Republican administration is using its power and prestige to build up a political machine. We wonder if they think the Republicans in power ought to ignore Republicans and give the county jobs to Democrats who are going about over the county cussing Republicans?

We think if Judge Reynolds should give very many Democrats a county job, it would soon depopulate the Democratic party, because it seems to be the policy of the Democratic "leaders" to kick out every Democrat who takes a job under a Republican administration.

are on the outside looking in were to come into political

If those Democrats who are so restless now because they power in Chilton County, would they use their power to build up a political machine? In other words, would they put their friends in the county jobs or would they give the jobs to their political enemies?

Some of this same crowd that is raising such a racket about county affairs are high in authority in Clanton's city government. Who is it that have been employed in the city jobs? Is it their friends or ther enemies? Has any officer of the town ever put members of his family in town jobs to draw town salaries? Is there a political machine in control of the town of Clanton?

And while we are thinking about the town business, we recall what reference has been made to the report of the Treasurer of Chilton County. In this respect we are reminded that the business transactions that are made by the county are shown in an itemized report of the County Treasurer published twice a year. Nothing is covered up.

What about the town's financial operations? When have you seen a published report of the town's finances? If those fellows are so precise about the county's business, why don't they take a little time to look after their own little affairs by letting the people of the town know something about public moneys?

But maybe the statement of the town's receipts and disbursements will be published in future, inasmuch as the Mayor now owns a newspaper in which he can print it and in that way keep the expense of paying for the publication in the family.

It is nothing out of the ordinary for public officials to give their friends the public jobs. Everybody does this, both Democrats and Republicans. If such practices are carried so far as to involve corruption or inefficiency at the public's expense, then objection can justly be made, and should be made.

We believe that the county commissioners should be elected by districts. But we do not believe, in order to obtain that privilege, the people of this county should have foisted upon them the other unwholesome provisions that were embodied in the bill under discussion.

In lambasting the commissioners court of Chilton County reference has been made to the fact that the county has no farm demonstrator. We suppose everyone knows by this time that we are to have a demonstrator as soon as a suitable man can be sent here from Auburn. The people have voted in favor of a demonstrator, and the present board of commissioners stand ready to carry out the wishes of the people in this respect.

As to the action of our county commissioners in school matters, we happen to remember one instance where they have appropriated money for a school. They gave Isabella School $1,500; and Isabella people are most all Democrats. Some of them, we understand, favored passage of the bill to abolish the commissioners court, too.

Let us hope that Chilton County may some day come to such political calm as will save us from the foolishness of being dragged into every state Legislature to have our petty political and personal notions aired and dusted in the faces of people who only laugh at our folly.

ELECTING COUNTY COMMISSIONERS BY DISTRICTS

A bill is being advertised wherein the law of electing county commissioners in Chilton County would be changed so as to make each commissioner elected by the voters in his own district; also providing for some re-arrangements of the Beats which compose each of the dlistricts in the county. We understand that the bill has the endorsement of leading citizens of both Democratic and Republican parties in the County.

Under the proposed bill the commissioners districts would be made up as follows: District 1, composed of Beats 1, 2, 12, and 13; District 2, composed of Beats 3, 9, 11 and 14; District 3, composed of Beats 6, 7, 8 and 15; District 4, composed of Beats 4, 5, 10 and 16.

We believe that such a bill should be passed in the present Legislature. It would undoubtedly give our county a better division according to districts, and we believe that the principle of local self-government should be applied right down to the last finality, so that each district in the county could say whom it wants to represent it on the board of commissioners which handles the business of the county.

Under the proposed plan it would insure the election of some Democrats and some Republicans on this board. But if a district is Democratic and wants a Democrat to serve as its commissioner, who should say no? If a district is Republican and wants a Republican to serve as its commissioner, who should say no?

We are for local self government down to the last analysis; and we believe this bill would give Chilton County better government, and more business and less politics in our government.

A group of Chilton County singers, including Jesse Baker, Prof. W. M. Devaughn, Dovard and Russell Cleckler, and Willie Mims, attended the big singing at old Providence in Coosa County last Sunday. They reported a mighty fine singing.

Child-birth

Here is a wonderful message to all expectant mothers!

When the Little One arrives, you can have that moment more free from suffering than you have perhaps imagined. An eminent physician, expert in this science, has shown the way. It was he who first produced the great remedy, "Mother's Friend." Mrs. C. J. Hartman, Scranton, Pa., says:

"With my first two children I had a doctor and a nurse and then they had to use instruments, but with my last two children I used 'Mother's Friend' and had only a nurse; we had no time to get a doctor because I wasn't very sick—only about ten or fifteen minutes." Use "Mother's Friend" as our mothers and grandmothers did. Don't wait, start today, and meanwhile write to Bradfield Regulator Co., BA 46, Atlanta, Ga., for a free illustrated book containing information every expectant mother should have. "Mother's Friend" is sold by all drug stores—everywhere.

The W. M. U. quarterly meeting of the Chilton County Association will meet at Oak Grove church on Thursday, July 21st, after the third Sunday in July. We invite all the pastors in this Association to be present at this meeting. We like to know if the pastors are interested enough in the W. M. U. work to have the work in your churches; if so come to this meeting and we will try to help you to get the work going in your church. It is nothing but the church at work for Christ.

If the people in Chilton County were as interested in the church work and saving the lost as they are in political affairs, we would not have so many churches falling down and there would not be so many young people going astray.

Just look ot our association minutes and see how little we are doing. We should get on our knees before God and ask Him to forgive us, and get up and get busy for our Master.

PROF. W. M. DEVAUGHN WILL TEACH TWO MUSIC SCHOOLS

The Union-Banner is in receipt of a communication from Prof. W. M Devaughn, asking The Banner to tel the world that he is going to begin a singing school at Concord School house on July 11th, and will continue for three weeks or eighteen days. On Monday, August 1st, he will begin a four weeks or 24-days school at Mulberry church.

We can truthfully say that Prof. Devaughn is one of the best singers in Chilton County, and he is also one of the best teachers and writers of sacred music. Most everybody who knows anything about sacred music knows more or less about Prof. Devaughn, and they know him to be hard to beat in this line.

The above two rommunities are indeed fortunate to get the service of Prof. Devaughn in their singing and music schools. He is not only a good teacher, but he is a good Christian man, with whom no one need fear to leave the care of their boys and girls. If you live in these communities or in reach of either of these schools, you will never regret it if you will avail yourself of attending.

In addition to being a local newspaper of real value the College of Agriculture at Auburn decalares that weekly papers are excellent farm and home papers because of a large number of farm items printed.

Rin Tin Tin in "Tracked by The Police" to be shown at Thorsby

Friday night the Unique Theatre, Thorsby is showing Rin Tin Tin in his latest production.

It is a wonderful drama and with Rin Tin Tin playing, the picture is intensely interesting. Everybody should see this wonderful production.

Mr. and Mrs. Ennice Watson and baby from Tuskegee spent the week end with W. H. Raybon.

Mrs. M. A. Banner came by on her way home from near Tuskegee Sunday and spent a while with her old friend Mrs. M. J. Prince.

Edna Raybon had as her birthdty guests Sunday, Misses Doris and Mabel Johnson, Jessie and Lola Martin and Ruth Champion.

Mrs. W. H. Raybon, teacher of the Junior Sunday School girls invites the parents to come to Sunday School and see how their girls enjoy Sunday School work. Come on Junior boys, we are ahead of you.

We feel sure everybody in Thorsby and vicinity will be glad to know of the great improvement in the condition of Mr. A. M. Johnson. When we called Tuesday morning we found him seated in a wheel chair in the front room of his home and able to talk quite intelligibly. He is regaining the use of his affected leg and foot, and practically all of his body except his right arm which while improved in some ways is still pretty weak.

He tells us that he sits up in his wheel chair sometimes all day and is growing stronger week by week.

Last week we attended the Congregational Ladies Aid Social at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Petersen. Mr. Petersen invited us to see his orchard of Hale peaches, more than that he gave us a few in a basket. When we got home we weighed one of the lot and found it just 17 ounces. It measured with a tape line the circumference was exactly 12 1-2 inches in each of two ways. While they were not all as large as this sample, we have no reason to believe many others on the trees were not equal to it. As for their eating qualities we found them quite the equal of Elbertas.

Rev. and Mrs. J. E. Each, with their six children packed into a Ford touring car, and a lot of camping equipment bestowed on the outside of the car left Thorsby at an early hour Tuesday morning to spend a month's vacation along the gulf coast in Florida.

Next Sunday morning there will be no preaching service at the Congregational Church. Sunday School and Junior and Senior Christian Endeavor meetings will be held at the usual hour. At the close of Christian Endeavor meeting there will be a song service to which the people of Thorsby and vicinity are cordially invited.

At 11 A. M. next Sunday morning at Thorsby Lutheran Church there will be a Confirmation Service conducted in the English language to which the public is cordially invited.

We have recently received a postal card from Miss Marian Fairbank from Madison Wisconsin where she is taking a summer course at the University of Wisconsin.

Mrs. Grover A. Bice entertained the Y. W. A. last Tuesday.

Dr. and Mrs. Wood celebrated the 9th anniversary of their wedding by giving a picnic to fifteen friends at Gores Pond.

Mrs. T. W. Robinson and daughter, Edith have returned after a motor trip to Florida. Miss Mary Sue Robinson left Sunday for Trafford, Alabama where she will visit for some time.

Dr. S. C. Wood went to Birmingham Tuesday to bring home Mr. Cobb of Oak Grove, who had been operated on for a tumor on the brain.

Mr. Kendall Franklin has gone to Wetumpka to work.

Dr. and Mrs. S. C. Wood enjoyed a Chicken Barbecue at Gore's Pond last Friday with Mr. and Mrs. John VanDerveer, Mr. and Mrs. John Browder, and Mr. and Mrs. Webb Parrish.

The play given by the Y. W. A. at the public school building last Saturday night netted $28.00 for the benefit of Thorsby Baptist Church. They have decided to take this play to other places.

"Young Peoples Council" will meet Saturday, July 15th at Thorsby Baptist Church. We want all organizations from the various districts to attend, and be ready with a good report. There will be dinner at the noon hour at the church.—Signed Mrs. Relius Franklin, sec'y-treasurer.

Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Franklin celebrated the first anniversary of their wedding last Thursday afternoon at Gore's Pond. Dr. and Mrs. S. C. Wood, Mrs. Webb Parrish and Mrs. Earl Marcus were with them to help celebrate.

Thorsby Base Ball team met Titus, Elmore County team on Thorsby grounds last Saturday afternoon and defeated them by a score of 9 to 3 in favor of Thorsby. On Thursday afternoon of this week Thorsby will go to Titus to play a return game.

Out of six games played since they organized, Thorsby has won five.

Mrs. R. C. Gordon of Charlotte, N. C. with her two young boys is visiting her mother Mrs. Emma Bice.

Mrs. A. P. Robinson has already had new sweet potatoes from her garden. We also noted a basket full of these succulent tubers that were so clean they looked good enough to eat on display at a local store.

Mr. John Parnell who has been quite ill with acute indigestion is improving.

Miss Gladys Parnell and Miss Doris Freeman, who have been visiting friends at Piedmont College, Demorest, Georgia returned last Friday.

Why should our Fruit and Truck Growers Association not grow Irish potatoes for market as well as the farmers of Baldwin County? Mr. Phil Childress brought in some Irish Cobblers a few days ago that were as fine as anybody would care to eat. The writer one year planted Irish potatoes February 15th and dug a splendid yield of excellent quality on May 11th. In car lots they will always sell well at that time of the year, or if desirable they can be carried over till the next spring. This is being done in a small way today in Thorsby and the principle is applicable to a warehouse of any size.

Mrs. E. W. Butler, daughters, Margaret and Dorothy, and Mrs. H. M. Gerald and Miss Agnes Gerald motored to Montevallo Sunday afternoon.

Masters Leroy and Richard Peterson spent last week in Birmingham with their sister Mrs. Lewis Self.

Mrs. Harry Thompson made a trip to Birmingham last Friday accompanied by her nephew Conway Thornburgh on his way to his home at Jasper, Alabama.

Mrs. Anna Villadsen is in Birmingham for a few days visit.

The Baptist Ladies Aid will meet this week on Thursday with Mrs. Dewey Martin.

Misses Odie Lee Arthurs and Ruth Gerald returned Tuesday morning from a two weeks trip to Blue Ridge, North Carolina and Demorest, Georgia. They report a wonderful trip.

The Lutheran Ladies Aid will meet Thursday, July 21, with Mrs. K. A. Eckblad.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Self of Birmingham were visitors at the home of Mrs. Self's parents Mr. and Mrs. Martin Peterson.

Miss Mattie Scott of Birmingham is spending her vacation with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Scott.

Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Scott, Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Gibbons, Miss Mattie Scott and Mr. Tom Lesley went on a picnic to Lock 12 last Tuesday.

BATTON REUNION

The hearts of Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Batton were made to rejoice on the morning of the Fourth when all their children reached home. Three daughters-in-law and four grand children did not come.

Mr. Batton will be 72 in August and Mrs. Batton is already 72. They have seven children. Will M., of Birmingham, Fred P. of Fayette, Mrs. Minnie I., Gay, Thomas E., and H. Grady of Silsee, Texas, J. Frank of Tulsa, Oklahoma, and J. D. of Bessemer.

Mr. and Mrs. Batton have not lost any of their children by death. The family chain has been broken by the death of one little grandchild. They have twelve grandchildren living.

A family barbecue and picnic dinner with ice tea and lemonade was prepared by the parent's and sister's family, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Gray. The dinner was served in the shade of the trees near the house where they played during their childhood days. Pork and kid was barbecued for the dinner by Mr. C. C. Gay.

The following were the invited guests who came and brought filled baskets: Mr. T. A. Gay, Mr. J. W. Gay and family, Mrs. Mary Barnes, Mr. R. A. Harris and family, Mr. W. H. Harris and family, Mr. J. H. Gandy, Billie Gandy of Birmingham, Mrs. A. C. Gandy of Nicholsville Ky.

There were 46 present for dinner, and enough dinner left to serve that many more. Several lunches were sent to friends.

The afternoon was spent in making pictures of the family and visiting friends and children, talking of their last reunion, Christmas 1912. At that time all the children were single, and now J. Frank of Tulsa, Oklahoma is the only single one.

The following day the family with friends making the No. 26 spent the day with Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Gay where they enjoyed another picnic and melon cutting.

The writer wishes for the family many more happy reunions.

No one can relish food after a visitation by ants. Hours of painstaking labor are spoiled. Delicious dishes are tainted, made uneatable. Fly-Tox kills ants. Spraying should be continued for several days because ants are always present in colonies. Insist on Fly-Tox. Fly-Tox is the scientific insecticide developed at Mellon Institute of Industrial Research by Rex Fellowship. Simple instructions on each bottle (blue label) for killing ALL household insects. Fly-Tox is safe, stainless, fragrant, sure. Every bottle guaranteed.

Toy Williams Defends His "Home Town" Shanghai, On Subject of Traffic Cops

Some Interesting Facts About one of the Largest Cities in the Old World—Shanghai, China.

The China Baptist Publication Society, Shanghai, China., June 13, 1927.

Editor Union-Banner:-

Last night after the duties of Sunday were over I sat down at home and picked up a copy of the Union-Banner, which I always enjoy reading. One editorial note struck me in a rather funny place so I decided I would on blue Monday tap off a few lines in the form of taking issue with you. The thing itself is of no importance, but it struck me as a way to give the readers of the Banner a little idea of what Shanghai is like. Print it all or in part, cut it any way you like, or put it in the waste basket, just as you like.

Let me take this opportunity of thanking you most heartily for the copy of the Alabama Sportsman. I read about it in the Union-Banner and came down to my office expecting to write for a copy of it one day and that morning received the copy you had sent. I have remarked that I want to go to some place where there is good fishing and hunting when I go home again, but it seems from that copy of the Sportsman that Chilton County is the place to go. I shall look forward to trying it next year when I get home.

With sincere appreciation for the paper and for the copy of the Sportsman, I am Very sincerely yours,—J. T. Williams.

I feel compelled to take issue with the Editor of the Union-Banner upon an editoriial note in his paper of June 7, 1927 in which he says: "Our idea of one political job not worth while is the appointment of traffic policeman in Shanghai." You do not see many people who like to see their home town run down. Shanghai is my home town for the present. That is why I am making a reply to what seems a little like throwing off on my town.

Really, I am not quite sure what the editor had in mind. I do not know whether he was throwing off on Shanghai or on political jobs. Is being a traffic policeman a political job? I do not know enough about modern city government to know whether a man is appointed traffic policeman because of his political affiliations, or because of his ability to handle the job. It takes a real man to be an efficient traffic policeman--especially in Shanghai.

Did the editor mean that Shanghai is such a small place that it would not need traffic policemen? Shanghai is about ten miles long and from five to seven miles wide with a population of more than two million. The people are huddled so close together on narrow streets that this is many times the population an American city covering the same ground would have.

Perhaps the editor meant there is not enough traffic in Shanghai to justify the expense of keeping a trafic cop. Let us walk out on the streets of Shanghai and take a look. Most of the streets are about one half or one third as wide as the main street of Clanton. On the streets we see street cars, trackless street cars, motor buses, trucks, motor cars, two-wheeled carts pulled by men, wheelbarrows, rickshaws, bicycles, men carrying burdens on poles across their shoulders, people walking all over the street.

The street cars are much like what you see is any city in America. The trackless street cars are something I never saw in America. They have wide rubber-tired wheels and have two trolley poles and wires instead of one as the track cars have. They have a steering wheel so they can pass around traffic in crowded streets. There are several lines going in different directions over town. There are about 6,000 motor cars in town. No roads upon which to get out into the country.

The two-wheeled carts are built as a little platform balanced on two heavy wheels. They put a ton or more of stuff on these carts. One man holds to the back to guide the cart while from two to eight men, according to the load, with ropes attached to the cart get in front and pull. All kinds of things are moved about on these carts. One might have a ton of coal while the next one would have one and one half tons of construction steel.

The wheelbarrow is quite a different thing from what we used to have in Chilton County. It has a strongly built wheel about three feet high and the load is balanced on the wheel at a point a little above the hub of the wheel. From 200 to 1000 pounds is an ordinary load for the wheelbarrow and it is pushed by one man. In the country one sometimes sees a donkey pulling by means of a rope attached to the front and a man pushing. The man has the load so well balanced on the wheel that he has nothing to do except keep it balanced and push. The rickshaws are little two-wheeled, rubber tired carts wide enough to seat one person and is pulled by a man between the shafts who trots along almost as fast as a horse trots. There must be twenty to thirty thousand of them in Shanghai.

Carrying burdens by means of a pole across the shoulder takes up lots of room in the street. For instance, the Chinese carry chickens to market in baskets about eighteen inches high with small mouth and from three to four feet in circumference. Suppose a man goes down the street with two of these baskets. He does not carry them one directly behind the other but has the pole at an angle of about 45 degrees from the way he is going. In this way he would take up from eight to ten feet of the street. Then, there are great throngs of untrained people who walk anywhere in the street and cross it anywhere they please.

Just suppose a situation like this: Going in one direction there are two carts, one loaded with a ton of coal and the other with 60 foot beams of timber (From America), four wheelbarrows, one motor bus, six boys on bicycles, five motor cars, 47 rickshaws, and 149 people walking. Going in the opposite direction on the same street there are two trucks, 1 rail-less street car, six men carrying chicken baskets, 153 rickshaws, going two or three abreast and 21 people walking. At the same time on a cross street going in one direction there are two street cars, 25 motor cars, 3 trucks, 1 motor bus, 31 rickshaws, and 59 people walking, while in the opposite direction there are three wheelbarrows, two hand carts loaded with 32 foot steel bars, 1 Standard Oil truck, 1 street car, one moving truck, 17 motor cars, 21 rickshaws, 119 people walking and a battallion of British soldiers. Suppose all these are piled up in one or two blocks. Not long ago I got into a traffiic jam worse than described above. Do you think there is any need for traffic policemen? Yes, we have traffic policemen, and lots of them. It would not surprise me if there are as many traffic cops in Shanghiai as in Birmingham, Montgomery and Clanton, if not as in the whole state of Alabama.

I do not say whether being a traffic policeman in Shanghai is a politialc job or not, but I leave it to the readers of the Union-Banner to say whether he is necessary or not. We will leave the political value of the job with the Editor of our valuable paper.

ANTI SALOON LEAGUE WILL WORK FOR DRY CONGRESS

Westerville, O., July 11.—Special. Despite the fact that many able constitutional lawyers are of the opinion that any modification of the Volstead Act would be held unconstitutional by the United States Supreme Court, every effort will be made by the organized drys to elect a bone dry Congress at the general elections a little more than a year away, according to announcement made today at the headquarters here of the Anti-Saloon League of America.

"Organized dry forces are taking no chances and will make every effort to elect a bone dry Congress in 1928," said Dr. F. Scott McBride, General Superintendent of the League. "If the drys were content to await such a decision by the United States Supreme Court, they would be giving the wets an unprecedented opportunity for building up a nullification machine. The drys will not take this chance. "The 1928 campaign will be carried into every congressional district. Candidates who are friendly to prohibition will be supported to the fullest extent."

"Many constitutional lawyers of repute have advised us that any legislation seeking to make harder the enforcement of the fundamental laws of the nation probably would be held unconstitutional by the Supreme Court. In other words, their contention is that if alcoholic content in beverage drinks should be fixed at a percentage higher than one-half of one per cent, as is now provided in the Volstead Act, the Supreme Court would be forced to hold it unconstitutional.

"These lawyers say that the Volstead Act was passed by Congress as an enforcing act for the Eighteenth Amendment and that it has been the consistent history of the Supreme Court to interpret such acts in a way to provide for the easiest enforcement of the constitutional provisions. Attorneys advised us that should Congress specify, for instance that no beverage should be sold under the terms of the Eighteenth Amendment with an alcoholic content of more than 2.75 per cent, this would make the Eighteenth Amendmest harder to enforce and therefore would be unconstitutional. They point out that the figure of one-half of one per cent was fixed upon, as that had been the basis of computation by the Internal Revenue Department for years."

Some Interesting Facts About one of the Largest Cities in the Old World—Shanghai, China.

The China Baptist Publication Society, Shanghai, China., June 13, 1927.

Editor Union-Banner:-

Last night after the duties of Sunday were over I sat down at home and picked up a copy of the Union-Banner, which I always enjoy reading. With sincere appreciation for the paper and for the copy of the Sportsman, I am Very sincerely yours,—J. T. Williams.

I feel compelled to take issue with the Editor of the Union-Banner upon an editoriial note in his paper of June 7, 1927 in which he says: "Our idea of one political job not worth while is the appointment of traffic policeman in Shanghai." You do not see many people who like to see their home town run down. Shanghai is my home town for the present. That is why I am making a reply to what seems a little like throwing off on my town.

Really, I am not quite sure what the editor had in mind. I do not know whether he was throwing off on Shanghai or on political jobs. Is being a traffic policeman a political job? I do not know enough about modern city government to know whether a man is appointed traffic policeman because of his political affiliations, or because of his ability to handle the job. It takes a real man to be an efficient traffic policeman--especially in Shanghai.

Did the editor mean that Shanghai is such a small place that it would not need traffic policemen? Shanghai is about ten miles long and from five to seven miles wide with a population of more than two million. The people are huddled so close together on narrow streets that this is many times the population an American city covering the same ground would have.

Perhaps the editor meant there is not enough traffic in Shanghai to justify the expense of keeping a trafic cop. Let us walk out on the streets of Shanghai and take a look. Most of the streets are about one half or one third as wide as the main street of Clanton. On the streets we see street cars, trackless street cars, motor buses, trucks, motor cars, two-wheeled carts pulled by men, wheelbarrows, rickshaws, bicycles, men carrying burdens on poles across their shoulders, people walking all over the street.

The street cars are much like what you see is any city in America. The trackless street cars are something I never saw in America. They have wide rubber-tired wheels and have two trolley poles and wires instead of one as the track cars have. They have a steering wheel so they can pass around traffic in crowded streets. There are several lines going in different directions over town. There are about 6,000 motor cars in town. No roads upon which to get out into the country.

The wheelbarrow is quite a different thing from what we used to have in Chilton County. From 200 to 1000 pounds is an ordinary load for the wheelbarrow and it is pushed by one man. In the country one sometimes sees a donkey pulling by means of a rope attached to the front and a man pushing. The man has the load so well balanced on the wheel that he has nothing to do except keep it balanced and push. The rickshaws are little two-wheeled, rubber tired carts wide enough to seat one person and is pulled by a man between the shafts who trots along almost as fast as a horse trots. Just suppose a situation like this: Going in one direction there are two carts, one loaded with a ton of coal and the other with 60 foot beams of timber (From America), four wheelbarrows, one motor bus, six boys on bicycles, five motor cars, 47 rickshaws, and 149 people walking. Going in the opposite direction on the same street there are two trucks, 1 rail-less street car, six men carrying chicken baskets, 153 rickshaws, going two or three abreast and 21 people walking. At the same time on a cross street going in one direction there are two street cars, 25 motor cars, 3 trucks, 1 motor bus, 31 rickshaws, and 59 people walking, while in the opposite direction there are three wheelbarrows, two hand carts loaded with 32 foot steel bars, 1 Standard Oil truck, 1 street car, one moving truck, 17 motor cars, 21 rickshaws, 119 people walking and a battallion of British soldiers. Suppose all these are piled up in one or two blocks. Not long ago I got into a traffiic jam worse than described above. Do you think there is any need for traffic policemen? "Many constitutional lawyers of repute have advised us that any legislation seeking to make harder the enforcement of the fundamental laws of the nation probably would be held unconstitutional by the Supreme Court. In other words, their contention is that if alcoholic content in beverage drinks should be fixed at a percentage higher than one-half of one per cent, as is now provided in the Volstead Act, the Supreme Court would be forced to hold it unconstitutional.

"These lawyers say that the Volstead Act was passed by Congress as an enforcing act for the Eighteenth Amendment and that it has been the consistent history of the Supreme Court to interpret such acts in a way to provide for the easiest enforcement of the constitutional provisions. Attorneys advised us that should Congress specify, for instance that no beverage should be sold under the terms of the Eighteenth Amendment with an alcoholic content of more than 2.75 per cent, this would make the Eighteenth Amendmest harder to enforce and therefore would be unconstitutional. They point out that the figure of one-half of one per cent was fixed upon, as that had been the basis of computation by the Internal Revenue Department for years."

"Russell Grader" were the best. This is exactly the kind Chilton County uses. We have in the past tried one other caterpillar and one or two other graders, seeking better prices; they proved bad. This article again referred to lumber bought from my brother. I have never bought any lumber from my brother for the county. I have suggested to the commissioners court not to buy lumber from him on my account. The commissioners are free to buy lumber from whom they please, and if they get the best prices, I don't think the public has been damaged. Mr. Atkinson can refer to the treasurer's report and see every item that was paid for lumber, and if he can criticize any one item, I wish he would do so. He again refers to premium on bonds drawn by one of my sons who is an attorney. Mr. Atkinson should know that the county has nothing to do with this; that the individual officers, that is the Tax Collector, Tax Assessor, and Treasurer can have these bonds made in whatever company they desire and with whom they desire, and the law places the duty on the county to pay the premiums. If Mr. Atkinson will turn to Section 2658 of the Code of Alabama, 1923, he will see this is correct and the county has no right to suggest to any officer in what company he has his bond made. If Mr. J. T. Rockett or Miss Genie Collins or Mr. S. M. Pate want to have their bonds made in the bonding company which my son represents, do you think you are fair, Mr. Atkinson, to criticize the commissioners court for this? I presume you know that the premium on these bonds is the same in all companies.

As to attorneys fees being paid to my sons who are attorneys, Mr. Atkinson knows that every county necessarily incurs attorneys fees, and Chilton has never been an exception in any administration. I might say though for Mr. Atkinson's benefit, that Chilton County has employed other attorneys besides my sons. I remember now three different firms of attorneys on several occasions but I do not think the county has ever employed Mr. Atkinson. This fact might be the cause of said article in last week's Chilton County News.

And while on this subject of attorneys fees, it might be stated that Mr. Atkinson on numerous occasions sued the county, and I can recall several suits where he has recovered a great deal less than he has asked the commissioners court to pay. I will make this statement, that if Chilton county had paid to J. B. Atkinson for his clients what he had asked the county to pay, then there would be just cause for criticism. The commissioners court honestly disagreed with Mr. Atkinson on several occasions in the amounts he asked the court to pay and there was nothing left to do but to let a court and jury decide the question. Chilton county does not keep regularly employed attorneys, and my sons as attorneys, have during my administration advised Chilton county on all questions where requested to do so without any charge whatsoever. I will make you this statement Mr. Atkinson, that if you will get up all the attorney's fees paid to my sons. (and I might say that they are all published semi-annually for the public to see,) and submit the fees paid, to any three disinterested attorneys here, and for every dollar they say that Chilton County has paid too much in attorney's fees, I personally will place that amount back in the County treasury. I understand that Chilton County is one of the few counties that does not pay a regularly employed attorney.

I notice in said article that something was said in regard to one Mr. B. G. Jones, who is one of our road overseers in Beat One. Mr. Jones was appointed by Mr. Dorminey, county commissioner, and from all the reports the people are satisfied with him in his district. He is being paid exactly as other overseers are, and all in all, I think his public record will compare favorable with Mr. J. B. Atkinson. However, if Mr. Atkinson will show the commisioners court in any particular where Mr. Jones has been negligent or otherwise has not performed his duty, I believe the commisioners court will remove him and place another man instead.

Do you think, Mr. Atkinson, that it is fair for you to accuse every Democrat, whom the County Commissioners employ, of being "bought over?" I ask you, Mr. Atkinson, if you so have the peoples' interest at your heart and so deem yourself the idol to lead the people from the imperfect to the perfect, and having been on both sides of most everything, won't you come before the Commissioners Court and tell the Court wherein we have failed and wherein we have spent the peoples' money wrongfully, and assist us in running the County affairs as you have run the affairs of the town of Clanton? You say you are working for the best interest of the Democratic party, and that you want more representation among the Democrats. Yet, when the Commissioners Court is disposed to place part of the affairs of this County upon the shoulders of Democrats, then immediately we are condemned by Atkinson because we have done so. This places the Commissioners Court in a dilemma, which possibly you can show us a way out. There was a large list of Democrats on a petition against these bills and here are some of the leading Democrats who went to Montgomery against these bills, and some who wrote letters against the same: D. I. Deramus, C. F. Jones, S. L. Gibson, Dr. Arthur Johnson, E. F. Mead, R. L. Carter, H, F. Thompson, Dr. J. P. Hayes, Dr. T. J. Marcus, Dr. J. E. Gowan, Dr. Sterling A. Wood, T. N. Howard, C. M. Foshee, J. O. Mize, L. J. Pery, W. S. Willis, M. E. Dunsmore, C. Reese Mullins, J. W. P. Murphy, B. G. Jones, T. L. Lecroy, T. D. Parnell, Dr. J J. Dubose, Ed Smitherman, H. B. Oliver, P. C. Pulliam, and many others. I ask any fair minded man, Democrat or Republican, if this list does not compare favorably with the list headed by Mr. J. B. Atkinson, as Chairman of the Democratic Executive Committee and J. L Johnson as Secretary.

You stated in your article, Mr. Atkinson, that there are many of the Conservative Republicans of the County who endorsed these bills. Will you do me and others who are personally interested, the favor to publish the names of these Conservative Republicans, who endorsed these bills as drawn by you in the next week's isue of your newspaper?

The Comissioners Court and myself have expresed our thanks to all parties regardless of all political affiliation, who have assisted us so far in defeating these bills, and we here want to again publicaly express our appreciation, and will be only too glad to have your advice and counsel on any matters appertaining to Chilton County.

I might say in passing (which I presume is well known to every voter in Chilton County) that Mr. J. B. Atkinson once called himself a Republican and fought with us and counseled among us and publicly through the press expounded his great belief in the Republican party, County, State, and Nation. Mr. Atkinson was a few years back and before switching from one party to another a candidate for United States District Attorney, which position he did not get. Now I ask you, fair minded citizens, suppose J. B. Atkinson had secured the position of United States District Attorney and could have still been holding the job as the same administration is in power, is there one of you who now believes that J. B. Atkinson would have turned to the Democratic party? If you believe that he would not have changed his politics then, what prompted his change? The answer is the almighty dollar, and being as charitable as I can under the accusations he has leveled at me, and understanding his scorn, slandering and libel, which I have known and heard, I do not think I am in the minority when I say that the almighty dollar has been the greater cause of his blekering here and dickering there, and changing from one party another, and his chameleon attitude upon this issue and that one.

Your greatest criticism, Mr. Atkinson, seems to be that Chilton County is not getting what could be reasonably expected from its County Officers or Commissioners Court, and if you were in power you could do more and that if you managed the affairs you could do better. Probably so, but let's see what you have done in the past. You have been Mayor of the Town of Clanton for the past administration and you, during the two administrations before that, was a member of the Council of the Town of Clanton, and for the past several years it is common knowledge that you have been the controlling lever between the affairs of the Town of Clanton, while in office, and can you deny today that the Town of Clanton is practically bankrupt. Is it not a fact that you tried to incorporate through the Legislalature and over the will of every tax payer in the proposed annexation with the exception of a single one, a proposed territory, several times the size of the Town of Clanton, to bring in to the Town of Clanton, property which is simply and wholly farming property in order to raise the assessed value of the property in the Town of Clanton in order that the Town of Clanton could float bonds and borrow more money, when you had practically nothing to offer these farmers in return? Is it not a fact Mr. Atkinson, that the Town of Clanton voted $20,000.00 bonds and these bonds could not be sold on account of the Town of Clanton being financially bankrupt?

Under the law Chilton County has published semi-annually an itemized report of every dollar spent by the County, and you have the full means access and information to bring any kind of action to rectify any wrong. However, before your administration began the Town of Clanton also published reports of its financial expenditures and receipts, but while you have been in office no citizen of the Town of Clanton or Chilton County has ever seen one single line in any newspaper, appertaining in anywise whatsoever to the financial standing of the Town of Clanton. How many citizens, yes how many in the Town of Clanton would greatly rejoice at such publication on your part? I have not the advantage that you have because I can't tell what the Town of Clanton has done in a financial way, nor what it has received, nor what it has expended. Chilton County today has $90,712.19 in the Treasury, and all current debts are paid. I wish you would inform the Public of the condition of the Town of Clanton.

Mr. Atkinson also makes criticism of the fact that the representative of this County, Percy Pitts, is a son-in-law of my brother, and probably for this reason he is fighting these bills. Mr. Pitts, however, when making his campaign against you Mr. Atkinson, promised faithfully to the people of this County that if elected he would do all in his power to opose any legislation seeking to abolish the Court of County Commissioners, or any legislation seeking to legislate duly elected officers out of office. Mr. Pitts' record in the Legislature during this session, bears out every campaign pledge made and he has been successful in doing for the people what he stated he would try to do, and that is his purpose in fighting these bills, and keeping his faith with the people. It might be interesting if the people would stop to think whether or not J. B. Atkinson has kept his faith with the people, to whom he has also pledged his solemn faith that he was against legislating people out of office and abolishing the Commissioners Court, and your record Mr. Atkinson, as a lobbyist in the Legislature shows that true to your form you have again broken your promise to the people.

In conclusion, Mr. Atkinson, I am sorry indeed that the Republican party did not have enough offices to go around in order that you might have gotten one. If you had, probably the Democrats would not have been troubled to-day with one of the Republican Party refusals, but let me state here if you are suggesting or had been given the power, to run the County's affairs, as you have run the Town of Clanton, or upon your promises as you have made in the past and upon your record of issues and inconsistency, then I do not believe the people of Chilton County are ever going to accept you, be they Democrat or Republican.—Respectfully, L. H. Reynolds.

Reynolds Discusses Law Suits Against County

AFFIDAVIT FROM COURT CLERK IN SUPPORT OF STATEMENTS OF PROBATE JUDGE

Editor Union-Banner:

In my article of last week, I made reference therein to J. B. Atkinson having filed suits against Chilton County or having sued Chilton County, and I understand that Mr. Atkinson is somewhat disturbed over this point, and that he states that he has only sued Chilton County in one instance in the past several years. Below I am publishing a certificate from J. Z. Mims, Clerk of the Circuit Court which shows that since January, 1923 Chilton County has only been engaged in eighteen law suits, and sixteen of these law suits grew out of condemning right of way for highways, of which number J. B. Atkinson filed twelve appeals from the Probate Court to the Circuit Court, leaving only two suits in a course of over four years wherein Chilton County was engaged either as plaintiff or defendant, and of this number one suit was filed by L. F. Gerald and F. Loyd Tate, and of said sixteen suits twelve of which being appeals from the Probate Court to the Circuit Court, as above stated, came about in the following manner. Chilton County was requested by the State Highway Department to secure right of way for the new paved highway, and this could only be done under the law by condemnation proceedings, which was done. Commissioners were appointed, some of whom being B. F. Higgins, T. J. Littlejohn, H. B. Oliver, J. Wiley Littlejohn, J. Monroe Parrish, M. A. Gore, J. P. Gore, and many others whose names I do not recall at the present. These commissioners made their award in Probate Court, and of the total number of land owners over a period of approximately thirty-five miles, sixteen parties appealed and of this number J. B. Atkinson represented or filed appeals for twelve of the same. Of course, when J. B. Atkinson filed an appeal it was necessary that Chilton County employ an Attorney to represent the County's interest in Circuit Court. I am willing for Mr. Atkinson to compare the records in this county with any county in the State and see if the record of Chilton County for being involved in law suits does not compare favorably with any County in the State of Alabama, and if there has been unnecessary litigation, J. B. Atkinson as an attorney has caused over three-fourths of the same.—L. H. Reynolds.

The State of Alabama, Chilton County.

I, J. Z. Mims, Clerk of the Circuit Court of Chilton County, Alabama, hereby certify that since the first day of January, 1923, Chilton County has been involved as plaintiff or defendant in eighteen separate law suits, as shown by the appearance docket in the office of the Circuit Clerk, and of this number the records show that J. B. Atkinson has appeared in thirteen of said eighteen suits, as an attorney, and as such opposed to Chilton County. Of the remaining five, L. F. Gerald has appeared in two, Victor J. Heard in one, Percy M. Pitts in one, and G. C. Walker in one. The total number of said law suits, except two, has been appertaining to condemnation proceedings or appeals from condemnation proceedings in the Probate Court of Chilton County in locating the Birmingham-Montgomery paved highway. Of these two suits one of said was filed by L. F. Gerald and F. Loyd Tate, as attorneys, being a suit for damages of Ellen Wright against Chilton County in the amount of $5,000, and a consent judgment was rendered for $500.00, and the other of said two suits was a suit filed by J. B. Atkinson, as attorney for the Selig Company against Chilton County, which suit is now pending. Of the sixteen remaining suits, which were appeals from condemnation proceedings, J. B. Atkinson for the defendants filed the appeals as attorney in twelve of said sixteen suits.

Of this twelve suits, the appeal of Mrs. G. C. Wilder, a jury assessed $750.00, the appeal of B. Johnson, a consent judgment was rendered for $50.00, the appeal of Mrs. T. G. Williams, a consent judgment was rendered for $160.00, the appeal of R. M. Smith, a consent judgment was rendered for $25.00, the appeal of Mrs. M. C. Norrell, a jury assessed a judgment of $50.00, the appeal of T. C. McSwain, the jury assed a judgment of $250.00, and the appeal of Mamie C. Norrell, the Court entered judgment for Chilton County, and two suits now on docket, that of J. Lee Cox, and T. C. McSwain and W. M. Sandlin are now pending, of the appeals of Louis Christensen, the Court rendered judgment for $67.25.

Of the remaining suits of J. B. Atkinson, as attorney, the record shows that the same were dismissed in this Court.—This 19th day of July, 1927. J. Z. Mims, Clerk of the Circuit Court.

MRS. ALEX KILLOUGH KILLED IN AUTO WRECK THURSDAY

Mrs. Alex Killough of Fairview, Birmingham, was fatally hurt last Thursday in an automobile wreck up near Calera. She died on her way to South Highlands Infirmary.

According to Mr. Killough the car turned a somersault and fell into the bottom of a six-foot ditch. Mrs. Killough's neck was broken. Killough was unhurt, and their 9-year old daughter, Thelma, who was with them received bruises and cuts.

The party was carried to Birmingham by a man who passed the scene immediately after the accident. His name was not learned. The Killough's had been to Mrs. Killough's mother's home in Thorsby, Ala., and were returning to Birmingham.

GREAT REVIVAL MEETING AT LIBERTY HILL LAST WEEK

A great revival meeting at Liberty Hill closed last Friday with 29 members added to the church. Rev J. W. Jones, of Dora, Ala., conducted the preaching. Singing was in charge of Gresham Lowery, of Thorsby. Rev. J. D. Hughes is pastor at Liberty.

Seventeen candidates were baptised Friday. Four more joined the church Friday night, and they will be baptised next Friday.

Rev. Jones expressed great satisfaction over the meeting. Attendance was great, with people coming from all parts of the county. The interest shown by the people was very intense. The best of order was accorded by everyone during the meeting, not one bit of disturbance being noticed at any time.

The visiting minister stated that he really felt at home among the people down here. It was at Clanton where he secured his license to be married some years ago. His wife is a Chilton County girl. "You know I naturally felt at home here," said Mr. Jones, "and to say that I enjoyed my campaign among these folks is putting it mildly. We had a great time and a great meeting. I hope to be able to come back to Liberty again some day."

The singer, Mr. Gresham Lowery, of course felt at home and had a great time too. He is the son of Rev. W. P. Lowery of Thorsby. The first years of his life were spent at Liberty Hill, and that has not been so many years ago, for he is yet a young man.

INFANT DIED

The infant son, 4 days old, of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Parrish, died at the home of J. Monroe Parrish on Thursday, July 7. It was buried at Providence the following day.

A. M. PIPER VISITS US

"Well, this Banner office has come out considerably since I was in it twenty years ago. The last time I was in your office, you were located at the rear of the courthouse in the old two-story wooden building."

These were the words Monday morning from an old yet upright and dignified old gentleman who strolled into our office. He wore two badges, one of which we construed to be a Confederate War emblem and the other a Knights of Pythais badge. Upon conversing with him for some time we found him to be Mr. A. M. Piper, who just recently moved back to his old home in Thorsby. He is the father of the well-known Thorsbian, E. R. Piper. The elder Piper has been in the Birmingham district working for the T. C. I. for the past several years; but he has now moved back to his farm at Thorsby.

ANOTHER RED HEADED GIRL

Mr. O. R. Robinson of Refuge was a visitor to Clanton Tuesday. He reports a new member in his family, a fine red headed girl, who arrived nine days ago.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR SOCIETY WALNUT CREEK M. P. CHURCH

A fine program was rendered Sunday night. A large crowd was present and more interest was manifested than usual. We can already see the fruits of our work, though we are young, we are still growing. One sweet feature of the services Sunday night was that there were twelve of our young people who volunteered to lead in prayer. We are very glad of our C. E. Society. We invite everyone who will to come and be with us. We have services every Sunday night so come and worship with us.—Aberdeen Coggins, Sec'y.

REGISTRATION NOTICE

In accordance with the provisions of an Act "To Provide for the Registration of Electors," enacted by the Legislature of Alabama of 1920, and by order of the Court of County Commissioners of Chilton County dated June 22, 1927, notice is hereby given that the Registrars of Chilton County will be at the Courthouse in Clanton for 10 days, from July 20, 1927 to July 30, 1927, inclusive, for the purpose of registering voters, as provided by law.

EZELL'S FAMILY GONE THIS WEEK

The family of Rev. S. J. Ezell is really gone to South Carolina this week. The local writer for the Union-Banner said they were gone last week, but that statement proved to be a false alarm.

Lowery in the preaching. Mr. Gresham Lowery of Thorsby will have charge of the singing. Services will be held twice daily—at 10:30 and 7:30. The help of the public is urged and expected.

Next Sunday being the Fourth, there will be singing in the afternoon. It is hoped that the best singing of the season may be had Sunday afternoon. All singers are asked to come out and help us.

TWO CHILDREN DROWNED IN COOSA RIVER LAST SUNDAY

Two Harrington children of Weogufka, Coosa County, were drowned last Sunday when the automobile in which they were riding plunged from a ferry into the Coosa River. One of the children was two years old and the other four. Another child, age seven, was rescued by Jesse Jenkins, ferry employee. The mother, Mrs. Frank Harrington, of Weogulfka, is reported in a serious condition.

According to witnesses the car had been on to the flat boat at Chancellor's Ferry. The ferry had not loosed its moorings, when, without warning the car rolled to the edge and fell into the water, turning upside down. In the car were Mr. and Mrs. Harrington, his mother-in-law, Mrs. Jones, of Vincent, Ala., a negro chauffer and three small children.

MIDDLETON WILL SPEAK

J. O. Middleton has been invited to speak at Weagulfka, Coosa County, on Sunday, July 24, at a meeting honoring the memory of William Jennings Bryan as a religious leader. The service has been widely advertised, and Mr. Middleton, one of the most interesting speakers in the state, will no doubt be heard by a large assembly of people.

THANKS PEOPLE FOR HELP

Posey G. Marcus and family wish to thank those who lent us their help and sympathy during the death and burial of our father and grandfather, George Marcus. We especially thank the Clanton quartet and Revs. Cox and Ezell for the parts they took in the funeral services. All who gave flowers and other acts of sympathy have our earnest prayer.

JUDGE ADAMS HERE SUNDAY

Judge S. M. Adams was in Clanton Sunday and was welcomed in attendance at the Men's Bible Class of the Baptist Sunday School. He is now warden of the tuberculosis camp for convicts at Wetumpka, which place he assumed on the first of July. In a brief address before the Sunday School Class he spoke of his work there and asked for the prayers of his brethren and friends to strengthen him in the performance of his duties.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our appreciation for the kindness and sympathy shown us during the illness and death of our dear wife and mother. May God bless each of you.—R. T. Robinson and children.

WENT ACROSS THE RIVER LAST SUNDAY

Mr. Gip W. Melton and family made a motor trip across the river last Sunday around Fayetteville, Sylacauga, and Talladega Springs to see a number of relatives and friends. Mr. Melton says he was impressed on his trip with the scattering manner in which rains have been falling. Many commnuities he visited had apparently received an overdose of summer showers while others in between seemed to have been left entirely dry. The same condition prevails throughout this county, according to reports from people of different parts.

CEMETERY WORKING

To all who are interested in the cemetery at Rocky Mount please meet there on Friday July, 29, to clean off same. Everybody come and bring tools to work with.—F. F. Huckabee.

"GOVERNOR DORMINEY" HERE SATURDAY

Hon. Thomas J. Dorminey, former county commisioner from the first district, better known as "Governor" of Stumps Hills, was in Clanton Saturday to attend the meeting of the Republican Executive Committee of Chilton County.

Mr. Dorminey, although now just a private citizen, still manifests a great deal of interest in the affairs of Chilton County, and he is firm in his convictions that the Republican party has done much lasting good for this county in years past.

The only objection we have ever heard anybody in Stumps Hills make to T. J., is that he gets busy going to protracted meetings sometimes and puts off the Fourth of July.

VOTERS MAY REGISTER AT COURTHOUSE NOW

The attention of the people of Chilton County is called to the fact that the county board of registrars is in session at the courthouse now from July 20 to July 30. It is an opportunity for all who are eligible to register and become qualified voters.

There are many people in Chilton County who ought to take advantage of this opportunity and place themselves on the list of qualified voters. The registrars have been called into session at this time because it is a season of the year when folks are not so busy at work, and they can easily take the time to come to the courthouse and get their registration business fixed up.

Next year is to be a political year. Candidates for county state and national offices will be in the field, and it is the duty of every person to be prepared to vote and take part in the election of the public officers.

MRS. RICHARD ROBINSON DIED SATURDAY MORNING

Mrs. Drucilla J. Robinson, age 57, wife of Richard T. Robinson of Union Grove community, died last Saturday morning at 1:20. The remains were buried Saturday afternoon at four o'clock at Rocky Mount cemetery. Rev. W. P. Lowery conducted the funeral, assisted by Revs. Weston and Chandler.

Mrs. Robinson is survived by her husband and several sons and daughters. She was the mother of Miss Grace Robinson, Superintendent of the Central Alabama Hospital in Clanton.

The many friends of the family extend sympathy to the bereaved father and children.

M. up to the fifth Sunday P. M. in July for the singing society. Everybody is cordially invited to come out and sing with us and also, attend the revival begining August the 7th.—G. C. Powell, Sec'y.

VISITOR FROM MUSCLE SHOALS

For the past few days we have noticed here and yonder, passing one way and another, a big automobile with letters on the front, "Muscle Shoals." Said car was finally run down and located, and the occupants were found to be Mr. and Mrs. Joe Parrish, from that thriving spot in North Alabama. Mr. and Mrs. Parrish are spending a week or so with their many relatives and friends in Chilton County. They plan to return to Muscle Shoals some time this week.

WM. J. MIMS WITH JESSE BAKER

The Union-Banner has been requested to announce that Mr. Wm. J. (Little Jack) Mims, who has formerly worked in the Clanton Cash Store, is now working for Mr. Jesse Baker. Jack says that he will be glad to have his old customers (and Mr. Baker adds, especially cash customers) call around at Jesse Baker's store and trade with him.

George W. Marcus Died In Birmingham Friday

PARALYSIS RESULTS IN DEATH OF WELL KNOWN CITIZEN OF CHILTON COUNTY

Declining health for the past several months finally led up to the death of Uncle George Marcus, which occured in a Birmingham hospital Friday, July 15th. On Monday before, Mr. Marcus was stricken with paralysis, and was totally helpless and practically unconscious up until his death. The deceased was 68 years old.

The funeral was held from the home of a son, Posey G. Marcus in Clanton last Saturday afternoon, the services being conducted by Rev. Cox and Rev. Ezell. Mell Martin, Undertaker, had charge of the body. A large crowd of relatives and friends of Uncle George was present to pay their last respects to the old gentleman. He is survived by his widow, three sons and one daughter, three sisters and three brothers. Interment was made in the Clanton cemetery.

The passing of uncle George Marcus will incur the regret of a large number of friends in Chilton County and Clanton especially. He had been in business of one kind and another is Clanton for the past several years, and by his fair methods of dealing and his kindly treatment of his customers, he made for himself a large circle of true friends. He was always kind to everyone and always had a word to speak when he met his aquaintances on the street. Uncle George will really be missed.

A. B. MANNING ENDORSES ALL THOSE WHO STAND FOR LOCAL SELF GOVERNMENT

Editor Union-Banner:

I wish to thank you for your piece in last week's paper on the subject of local self-government in Chilton County. We are proud of you and glad that you are willing to stand for the right thing. We also endorse the letter of Judge Reynolds to Mr. Atkinson. And I also like the reply of Mr. Mullins to Mr. Gerald.

We endorse Mr. Pitts, our representative in the legislature because he is willing to do the right thing and stand by his promises to the people.

We are not willing to turn Chilton County over to a few defeated candidates who go around abusing, criticizing, and cussing the officers whom we have elected. I have heard some folks in Clanton cussing, abusing and critizing Judge Reynolds and telling things on him which are not true.

We have a good set of officers in Chilton, and I say let's stand by them. I am proud of all the Democrats who went to Montgomery to help us keep our government from being destroyed by the enemies of good government. If some of the defeated candidates would do like Pickens, Curry and Adams, Chilton County would be better off.—A. B. Manning, Thorsby, Route 1.

CLANTON CIRCUIT OF METHODIST PROTESTANT CHURCH

Every paper we pick up we find it has printed in it some crime or other which makes us feel sad. So come on people and let's do all we can to stop so much of these happenings and do more for "Gods Kingdom." Lets send to the papers to be printed more of the good things that has been done. Someone said Archers Chapel M. P. church was dead, but that was a mistake for we had one of the best revivals up there last week I ever attended. They haven't had any services up there for quite a while until this year. Our revival began Second Sunday in July. Rev. J. S. Johnson of Wilsonville came to assist us us in the meeting. We had a large crowd to begin with. Bro. Johnson was at his best and preached an inspiring sermon every time. The crowd and interest increased daily. On Wednesday we had a great day, "Home coming day" together with a "Floral Service." Bro. Johnson preached a very forcible sermon. Special songs and talks were rendered after which dinner was spread, and it was a dinner indeed. We reassmbled back in the church at two o'clock for a childrens service which was a sweet service. To hear those 60 children get up and recite and tell Bible stories made everyone present to rejoice. We find those children ready to do anything. It seems they were willing to volunteer for Jesus. The meeting continued on until Friday at noon. We had to close in order that we might meet our other appointments. There were twelve accesions to the church, and one child dedicated to God. Surely we can say this was an old time revival. Everyone were rejoicing that the old church had been revived. Pray for us brethren.—J. R. Helms, pastor.

PAN-AM GASOLINE AND MOTOR OILS
TIRES AND TUBES

See how CLEAN it is!

LOOK into the crystal-clear bowl of the next Pan-Am pump you pass. Your own eyes will tell you that here is a gasoline free from dirt and sediment! And, even more important, the careful Pan-Am refining process removes impurities you cannot see: corrosives and carbon-forming elements.

This clean gasoline will keep your motor cleaner, because it forms less carbon. It will also give you a new thrill when you step on the accelerator, for the quick spurt or the long pull. And you'll find that your car goes more miles on every gallon, with Pan-Am in the tank.

. . . a TOUGHER OIL

It will also pay you to insist on the improved Pan-Am motor oil. This tougher oil retains its body in spite of engine heat and friction.

Thus it gives 100% lubrication value; effective protection for your motor. And it has the endurance to keep on the job mile after mile; long after ordinary oils are thinned to the danger point.

Both of these better motor products are sold by Pan-Am dealers everywhere. Look for the familiar cream-colored Pan-Am pump. It marks a reliable place to trade.

Whale of a Difference

The supervisor of a Western railroad received the following note from one of his track foremen:

"I am sending in the accident report on Casey's foot when he struck it with the spike maul. Now under 'Remarks,' do you want mine or do you want Casey's."

Jack—Must be getting monotonous to him by this time.

Conning Herself

A young girl came to the late Father Healey, of Dublin and confessed that she feared she had incurred the sin of vanity. "What makes you think that?" asked her father confessor.

"Because every morning when I look into the mirror I think how beautiful I am."

"Never fear, my girl," was the reassuring reply. "That isn't a sin; it's only a mistake."

Motor Cop (to professor of mathematics)—So you saw the accident, sir? What was the number of the car that knocked this man down?

THE END OF CLYDE REESE BACHELOR

The famous case of Clyde Resse Bachelor came to an end when he was electrocuted at Kilby Prison in Montgomery at an early hour last Friday Morning.

He paid the death penalty for the murder of his father-in-law, Judge Lamar Smith, at Wetumpka, last August.

Just before his death Bachelor wrote a message to Governor Graves, urging him to comute the sentence of the negro, Hays Leonard, to life imprisonment, stating to the Governor that the negro was not to blame for his part in the murder, but that he, Bachelor, was responsible for the negro doing what he did.

Seven hours after his death in the electric chair, Bachelor's body was buried in the Bachelor family cemetery near Wetumpka.

SINGING SCHOOLS GOING ON

It takes every finger on both hands to count up all the singing schools that are now going on within the radius of a few miles of Clanton. The Banner has counted up ten that we know of, and it is certain that there are some we have not heard of.

Singing is a mighty fine thing. It is good for the soul. It turns one's mind from earthly to heavenly things; therefore we can't encourage singing too much. The teachers who are instructing these singing schools are performing a sacred duty. Singing is a form of worship and should be carried on in a worshipful way—therefore, it should be taught in like manner.

After all these schools are over, it ought not to be a hard job to get a good singing class together most anywhere in the county.

RAILROAD OFFICE AT MAPLESVILLE RAIDED BY THIEVES

Last Sunday night the office of the Mobile & Ohio Railroad at Maplesville was broken into by burglars. The iron safe in the office was taken out, loaded on a railroad push cart and taken about a quarter of a mile down the track, where it was dumped over a hill.

Then the burglars went to the blacksmith shop of Mr. Lake Seals where they gathered up a lot of cold chisels, sledge hammers and other things with which they proceeded to tear the safe to pieces.

It is reported that they got about $13 in cash from the safe, and scattered other contents all over the ground.

A message from Montgomery Wednesday morning to Deputy culp at Clanton stated that two negroes, James Thomas and Sam Means, were in jail there, charged with committing the robery. The message also stated that the officers in Montgomery were in possession of mighty good evidence against the negroes. Deputy Culp went to Montgomery Wednesday and brought the negroes to jail in Clan-

National Affairs

We hear so much nowadays about the plight of the farmers that it is good to get news which can be recorded on the right side of the ledger. News of this kind is coming from Nebraska these days. A record breaking wheat crop is reported for this middle western state. It is said that the total amount of the yield of the fall and spring crops may reach 85,000,000 bushels. In some sections of the state the farmers report a probable yield of forty bushels to the acre.

The value of this great crop to the farmer is estimated at around a hundred million dollars. It is predicted that most of the crop will yield from $1.15 a bushel up and these figures with the big crop spell real prosperity to the farmers of Nebraska. Other crops in the tate are said to be good. Oats is about normal, sugar beets are good and the yield of hay is expected to be above normal. Here is some real news from Nebraska. Now whatstate will be the next to erport that things are looking up?

For Nebraska will not be alone. There is said to be a heavy yield of wheat in the northwest, and the western Iowa, Dakota, Colorado and Wyoming crops reports are reported to be quite encouraging. Of course in the corn belt it is a little too early to do any predicting. The crop was planted late but favorable weather in August and December will go a long way toward remedying this difficulty.

According to a correspondent of the Boston Transcript, Nebraska has another coming crop which will yield a big return some of these days, and this is a crop of lumber. In school we were taught that Nebraska was a prarie and farming section and not a lumber state. But things are improving from the forestry standpoint. For great pine forests are being developed in what is known as the sand hill country of Nebraska.

"The reforestation plans worked out more than thirty years ago by Dr. Charles E. Bessey of the University of Nebraska" so the Transcript runs, "and which have been followed now for more than twenty-five years were reported to be successful and to be covering the country once known as the Great American Desert with fine pines. Dr. Bessey has been dead more than ten years but his plans to make a great forest in Nebraska, known as probably the most treeless state in the Union, are being used successfully. The nursery officials expect to distribute next year to private ranchers in the sand hills 1,000,000 young pines to be transplanted on their ranches."

It is pointed out that when this work was commenced the sand hills were a waste and the homesteaders refused to settle on five million acres set apart for them because a homesteader couldn't make a living on 160 acres of this kind of land. So the idea of growing forests was determined upon and the work commenced. Some of the trees planted as pine cones twesty-five years ago are now thirty feet high and still growing. In twenty years more these will be big enough for saw logs and the whole ten million acres of sand land will be an evergreen forest.

When can we find either more constructive, more patriotic work than this? Dr. Bessey deserves undying fame in Nebraska and will doubtless get it. It is to be remembered also that Nebraska is not the only state with waste land and land which cannot be cultivated at a profit. In many other states timber can be grown cheaper and more quickly than in Nebraska. Why not help the farmer and assure the lumber future of the country by converting some of this poor land into forest reserves?

ALABAMA'S TIME AT HAND TO GET TEXTILE MILLS

"If Alabama wants new industries, especially textile industries now is the time to get them." This declaration was made at a recent meeting of the Montgomery Kiwanis club by W. H. Howard, of the West-Boylston Manufacturing Company, one of the largest textile concerns of the country, and one that is now constructing a big fabric mill in Montgomery. Continuing, Mr. Howard said:

"The textile industry of the East is undergoing a change. Many plants are breaking up and moving to a more favorable environment. You can get them if you will go after them.

"Taxation is running them out. It is a pitiful spectacle to see an old textile community in New England where the people have depended on such mills for a living for a hundred years, perhaps, now losing their chief means of support. Taxation is more largely responsible for the condition than anything else; I venture to suggest that Alabama's legislature would do well to go through the industrial areas of old New England and see for itself just what uneconomic taxation is doing to a great industrial section."

The industrial development of the South and particularly Alabama has been a subject on everybody's tongue the past half dozen years and during that time most impressive material developments have been recorded in this sate. The future holds out much greater rewards for Alabama in this respect than the past has delivered, if the predictions of men capable of sizing up the situation count for anything.—Opelika Daily News.

CONTRACT IS LET FOR HOPEWELL POWER PLANT

A contract calling for the expenditure of eight and a half million dollars has been awarded to Stone & Webster by the Allied Chemical Company for the construction of a gigantic power plant at Hopewell, according to information obtained from an authoritative source today.

The power plant is be erected in conection with the huge project for the manufacture of nitrates by the Atmospheric Nitrogen Corporation. Stone & Webster's contract is for the erection of the power plant only, as it is to be operated by the Atmospheric Nitrogen Corporation.

The contract has already been awarded for the machinery for the power plant and work of construction is to begin as soon as materials and labor can be assembled. The entire project, electric plant and nitrogen plant, is to be completed by December 31, 1929.

It is understood that aside from the power plant, the project will cost into the twenty millions of dollars. Some idea of the size of the plant was revealed by a statement made by Governor Byrd, that the president of the Allied Chemical Company told him that this project would be the largest nitrate plant in the world.—The Progress Index, Petersburg, Va.

BLEED THROUGH

ALABAMA'S Opportunity

"IF ALABAMA wants new industries, especially textile industries, now is the time to get them."

This striking statement was made at a recent meeting of the Montgomery Kiwanis Club by H. W. Howarth of Robert and Company, mill architects and engineers, who are supervising the construction of the $2,000,000 West Boylston tire fabric mill which recently moved to Montgomery from East Hampton, Mass. Mr. Howarth said:

Textile Industry Is Shifting

"The textile industry of the East is undergoing a change. Many plants are breaking up and moving to a more favorable environment. You can get them if you go after them.

"Taxation is running them out. It is pitiful to see an old textile community in New England where the people have depended on such mills for a living for a hundred years, perhaps now losing their chief means of support. Taxation is more largely responsible for this condition than anything else. I venture to suggest that Alabama's Legislature would do well to go through the idustrial areas of old New England and see for itself what uneconomical taxation is doing to a great industrial section."

"The industrial development of the South and particularly Alabama, has been a subject on everybody's tongue for the past half dozen years and during that time most impressive material developments have been recorded in this state. The future holds out much greater rewards for Alabama in this respect than the past has delivered, if the predictions of men capable of sizing up the situation count for anything."—The Opelika Daily News.

WEST CHILTON

This has been a dry year with us, but the refreshing seasons came last Saturday, reviving the withering crops and causing nature to take on life. Crop prospects over here are fairly good. An enormous yield of cotton is not expected, weevils are active. Corn looks some what flattering. Cane and potatoes are doing well. While vast numbers have gone from the farm, yet it seems no trouble for those remaining to feed and clothe the world and easily bring over production. Still we suspect multitudes are not getting their needs, even in times of over production. What a riddle. Last year cheap cotton was thrown on the market. But has cheap products of cotton been the normal results? Another riddle. But the older farmers will remain until removed by death or taxation, and who will take their places?

Some of our citizens attended the singing at Clanton last Sunday. They report an interesting service in sacred song. Some fine and striking compositions were rendered, particularly one, "Eternal Day" by T. J. Jackson. The young lady directors did excellent work. Sacred music is truly a divine art, and much happiness comes to those who improve their opportunities along that line.

Traveling representative of the Alabama Power Company, also president of the Tallapoosa County singing convention. It was a treat to have him. Prof. Jones is a man of rare intelligence and fine personality. Such associations create verdant spots in memory like an Oasis in the desert of life.

take S. S. S. before each meal regularly — and you will soon have your appetite back.

So much depends on your appetite—your strength and vitality—your position—our happiness.

Remember, how it used to be when you could hardly wait for mealtime? And then, sit down and eat several helpings of everything—enjoy every morsel and get up from the table feeling satisfied with the World, happy with everybody and ready for anything.

But what a difference in living when even the sight and smell of food sickens you! Never hungry—no matter how tempting the food is—nothing tasting right. And then, after nibbling at a few bites, feeling worse than ever.

Oh, life is hardly worth living this way. And yet, all in the World the matter with you is that you are starving for rich, red blood. It is acknowledged everywhere that S.S.S. helps Nature build these healthy red-blood-cells by the millions!

All you need to do to get back that wonderful appetite is to build rich, red-blood-cells with S.S.S. It's simple. Just try it, like thousands are doing every day. See for yourself what S.S.S. will do.

S.S.S. means blood with a punch—brimful of new life and energy. Get your S.S.S. at any good druggist. The larger size is more economical.

A Quick Thinker

A clergyman was spending the afternoon in the village where he preached. After tea he was sitting in the garden with his hostess. Out rushed her little boy, holding a rat above her head.

"Don't be afraid, mother," he cried "he's dead. We beat him and bashed him and thumped him until"—catching sight of the clergyman, he added in a lower voice, "until the Lord called him home."

"Billy, that's no way to ask," replied his employer. "Here, you sit in this chair and I'll show you." Removing his hat, he walked up to Billy, making a deep bow.

"Mr. Smith," he asked, " may I go to the ball game?"

"Sure, Billy," answered Billy. "Here's fifty cents for a ticket."

RANGE BURNING LOSSES AMOUNT TO MILLIONS

Montgomery, July 18.—Citizens of Alabama have lost millions of dollars in damage to young timber, soil, pasturage and improvements through incendairy fires, says the Alabama Commission of Forestry. Most of such fires have been set by people who wish to use their neighbors land for stock grazing purposes and who mistakenly believes that burning the ground improves pasture conditions.

It is especially unfortunate that the portions of the state swept by these incendiary burings lie chiefly in those sections where under current conditions timber production is the most valuable use of the land. Over an extended period of years these lands if not invaded by fire can easily be made to produce from one to four dollars per acre per annum in timber values. Their value for pasturage purposes is only a few cents per acre, and this is lessened by the mistreatment inflicted by the incendiaries.

From its investigations, the Commision of Forestry regards it as extremly doubtful whether reforestation can successfully be carried out on the areas in the question as long as the occasion for incendiary burning continues to exist. Setting fire to other peoples land is a criminal offense, but is one that can be commited with slight probality of detection. The fencing of most forest lands, in order to render them unavailable for free pasturage purposes, has little effect, since the fires set by the incendairies destroy the fence.

Production of farm machinery in the United States in 1926 was valued at $461,399,528, an increase of 17.8 per cent over the 1925 output, the Commerce Department announced. Nearly $100,000,000 of this was sold abroad. The biggest gain was made by tractors, the value of which increased from $121,050,000 in 1925 to $145,912,000 in 1926. Farmers bought fewer cultivators, wagons, and buggies. The decline in buggy sales was marked, it being from 20,486 in 1925 to 8,854 in 1926.

PROSPERITY SEEN HINGING ON MORE TAXABLE PROPERTY

Alabama Power Surgeons Told There Lies Hope For Economic Health

Verbena, Ala., June 22—Alabama's hope for economic independence lies in the creation of inreased volumes of taxable property to provide funds with which to educate its youth, build good roads and support other state institution and public works, Dr. James S. Thomas, director of extension of the University of Alabama, told the eleventh annual meeting of the association of Alabama Power Company Surgeons at Mitchell Dam, near here, Wednesday.

"Taxation without something to tax is a deadening influence upon society, Dr. Thomas said, stressing his statement that the development of industry is the key to creation of new taxable wealth. Dr. Thomas showed that the 15 richest counties in Alabama are the industrial counties and that they contain 59 per cent of the assessed value property, produce 62 per cent of the county revenue and contain 42 per cent of children of school age. The fifteen poorest counties, he pointed out, are strictly agricultural, containing only 7.7 per cent of the assessed value of property, producing but 7.7 per cent of county revenue, and yet containing over 12 per cent of the children of school age. The same relative proportions between agricultural and industrial counties hold good throughout the South, North, West and average approximately the same for the United States, Dr. Thomas showed.

"There is no such thing as a rich agricultural state or county," Dr. Thomas said. "Diversification, beyond a farmer growing necessities up to his own needs is confined almost exclusively in this country to industrial areas and must be. The farmers problem is economic. Soil, climate, growing seasons, etc., are really of secondary importance in creating agricultural wealth. Markets, represented by nearby industrial payrolls are of primary importance. Agiculture in America is dependent almost entirely upon the industrial development for its prosperity.

"Four farmers are trying to eke out a living in Alabama supplying products for one urban dweller. Yet in the industrialized states such as Ohio, Illinois, New York, Massachusetts, etc., we find one farmer prospering off of two urban dwellers."

Concluding, Dr. Thomas said: "I am interested in this problem from the standpoint of education, to which I have given my attention for over 15 years. Its solution lies, in my opinion, in industrializing Alabama up to the limit of our ability, thus providing a market at home for our home products and creating a statewide prosperity which can produce the funds to educate our children, give us a modern highway system second to none, and support our state government."—Birmingham News.

THE ANTI SALOON LEAGUE

Westerville, O., July 18.—Liquor drinking by women and home brew making in the United States is rapidly falling off and soon promises to be a negligible factor, according to the headquarters here of the Anti Saloon League of America.

"After the Eighteenth Amendment and the Volstead Act went into effect, thousands of people began makin Home Brew and wines in their homes," said statement issued by Dr. F. Scott McBride, general superintendent of the Leaque.

The novelty of home manufacture was a long time wearing off, but like other fads and fancies, home brewing has grown stale and few of the people who made their own beer and wine a year or two ago are doing so now.

"The women got tired of their homes smelling like a brewery, of fussing with brew vats and of having their friends make wry faces when drinking the basement product. So much bad home brew resulted that the home brewing industry killed itself. Home brew drinkers got to the place where they were afraid to take another chance. The same conditions prevail with the making of home wines.

"Some homes continue the practice, mostly as a protest to the prohibition laws, but they are growing fewer every day because they can't stomach their own product. There is a growing lack of enthusiam.

"Women of the so-called society classes are the only ones in the country who are doing any considerable amount of drinking today, and in comparison their numbers are few. The average American housewife and working woman does not drink, and openly announces her thankfulness for prohibition."

CANE CREEK

The Jackson Chapel singing society. met here Sunday afternoon. Mr. Jackson our chairman being absent, Mr. R. E. Jones chairman of the Cane Creek society acted as chairman for the afternoon. The crowd was small but we had a good singing just the same. Directors for the afternoon were: Mr. R. E. Jones, W. L. Sanders, F. J. Little, E. C. Traywick. Misses, Sarah and Delene Lambert, Lillie Mae Weldon and Mr. Marvin Traywick, Fonza Thomas, Tom Frank Teel, Marvin Jackson. Organists were: Miss Delene Lambert and Lillie Mae Weldon. We have consolidated both societies to one and will just have one singing each month. So, we can go to other singings and give other singers a better chance to visit our singings. We will have singings every Third Sunday afternoon in each month instead of twice a month.

NEW RURAL RATE FOR ELECTRICITY IN ALABAMA SET

Power Company Encourages Farmers To Use Current Throughout State

A new rural rate for electricity in Alabama has been established by the Alabama Public Service Commission and has been accepted by the Alabama Power Company. The rate was recommended after several months study of rural conditions in the state and practices in other state. Believing it impractical to electrify all the farms in Alabama, the commission decires the new rate will render a larger general service with no excessive high rates.

The commission has been watching with interest the development of rural electrification in Alabama. Three years ago Alabama Polytechnic Institute, Alabama Power Company and the Alabama Farm Bureau joined forces to study the application of electricity to agriculture in this state. This cooperative work has been productive of most encouraging results, and convinces the commission that rural electrification is practical and should be encouraged in Alabama.

Some 71 experimental rural lines have been constructed by Alabama Power Company in 24 counties and each line has been approved by this commission on its merits. The past policy of the commission has been to permit the company to apply urban rates on such experimental lines, with special increased minimum charges.

THORSBY SECTION
(S. E. NORTON, Manager).

If anybody has an idea that Thorsby Institute is out of business during the summer vacation, they are not well informed. Miss Odie Lee Arthur has returned from her vacation and can be found at the office of the Helen Jenkins Hall, except when out of town on business connected with the school, from 9 to 12 a.m., except Saturday and Sunday. She remains on duty to attend to correspondence and to give information regarding school matters. On Wednesday of each week the library will be open from three to six P. M. Last year during vacation, 85 people took out upwards of 500 books. The services of the library are not restricted to patrons of the school or residents only. The trustees and the officers of Thorsby Institute, as well as it's faculty, desire that as many as possible of the people of Thorsby and vicinity should avail themselves of the privileges of the use of its library. Thorsby Institute aims to be an educational institution and knowing that the reading of good books is one means of obtaining information and education, Thorsby Institute earnestly desires to foster the reading habit among all the people of the community. There are no membership fees. Any person or family (white) who are known to members of the faculty, or vouched for by another who is, may borrow one book at a time for a period of two weeks simply by having the name of the book and borrower registered in a book kept for that purpose. Should the said book, or any book belonging to the library be kept for more than two weeks there will be a penalty of one cent per day of overtime the book is kept. Should a borrower of a book desire for some reason to keep it more than two weeks it must be returned to the library, when it may immediately be borrowed or the loan renewed for another two weeks. This rule applies to all books except text books and reference books needed by students in the school, also excepting such books as may be so popular as to be in great demand. Each borrower is expected to take good care of any library book they have in their possession. The feast is spread, you are invited. It is not the desire or intention that negroes of the community should be deprived of library facilities, and it is hoped that a movement, already started, to give our help to them to get a library of their own will be continued.

Because of lack of room to accommodate the people who come to the Baptist revival meetings, or to park their cars, the morning and evening meetings will hereafter be held in the public school building. Rev. Theo Harris, and Herbert Lowery to lead the singing constitute a forceful and interesting leadership. We are pleased to note that the metings are well attended. The Wednesday night and next Sunday morning and evening preaching at the congregational church will be omitted, to give members of the church and congregation an opportunity to attend these Baptist meetings.

Miss Ruth Jones, who is spending several days in the vicinity of Thorsby as a student worker from one of our southern colleges is conducting a summer Bible school for children of primary and intermediate age at the Congregational church from 2:30 to 3:30 P. M. all this week. This hour has been chosen so as to avoid interference with other meetings and it is hoped that parents will come with or send their children, at least enough to find out what such schools do for the children. All are welcome. Such "Day Bible Schools" are now held in many communities, and where once introduced become very popular.

When a man introduces publicly something new that is useful and artistic, we like to call attention to it. This time it is a new gate which S. M. Carlson has erected at the north side of his grounds. While not yet complete, it is well worth seeing.

BILL TO ESTABLISH STATE WIDE STOCK LAW IN ALA.

By David Holt

State wide stock law advocates must become active or the bill prepared by the legislative recess committee on agriculture will be defeated. This message has been sent throughout the state by members of the house and Senate who are in touch with the situation at Montgomery. They give the information that a strong and well paid lobby is busy at the capitol, creating the impression that an effective stock law is not desired by the rural residents of this state

Mobile and Baldwin county people will hold a mass meeting in the city of Mobile this week and will send delegations of citizens to the legislature to work for the passage of a year around stock law with penalties sufficient to make it effective, and advocates of such a law in other counties are urged to make similiar steps and get their message to their respective representatives in the House and Senate.

Chairman R. J. Goode, of the recess committe on agriculture, states that the sentiment of the state is overwhelmingly in favor of the general policy of abolishing the open range and that the greater portion of the state, by far, is now operating under local or county stock laws. The bill recommended by this committee had not been given its first reading in the legislature when this was written, though it is said to be ready for introduction; which was deferred until the general revenue bill should be out of the way.

Farmers' organizations, civic clubs and like progressive bodies have been requested by Chairman Allen of the House committee on Agriculture, to adopt resolutions favorable to the stock law and send copies to their legislative representatives at Montgomery, in an effort to check the advance influence of a large paid lobby that is working against the measure.

While pressure is being brought to bear upon the standing committee on agriculture to propose amendments that will permit counties or communities to determine whether or not stock will be permitted to run at large therein during three months of the year, the disposition of many of th advocates of the law is to let it stand as written, effective all the year around, in order that the growing of cover crops, orchards and other enterprises injured by stock, may be encouraged. They also contend that the improvement of cattle, sheep and other domestic animals included in the act, can not be accomplished under open range conditions.

THE MECCA OF AMERICA

Birmingham, Ala., July 13th.—A nation wide campaign to raise $500,000 to start the building of "The Mecca of America", Alabama's national home for dependent children, was initiated today according to a statement of Fred W. Rapp, acting President and Business Manager. "The Mecca" will mean much for Alabama and the South", said Mr. Rapp, " the idea is spreading rapidly. When we know that out of 400,000 dependent children in this country, only 130,000 are being cared for by the forty-two states that provide any aid at all, the need of such a home is very evident."

The new director of propagation of the order (Knights of the American Mecca) which is sponsoring the home is Dr. J. H. Hawkins of Newport News, Va., who was formerly district supervisor of the Loyal Order of Moose. The director af the Women's division (the ladies of the American Mecca) is Mrs. Mary I. Goodwin of Gulfport, Miss., who began her offical connection this week. Mr. Goodwin is known throughout the South as such an organizer of women's clubs, chiefly units of the U. D. C. Lodges of the new order are bing rapidly organized in many communities in Alabama, and also in Georgia, Pennsylvania and other Eastern states.

Milk is supplied children during the morning session of school in 42 cities and 54 villages in New York. The purpose is three-fold: To build up under-nourished children, to suppiement the breakfast of children who have little appetite for the early home meal and to teach children to drink milk. The service is paid for by about 75 per cent of the children.

Crops Good in West Chilton But Weevils Galore

"The crops in my section of the county are good, but you can bet your boots we've got the boll weevils out there. We have had plenty of rain—in fact, a little too much for cotton."

The above are the words of a prominent citizen from Shoults, Mr. H. S. Sewell, who called at The Banner office Saturday afternoon. Mr. Sewell was here with Prof. Sam Dunlap in the interest of the school at Shoults. He said that they were planning to build a big new school building out there, but that plans would not be executed in time for this winter's school. It is hoped to be built in time for use next year.

Mr. Sewell gave us some right interesting dope on his boll weevils. His narrative follows: "The other day I sat down beside a stalk of cotton and saw a boll weevil crawling around and knew that he had started some where. Soon I saw him enter a square. He stayed hidden in the square about half a minute and came out. I watched him and he went into another square and came out as before. I pinched off the squares he had entered until I had pinched off half a dozen. I took these squares and put them in a fruit jar. In just nine days to the hour each one of these squares had hatched full grown boll weevils and they were ready to fly."

From the above report one can readily see how fast boll weevils multiply, and with thousands of weevils working in a field of cotton they can make way with tens of thousands of squares.

Mr. Sewell stated that he was using calcium arsenate to keep down the weevils. Of course, his cotton being early, he is not dusting so much to save the squares but to save the developed bolls. He stated that weevils cannot puncture grown bolls as they are too tough, but just as soon as the bolls crack weevils inject their sperm into the cracks, and in the course of a day or two the partially opened bolls are mushy rotten.

According to his statement, Mr. Sewell planted his cotton early, therefore is not being hurt by the weevils as much as some who planted later. He said that he now had open bolls right along, and that if the sun continues warm for a while that in three weeks he would very likely have out a bale of cotton.

We are indeed pleased to have Mr. Sewell call around and talk with us. He stated that he wanted his community to have some representation in The Union-Banner and that he would try and have someone send us in the items from out there once in a while.

LIQUOR FOUND ON PREMISES OF EMMETT THOMAS

THREE BOYS CAUGHT MAKING WHISKEY TUESDAY

Napoleon Ray, Frank Cook, and David Davis were caught Tuesday operating a wild cat still on Chandler Mountain west of the Joe Littleton place above Cane Creek. The officers who conducted the raid and made the arrests were: Sheriff Collins and Deputy Murrah and Federal officer Gillespie. The officers report that the still was in full operation and was being attended by the three boys. Davis is said to have had a 38 pistol buckled around his waist. Ray stood his ground when the officers flushed the outfit and surrendered to Sheriff Collins without resistance. Cook and Davis ran, one of them was caught by Deputy Murrah and the other was caught by Gillespie.

The boys were brought to jail. In preliminary trial Tuesday afternoon before Judge Wilson they were bound over to the Grand jury under bonds of $500 each. Bonds were made and the boys released from jail late Tuesday evening.

FINE DISPLAY OF PLUMBING AT CLANTON BUILDING SUPPLY CO.

Mr. Dewey Rockett of the Clanton Building Supply Co., has fixed up in his building on Sixth Street a very unique as well as attractive display of plumbing material, which he will handle in connection with his other building material.

Just behind the big glass front of the building Mr. Rockett has built a display bath room in which he has installed all of the fixtures that one might wish for in a real bath room in their home. The arrangement is something different from the ordinary show window, and it presents an appearance that is good to look at.

The famous plumber, Mr. W. L. Rogers, will be connected with the plumbing department of the concern. Mr. Rogers is well known in Clanton, and knows his onions when it comes to fitting pipes, etc.

Besides plumbing goods, Mr. Rockett has in his store, brick, lime cement, shingles, windows, doors, nails, etc. He intends to keep a supply of these materials on hand all of the time, and will continue to add other things along this line to his supply from time to time.

Resolutions By Republican Executive Committee of the County

An Address To The Republicans of Chilton County Concerning Some Matters of the Present Political Situation

The Republican Executive Committee of Chilton County held a meeting at the courthouse on July 16, 1927, at which the following resolutions were authorized and ordered published. The resolutions commend Hon. Percy M. Pitts, our representative in the legislature, for his opposition to the bill to abolish our commissioners court; also express thanks to all citizens who manifested an interest in opposition to the bill.

A brief address to the Republicans of Chilton County was issued by the committee dealing with some important subjects touching the political situation in our county. Following is the address and resolutions of the committee:

To the Republican Voters of Chilton County:

The Republican Executive Committee of Chilton County at this time deems it proper and fitting to issue this brief address to you concerning some political matters which it might be well to consider; and also concerning some questions which we regard as non-partisan and which we believe should be avoided in the course of our political activities.

First, we would commend the Republicans of Chilton County for their independence of thought and action, which has ever been one of the most sacred principles of our party. Loyalty to the principles of the Republican party does not and should not tie the hands of anybody nor restrict your views upon matters not political.

The views and attitude of a Republican upon social, religious, and educational questions should not be made a test of political party affiliation; and the views of any Republican on such questions should not be made an issue in determining his fitness to hold office or sit in the councils of the Republican party. Men and women might honestly differ upon social, religious, or educational questions and at the same time exercise an equal right in matters of political party operations.

In this connection it seems not out of place to mention the recent campaign on the school tax question in Chilton County. It has come to the attention of this committee that some Republicans have said that they would see that no Republican who differed with their views on the school tax should be nominated for any office in the Republican primaries next year. We regard such attitude as an error and out of harmony with the principles of freedom which has always been vouchsafed to citizens by the Republican party.

This committee would recognize the school tax question as purely an educational question upon which no political party could rightfully command alignment of its adherents either for or against it as a political party test. Likewise we hold that no individual would be justified in an effort to place this question upon the responsibility of any political party.

We believe the matter of a person's attitude on the school question should not be made an issue if that person wants to run for office on any party ticket. We grant that every voter has the right to hold his or her individual opinions about the school tax, and to express such opinions by ballot or otherwise; and such opinions should not be made a test of that person's right to alignment with any political party. This view would hold in the same manner with reference to those who would run for political office.

This committee looks with disfavor upon any kind of action that would tend to make our schools a political question. At this time we would urge Republicans of Chilton County to lay aside whatever differences of opinion you might have had on the school question, and come together for the best interests of our county government in the future.

The record of the Republican party and the Republican officials in carrying on the business of Chilton County in the past is an open book. This committee believes that the party and the officials which the party has placed in office have discharged its trust to the people of this county with honor and with good results. We believe that the future of the county's business will be best taken care of in the hands of the Republican voters of this county; and in order to make this possible the Republicans of the county must not become divided over extraneous issues that have no place in our political party campaigns.

Commending Mr. Pitts

We, the Republican Executive Committee of Chilton County, Alabama, in executive session, hereby extend to Hon. Percy M. Pitts, Representative of Chilton County in the Legislature of Alabama, our commendation for his gallant and heroic fight for the cause of local self-government in Chilton County, which was manifested in his opposition to a bill in the legislature which had for its purpose the abolition of our court of county commissioners and the establishment in its stead a board of revenue. We believe that Mr. Pitts, in his opposition to this bill, represented the sentiments of all fair-minded and unprejudiced citizens of Chilton County, both Democrats and Republicans, and we believe that his protest of this bill was based upon a principle that represented the best future interests of the goverment and the people of Chilton County.

Thanks to Citizens

We, the Republican Executive Committee of Chilton County, in executive session, take advantage of the opportunity afforded us at this time by this resolution, to express our appreciation for the attitude assumed by a great number of the citizens of Chilton County, in opposing the passage in the Legislature of Alabama that certain local bill which was designed to abolish the court of county commissioners of Chilton County, and establish in its stead a county board of revenue.

We maintain that the forces which sought the enactment of this bill are and were sorely detrimental to the future interests of the people of the county; and we are glad that so many of our people were found ready to rise up and smite the enemies of good government in their efforts to tear down that which has been built up in Chilton County by the combined efforts of the good and loyal people of both Republican and Democratic parties.

We recognize the right of people to vote as their political convictions and sound reason and judgment dictates to them. We would not suffer that right molested under any circumstances. And we are also grateful to find that reason and common justice is accorded such a reverence in the minds of Chilton County's citizenship that when the welfare of our county is threatened as it was in this bill, a sufficient number of citizens of all parties are ready to rise up and put down prejudice with reason.

We believe that every person who manifested opposition to this bill was doing a good service to the people of Chilton County, and that the future will bear testimony to the same.

TRUCK TURNED OVER ON WESLEY STROUD TUESDAY

Mr. Wesley Stroud of Enterprise was carring a load of watermelons to Birmingham early Tuesday morning. About three miles north of Calera the truck somehow got off the pavement and went over a fill, turning completely over tmo times, reports say. When it finally stopped Mr. Stroud was under the machine, the engine still running. By squirming and twisting he managed to get out from under the truck, and came out with two or three broken ribs. Somebody picked him up and carried him home where he was given medical attention by a physician.

REUNION OF CONWAY FAMILY ON SUNDAY, AUGUST 14.

Mr. W. H. Conway, of Jemison, was a visitor to The Union-Banner office Monday, and extended the editor an invitation to attend the reunion of his family and the family of his wife which will be at his home in Jemison on Sunday, August 14. This will be the 50th anniversary of the wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Conway, and it is hoped that every member of their families will be present. They have many relatives, brothers and sisters, scattered over the State, all of whom are being invited to come.

Mr. I. C. Blackman reports that he has found an automobile tag. Anybody who knows of a lost one may refer the party who lost it to Mr. Blackman, who lives on the highway a short distance north of Clanton.

MRS. NANCY GILES DIED IN CLANTON SUNDAY MORNING

Mrs. Nancy Giles, better known as Aunt Nannie, wife of Uncle John Giles of Clanton, died at her home here Sunday morning about 8 o'clock. She would have been 78 years old within a few months. The good old lady had been in poor health for a long time, and has been expected to pass away most any time.

The remains were buried at Robinson Graveyard near Mineral Springs Monday afternoon, the funeral being preached by Rev. W. S. Cox. Martin, undertaker had charge of the body.

The deceased was the daughter of John and Nellie Robinson, both of whom have been dead for years. There is only one sister now surviving—Mrs. T. J. (Hattie) Dorminey of Union Grove. Several brothers and sisters have gone on before her. The last brother, who died several years ago, was Charley Robinson.

She is survived by her husband and two children, Lomer Giles of Birminigham and Mrs. Delima Brown, wife of George Brown of Bessemer.

Aunt Nannie was a good old Christian lady and had friends that could be counted by the hundreds. Bad health has for a number of years deprived her of going about much, but her many friends and relatives took great pleasure in dropping in often to see her and comfort her in her declining days.

GIRL BURNED TO DEATH

"Let those live who want to live; and let those die who want to die." These were the last words of Miss Gladys Hayes, 21-year old school teacher, whose home was in the Free Springs community of northwest Chilton.

After writing this message it presumed, from the evidences available, that the young lady wrapped herself in some quilts that the had saturated with kerosene, set fire to the same and suffered almost complete annihilation of her body. Her charred form was found about sunrise last Thursday morning after an all-night search of the countryside about the home of her father, Madison Hayes, with whom she lived. Both feet and hands were burned off, and her body was burned almost beyond recognition.

Sheriff Collins was called to the scene early Thursday morning. His investigations revealed that the young lady left her home some time Wednesday, saying she was going to visit a nearby neighbor. Instead, it was learned that she went to a store and bought a gallon of kerosene.

When she failed to return home at sundown her folks became uneasy and inquired about her at the home of the neighbor where she had said she was going. When they found that she had not been there, the whole neighborhood was aroused and a search began, which lasted all night and terminated in the finding of her burned body about sunrise Thursday.

It was in a little strip of woods about 300 yards from her home. Determination to die was seen in evidences of her actions in preparation for the terrible suicide.

Miss Hayes was well known in the neighborhood, and we understand that she has taught school for the past two years. Relatives and friends were baffled by the terror which was revealed to them in the manner and cause of the horrible death chosen by the young woman.

BILLINGSLEY-BETHSALEM BEAT CLANTON IN BASEBALL GAME

There will be a barbecue at the Bethsalem ball ground on Friday, August, 5th. There will be two ball games—one with Dogwood and probably one with Clanton. There will be plenty of refreshments and good things to eat. Proceeds go to the baseball club.

TIME FOR FARMERS TO ORDER VETCH SEED

In order to have the seed on hand when needed, orders are now being placed in the several counties of Alabama, usually with the county agent or county Farm Bureau, and then forwarded to the state Farm Bureau.

As at present we are without a county agent in Chilton County, and in order to assist the farmers in procuring vetch seed needed, arrangements have been made whereby orders may be placed with J. N. Dennis or with either bank at Clanton, by advancing two cents per pound and the balance paid upon delivery of the seed.

The seed will cost approximately 17 or 18 cents per pound delivered, and delivery is expected in September or early October.

Makes $50 Profit on Quarter Acre Potatoes

We have a bit of interesting and profitable news from a man in Clanton who raised a patch of Irish potatoes and placed them on the market in Clanton. The man was Mr. W. Z. Hodges, and he raised the potatoes on his farm a mile and a half southeast of Clanton. Mr. Hodges states that his patch consisted of a little less than a fourth of an acre, and he plowed them only two times. The variety of potatoes planted was the Burbank, which is very profilic and makes a very desirable potato for table use. The Burbank potato grows here nearer free from black streaks than most other varieties, and is easily kept.

Mr. Hodges says that he marketed all of his potatoes right here in Clanton, selling them at wholesale to the grocers, cafes, etc., in Clanton, at prevailing market prices. He got 4 cents a pound for some of them and 3 1-2 cents for some of them. The total amount realized from the potato patch was $65.00, and Mr. Hodges allows $15 to cover cost of seed potatoes, planting, cultivating and gathering, which he says will well cover these items. This leaves a clear profit of $50 on the quarter acre.

Our farmers should take note of this achievement of Mr. Hodges. Two hundred dollars profit on an acre of ground is good money, and it is no trouble to market Irish potatoes. If more are raised than can be sold in Clanton, there are always foreign markets for them, and the price is most always good.

We would like to see Chilton County farmers branch out on crops like this. There are other crops besides Irish potatoes that money may be made on; and it is the farmer who gives his time and thought to this kind of farming that is the most prosperous. He has plenty to eat at home and at almost all seasons of the year has something he can turn into cash.

DELEGATION OF TWENTY MEN VISITS MONTGOMERY FARMS

A delegation of twenty men got together Wednesday morning and set out for Montgomery County, where they were to look over the farms in that county. The crowd was headed by Mr. Jasper Dennis, John C. Page and Mr. Glenn Boyd. All of the other men were farmers from near Clanton.

The delegation was going to join the county farm demonstration agent of Montgomery County, who was going to show them the farms and explain various processes and methods of farming in Montgomery County.

We anticipate this trip to prove of considerable good to the farmers who avail themselves of the opportunity. There are soome excellent farms in Montgomery County, and most of the farmers down there do their work according to the latest improved methods. Our farmers will do better when they eventually adopt scientific methods of farming instead of going at it on the old hit or miss methods, which usually miss more times than they hit.

Don't Let Your Dollar Become A "Bo!"

THERE is a difference in dollars. There is the "tramp" dollar — the dollar that is spent away from home. Then there is the home dollar with its home circulation — home benefits, home profits.

Though both of these dollars are marked One Hundred Cents, the home dollar continues to multiply itself—at home—for here community interests are mutual. The success of this City contributes to the success of everybody in it. A prosperous city rests on individual prosperity.

Not so with the "Tramp" dollar—once spent it is gone forever.

The advantage to you of spending your dollar at home is greater than the tramp dollar can possibly buy—if it bought you one hundred cents' worth—which it cannot possibly do, because the other fellow must make a profit. There is a big truth in this worth your serious thought.

AMERICANS NOT ATTRACTED BY CANADIAN LIQUOR

Westerville, O., July 24.—American traffic into Canada shows an actual decrease instead of an increase since opening of Ontario's government liquor stores, from information collected by the Anti-Saloon League of America, and made public from the national headquarters of that organization here, today.

Canadians, several months before the inauguration of government control in Ontario, made arrangements for handling large numers of American tourists, the statement said. Real estate prices at Windsor across from Detroit, and at points across from Buffalo and Cleveland jumped skyward, and it is freely predicted that a larger fleet of boats would be required by the Detroit and Windsor Ferry Company to provide transportation for Americans who would be attracted by the wet policy of the Canadian government. According to officials of the Detroit and Windsor Ferry Company, statistics show that traffic has shown an actual falling off since Ontario's liquor law became effective.

"Several cities failed to notice any increase in passengers from the American side, that is traceable to any rush of customers to the Ontario liquor stores," said one of the executives of the ferry company, "and what is more we are not expecting any increase from this source."

"It is increasingly apparent," said the Anti-Saloon League statement "that the Ontario liquor experiment has not been unusually attractive to Americans. Figures also show that the Ontario experiment has made very little difference in the amount of illegal drinking and that speakeasies in Ontario are operating as usual in competition with the government liquor stores."

County Commissioner, J. L. Burnett, of Stanton was a visitor to Clanton Monday, attending to officiial business at the court house.

RANGE HOGS DESTROY YOUNG LONGLEAF PINE

Montgomery, Ala., July 24.—Hogs are fast exterminating longleaf pine over considerable areas, according to the investigation of the Alabama State Commission of Forestry. The longleaf pine is one of the most valuable timber trees in the world, says the Commission, and comprises one of the most important economic assets of the commonwealth.

The hogs are attracted by the fleshy tap root of the longleaf pine and destroy most of the seedlings and small saplings by rooting the plant from the ground in order to get at this choice part. Young trees that are too large to be readily uprooted are often girdled at the ground level by the animal's efforts and frequently felled. The depredations are inflicted chiefly upon young pines less than two inches thick, but frequently extend to saplings of from three to five inches in diameter.

It is not unusual to note areas of many acres upon which every living longleaf seedling and sapling has been uprooted and lies brown and dead. The longleaf pine seeds at infrequent intervals, varying from 3 to 7 years, and when the results of a seed crop are destroyed in this manner new seeding is problematical. If a second seed catch should occur, only again to be destroyed by hogs, reforestation by longleaf pine becomes so difficult that for practical purposes, the species in that locality may be regarded as well on its way toward complete extermination.

Mr. W. A. Glass of Oak Grove was a visitor to Clanton Monday. He reports plenty of boll weevils in the northern part of the county, but crops are generally good, he says.

Mr. and Mrs. W. F. DeShazo of Mulberry spent Monday in Clanton.

Will your skin bear close scrutiny?

Skilled physicians recognize the appearance of pimples, boils and other skin eruptions as being an indication of an abnormal condition of the system. This is why so many thousands have been enabled to free themselves of these unsightly blemishes and painful annoyances by taking a course of S.S.S.

You owe it to yourself to try S.S.S. It helps Nature build up red corpuscles. It improves the processes by which the blood is nourished.

"I suffered from impure blood—was weak, and I had lost so much weight, I didn't look natural. I had pimples and was also bothered with a breaking-out that itched terribly. I also had boils one after another. I tried different kinds of remedies, but nothing did me any good until a friend advised me to take S.S.S., which I did. This was some time ago. Now I feel well, and I am getting along fine. S.S.S. stopped the itching and it cured me of boils. I advise all weak and run-down people to give S.S.S. a trial. It clears up the skin and makes you strong and fills you with energy." Mrs. J. W. Barker, 1337 Walnut Street, Cincinnati, Ohio.

S.S.S. is made from the fresh roots of medicinal herbs and plants and is prepared in a scientific way in a modern laboratory. It is time-tried and reliable.

S.S.S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.

MORE CORN IN CHILTON COUNTY WOULD MEAN MORE CASH NOW

There is at present a market for all the corn that can possibly be spared by the farmers of Chilton County, and the price is regarded as good. Sound corn is worth $1.28 cents a bushel shelled and sacked. Damaged corn, that is, corn infected with weevils and worms, will bring 80 cents a bushel. This brings us to a very striking thought: Weevils are costing the farmers of Chilton County 48 cents a bushel on the corn sold. And it is likewise true that the same loss, or perhaps more, is represented in the weevil damaged corn that they consume.

We have heard of some farmers who believe that it is impossible or impractical to keep weevils from damaging their corn. This is a mistake. When we get a farm demonstrator here we believe he will be able to help our farmers avert the tremendous damage weevils are doing to corn.

Some people have said that Chilton County raises too much cotton. We doubt if that is altogether true. The main thing we see is the fact that we do not produce enough corn, and other crops which can be turned into cash. More corn in Chilton County would mean more cash now. Brokers are running over themselves right now to get good corn. If they can not get good corn, which is often the case in Alabama, then they will take the damaged grain, but at price much below the market.

There is many an acre of good land in Chilton County that could have been and ought to have been planted in corn last year. To have done so would make it possible now to bring thousands of dollars into the hands of our farmers for the products of those acres.

When we raise cotton we have but one chance to use it at a profit—that is to sell it. We can't eat it and we can't feed it to stock. If we fail to sell it at a profit, we have no other chance with cotton.

When we produce corn we have a commodity that may be disposed of or utilized to a profit in dozens of ways. We eat corn ourselves. We feed it to our stock, cattle, hogs, chickens, etc. And by the way there ought to be ten times as many cattle and hogs in Chilton County as there is. Aside from the various uses to which corn may be applied, we believe that on the average, corn will come nearer selling for a profit on the market all the time than will cotton.

After some inquiry among men in the brokerage business we have not found where a single bushel of corn has been shipped into Clanton this year. We do not know how it is in other places in the county; but our guess is that as a whole Chilton County is producing considerably more corn than is consumed in the county. This is encouraging.

We believe it would be well worth while for the farmers of Chilton County to look into the matter of producing more corn, together with the proper and effective means of keeping it sound and in condition to command the full market price. We believe good sound corn properly prepared for market can be relied upon as a safe cash crop.

JACK HAYES SENT TO WASHINGTON BASEBALL CLUB

Jack Hayes, idol of Clanton baseball fans, and Clanton's greatest contribution to the national pastime, has gone up to the big show on short order. He was signed up by Birmingham and immediately sent to the Washington club of the American league. Accompanying a picture of the Clanton youth in Sunday's paper, The Birmingham News said:

"The step from the campus to the big show is a rather hard one, but such is the case of Jack Hayes of the University of Alabama. Hayes who plays short, Saturday was signed by the Barons and sent to the Washington Americans without having any professional experience. He was a big star on the Alabama team, and much is expected of him."

Jack is the son of Dr. J. P. Hayes, of Clanton. He has played baseball all his life. His many friends throughout Chilton County and Alabama will follow his career with the highest interest. It has always been evident that Jack had some great baseball stuff in him, and his abiliity to go up to the big games has proven that the predictions of his friends was well founded.

BLEED THROUGH

FRIENDSHIP CHURCH

The revival at this place began last Thursday and closed Tuesday night. The preaching was done by Rev. Arthur Deloach, pastor of the Verbena Baptist Church, and all of his sermons were good ones. Large crowds were present to hear him at almost every service.

The singing society met Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Singing was opened by T. E. Wyatt; and S. V. Miller, G. C. Robinson, and T. G. Wyatt were appointed as program committee. The committee as turned in by them consisted of the following directors: R. M. Robinson, J. R. Robinson, O. L. Devaughn, E. L. Powell, S. V. Miller, J. W. Cagle, O. R. Robinson, Rube Miller, Jesse Baker, Dovard Cleckler, John Cleckler, M. Lockhart, Dalson Bice, T. L. Robinson and R. Robinson. Rev. Deloach was on the program to direct, but he filled his time in making a short talk, which everyone enjoyed. The closing song was sung by R. Robinson, preceded by a few remarks by this good old Christian gentleman. Organists for the afternoon were: C. H. Robinson and Mrs. Jesse Baker.

The singing was as fine as could be asked for. Everybody had the spirit and the desire to put all they had in the singing. A splendid class was there and they were in exact trim for giving the service all they had. The committee was not able to use all of the directors present on account of lack of time; but those not used were just as welcome as those who were, and all are asked to come back as often as possible.

Urges Passage Of Amendment For School Bond Issue

Unified Program, He Says, Is State's Greatest Forward Step

Realization of the unified education bill and the passage and ratification of the proposed constitutional amendment for public school buildings will be the greatest forward step educationally ever taken by the state of Alabama, in the opinion of Dr. R. E. Tidwell, superintendent of education, who has addressed a circular letter to all school officials of the state in the interest of the amendment, which has already had its first reading in the house of representatives.

The amendment for public school buildings proposes to authorize the issuance of twenty million dollars worth of bonds, of which two hundred thousand dollars will be allocated to each county in the state, the remainder to be used for the erection of necessary buildings and improvements for the institutions of higher learning, including normal schools. If submitted and ratified, it will make possible immediately the expenditure of some 25 to 30 million dollars for public school buildings, Superintendent said.

"The use of the proposed building appropriations provided for in the unified educational bill to take the place of the one mill of the general state tax obviates the necessity for increase in taxation over that already provided for under the general revenue bill," he pointed out.

Continuing, Dr. Tidwell stated that the unified program, gusranteeing a seven month's free school, and substantially increasing every phase of educational endeavor is practically assured.

The bill proposes an election upon the amendment to be held on the second Tuesday in January of 1928. The result of such election will be made known by a proclamation of the governor.

VOTERS MAY REGISTER AT COURTHOUSE NOW

The attention of the people of Chilton County is called to the fact that the county board of registrars is in session at the courthouse now from July 20 to July 30. It is an opportunity for all who are eligible to register and become qualified voters.

There are many people in Chilton County who ought to take advantage of this opportunity and place themselves on the list of qualified voters. The registrars have been called into session at this time because it is a season of the year when folks are not so busy at work, and they can easily take the time to come to the courthouse and get their registration business fixed up.

Next year is to be a political year. Candidates for county state and national offices will be in the field, and it is the duty of every person to be prepared to vote and take part in the election of the public officers.

Summer is a good season for terracing idle fields.

Men And Appliances Guard Your Safety

From the time you board an L. & N. train, till you arrive at your destination, you are safer than you would be on the streets of American cities—so carefully does this, and other great railroad systems, guard the safety of passengers, by the use not only of highly-trained and trustworthy men, but by the newest and most efficient of safety signals, of crossing gates and of various other safety appliances and devices.

In 1926 the L. & N. handled over 9,722,088 passengers an average distance of about 68 miles without a single fatality, and with only 34 persons injured in train accidents. In fact, as convincing evidence of the L. & N.'s remarkable safety record, there has not been a passenger killed in a train accident in the past seven years—notwithstanding the fact that this Railroad has handled over 89,000,000 passengers an average distance of about fifty-six miles.

The supply is slightly under the demand in the North Atlantic and South Atlantic States, but elsewhere in the United States it seems to be plentiful. CHEVROLET MOTOR COMPANY SENDS CAR ON TOUR

Bound on a circle tour of all the National Parks of the West, a Chevrolet Imperial landau recently left Los Angeles, under the direction of the Chevrolet Motor Company, to explore the scenic wonderlands, secure pictures of the countless spots of surpassing interest and report on the general conditions of the highways leading to them.

Recognized the country over as a region of unrivaled charm and beauty, the western national parks are drawing a record number of tourists this year. Although the south, east and middle west, in fact all America, is represented by vacationists who are taking advantage of fine ribbons of concrete to explore the wonder theatre of nature, the average American motorist has yet to visit the section. And it is in the interests of those who have yet to enjoy this sustained treat as well as those who have made the trips that the Chevrolet National Parks car is on its way.

Authorities in charge of the National Parks system are in hearty accord with the action of the Chevrolet Motor Company. The car carries a letter from A. M. Demaray, acting director of the National Parks Service, commending the automobile and its crew and introducing them to the superintendents in the west.

Educational authorities, too, have interested themselves in the move of the Chevrolet Motor Company to give more publicity to the recreational features of our national parks. Harold Stonier, vice president of the University of Southern California, acting as official starter, congratulated the pilot, W. S. Wood, and waved success to the party as the Chevrolet swept across the campus of the famous California institution, headed for Zion National park in Southwestern Utah.

The National Parks Chevrolet will then proceed to the North rim of the Grand Canyon, visiting enroute the newest national monument at Pipe Springs. From the North rim and the great Kaibab forest, where winter snowdrifts are still lying in the sheltered canyons, the Chevrolet will visit Bryce Canyon and from there double back to Cedar Breaks, and thence to Salt Lake City.

From Salt Lake the car will head east for Rocky Mountain National Park, near Denver, and go from there to Mesa Verda, where the most remarkable cliff dwellings to be found in the west are preserved under the supervision of the government.

From Mesa Verde the car will proceed to Yellowstone and thence to Glacier National Park, far upward toward the Canadian line. West from there the Chevrolet will head for Ranier National Park. Homeward bound once more down the Pacific coast, Crater lake, Lassen, Yosemite, General Grant and Sequoia will complete the list of parks on the long trail ahead of the Chevrolet.

The car carries nothing more in the way of special equipment than a set of chains, which very likely will not be used once on the entire journey.

FARM WOMEN WILL MEET AT AUBURN

Program Arranged for Farmers' Week Exercises August 1-6

Auburn, Ala., July 25,— The annual convention of Alabama farm women will be held in Auburn during farmers' week, August 1-6. A special program for it has been prepared by supervisors and specialists in home demonstration work.

It will be the annual convention of the State Council of Home Demonstration Clubs, to which all farm women have been invited. The county councils will send official representatives. The first session of the convention will be held the afternoon of August 1, at which time the women will be welcomed to Auburn by Dr. Spright Dowell, president. Mrs. J. S. Morris, of Alpine, president, State Council of Home Demonstration Club Women, will deliver the response, and will preside over general sessions.

Mrs. C. R. Bricken, of Montgomery, state chairman of home demonstration work of the Federated Women's Clubs, will bring greetings from this organization; and Farm Bureau greetings will be brought by Edward A. O'Neal, president, State Farm Bureau.

Others scheduled to address the women during their five days in Auburn are Prof. L. N. Duncan, director Extension Service; Miss Mary Mims, of Louisiana; Mrs. Ole Powell Malcolm, Washington; and others whose names have not been announced.

August 2, the second day, will be given over to a business meeting of the State Council, including the election of officers. A state clothing contest will take place during the afternoons of the first and second days with Miss Gladys McCain in charge. Following this a state nutrition contest will be conducted with Miss Certie Reynolds in charge.

One session will be given over to a discussion of curb markets, which have become very popular in Alabama during the last year.

Although hog prices are lower and still further declines are expected this year and next this is no reason for farmers going entirely out of the hog business. It is better to stay in the game in order to be deady when higher prices return which they are sure to do.

It is not too early to lay in a supply of wood for fuel for next winter.

IMPROVING THE DAIRY HERD THROUGH COOPERATIVE BULL ASSOCIATIONS

Every dairy herd needs a high-class bull at its head if the herd is to be improved, says the United States Department of Agriculture. For the dairyman who has a small herd and is short on finances, the cheapest and best way to obtain the use of first-class purebred bulls is through the work of a cooperative dairy-bull associatiion.

A bull association is a farmers' organization whose chief purpose is the breeding of better dairy cows through joint ownership, use and systematic exchange of preponent dairy bulls of high-producing ancestry. Improvement of the herd that may be expected through membership in such an organization is discussed in Farmers' Bulletin 1532-F, "Dairy Herd Improvement Through Cooperative Bull Associations," just issued by the Bureau of Dairy Industry, United States Department of Agriculture.

Through the system of transferring bulls from block to block, the bull association makes it possible to keep the desirable bulls as long as they live or are fit for service. This enables a bull's daughters to come in milk and be tested while he is still owned by the association, and furnishes a means of determining which bulls are siring the high producing daughters. The bulls that do not get satisfactory daughters are disposed of.

A study of the records of the daughters of bull-association bulls showed an average yearly mature production of 8,071 pounds of milk and 342 pounds of butterfat. In milk production the daughters excelled the dams by 13.5 per cent and in butterfat production by 14.4 per cent. Some of the sires are very outstanding. One sire, for instance, was mated with cows having an average yearly butterfat production of 347 pounds, yet his seven daughters from these cows excelled their dams by 57 per cent in production and 44 per cent in production of butterfat.

Much progress has been made by selecting bulls on the records of their dams and granddams. The most rapid progress can not come until dairy sires are selected on the production records of their daughters.

Adventist Camp Meeting At Tip Mullins Grove

The curiosity of the Union-Banner reporter has been excited all the past week, by seeing truck load after truck load of tents, beds, matresses, and kitchen equipment being carried by our office. On following one of these trucks to the western part of town, we were surprised to find a beautiful camp being arranged on the Wilson property, between Ninth and Tenth Streets.

We found nearly 50 tents pitched, consisting of a large Gospel tent, in which the preaching services were held, a smaller pavilion tent for the young people's meetings, also a kindergarten tent for the little children, as Elder Russell, the president of the Alabama Conference of Seventh-Day Adventists tells us that the Seventh - Day Adventists believe in taking care of the lambs of the flock. We also noted a commodious dining room tent nicely screened, in which meals will be served on the cafeteria plan, as well as what Elder Russell called a "book tent," in which is being arranged an excellent display of Bibles covering an entire counter of more than 15 feet in length. Besides this, there will be shown the principal publications of the Seventh-Day Adventists, who believe thoroughly in using the printing press. We were told that if one were to purchase a single copy of each of the publications put out by this people, it would cost nearly $1,500.00.

In walking on through the camp, we found that those who are planning to come to the meeting will be cared for in family tents, nicely arranged in streets, and fitted up with comfortable beds, chairs, and clean shaving floors. There are more than 40 of these tents already pitched, and Elder Russell states it will probably be necessary to put up a number more. Besides this, a large 10-room house on the property will be used for the overflow which is expected.

We learned that the work of the Seventh-Day Adventists in the United States is divided in to Conferences, following quite closely state lines, and that this campmeeting is only one of some 50 which are held in the United States and Canada, the territory of the Alabama Conference being the State of Alabama and the northwest part of Florida. These meetings are held each year, and are well attended by the members of this faith, as well as by many visitors.

The first session will begin Thursday evening, August 4, and the meeting will continue for 10 days. Campers on the ground will follow a well-arranged program, rising at 5:30 in the morning, attending a devotional meeting at 6 o'clock, after which breakfast will be served in the dining tent. Then at 8:15, quiet hour is observed throughout the camp, the families meeting their tents for family worship. Two morning services follow this, one of which will be devoted to the business of the Conference, at which time reports will be given by the president, and the secretaries of the different departments, showing the progress of the work during the past years, while the other morning service will be devoted to a Bible study. The afternoon will be occupied by preaching service and young people's meeting, as well as a meeting for the parents, in which study will be given to the problems which especially confront fathers and mothers of the young people. At 7:30 in the evening a song service will begin, and at 8 o'clock the preaching service will be conducted by leaders of the denomination. Elder Russell asked us to extend to the people of Clanton and vicinity a hearty welcome to attend any or all of the services held, the night service being especially arranged for the benefit of the friends from the city and surrounding country.

We noticed that the grounds were nicely wired for electric lights, and that there is a connection in the back of the big tent. It was explained that this was for the use of the stereoptican machine, which will be used at times for the evening serivce to illustrate the lectures. Among the speakers from away will be, Elders L. E. Froom, and H. T. Elliott from Washington, D. C. Elder Froom was for a number of years a leader in the mission work of the Seventh-day Adventists in China; while Elder Elliott takes a special interest in the work of the young people of the denomination. It is also expected that Elder J. J. Nethery, president of the Southern Union Conference of S. D. A., headquarters at Nashville, together with other workers from this point, will be present, and for at least a part of the time, Elder J. H. Behrens, whom many of our readers will remember as having conducted several of the interesting services held at camp meeting a year ago at this place, will be here again.

Organization Opposes State Wide Stock Law

Montgomery, Ala., August 1.—The legislature of Alabama will defeat the proposed state wide stock law bill if it reaches the floor of either the Senate and House because it is without merit and takes away the right of counties to govern their own internal affairs, according to a statement of the Alabama Committee Opposed to the Bill. The House committee on agriculture took no action on the bill after a lenghty meeting last Thursday night, and there are many solons who do not believe the measure will be reported out of committee.

The statement of the committee contains the following salient facts in regard to the proposed bill:

"One—The measure is without merit because it proposes to tell the stock counties, as well as all counties, how to handle problems that may be peculiar to those counties; the bill proposes to say that every acre of pasture in the state must be fenced and cattle kept in the inclosed areas. That in itself is sufficient reason for the defeat of the bill. Fair minded members of the legislature will not be willing to legislate any industry out of existance. That is exactly what will happen by the passage of the measure.

"Two—Alabama is now taking an important place in the list of livestock states. There are hundreds of poor men in Alabama who will be forced out of business if they have to fence their pastures; they are now facing the many handicaps that come to the beginner, handicaps which can only be removed by the passing of time. They, at least ask that the legislature of Alabama permit counties to determine such local matters for themselves."

The committee called attention to Baldwin and Mobile Counties where rapid strides are being made in the development of the livestock industry. Baldwin is one of the largest counties in Alabama. Development will be retarded in both Mobile and Baldwin by the passage of the bill, the committee stated.

PROHIBITION

Westerville, O., Aug. 2.—Whether organized drys should favor a national referendum on prohibition and whether they should ask the major political parties to endorse national prohibition will be debated at an important conference of officials of the Anti-Saloon League of America, to be held at Winona Lake, Indiana, August 15 and 16, according to an announcement from national headquarters of the League here.

The meeting will be held just prior to the conference of the World League against Alcoholism, which will be attended by delegates from many foreign lands. At the conference, 1928 presidental candidates will be discussed.

The attitude of the Anti-Saloon League has been that a national referendum on prohibition would be a waste of time and money inasmuch as it would not be binding upon the lawmakers, the announcement said. The wets have declared repeatedly that a national referendum would show public sentiment overwhelmingly in favor of repeal of national prohibition.

Despite the fact that such a national referendum would have no direct official bearing, some drys contend that it would show a big sentiment in favor of prohibition and would end for all time the contention of the wets. However, other League officials hold that the past policy of opposing a national referendum should be strictly adhered to because of the expense of a national referendum and because of the fact that such a referendum would do little toward solving the present wet and dry controversy. These drys hold that prohibition was voted by one of the biggest majorities on record in the United States, and that if that official action failed to settle the existing wet and dry controversy, an unofficial referendum could not be expected to. The action of the conference at Winona Lake is said to be problematical.

Considerable debate also is expected on a proposal to ask the major political parties to endorse prohibition by embodying strong planks in their platforms. Since its organization the policy of the Anti-Saloon League has been to base its campaigns upon the election of public officials and not upon platform planks.

Attending the Anti-Saloon League meeting will be all of the national officers of the League, including members of the executive committee and the national board of directors, together with League workers from every state.

WILL NICHOLS ARRESTED WITH BARREL OF BEER

Will Nichols of Sardis community was arrested last Sunday on a charge of violating the prohibition law when the officers found a barrel of bear in his smokehouse.

NEW BAKER SCHOOL IS BEING RUSHED TO FINISH

Prof. Walter E. Martin, principal of the Baker Junior High School, informs us that the work of erecting the new school building is being rapidly pushed to completion, and that everythng will be in readiness for opening on the date set by the county board for opening of schools of this class in the county. During this week the outside of the building will singh inif len taoi shrd etaoi taoi eta be finished and the roof put on, leaving the work of inside finishing to go forward as rapidly as the force of workmen can do it. It is thought probable that the whole job will be completed by the last of this month.

The work has been accomplished by the people of the communities which the school will serve, and the spirit which they have shown speaks very highly for their interest in having a good school. The districts of Baker, Samaria, and Highland and probably Pleasant Grove will be consolidated in this one school, and the pupils will be transported to and from school by means of two motor trucks.

When asked about teachers, Mr. Martin stated that the trustees of the school together with the county board have secured the services of a faculty of high class teachers of experience who come from recognized schools and of proven ability. It is expected that Baker School will at once take its place among the very best schools in the county. It will serve a combination of the best communities in the county, people who appreciate the value of a good school, and who have already shown that they are willing to put out the neccessary effort to have such a school. This, with the fine corps of teachers who will be associated with Mr. Martin, is sufficient guarantee that Baker School will soon come to be recognized among the best in the county.

CLARK MIMS IN WRECK AT SUNBERG'S STORE LAST TUESDAY

Mr. Clark Mims of Billinigsley, driving a Chevrolet car, was hit by a Cadillac driven by Oce Weldon, of Birmingham, at the highway crossing at Sunberg's Store this side of Thorsby, last Tuesday. Mr. Mims says he was crossing the highway when the Cadillac at high speed struck the rear end of his car before he could clear the road.

Mr. Mims says as he came to the crossing he brought his car to a stop and went into low gear to go across the pavement; but the Weldon car was approaching at such a high speed that he was unable to get across before being hit.

The Chevrolet was practically demolished, and Mr. Mims was knocked unconscious for several hours. The Cadillac was not damaged very much.

EXTRA LARGE PUMPKIN

Bob Connell, of Refuge, has brought to The Union-Banner office a very large pumpkin. He says he has several of them on his farm this year. Pumpkins used to be very common on the farm but they have gotten to be a rarity in late years. They are mighty good to eat in the winter time, and our farmers should grow more of them.

Clark Mims of Billingsley came in and saw Bob's pumpkin and said he had some on his farm twice as big as this one. Mr. Mims also expressed the opinion that the pumpkin brought in by Mr. Connel is not the variety suitable for this climate, which possibly explains the fact that this particular pumpkin is already ripe and beginning to rot. This is a pie pumpkin, said Mr. Mims. The kind to grow in this country is the old fashioned variety which does not mature until frost kills the vines, and does not get ripe enough to eat until late in the fall or winter.

Mr. Connell says he does not know how to take care of his pumpkins, this being the first year he ever raised any. Mr. Mims has had more experience, and he says that pumpkins should be hauled in out of the field when corn is gathered and should be packed in the crib with the corn. Then they should be taken out of the corn heap as they are used during the winter.

We offer these suggestions to anybody who may need advice about pumpkins. And if anybody else who has had experience with pumpkins feels that they can speak with authority, we would be glad to have them send in a communication on the subject.

UNCLE DOCK WELLS PREACHING NEAR MONTGOMERY

If I live I will be up home the last of next week and will preach at the County poor home the second Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clck. I am well and getting along all right; having a real good meeting. Many good wishes to the Banner.—A. C. Wells.

CLANTON WILL HAVE A GRAMMAR SCHOOL

[EDITORIAL]

We have heard it currently stated recently that Clanton will have no Grammar School this year. To our minds nothing could be more unthinkable or unbelievable. But at the same time we will readily admit that there is room for some questioning concerning the school. The matter has been neglected somewhere by somebody who ought to have been busy many weeks ago securing a Principal and a corps of teachers and otherwise making ready for opening and operation of the school. Such preparation has not been made, and we see no excuse for the delay other than that somebody has been asleep on the job.

Upon inquiring about this matter at the office of the county superintendent this week, we were promptly informed that Clanton will have a Grammar School this year; and the best school and the best teachers that the County Board of Education can secure at this late date. It was stated that the County Board realizes that the lateness of the day with a principal and teachers yet to be found and employed makes it practically impossible to assure the best school or as good a school as could have been had if the matter had been looked after earlier. But withal, the board intends to do its very best for the school.

We were informed that some months ago certain representations were made to the County Board through or by the Town Council, stating that the Town Council with the Town Trustees would make all arrangements for operating the school this year. For some unknown reason it seems that the Town Council has not made any arrangements for operating the school, and the matter reverts back into the hands of the County Board of Education with less than a month until school should start with no teachers employed, and nothing done in any way pertaining to the opening or operation of the school.

We are not presuming by these statements to lay undue blame upon anybody. It may be that the delay in looking after the school matters was unavoidable. Not knowing the full facts about the matter we would not assume to say.

Our purpose is merely to find some assurance which will offset the rumors that we are to have no Grammar School. This we believe is found in the statement from the office of the County Superintendent saying that the County Board of Educaton is taking hold of the situation as rapidly as possible, and will see that some arrangement is made to operate the school.

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE DOES NOT CHOOSE TO RUN AGAIN IN 1928

Rapid City, S. D., Aug. 2.—President Coolidge today issued the simple statement that "I do not choose to run for president in 1928," taking his close associates by complete surprise. This typewritten announcement was handed to newspaper men by Mr. Coolidge in his executive office at noon today and a faint smile lighted his face as he replied to the astounded group that there was no comment.

The fourth anniversary of his taking the oath of office upon the death of Warren G. Harding was selected by the president for making the announcement which tonight seemed to have lighted the fires of the 1928 campaign.

But as the wires buzzed throughout the remainder of the day with comment of democratic as well as republican political leaders throughout the nation, Mr. Coolidge retreated alone to the quietude of his favorite fishing hole near the state game lodge, where he is spending the summer.

The statement's wording seemed to have left some political leaders still speculating tonight whether Mr. Coolidge would be brought into the approaching campaign.

Significance was attached here to the comment of William M. Butler, personal political manager of Mr. Coolidge in the pre-convention campaign of 1924. He declared:

"I am not convinced he will not run if nominated." Mr. Butler, as chairman of the republican national committee, has retained his close personal contact with the president.

Mr. Coolidge will have served five years and seven months at the close of the four year term to which he was elected in 1924, having entered the White House in 1923 upon the death of President Harding. It was just four years ago that Mr. Coolidge was the central figure in an event of world-wide interest when he took the oath of office by light of an oil lamp in the Vermont home of his father.

There are few things within reason that Mr. Coolidge could have done which would have caused more complete surprise here than his brief announcement today. It is safe to say that no single person with him had the slightest inkling of what was going to happen.

JEMISON HIGH SCHOOL TO OPEN SEPTEMBER 5TH

Prof. J. A. Peterson, Principal of the Jemison High School, is at the University of Alabama, taking a special course of the study for the summer. A letter from him this week to the editor of the Union-Banner says:

"I shall be glad if you will announce the opening of the Jemison High School September fifth. We are expecting to surpass all former years in inrollment and in making it the most successful school year we have ever had. The faculty for the coming year is a follows: Peterson, Harvey and Montgomery, Mrs. Peterson, Mrs. Littlejohn, Miss Murphy, Miss Clements, Miss Gulley, Miss Haynes, and Miss Revel. The teacher of music is yet to be supplied."

Continuing, the letter of Mr. Peterson says: "It might be interesting to some of the people to know that three of our senior class of last year are in college this summer. The three are Curtys Bean, Olys Bean, and Elouise Thompson. Other members of the class are expecting to enter college this fall. We feel proud of the record these young people are making.

We are glad to publish the letter of Mr. Peterson, and at the same time we want to add a word of congratulations to the people of Jemison for the fine school which they are enjoying.

PROF O. L. DEVAUGHN TEACHING SINGING AT CONCORD

Beginning today, Thursday, Prof. Osce L. Devaughn is teaching a singing school at Concord schoolhouse, three miles east of Clanton. The school will run for 12 or 15 days. A three weeks school has just closed at this place taught by Prof. W. M. Devaughn. The present school will take up where the former left off, as well as start classes for beginners too. Prof. Osce Devaughn is a very fine singing teacher, and the students will be fortunate who avail themselves of the privilege of attending this school. He will be glad to have all enter the first of next week who can.

CLANTON MOTORS BUILDING GOING UP RAPIDLY

Intense activity among workmen at the new home of the Clanton Motor Car Company indicates that the building will be completed on schedule time. A sign on the site says it will be ready for occupancy by September 1. The brick walls and concrete floors are practically completed. The steel frame work is being assembled in place, and within another week we may expect to see the roof on. Then will come the plate-glass front windows and the inside finishing and painting in rapid succession.

It is going to be a fine building, surpassing any business building heretofore erected in Clanton. Its appearance will be imposing and will add much to the impression upon thousands of strangers who pass through our city by automobile every week.

Entry into this new building, which will be made about the same time it is expected that the new model Ford cars will come out, is going to put the Clanton Motor Car Company in position to command the serious attention of automobile users in this territory.

BENNIE COOPER LANDED IN JAIL SATURDAY NIGHT

Bennie Cooper, well-known negro boy, who runs the dray for Jones Hardware Company, got hold of a little too much jug juice Saturday night. Rented one of Latham Ellis's drive-it-yourself cars, Bennie started out through West End at a gay pace. The machine left the earth somewhere out toward Frog Level, and when it had turned over a few times and things had time to get a bit quiet, Bennie Woke up to the fact that he was no longer in the car, but in old '86.

When the case was brought up before Mayor Atkinson in the city court Monday morning, Bennie was given a fine of $80 and costs for a charge of violating the prohibition law. From now on we predict that Bennie will be a wiser if not better boy.

EUGENE WILSON, NEGRO KILLED BY AUTOMOBILE

Eugene Wilson, a well-known and highly respected negro, was fatally injuried last Saturday when struck by an automobile. He died in a hospital in Montgomery Sunday. Wilson lived near Verbena, where he was reared from childhood by the late Dr. H. W. Caffey.

It is reported that Wilson and another negro, Henry Pelham, had been to Clanton on a truck. Upon returning along the paved highway to Wilson's home, the truck was stopped. As wilson alighted he ran around the end of the truck in a hurry, intending to go in the house and get something for Pelham. As he passed from behind the truck and started across the pavement he was almost met by the automobile which struck him. The driver of the car could not see the negro, it is said, until his car had hit him.

The driver of the car, a traveling man from Auburn, stopped his machine and helped carry Wilson into his home, and offered everything he could do in the way of assistance to the injuried.

The body of Wilson was brought back to Verbena from Montgomery Sunday and was buried Monday.

SHERIFF COLLINS THANKS THE PEOULE OF CHILTON COUNTY

I wish to thank the people for the corporation they have given men in my work. Without your help I can't do very much. Yet there is some who do not help as they should. So if you are reported you may look for me. I'll be there. I receive letters without any name. This kind of information is bad. I never know whether it is to throw me off or on. I would thank you if you would sign your name.—Your friend, J. Dudley Collins.

POOR ORIGINAL BLEED THROUGH

TREES HELP TO MAKE EACH ACRE LAND PAY

For a farm to be most profitable every acre in it must produce the largest net returns. Each acre that falls below this mark reduces the total income for the farm.

The 1925 agricultural census for Chilton County shows that the land in the county is being used as follows:

Total land area (acres)	456,320
Acres owned by farmers	216,717
Acres crops harvested	79,532
Total acres pastured	51,603
Farm acres not harvested or pastured	85,582

On the whole, the land listed as producing cultivated crops is the most valuable. Pastured land probably ranks next, in value per acre. But that large acreage which is not producing cultivated crops or livestock should not be neglected. Some of it will be suited to cultivation when it is cleared, but very little of it will be put into cultivation. There will be larger yields on fewer acres.

Much land is now being cultivated at a loss and cannot be economically improved into a state of profitable cultivation. Such land should not be cultivated. The only crop which will pay on this land is trees. Authorities tell us that it will pay a net income of $2 to $6 per acre per year in trees at present prices.

In the past we have had more wood than was neccesary. Trees occupied good crop land and were in the way like rocks. They had to be removed. However, farmers are now realizing that trees are a profitable crop on soil not suited to or being used for more profitable purposes.

Trees in Alabama and the United States are now being cut about four times as fast as they are being grown. This means a gradual decrease in the supply and increase in the prices. The long growing season, high rainfall, and relatively fertile soils make tree growth in Alabama about as rapid as anywhere in the world. And our markets are good. There will never be an over-production of good timber trees. This offers an excellent opportunity for the farmers to use their poor soils.

Almost all returns from this operation are net profit, because we do not in most cases have to plant trees as they do in some other parts of the country. We still have an abundance of seed trees and nature does the planting for us.

But it is absolutely neccessary that fire be kept out. It has been proved many time that wood burning has practically no effect on the control of boll weevil or other pests. Instead of grazing it is harmful. It destroys the most valuable pasture grasses, leaving only the tougher. It burns up the natural soil fertility which the trees and gresses need, kills the young trees, and very materially injures and checks the growth of the older ones.

Fires in the farm woods may be prevented largely by the use of fire breaks and by being careful with fire while in the woods. Without fires our woods will produce valuable timber crops continuously. When the older trees reach maturity they should be protected. Trees which would develop into the least value in the woods should be removed and used for purposes for which they are best suited.

By all means protect your poor land from fire. Idle land is a liability Trees will make the poorest land pay.

MRS. RICHARD ROBINSON

Early on the morning of July 15, the death angel visited the home of Richard T. Robinson and took awny his wife, Mrs. Drusella J. Robinson.

She was 57 years of age and had been in failing health for about two months, having had a paralytic stroke about three weeks before her death.

Through all her suffering, she manifested great patience and fortitude, greeting all with a pleasant smile even after her power of speech was lost. She was perfectly submissive to God's will and was ready to go at his command.

She had lived a devoted Christian life since early childhood, having joined the Methodist Church when young and having joined the Baptist Church about seven years ago. She was a member of the Baptist Church at Union Grove at the time of her death.

Her remains were laid to rest at Rocky Mount Cemetery. Services were conducted by Revs. Lowery, Weston and Chandler. J. Mell Martin in charge.

She leaves to mourn her loss: her husband, R. T. Robinson and eight children: Mrs. C. F. Stephenson of Cordova, Mrs. W. C. Fair of Duncanville, Miss Grace Robinson of Clanton, Mrs. H. B. Mahan of Flomaton, and two younger girls and two boys at home and one brother, J. A. Green of Georgiana, besides a host of friends.

AN ENJOYABLE EVENT

Mr. J. O. Mize and Miss Etel Mize were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Deason Saturday Morning. The visitors with them were Mr. Charles and Lonnie Mize of Moffet, Ala., who came to visit their Aunt, Mrs. J. B. Deason. It was the first time they had been in Chilton County in four years, and since their fiirst visit the new highway has been built through the county and they think Chilton is is a place of admiration.

As it was three days meeting at New Harmony church, Mr. and Mrs. I. M. Deason and children attended the service. The children were Mr. A. M. Deason and family of Mulga, Ala., Mr. Plato Deason of Ensley, Ala., Mr. Robert Deason of Shelby Springs, and family of Thorsby, Mr. W. E. Deason and family of Selma, Ala., came to visit their father and mother of Pool Cross Roads. As they all came to New Harmony Sunday, and as they all met there they came home with Mr. J. B. Deason, who lives near New Salem. Mrs. J. B. Deason, and Mrs. J. W. Maddox their daughter prepared dinner for the 33 guests.

Mr. Andrew Sorrell and Mr. Ellie Shirley were the afternoon guests. Although Mr. Ellie Shirley helped convey the guests to the home of Mr. J. B. Deason after service. All spent an enjoyable day.

Mrs. J. W. Maddox had as her guest Monday Mr. Charles and Lonnie Mize.

Mr. Richard Collins, J. W. Maddox, Charles and Lonnie Mize motored to Clanton and Thorsby Monday afternoon. They motored to Maplesville Tuesday Morning. They were also plesant visitors to the home of Mr. J. O. Mize. Soon after the children return home they are to move to West Blocton, Ala.,—Written by Mrs. Charity Deason.

Child-birth

Here is a wonderful message to all expectant mothers!

When the Little One arrives, you can have that moment more free from suffering than you have perhaps imagined. An eminent physician, expert in this science, has shown the way. It was he who first produced the great remedy, "Mother's Friend." Mrs. C. J. Hartman, Scranton, Pa., says:

"With my first two children I had a doctor and a nurse and then they had to use instruments, but with my last two children I used 'Mother's Friend' and had only a nurse; we had no time to get a doctor because I wasn't very sick—only about ten or fifteen minutes." Use "Mother's Friend" as our mothers and grandmothers did. Don't wait, start today, and meanwhile write to Bradfield Regulator Co., BA 46, Atlanta, Ga., for a free illustrated book containing information every expectant mother should have. "Mother's Friend" is sold by all drug stores—everywhere.

MR. GRESHAM LOWERY

Lots of our readers will recognize the above as the likeness of Mr. Gresham Lowery, promising young man of Thorsby, son of Rev. W. P. Lowery, Gresham is singing for Rev. Wilkes in a revival at Verbena this week, and will have charge of the music for Rev. Wyatt at Jemison beginning next Sunday. Gresham sung at Liberty Hill and at Friendship durng the revivals at those places.

W. R. LOWERY'S VIEWS ON THE 1928 CAMPAIGN

Gentlemen:—

As I see it the 1928 campaign will differ from all the past. The people of our county are getting their eyes open and are seeing things different from the past.

I just want to call your attention to the petitions that were circulated over the county in circular form and through the county newspapers. That was a direct shot against the common people of this county. For our benefit we will have to keep in reserve these petitions so we can weed them out in 1928. We do not want to elect or re-elect anyone to office in this county whose name appears on these petitions.

Just look these petitions over and see who they are. They all have sat at the pie counter back to T. J. Hubbard's days thirty years ago.

I told Langston and Peterson on June 14 that I would ride my mule from one side of the county to the other to help defeat any candidate whose name is shown on that one-mill tax petition. We want some new men in office, men who are good and true, and men who are willing to be servants of the people and not bosses; men who will not petition against the interests of the common people.

I think this bunch has swallowed a bone and they will have to cough it up in 1928. They came out on the stump and said we had to do this and that and the other to share in the million dollar extension school fund. They told us of laws that would tie our hands if we did not vote for the one-mill tax; so far they have lied to us.

The one-mill tax was defeated and will be the next time. I have heard that we will have to vote on it again next year. If we do it would be better for our probate judge and county commissioners if they had never been born. I think it has gone far enough and the people are getting sore. Three times is a plenty to defeat any one thing.

I have heard some of the boys crying around saying they were misled into signing this petition; and that they did not sign it with the intention of raising more tax on the people. Some of these fellows are drawing the county's money now.

I say let us start our 1928 campaign with new officers and continue this until we have a new set in office. There are just as good men who have not had the chance to serve the people as there are in office. We don't want any more Royal Families. Let's give some others a chance. There are plenty of good competent men who would appreciate a seat at the pie counter just one time and will not ask for the second slice as most of them do.

So let's pass it along and see if we can't help conditions by putting in a new team. I say this because the old team got stubborn and balked. It has always been said they would strain at a gnat and swallow camel. This crowd strained at a one-mill tax and swallowed defeat forever.

Let everybody remember this and keep those old papers and petitiions handy for 1928. I will tell you the rest in 1928.—W. R. Lowery, Jemison, Ala., Route 2.

S.S.S. is unequalled for restoring strength

In these days of keen competition, the people who are run-down, quickly fall behind—while their healthy, vigorous rivals, who comply with laws of Nature and keep their blood supply rich and nourished, get ahead.

Good blood is health's foundation. When your blood is poor, you are dull, weak, slow, and pale—your brain cannot work effectively.

But you glow with health when your blood is rich and strong! You look vigorous! You fairly sparkle with winning magnetism!

Don't despair if others are forging ahead of you. S.S.S. will help you. It will bring back your appetite; will help Nature build up your red blood corpuscles. This is how S.S.S. improves the processes by which the body is nourished. S.S.S. is time-tried and reliable, and is unequalled for restoring strength and vitality. It is made from the roots of fresh herbs and plants, and is prepared in a scientific way in a modern laboratory.

S.S.S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.

Chilton Farmers Visit Montgomery County

Last Wednesday morning a large party of farmers and business men gathered in front of the two banks here in Clanton and at 7:00 o'clock the party left in motor cars for Montgomery.

The object of this trip was for the purpose of visiting some of the outstanding farms in Montgomery County. When the party reached Montgomery they were met by Mr. Edmundson, Montgomery County Farm Demonstration Agent who spent the entire day with the party. In the forenoon, the Young Farm, on the Selma highway, eight miles from Montgomery was visited. Here was found a farm in a high state of diversification. 100 head of cows are milked on this farm. Vetch and Soy beans were being extensively used as soil builders. The Young Farm was found to be complete in almost every way. From here the party went to the Farm of J. H. Hall and Son, where more ineresting things in the dairy line were seen. On this farm 16 pure bred cows are being milked on the register of merit plan. That is, they are milked three times a day and this is done under government supervision. Considerable breeding is on this farm also. The next farm visited was the Fisher Farm. Here dairing is the specialty. One thing of particular interest was the home made wooden silo. Melilotus, vetch soy beans and black medic is grown extensively on this farm.

The party returned to Montgomery for lunch and in the afternoon they visited the plant of the Southern Dairy. Mr. L. T. Wells, manager of the Montgomery branch of this great creamery project, showed the visitors through the plant. It was pointed out that the farmers in the central section of Alabama have been paid over $250,000.00 for whole milk by this plant during the past 12 months and that they predict this figure will run over half a million during the next 12 months. It was stated by Montgomery manager that their trucks run through Clanton everyday on their way to Birmingham with cream and milk.

After visiting the dairy plant, the party divided and part of them visited the Demonstration Farm of the International Harvester Co., which is located 9 miles from Montgomery, while the remainder of the party visited the State Farm at Kilby Prison.

At the I. H. C. Farm the party was met by Mr. G. R. Dester, manager of the farm and Mrs. Dester served the party delicious watermelons and canteloupes. Those who visited the Harvester Company's farm were strongly impressed with the efficient manner in which the farm is run and at the same time with the outstanding things that pointed to economy in its operation. It was pointed out that nothing was used on this farm but what was grown thereon and that the farm showed a profit of $394 for last month's operation. Chickens, cows and hogs are the only farm products produced on this farm. Everything that they eat is grown on this farm, therefore what is made is clear profit it was pointed out.

It is thought that this is a fine thing, that the farmers and business men of this county are beginning to wake up and arrange for these parties of people to visit other sections and see what is going on. The success of this trip is due in no small degree to the interest manifested by Mr. H. G. Boyd of the Peoples Savings Bank and Mr. J. C. Page of the First National Bank. Both of these progressive bank officials made the trip with the other business men and farmers. In addition to these two gentlemen, the party consisted of the following: O. H. McDowell, Arthur Maddox, W. I. Popwell, John Parrish, J. Watts Moore, Russell Parrish, Grady Taylor, Jimmy McDowell, Dr. W. L. Parrish, Lawton McDowell, Tommy Easterling, Gip Downs, Rudolph McDowell, H. Brewer Glenn, Sr., H. B. Glenn, Jr., Jett Wyatt, Gerald Hubbard, Sanford Devaughn, Glenn Sessions, Forrest Chancellor, J. N. Dennis, Hiram Devaughn and Osmond Grant.

The initial arrangements for the party was made by the Chilton County Co-Operative Association, and C. E. Marcus, secretary said that within a short time that a party would be organized to visit another section of the state in the interest of better agriculture. It is possible that the party will go to Birmingham, where they have an invitation from Dr. M. F. Jackson, director of the Marketing extension department of the Tennessee Coal, Iron and R. R. Co., to visit the markets of Birmingham for the purpose of learning how products should be prepared to meet demand of the Birmingham territory.

ADVERTISING

Advertising and not competion is now the life of trade, according to the advertising experts who met in Denver to attend the International Advertising Association convention. The delegates at this meeting heard a number of interesting things. Among these was the statement by Charles Stelzle, New York expert, to the effect that if churches do not advertise their "ware"—spiritual upbuilding and moral betterment for both the individual and humanity—they cannot hope to arouse interest among the masses and fulfill the obligations placed upon them as parties to the general spiritual movement.

Another speaker declared that "advertising brings about changes for the moral force we know of today. Advertising brings about chanves for the betterment of life itself, changes which fuse into the social and political life of the nation."

It is now generally admitted by economic forces everywhere that advertising is the most important development of modern business. And it is also coming to be realized that newspaper advertising is the best kind of paid publicity. In the convention just mentioned the delegates, who were advertising experts, agreed that newspaper advertising affords the best publicity medium for the churches and all church activities.

Advertising is no longer a theory. It is a science. And it pays.

WHY NOT STAND AND FIGHT?

There seems to have grown up in the country an impression that while there is nothing reprehensible in any expenditure of money or effort against legitimate property rights, any effort to combat such propaganda by those who may have both principle and property at stake in resisting such campaigns, whether carried on by doctrines or mere demagogues carries the taint of corruption, according to George B. Lockwood, writing editorally in the National Republic. This sentiment is akin to that which has grown up that while advocates of revolutionary violence should have the right under "free speech" to further such activity, it is reprehensible for the government which is the object of such attack, to repel by legal force the efforts of its assailants.

It is natural that those who are opposed to the institution of private property should seek intimidation to prevent the natural defenders of this institution from putting forth effort to offset the activities of social revolutionaries. It is suprising, however, that they have been able to create a popular physchology which tolerates, and even accepts, the doctrine that opponents of government ownership and other forms of state socialism should take their licking lying down."

In view of the conception thus created, it is not suprising to note that hundreds of organizations and publications exist for the purpose of attacking in one way and another, directly or indirectly the institution of private property and that a quick way to political popularity is in assailing business enterprises however useful. For while attacks upon property rights is active, adequate defense is lacking.

The general welfare of the people of the United States rises and falls with the welfare of the nation's productive enterprise, which is engaged in the creation of national wealth, and pays the taxes which provide the salaries of public men who often make such enterprise their target. Lengthening the public payrolls of the country will no more promote the prosperity of the nation than overloading the cars and disabling the engine will increase the speed of a train.

Traveling by Aeroplane may be perfectly safe but when it gets general it will at least give the boys who sell accident insurance another talking point.

National Affairs

The state and local tax burden is to be the next target of the farmers of the United States according to Senator Arthur Capper of Kansas, who generally knows whereof he speaks, and whose suggestions for farmers are usually of the constructive type. According to the Kansas Senator who dwelt on the subject in a recent statement, a grass roots movement is now being organized in the middle west which has for its purpose the relieving of some of the burden of tax which the farmer pays.

Certainly here is a movement in which we can all acquiesce. High taxes do not form the only trouble which the farmer has but they add materially to his cost of production and they ought to come down. Our industrial prosperity has brought high wages in the city and scarcity of help on the farm. There seems to be no immediate remedy for this difficulty, although improved farming machinery will doubtless solve this agricultural problem in time. But certainly something can be done to reduce taxes.

As Senator Capper points out, federal taxes have been reduced until the farm pays but little to the national government. It is the local tax which hits him. Federal taxes have been going down steadily for several years due to economy and efficiency in the national government. But at the same time in most states and most localities the local taxes have been going up so that the increase there has more than wiped out the benefit to the little fellow from lower federal taxes. During the last six years national taxes have been decreased and yet the national debt has been reduced nearly five billion dollars. But during the same period the debts of local and state government have increased nearly three billions. There is something wrong here.

Of course the great increase has been in the local units of government, and it is to be noted that these units are self governing. The demand has been for local public improvements for roads, for schools, and other public buildings. The people want these improvements and vote for them, or at least fail to remonstrate against them. And of course the bills have to be paid.

The farmer and the home owner in the city and town, in other words—those of us who have tangible property—have to pay most of the bill. The intangible property, unless it pays a very low rate compared to real estate, has a habit of eluding taxation altogether As real estate cannot be concealed or moved from the home community it has to bear the brunt of the burden.

All sorts of remedies have been proposed, among them state income taxes, excise taxes and special taxes on luxuries and non-essentials such as tobacco, and toilet goods. But it is to be remembered that one sure way to reduce the taxes is to quit spending so much money. So long as the money is raised and no avenues of taxation are opened expenditures will be increased and the tax burden will grow heavier rather than lighter.

It would seem therefore that it might be an excellent thing for the local officials to borrow an idea or two from the national government. Federal taxes have been reduced because the federal government quit spending so much money. Economy and efficiency have brought results. Of course we will still have to have new roads, new schools and new hospitals. But ways can be found to check expenditures without interefering with the public good. The federal government has done it and nobody is suffering because of it. The local governments ought at least make a try at it.

"A test revealed that a reduction of 43 per cent in fertilizer prices may be expected by the operaton of the nitrate plants at Muscle Shoals for fertilizer production," said Chester Gray in an address during Farmer's Week at Auburn.

DEMOCRACY AND WAR

They used to tell us that wars were caused by kings and emperors and that people went into them unwillingly; that the way to abolish war was to spread peace trough universal democracy. Yet in a recent address on the subject, "Democracy," H. G. Wells, the British author called attention to the fact that the age of Democracy has been the age af Nationalism.

"Never in the history of Mankind," said Mr. Wells, as quoted by the Manchester Guardian, "have national and racial antagonisms been so acute and conscious, so massive, powerful and dangerous as during the ascent of democracy, although that is inconsistent with the larger and completer democratic aspirations."

Here is an interesting admission by a socialist author of destinction, and it is one which will bear some thinking over.

The last war, we were told, was in the interest of universal democracy. It was to abolish war and set up a democratic super-government to end war for all time to come. And yet nothing like that has come to pass, and the military experts in Europe are now calmly talking about the date of the next European war and the way nations will line up.

Universal brotherhood has not come. Thrones have crumbled, it is true, but the people of the new democracies still hate each other with as bitter if not a more vigorous hatred than they did in the days of kings and emperors. Our own liberals point to Russia as the last word in "free government." And yet nowhere is there more war spirit and race consciousness than in internationalist, communist Russia.

It is true that democracy does not abolish nationalism or war. No king could have started a war by himself. He had to have his people with him and they generally were because they hated the other fellow.

IMMIGRATION PROPAGANDA

This is the day of propaganda. Perhaps it would be more accurate to say that this is still the day of propaganda for we have been having plenty of it since 1914 and perhaps before that date, although it was only then that we began to sit up and take notice and to wonder what it was all about.

We have had propaganda recently about cancelling the debts which Europe owes us. We have had subtle propaganda advocating universal brotherhood which has had for its real objects many things beside cancellation, such as American participation in the affairs of Europe, and even in the lowering of our American tariff. Then we have had the propaganda against American policy in the Philippines nd Latin-America, propaganda against our merchant marine, and lately against our efforts in the naval conference at Geneva. Some of this propaganda has a European origin and some of it comes from the little friends of Europe in the United States.

Not even our immigration laws, which have seemed soundly American to most of us have escaped the wiles of propaganda. We have all read stories about how the poor immigrants are treated on Ellis Island, and how Uncle Sam is cruelly separating relatives in America from relatives in Europe. We have even noted propaganda to the effect that the letting down of the bars of immigration would help the American farmer, though the argument is a little far-fetched.

The principal attack against the immigration laws has come through the proposal to admit outside the quota, relatives of aliens already in America. Now as nearly every immigrant who reaches our shores has relatives who want to come over, and as 85 per cent of those coming in under the quota have relatives here, it is easy to see that permitting relatives to enter the United States outside the quota would be tantamount to repealing the immigration laws altogether.

As a matter of fact a bill was introduced in the last Congress to give relatives preference in coming in under the quota and it was defeated in the Senate by the efforts of those who have been demanding relief for "suffering relatives" in Europe. Which proves clearly that what these forces want is not relief for relatives but the breaking down of the immigration laws.

As a matter of fact the present law is working well. If it is changed it ought to be changed not by opening the gates but by closing some of the gates now open along the Latin-American border.

Jonah and the Whale

A Bible story I learned when a youth,
Is a big fish story, but every word truth;
Just listen right good, while I tell you the tale,
How Jonah the Prophet was caught by the whale.

Now Jonah had sinned and strayed from the fold,
And a big fish caught him and swallowed him whole;
There's part of the story that's awful sad,
The city of Nineveh had gone to the bad.

The Lord looked down on their wicked ways,
In hope of repentance in forty more days;
The Lord said to Jonah, go preach my word,
To that wicked city that it may be heard.

If they don't repent of their wicked ways,
I'll destroy the city in forty more days;
The Lord called Jonah, Old Jonah said no,
I'm a hard shell Baptist, and just can't go.

Those people of Nineveh are nothing to me,
I'm no foreign Missionay and never will be;
So he went to Joppa, in the greatest of haste,
And boarded a ship for a different place.

The Lord looked down on the Bible records,
And saw old Jonah running from the Lord,
He set the wind blowing, and endangered the sail,
And the efforts of Jonah were beginning to fail.

The ship was rocking and tossed by the way,
And Jonah was sorry he didn't obey;
Then Jonah confesed that it was caused by his sin,
The crew threw him out, and the whale took him in.

The whale said to Jonah, old fellow don't fret,
I'm sent here to take you out of the wet;
But you are going to get punished for your sin,
So he opened his mouth and Jonah went in.

The funniest sight that ever was seen,
Was Jonah going off in His new submarine;
So the sinners of Nineveh failed to repent,
For the messenger of warning, to them was mis-sent.

On the beds of the sea the whale tried to rest,
He swallowed his food but it didn't digest;
He got mighty restless, and sorely afraid,
He rumbled inside, while the old Prophet prayed.

So you see how God's message to Nineveh lays,
In the dead letter office, three nights and days;
The old prophet shut in as tight as a lock,
But things will come open as sure as you knock.

The third day the whale rose up from his bed,
Sick at his stomach, with a pain in his head;
And said to himself, I must have air quick,
For this old back-slider is making me sick.

So he winked his eyes and wiggled his tail,
And pulled for the shore to deliver his mail;
He got to the shore, He looked all around,
And he vomited old Jonah clean out on the ground.

Then Jonah thanked God for his mercy and Grace,
And looked at the whale with a great long face;
And said after three days and nights you've found,
A good old fellow is hard to down.

He looked all around with a wisthful eye,
And sat down in the sunshine, his clothing to dry;
And thought how much better his preaching to be,
From a whale cemetery, a Prophet set free.

After resting himself and drying in the sun,
He started for Nineveh as hard as he could run;
And said to himself, I must hurry and try not to sin,
I'm sure I don't want to get swallowed again.

He arrived in the city about a week late,
And preached from the time he entered the gate;
Till the whole population repented and prayed,
And the great hand of vengeance and justice was stayed.

ELECTRICITY ON FARMS

The announcement by the Public Service commission that a new schedule of rates for rural electric current has been adopted, and that it is especially designed to increase the use of electicity outside the urban centers of the state is encouraging to those who hope to see the day when virtually the whole state may have available to it the hydoelectric resources with which Alabama is so bountifully endowed.

The commission has defined a rural line as "any electric distribution line of 11,000 volts or less, not within the corporate limits of a municipality, which serves less than 20 customers per mile of pole line." The rates adopted represent a sliding scale regulated by the number of customers upon a given line, so that to consumers there is the continued incentive to induce others to use it in order that a lower schedule may be secured. Because a farm is essentially a small establishment the same rate applies whether the current be used for domestic or for power uses about the farm.

The extension of these rural lines should see rapid progress because the Alabama Power Company is devoting special attention to the expansion of this form of electric consumption. In this connection it may be noted that in 1924 the Alabama Power Company had but 14 rural lines, totaling 38.9 miles with 240 customers, and that in a short period of four and a half years, to July 1, 1927, this has increased to 71 lines, totaling 397.4 miles with 3,368 customers.

There are hundreds of miles of farm houses to which this service can be made available under the new schedule provided with advantage to both the user and the manufacturer of current. It is a movement entitled to all possible encouragement and cooperation.—The Mobile News-Item.

POLITICAL RUMBLINGS

The political pot for Coosa County is beginning to boil. So far the goal which appears to be most sought is the office of Probate Judge. It is generally understood and conceded that Judge Geo. B. McDonald will be a candidate for reelection, this being his first term. However, it is equally as well known that he will not be allowed to get the nomintaion by default as at least three prospective candidates have told the editor of the Chronicle of their intention to make the race. In the order in which they were told they are Mr. J. R. Hardy, of Rockford, a former Sheriff of the county, Mr. Thos. H. Smith, at present a merchant of Goodwater and who has been a practicing attorney, and Mr. John A. Darden, now represenative from Coosa County in the State Legislature, County Solicitor and practicing attorney of Goodwater.

There are other prospective candidates whom we have heard mentioned of intending to make the race, however we can not state authoritatively in regard to them. They are alphabetically; Mr. J. N. Howard, the present Tax Collector, whose term of office expires on the first day of October this year, and who resides at Rockford, Mr. B. B. Kilgore at present a member of the Court of County commissioners and a merchant of Weogufka, Mr. W. B. Prater, who was Sheriff of the county up to January this year when his term expired and was succeeded by Mr. Snider and who is now in the automobile business at Rockford, and former Judge Geo. H. Stewart who is now in the mercantile business at Sylacauga, and former Probate Judge Lofton Thomas of Goodwater who is now engaged in the furniture business there.

The next primary will be held next May and the time is not as long off as it has been, and we may expect these candidates for other offices to be filled to begin to go to the all-day singings and other gathering places where the voters congregate and begin to side talk them and make their plea for preferment. The game of politics as played under our present system is one of ever present and constant interest.—Rockford Chronicle.

CHEVROLET PRESIDENT VISITS OLD HOME IN DENMARK

William S. Knudsen, president and general manager of the Chevrolet Motor Company, is scheduled to return the second week in August from a combined business and pleasure trip to Continental Europe, which included a visit to his former home at Copenhagan, Denmark, the Chevrolet Motor Company announced today.

Mr. Knudsen embarked for Europe late in May, and according to advices from him, left Copenhagen on July 10 on the Swedish steamer "Gripsholm" for New York City. The steamer is due at New York about August 10.

His travels abroad took him to the Chevrolet plants at Copenhagen, Antwerp and Berlin, which, like the American plants, are running at peak production. Mr. Knudsen noted that during the first six months of this year these three plants turned out more units than during the entire year of 1926, thus attesting to the overwhelminging favor which the "Most Beautiful Chevrolet" is finding among European buyers.

In addition to inspecting these plants, Mr. Knudsen traveled extensively in Germany, Denmark, Belgium Holland and France.

His visit to Copenhagen revived memories and associations of his early life, for he was born and reared in this Denmark town. After being educated at the grammar and high school and the government technical school at Copenhagen, he apprenticed himself for a period of four years to gain a thorough knowledge of his trade. At the age of nineteen he left Denmark to make America his home.

Mr. Knudsen's advance here was rapid. In 1922 he became associated with the General Motors Corporation and shortly afterward was made vice president in charge of operations of the Chevrolet Motor Company. On January 15, 1924, he was elected president and general manager of Chevrolet and vice president of General Motors.

Mr. Knudsen is expected back at the Chevrolet executive offices at Detroit, Michigan, by the middle of August.

O. E. Hunt, vice president in charge of engineering of the Chevrolet Motor Company, today announced the appointment of J. M. Crawford, for 21 years an automotive engineer, to the newly created position of assistant chief engineer of the Chevrolet Motor Company. Mr. Crawford assumed his new duties the latter part of July.

Prior to joining the Chevrolet organization, Mr. Crawford was for six years chief engineer for a well known builder of medium priced cars. His new position with Chevrolet, the largest manufacturer of gear shift cars in the world, is regarded in automotive circles as a distinct and well merited promotion growing out of his extensive, practical knowledge of motor car building.

He entered this field in 1906 and has literally grown up with the industry, serving with various automobile manufacturers, chief of which was the old Chalmers Motor Company, from that date to the present time.

Mr. Crawford was born and reared at Indianapolis, Indiana. Upon his appointment as Mr. Hunt's assistant he moved to Detroit, Michigan, where his headquarters are located in the main office of the Chevrolet Motor Company in the General Motors building.

Chevrolet production for July raised the total volume for the first seven months of this year to nearly on a par with its entire output for 1926, in which year Chevrolet established an all-time production record for the manufacture of gear shift cars, according to figures released today by the Chevrolet Motor Company.

Production for the month just ended totaled 89,569 units as against 50,993 units for July, 1926, an increase of 75.65 per cent. This percentage of gain over the corresponding month of last year was greater in July than in any other month so far into 1927. The next highest month was February, when this year's figures revealed an increase of 67 per cent over February, 1926.

July volume brings production for the first seven months of this year to 697,318 units; whereas in the entire year of 1926 the total volume was only 728,697 units, indicating that at the present rate of output the figures for last year will be passed before August gets fairly under way.

Chevrolet officials were confident, in view of this extraordinary showing, that by the close of the year the total volume for 1927 would approach very closely to the million mark. The great Chevrolet factories are running day and night to accomplish this tremendous volume and to meet the steadily growing public favor which "The Most Beautiful Chevrolet" is everywhere commanding.

Hand in hand with this gigantic production schedule are new projects. Ground was recently broken for two new buildings to stabilize the facilities of the factory at Flint, Michigan. A new office building and a new parts building are being erected at a cost of $2,000,000. Work is being rushed so that both buildings may be ready for occupancy by October, 1927.

ANTI SALOON LEAGUE DENIES IMPEACHMENT MOVE

Westerville, O., Aug. 1—Denial that the Anti Saloon League ever had in mind or attempted to start any movement toward impeachment of the Presidest of the United States, as indicated recently by "some newspaper head-line statements," was made in a statement issued here at national headquarters by officials of the League.

The statement was drawn up in Detroit, made public here and at Washington and was signed by Bishop Thomas Nicholson, Dr. Arthur J. Barton, Bishop James Cannon, Jr., Dr. F. Scott McBride, Dr. Howard Hyde Russell, Wayne B. Wheeler and Ernest H. Cherrington.

No newspaper was named, but the New York American on July 10 said a proposal to issue a proclamation charging President Coolidge publicly with misfeasance and malfeasance in office was debated and voted upon by the executive committee of the League in Chicago on November 8, 1925. The statement declared that the stories about the alleged movement toward impeachment of the President "are as ridiculous as they are false."

The statement declared "every conceivable scheme" had ben employed by the wets to shake public confidnce in the Anti Saloon League, that private detectives had trailed League officials, and that League offices had been broken into and their files pillaged, but that the League had no fear of pitiless publicity as to facts.

Again referring to a New York American story, the statement asserted that the records of the League show that Rev. E. C. Dinwiddie, the League's former legislative superintendent at Washington, was under no cloud of misconduct when he resigned from the League.

"The suggestion," said the statement, "that the Anti Saloon League or an official or employe of the League improperly used government funds or that he or the League reimbursed the government to the extent of $10,000 is not only false, but is an illustration of the lengths to which the enemies of prohibition will go to discredit the League." The statement had been published that the League had been threatened with a government investigation in 1919 for allged misuse of $10,000 of government money by Dr. Dinwiddie, which had been appropriated for the expenses of the International Congress against Alcoholism.

Extermination of the beverage liquor traffic was given as the League's object and methods under which the League operates were outlined.

MASTER AWARDS FOR 10 ALABAMA FARMERS

For the First Time Auburn Honors Those Whose Work is Outstanding

Auburn, Ala., Aug. 2.—Outstanding merit in farming in Alabama has been officially recognized by the College of Agriculture of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, Auburn. It was done in cooperation with the Progressiive Farmer, a farm paper published at Birmingham, Tuesday, August 2, when "Master Farmer" awards were presented to ten leading farmers by Dr. Spright Dowell, president.

This presentation took place at a big banquet in the College dormitory at which the visitors were guests of the Progressive Farmer. W. C. Lassetter, editor, was toastmaster. The guests of honor were the ten Master Farmers and their wives. They are: John R. Witt, Limestone County; J. B. H. Lumpkin, Marshall County; J. J. Boyd, Marion County; L. C. Young, Montgomery County; Henry King, Dallas County; Emil Graf, Mobile County; Bascom H. Lightfoot, Pike County; Webb Hurst, Macon County; J. H. Hathorn, Houston County; and R. E. Lambert, Wilcox County.

Prior to this the methods and results of these and many other farmers were carefully studied by Mr. Lassetter with the district agents and county agents. Several months ago the county agent and organized farmers in each county were asked to nominate one man to be considered for the award of "Master Farmer." Records were obtained, farms were visited, information compiled, and other things worked down until finally the ten best were found. Their farms, their homes, their equipment, their results, and their activities in cooperative work among farmers were all considered.

H. A. Gardner, director of the Institute of Paint and Research at Washington, estimates that decay takes an annual toll of $830,400,000 from the American farmers. He estimates that this is greater than the total loss due to insect pests and more than double the fire loss.

The hog market outlook is brighter now than it was two months ago. The government pig survey revealed a smaller increase than was anticipated and higher corn prices will cause hogs to go to market smaller than when prices are low. Both these mean a smaller amount of pork in the aggregate.

MRS. MINERVA MINOR

On last Tuesday night August 2, came the 69th birthday of our good old Christian mother, Minervia Minor and her friends and loved ones desired to show the highest respect possible. The plan settled on was, to have a pounding at the home of the good old Christian father and mother which was thoroughly carried out. Most every thing needed in the grocery was brought by hands of loving friends, and also other good nice presents marked the love for the good old father and mother. Some good songs were sung and a short talk by Rev. M. Lockhart of Refuge. Then the good old mother expressed her love and thankfulness toward those who contributed their many gifts. Then everybody was invited around the table, finding cake of all kinds, feeding a hundred people or more. When everybody had eat to their own satisfaction, plenty of cake was to be seen, but the most happy hour came when the good old father and mother were placed side by side and everybody still expessing deeper love by giving them a good old hand shaking, revealed the most interesting part of the occasion. Just to make it short, it was a service which everybody enjoyed. Expressions have been made about the occasion seeming almost like being in the midst of a revival.—One who loved them.

C. E. Stapp Employed As Demonstation Ag't

We are glad to bring to our readers this week the news that Mr. C. E. Stapp has been employed as Farm Demonstration Agent for Chilton County. The deal was completed Tuesday when Mr. Stapp came before the court of county commissioners to discuss the proposition with them. He was accompanied by Mr. E. E. Binford, of Auburn, who is supervisor of farm demonstration work in this section of Alabama, and under whom Mr. Stapp will carry on his work with the farmers of Chilton County. A delegation of local citizens were also present before the court.

Mr. Stapp is not a new man in farm demonstration work. He was for four years farm demonstrator in Lamar County, and three years farm demonstrator in Etowah County. He has also acted in the important capacity of district supervisor of farm demonstration work in the State of Mississippi.

The ditor of The Union-Banner got acquanted with Mr. Stapp four years ago while he was farm demonstration agent in Etowah County. We had occasion to observe the esteem in which he was held by farmers and business men of Gadsden and Etowah County, and we feel warranted in saying that Chilton County is indeed fortunate in getting his services in the important work which needs so much to be done among the farmers of our county.

Upon leaving Clanton Tuesday night Mr. Stapp stated that he would be back in Clanton Saturday of this week at which time he hopes to meet as many farmers as possible. He will have an office in the courthouse, and expects to get here to begin his work in about fifteen days.

PROVIDENCE SUNDAY SCHOOL

Please allow me a few words in which I may give a brief history of the Sunday School of this place which was organized over thirty five years ago and has never vacated except a few times when it vacated for a few weeks because of contagion in the community. When the school was first organized the Bible was the only literature we had. The Bible was used by the grown ups and there was long discussions as to whether or not they would use the literary school books for the children, but they finally got in touch with the Baptist Sunday School Board and began using their literature and have been using it ever since that time. The secretary's record was an ordinary writing tablet. So they struggled on and on with old Uncle Riley Robinson as superintendent almost continously for all these years with here and there a crisis but they have continued to hold on with very good results.

Providence has a community that we are reasonably proud of (yet there is much work to be done). She has a music talent that is fairly good. The attendance record shows very well for a little country church located back in the hills. The record shows that for last Sunday, August 7th, 115 present, which of course is above the average. Forbid that we should boast but we are thankful that our older people continued the work and that the Almighty gave the results. We sincerely hope that the work will continue to grow for there is yet much to be done. I hope that the revival, beginning August 7th, and conducted by Rev. M. J. Parrish, assisted by Rev. W. W. Robinson will be a religious success. Respectfully yours,—G. C. Powell.

SINGING CONVENTION

The Chilton County Convention of the Harp and Hormony music books will meet in regular semi-annual session at Pate's Chapel on the first Sunday in September and the Saturday before. All invited.—The Chairman.

REVIVAL AT VERBENA

A revival was held by the Verbena Baptist Church, beginning July 27th, and continuing nine days. Rev. Arthur Deloach, the pastor was assisted by Dr. W. P. Wilks, of Opelika, Mr. Gresham Lowery, of Thorsby leading the singing.

Attendance was decidedly the best ever had in a revival at this church, it being necessary, before the meeting was half over, that something be done to seat the people, as the church was much too small. The Verbena High School Auditorium was used during the rest of the meeting.

Great results were obtained in this revival. There were sixteen additions to the Church by baptism, and five by letter. And even more also, for there was a general revival of the whole community for miles around. Wonderful spirit was shown during this revival. Dr. Wilkes won the affections of many people who heard him preach.

$20 PREMIUM OFFERED FOR FIRST BALE OF 1927 COTTON

An item that will doubtless interest the farmers of Chilton County comes from Billingsley this week wherein the business men of that town through the Farmers Gin Company, offer a premium of $20 for the first bale of cotton raised in 1927 and ginned at that gin. The offer is signed by a group of Billingsley business men. The anouncement appears in another place in this paper. There will likely be some keen competition among the farmers to see who will be able to get away with this handsome premium.

BE SURE TO HAVE LIGHTS ON YOUR CARS AND TRUCKS

Sheriff Dudley Collins gives warning this week to all persons that they must have lights on their cars and trucks if they drive same on the public roads of the county after dark. Mr. Collins promises that if he finds anyone violating the laws in this respect he will promptly take them into court and let them tell it to the judge.

DRIVE TO THE RIGHT

Warns State Highway Commissioner Or Cop Will Get You

Montgomery, Alabama, Aug. 5.—Though gravel and sand clay highways throughout the state cannot be marked like the paved roads with a wide stripe down the center, so as to prevent accidents by requiring traffic to keep well to the right of the center of the road must be observed on unpaved roads also, Commissioner of Maintenance John S. Turner, of the State Highway Commission, said Friday. He pointed out also that strict observance is required, in the interest of safety, of the rule prohibiting parking on curves in the road. These and other highway safety rules, it was made clear, will be enforced by state highway traffic policemen, who will be placed on the job as soon as the necessary legislation, now pending, is adopted.

TO BUILD CHURCH

A movement has been launched, having for its purpose the building of a missionary Baptist church near the old Robinson cemetery in the neighborhood of Mineral Springs in Beat 12. A number of citizens of the vicinity are backing the movement, and a great number of people all over the county will be interested. Robinson cemetery is one of the oldest burying grounds in the county, and perhaps thousands of people have family connections buried there.

The movement to build the new church is in the hands of a building committee composed of M. Gore, Chairman, with P. G. Robinson and F. H. Vinzant. In addition to the work and contributions of the citizens of the immediate community toward the erection of the building a subscription is being circulated so as to give everybody interested an opportunity to help out in the matter.

We are authorized to state that anybody anywhere who desires to make a contribution to this worthy cause may send it to M. Gore, Clanton, Ala., Route 8, and it will be properly used and accounted for. The new church is proposed to be a Missionary Baptist institution, and will be known as the Mineral Springs Baptist church. The building will occupy a site close to the Robinson cemetery.

The building committee respectfully solicits aid from all persons who are interested in the cause.

COUPLE IN PRIME OF LIFE PARENTS OF 18 CHILDREN

Lenoir, N. C., August 5.—One of the most unusual family records in this country and region is that of C. Rug Webb, who lives on a farm near Adako, about 12 miles northwest of Lenoir on Johns River. There are three features of this family. The first is that there are 18 children in the family born of the same parents, the second that there are the same number of boys and girls and the third is their youth, all of the children being under 32 years of age, and all living up until several weeks ago, when one of the boys, R. C. Webb, was killed near Lexington. The parents are just in the prime of life, the mother being 46, the father 48.

The unusualness of their age is one of the things that makes this family record one of interest. At their very early age they are also grandparents, having nine grandchildren.

Mr. Webb is a farmer, and in addition to this, he is an expert fisherman. He is well known in this section as being a most ardent follower of the Izaak Walton tribe, and he spends a good deal of his time enjoying this sport. Through this pastime many varieties of fish have graced his dining table at different times. Mr. Webb and Mrs. Webb wear well their age, and no one would guess that they were the parents of 18 children and nine grandchildren.

Maplesville Young Man Shoots at Sweetheart and Turns Gun on Self

Clyde Knipe Died at The Central Alabama Hospital in Clanton Monday Noon From Bullet Wound in Chest.

Clyde Knipe, a young man of Maplesville, fired a bullet from a 32-calibre pistol through his lungs Sunday night at midnight, after he had aimed two shots at his former sweetheart, Miss Alma Sexton, in an effort to kill her also. His shots at the girl went wild and she was not harmed. He died Monday at noon.

From what we are able to learn about the case it is revealed that Young Knipe was a disappointed lover of Miss Sexton, whose attentione he had sought for several years. Two weeks ago we are told he asked the girl to marry him and she refused; whereupon he told her that he would give her two weeks to make up her mind in final answer to his proposal.

When he started to leave Maplesville some time Sunday it is said that Knipe invited two young ladies, friends of Miss Sexton, to go with him to her home. When they declined to accompany him he is reported to have told them they had better go as it was their last chance to go with him to see her, which indicates that he must have made up his mind before going to the home of Miss Sexton that he would end the whole affair for himself and her.

Knipe called at the home of Miss Sexton, near Mulberry Church about 7:30 Sunday evening and asked to see Miss Alma. Mrs. Sexton told him that Alma had company and could not see him at that time. Then the young man asked to see Mr. Sexton with whom he talked and to whom he made some threats that indicated his desperate state of mind. Mr. Sexton advised him to go away and come back another time, and the boy left in his car. He went a short distance and stopped his car on the side of the road.

Mr. Sexton went to the home of Mr. Lecroy nearby and related the story of the young man's curious actions. Returning home Mr. Sexton became uneasy for the safety of the young man who was there to see the young lady, and he and another man accompanied the boy to Maplesville. They thought Knipe had gone back to Maplesville, and expected him to make trouble with his rival lover of the young Sexton girl.

But while Mr. Sexton was gone to Maplesville Knipe came back to the home and the Sexton girls, who were sitting on the porch in a swing, asked him to come in. He refused to come in and remained standing on the steps. The mother and a brother of the girls were also sitting on the porch.

While Knipe was standing on the steps the car in which Mr. Sexton was returning from Maplesville approached the house, the lights shining directly on the front porch. About this instant Knipe drew his revolver and aimed two shots at his sweetheart both going wild. The girls screamed in fright, and Knipe, thinking he had accomplished the first act of his love tragedy, proceeded to finish it up by turning a third shot into his own breast.

It seems that none of the spectators realized that Knipe had shot himself, as he disappeared toward the back yard after the third shot was fired. They thought he went under the house. After things had gotten quiet they could hear him somewhere about the place groaning and vomiting. They thought he was crazed with liquor, and they feared to molest him further.

Sheriff Collins was notified as quickly as possible and arrived on the scene about two o'clock Monday morning. Mr. Sexton's folks told the Sheriff the man was under the house, but upon investigation by the officers this was found to be a mistaken idea. Sheriff Collins began a search about the place and came upon the body of young Knipe crumpled up about thirty yards from the house. He was unconscious, and in fact almost lifeless.

The examination of the Sheriff revealed the first knowledge that Knipe had shot himself. Close by the body was a 32-calibre Colt pistol with blood on the handle, and three empty shells in the chamber. The young man was brought to the Central Alabama Hospital where it was found that a bullet had ripped a hole through his lungs, going into his breast and passing out under the ribs of his back. Little hope was held for his recovery. He regained consciousness Monday morning, but died about noon.

We understand that the young man is a son of Mr. Knipe who is a section foreman for the M. & O. Railroad at Maplesville. He had served an enlistment in the United States Navy, from which he was discharged some few months ago.

The followng clipping from a newspaper was found by the Sheriff in the pocket of the young man:

MEMORIES

The tale of a man who left his sweetheart behind to enter his country's service, and upon returning finds she has gone away. He tries in vain to locate her and of an evening as he sits by the fire gazing at the coals he recalls his adventures with her and unconsciously prays that he will find her some day.

While I was over the sea
They took my sweetheart from me.
I'd give all that I own if I could only have known
She'd not be here waiting for me.
Let me stroll down a lane
Clasping lightly my love
By the light of the moon
Shining brightly above.
Let me see her once more
If only for an hour,
Let me kiss her again
'Neath a bloom-laden bower
I'm not contented to roam,
What I want now is a home;
I've built my castles in air
And I have pictured her there
As I sit by the fireside alone.
Let us sit on the beach
'Neath a silvery moon,
Let me dance with my love
Hearts beating in tune.
Let me drift o'er a lake
Where the frail lilies grow;
Let my love be with me
Wheresoever I go.
When I sit in that chair
Dreamily I vision things there,
Looking back over the past
I don't believe this can last,
For surely I'll meet her somewhere
Let me gaze in her eyes
Let me bask in her smile
Let me see her fair face
If for only a while.
There's but one thing I want
My dear Father above
Won't you give me once more
The one thing that I love?

Miss Sexton, about whom the terrible tragedy was enacted, is the daughter of Mr. Sterling Sexton, who lives on the old Dr. Joe Johnson place about half a mile from Mulberry church.

Funeral services were held at Maplesville Monday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock and the body was carried from there to Selma and buried. Martin, undertaker of Clanton, had charge of the body.

AUTO WRECK AT THORSBY LAST SUNDAY AFTERNOON

Two Ford cars driven by Astro Wright of Jemison and a son of Clarence Childress collided on the highway at Thorsby last Sunday afternoon, wrecking both machines. Two young ladies, Miss Watson and Miss Langston, of Jemison were in the car with the Childress boy. Miss Watson was the only participant who was hurt. She was brought to the Central Alabama Hospital for treatment. Her injuries were not considered very serious.

CLANTON'S FIRST BALE COTTON

Mr. Henry Patterson of Clanton Route 6, who lives on the A. P. Vinson farm, brought the first bale of 1927 cotton to Clanton Wednesday morning. He had 1340 pounds of seed cotton, and his bale weighed 485 pounds after ginning. The cotton was ginned by J. N. Dennis, and was bought by Aired Mercantile Co. Mr. Patterson received $114.67 for the lint cotton and seed combined. He says he expects to have two more bales ginned next week.

TOM AND REEDIE TAYLOR AWAY ON A BUYING TRIP

Messrs. T. M. and Reedie Taylor, owners of Chicago Sales Company, of Clanton, are away this week on a buying expedition for their store. They stated upon leaving that they would go into the best markets of the country and arrange for a stock of goods sufficient for the needs of their customers during the coming fall and winter.

Chicago Sales Company has come to be recognized as one of the leading merchandise establishments of Clanton. Under the management of Mr. Reedie Taylor this store has built up a wide circle of friends and customers throughout Chilton County. They have offered some great bargain events during the past season, and the prediction is made that they will repeat the same again during the next season.

J. N. Dennis, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Popwell, and George Murrah visited Richmond, Minter, Selma, and other places in Dallas County Monday and report cotton being picked there.

A ROAD PROGRAM THAT IS IMPORTANT TO CHILTON CO.

Editor Union-Banner:

While some of the newspapers of Birmingham and Montgomery are raving over things that are alleged to have happened at Clanton, and are writing one falsehood after another that is calculated to hurt our town and county in the estimation of strangers, let us stop and think of better and more profitable things.

I have been thinking for several months that our local papers, our officials, citizens, and business men would see the great need of agitating a road-building project which would carry a road east from Clanton so as to continue the road coming from Selma.

This road has already been passed on by state authorities from Selma to Clanton and if we would put forth the proper effort we could, in all probability, get it carritd on east to Sylacauga, and thus connected up it would be a great main trunk road connecting with main highways thru north Georgia and east Tennessee directly through Selma and into Mobile. And Clanton would be the great cross-roads of the State of Alabama.

Is this matter not worth the sincere consideration of our citizens and officials? I submit the thought for what it is worth.—V. J. Gragg, Clanton, Ala.

Mrs. Charley Stroud Died at Hospital Here

Mrs. Charley Stroud of Enterprise community died at the Central Alabama Hospital in Clanton Tuesday, following injures which she sustained last Sunday afternoon when she fell into the elevator shaft at the hospital building.

We are informed that Mrs. Stroud was carried in a car to the hospital building by her brother-in-law, Mr. Bishop. The purpose of her going there was to visit a friend who was a patient. As it was raining the car was run into the driveway which is provided for automobiles carrying patients to the hospital. The only opening into the building from this driveway is into the elevator. The door was closed.

When Mrs. Stroud started to enter the building by this door, it is said that she was warned by Mr. Bishop that there was no stairway there, but she apparently did not hear him or heed his warning. When she opened the door and stepped in she fell about four feet to the base of the elevator.

No one knew of the presence of Mrs. Bishop at the hospital until after she was injured and Mr. Bishop summoned aid to relieve her from her distress.

It was at first realized that the lady was badly hurt, having sustained internal injuries. She was carefully attended in the hospial and lingered until about noon Tuesday when she died.

Mrs. Stroud was the daughter of Mr. W. Y. Keel, who, with her husband and other relatives was present at the time of her death.

MESSRS. REYNOLDS AND WILLIS OPEN STORE HERE

This week, the store on Main Street just south of the Service Barber shop is being put in readiness for the housing of a general line of groceries and fresh meats.

This store is to be conducted by Messrs. J. W. Reynolds, and J. M. However, they expect to announce their formal opening next week. Watch the advertising columns for their statement next week.

HOW MANY CARS PASS ALONG OUR HIGHWAY IN A DAY

Every once in a while somebody ventures a guess as to how many cars pass through Clanton on the highway in a day. "Chief" Ed Bruce of North Clanton has guessed at it long enough. He decided to get some actual figures, and here is the result of his count:

Saturday, August 6 there were a total of 1,293 cars passed, 608 going north and 685 going south.

Sunday, August 7, the total was 1,510, of which 785 were going north and 725 going south.

Monday, August 8, the total was 1,109, of which 545 were going north and 564 going south.

The total of cars passed in the three days going both ways was 3,912. These figures are only for the daylight hours, and do not include any cars passing during the night.

BETHSALEM SINGING SCHOOL CLOSES

We wish to state to the public that our singing school which has been in progress since July 11th will close on next Saturday, August 13th, with an all-day singing. Everybody is cordially invited.

There will be preaching at eleven o'clock by Rev. Paul who is going to help in a series of protracted meetings, which begin here on that day. Come and hear him and possibly you will be benefited by his messages as the people were in olden times by the messages delivered by the old and faithful apostle, whose name was Paul.

We have had a very successfu school with an enrollment of fifty-eight. We have improved greatly under the able supervision of our teacher, Mr. A. D. Huett. We have enjoyed the school extremely well.

We have had a very successful the last day. Our program will begin at nine o'clock sharp, and continue until preaching hour at eleven. The afternoon program will be for singers from everywhere. So come. —Pupils of Bethsalem School.

CHILTON FARMERS AT AUBURN

The following persons from Chilton County were in Auburn last week studying better farming methods and practices:

Prof. J. P. Montgomery, of Jemison; Prof. Earle Thomas, of Isabella; J. Z. Mims, Jodie Lansford, Lorenzo Popwell, Miss Bertha Dennis, Latham Wilson, Ben Jones and sons, J. L. Smith and son, J. N. Dennis, Mrs. J. N. Dennis.

BLEED THROUGH

WEST CHILTON

Such hot August weather with occasional days that remind us that fall time is nearing.

Cotton is opening, corn is ripening, melons galore, road working in evidence all around, revival meetings in some localities, such is the order of the day over here.

Messrs. Hodgens and families motored to Centerville recently to the far-famed annual Christian Harmony singing.

We learn that Mr. E. H. Foshee of Oak Grove will be at Macedonia the third Sunday afternoon in the interest of sacred music. Mr. Foshee is a faithful worker musically.

Mr. Sam Glass and wife, residing just east of Randolph for a long while, have become very feeble, and are spending their time now with their children at Thorsby and Jemison. We hope they both regain their health and enjoy years of future happiness.

Mr. George Brockenmeyer and wife of Atlanta are spending their vacation here. Since arriving they have made visits to Birmingham and Cullman, and also spending one day with the writer. They are fine people of splendid personality. Mrs. Brockenmeyer is a descendant of the Atchison family who came from South Carolina and located here probably a century ago. Mr. and Mrs. Brockenmeyer came through in a Willis-Knight.

Mr. H. H. Armstrong and daughter motored to Montevallo Thursday.

We quote the Literary Digest that it may require the next ten years to properly adjust farm prices unless something artificial—war or some other calamity should intervene. Hence the importance of the time worn suggestion as far as possible produce all home supplies. Man power with machinery added can provide an abundance if conditions continue normal.

REVIVAL MEETING NEAR RUDOLPH MOATT'S

Revival services will begin next Saturday night at the meeting place near the home of Rudolph Moatts two miles northeast of Clanton. Preaching will be conducted by Rev. W. F. Bullington. Everybody is invited to attend.

FARMER'S WEEK OF 1927 BIG SUCCESS

Auburn, Ala., Aug. 8.—With people from 60 counties in attendance, the annual summer school for farmers at the College of Agriculture at Auburn, August 1-5, was one of the best on record. The attendance was estimated at 1,000 farm people and agricultural workers. This was about the same as that last year which set a new high attendance record for Auburn farmer summer schools. Interest and enthusiasm this year were unusual.

In addition to being a summer school for farm people it was annual convention week for the Alabama Farm Bureau Federation, the Alabama pecan growers association, the Alabama beekeepers association, and the State Council of Home Demonstration Club Women.

The county agents, home demonstration agents, and other agricultural workers were in Auburn during the week. The extension workers held several conferences discussing extension work and making plans for improving it.

Farm Bureau Meeting

The Farm Bureau convention marked the end of the first five-year period of the organization. A report by Edward A. O'Neal, president, showed that the organization has done a business of buying and selling amounting to $53,000,000—an annual average exceeding $10,000,000. Another report showed that the organization has passed over its re-organization period. The membership list has been sifted out and real cooperative farmers have signed the new seven-year agreement.

For the fifth year Mr. O'Neal was elected to serve as president of the State Farm Bureau. R. F. Groom, Evergreen, and W. M. Hester, Russellville were re-elected also. These officers, plus S. P. Storrs, Wetumpka, Dr. W. C. Braswell, Elba, J. L. Edwards, Selma, N. B. Jones, Collinsville, and W. F. Osborne, Tuscaloosa, will compose the executive committee, together with Mrs. John S. Morriss and Allen Northington as ex-officio members.

Meeting of Women

The farm women were in session during the week Mrs. John S. Morriss, of Talladega County was re-elected president of the State Council.

In addition to business sessions the women conducted state contests in clothing and in nutrition. The four high teams, in the order named, in the clothing contest were: Butler and Tallapoosa Counties tied for first place, their total scores being the same, Etowah County, and Montgomery County. Tallapoosa County was represented by Mrs. J. K. Orr and Mrs. H. T. Croley; Butler by Mrs. E. T. Holloway and Mrs. T. M. Rigsby; Etowah by Mrs. Charles Miller, Mrs. L. H. Anderson, and Mrs. L. B. Walker; Montgomery, Mrs. Lena Gordon and Mrs. Henry Stanley.

The three high teams in nutrition were: Tuscaloosa County, Mrs. J. A. Walker and Mrs. R. E. Robertson; Chambers County, Mrs. George W. Smith and Mrs. Charles E. Sullivan; Macon County, Mrs. A. L. Stough and Mrs. John Each.

Pecan Growers

The Alabama Pecan Growers Association met for one day. Important questions pertaining to production and marketing were discussed. Of special interest was the discussion on kernel spot, which Prof. F. E. Guyton said is caused by the southern stinkbug. He was unable to tell how to control it.

Clifton Kirkpatrick, of Selma, was re-elected president of the Pecan Growers Associaton. T. W. Sawyer, of Citronelle, was elected vice-president, and John Blake, Selma, was elected secretary.

SINGING CONVENTION

The Chilton County Convention of the Harp and Hormony music books will meet in regular semi-annual session at Pate's Chapel on the first Sunday in September and the Saturday before. All invited.—The Chairman.

WOOD AND DIAMONDS HAVE SAME SUBSTANCE

Montgomery, Ala., Aug. 8.—The chief chemical element contained in wood is the same that comprises the diamond and coal, says the Alabama State Commission of Forestry. This element is carbon.

No other chemical element enters into as many and as varied combinations with others as does this one. It is said that carbon is the life element, since it is the basis of all living things.

Trees obtain carbon from the carbonic acid gas present in the atmosphere. The air enters the leaves and other green parts of the tree through tiny openings and the carbonic acid gas is altered by the action of sunlight so that the carbon enters into other chemical combinations among which is the formation of cellulose, the principal constituent of wood fiber.

It has lately been determined that the trees obtain carbon not only from the air but also from the ground. The bacteria living in the soil transform verious chemical substances into forms that can be used by the living tree. A great deal of carbon in the form of bicarbonates is one of the results of bacterial activities. This carbon goes into solution and is taken into the plant and borne by the sap to the green parts where it is acted upon by the sun along with that derived from the atmosphere.

Blount County Flogging Cases Come to a Close

FOLLOWING CONVICTION AND SENTENCE TO EIGHT YEARS OF FIRST TWO MEN OTHERS SEEK MERCY.

Oneonta, Ala., Aug. 8.—The Jeff Calloway flogging trials were ended today when the state and defense reached a compromise whereby the five remaining men to be tried pleaded guilty and were sentenced to pay fines of $500 and serve six months in jail.

Dr. L. S. Fennell, Amos Covington, Peter Carlisle, Chester Clayton and Clifton Clayton, all peleaded guilty to complicity in the flogging of Calloway, and were immediately sentenced. Fennell, however, received a suspended sentence.

The agreement was reached after Attorney General, Charlie C. McCall, of Alabama, who personally directed the prosecution, offered to compromise with Horace Wilkinson, chief defense attorney.

The attorney general agreed to nol-prosse the kidnaping charges for which the men were indicted and substitute charges of inciting a riot.

Eugene Doss and L. A. Clayton, the first of the seven defendants to be tried last week, received prison sentences of eight to ten years in the state prison following their conviction on charges of kidnaping.

The attorney general refused to venture an opinion as to the effect of today's action might have on the Doss and Clayton cases. Both men are at liberty on $5,000 bond following notice that they would appeal the verdict.

Judge Woodson J. Martin, of the sixteenth Alabama judicial circuit, took the stand today, replacing Judge O. A. Steele, who is hearing cases in chancery court. Judge Steele pronounced sentences on Doss and Clayton.

BILLINGSLEY BAPTIST CHURCH

Dr. Seymour's revival at Billingsley has just closed with twenty-four additions to the church, seventeen for baptism and the others by letter. We had a great revival, and we feel that the Lord has wonderfully blest us and may his richest blessings be with his people. The baptism will be on the fourth Sunday evening in August. Let everybody come and worship together and praise God.—W. J. Billingsley.

A LETTER FROM J. N. THORNTON

Mr. Thornton is a citizen of Arkansas. He is an old resident of Clanton. While on a visit to his people here this summer he wrote the following letter to his home newspaper, The Arkansas Plaindealer, at Hampton:

Clanton, Ala., July 28, 1927.

Mr. Owens:

Having a fine time. This is a beautiful little county seat town of upwards of 2,000 people. Four good, clean, sweet smelling restaurants that feed their patrons well at fair prices. Two banks, four nice drug stores or five—I think; more garages and filling stations than I have taken the touble to count, bottling woks, laundry, two good newspapers, numberless stores, waterworks, electric lights power, paved sidewalks—miles and miles of them—graded streets well shaded with fine old trees; some few fine homes and hundreds of clean and well-looking little ones. Highways run every direction and they go all the way.

And all this prosperity is based on farming and nothing else. No nearby oil fields for markets, but two cities—Birmingham and Montgomery 53 and 40 miles away.

Hampton is backed by an agricultural country that is naturally better. This here is developed, which explains the difference. They have had the "Better Farming" campaign going here for several decades to my own knowledge and are still carrying it forward.

This county was a cut-over country of wrecked pine forests when I was a boy—something like Calhoun county now appears in spots. Now it is a highly cultivated countryside of smiling crops and lovely farmsteads. Does my heart good to look at it—for this is my old home and these were my own people when the world and I were younger.

Well, Hampton will be a bigger and better town than this (Clanton, Ala.), some day, for it has a bigger and better country behind it that is already "on its way" in the matter of progress. Our Calhoun farmers too, are fully as able as the best of these to take advantage of what lies around them. It will take time, but Calhoun will some day show as handsome a countryside as this old country now has and Hampton will be a prosperous town of two or three thousand people.—J. N. Thornton, 100 N. 8th St.

RHEUMATISM
May be relieved by rational treatment—it can not be rubbed away.
Are you one of those unfortunates who suffer with pains in your muscles and joints, commonly called rheumatism, making you miserable, less efficient, interfering with your working hours, ruining your sleep?
You may have tried many things without relief. Why not try S.S.S.? For more than 100 years it has been giving relief in thousands of cases, as testified to in unsolicited letters of gratitude.
"I suffered from rheumatism for a good many years. At times my joints would swell so, I couldn't walk. I tried almost everything. Went to Hot Springs . . . . then finally decided to try S.S.S. I took a course. In a short time the rheumatic pains entirely left me. I am now in perfect health, and want to add that I have tried all kinds of medicines but I think S.S.S. is the best." Earl C. Campbell, 115 West Main Street, Johnson City, Tenn.
S.S.S. is purely vegetable. It is extracted from the fresh roots of medicinal plants and herbs and gives to Nature what she needs in building you up so that your system throws off the cause.
From youth to later years S.S.S. is a proven tonic—give it and take it where a tonic is indicated.
S.S.S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.

WHEN MONEY IS SLACK; When Crops fail; when credit is needed it is the home town merchant whom we seek for friendly service. He tides us over with credit; he charges no interest; he provides us with reliable, guaranteed merchandise fairly priced.

IN SHORT, HE "HOLDS THE BAG FOR US." That is why he deserves all our patronage in times of plenty as well as in days of stress.

AND ISN'T IT A PITY that there are many who use him only as a leaning post—to tide them over the slack days and use their cash to fill the coffers of the big town mail order houses who wouldn't trust them over night —with, or without, interest.

WE ALL NEED THAT MERCHANT—we need his confidence, his friendship. Our town needs his enterprise——the service he renders in handling only guaranteed, first-grade goods that he is here to stand back of day in and day out.

LET'S GIVE HIM OUR CASH when we have it. Let's pay his bills as promptly as we can. Let's earn and merit the confidence he has placed in us and in our community. Let's support him—we need him and he needs us, our trade, and our unselfish good will.

BEWARE OF THE DEADLY DOTTED LINE

By W. R. MOREHOUSE
Public Relations Commission, American Bankers Association

WITHDRAWING the family's savings account at the bank where it is safe, and losing it through speculation is a serious matter. It may bring great hardship, especially to the mistress of the home. It may force great economies in household management or amount to actual privation. It may mean that the children will have to go to work before they complete their education. The loss of the family's accumulations may even result in physical breakdown on the part of the wife through worry over the loss of savings which she helped to accumulate at the sacrifice of home comforts, but was not consulted when it came to investing them. The making of investments by men who are heads of families and inexperienced in finance should not be undertaken without consulting her. But even if both agree the venture should be talked over with the local banker or information about it obtained from the National Better Business Bureau in New York, which serves without cost and purely in the public interest. If this is done a lot of trouble and quite likely many regrets and heartaches will be avoided.

W. R. MOREHOUSE

There is one point in the activities of the inexperienced investor where he should have above all a red-light stop signal to cause him to pause and investigate and that is just before he reaches the decision to "sign on the dotted line." Before you part with your savings in the bank by signing a contract placed before you by sharp promoters, stop, examine and investigate! It will pay to read the contract several times, even reading it aloud, all the while weighing every term. It will pay to be on guard against the deadly fine print usually incorporated in most contracts,—so small that it strains your eyes and causes you to skim over it superficially. Do not sign blindfolded. It will pay well to take plenty of time to study the contract by yourself where all is quiet and you are free from the personal influence of the persuasive promoter, for to sign without the calmest consideration may spell your Waterloo financially.

Do not sign on the dotted line while blindfolded.

Unless dealing with a responsible firm or individual, never sign on the dotted line. If in the least doubt, don't sign. Never sign on verbal assurances that you are fully protected. Terms stated orally but not incorporated in a contract are not binding. Glowing promises, wild exaggerations and gross misstatements of facts are seldom reduced to writing or made in the presence of your witnesses. Your failure to read and to understand a contract before signing is not a legal excuse. When you sign a contract you proclaim that you agree with its terms and will abide by and endeavor to carry them out.

Don't sign just because some high-pressure salesman tells you that you are a wonder, or that you show good judgment, or that you have a lot of sense. Sign only when you are fully convinced that your interests are fully protected.

Prominent Men Used as Scenery

A number of slick promoters recently organized in a certain city an "automobile club" with the assurance that it would soon erect a number of downtown garages where busy business men could park their cars. As an inducement for business men to take out memberships, charges to them for storage were to be nominal, much less than a like service could be obtained elsewhere. A Board of Governors was organized with the names of prominent local citizens, among them two eminent judges. No sooner was the organization of the board complete than the promoters, armed with the endorsement of these outstanding men, went forth to reap a great harvest by selling memberships. They got the members—but the building of the garages remained an idle dream.

When the members of the Board of Governors were later interviewed as to how they came to consent to the use of their names they stated that they thought the additional storage facilities were needed in the downtown district and they signed up without looking into the proposition carefully. Imagine their chagrin when told that a reading of the by-laws of the organization showed that the Board of Governors had no powers but had been used merely as scenery in order to sell memberships in a fake proposition!

Because these prominent citizens were careless with their names and failed to read and to investigate the enterprise, hundreds of business men bought memberships only to lose their money. Signing without reading is about the most dangerous act of financial carelessness that can be committed.

THE FARMER'S BEST WAY OUT

Dean Russell of Wisconsin College of Agriculture says: "Two things have hit the farmer hard but the same things have hit business. They are increase in cost of production and decline in prices which latter has been more drastic in farm products than manufactured products. The farmer's political friends say salvation can be found through legislation. Our legislative doctors propose price control. The difficulty with this is price control always means price elevation which always produces expansion in production and if this occurs without expansion in consumption you have inevitable decline in prices. The remedy works to produce the very opposite result from that intended.

"Another legislative panacea would make it easier to borrow, as if running into debt was the solution of the difficulty. There are farmers who wish it had not been quite so easy to borrow because the inevitable day comes when they have to pay principal and interest. The third legislative remedy would make easier the pathway for cooperative endeavor. All you have to do is to wave the magic wand 'Cooperation' and all the farmer's difficulties will immediately disappear. I wonder if there is any government that can make people cooperate. The success of cooperative effort will lie in organization from the bottom up rather than from the top down and it will take a decade or two for the results to be felt.

"The farmers have at hand a remedy that can be utilized immediately with the definite knowledge that it will secure far better results. If they will take a leaf out of present day business methods they will have relief in agriculture they will not have to wait for. Business has suffered the same as the farmer, yet business came through in a way that is far ahead of the farmer. This has been brought about through industrial efficiency, through improvement of methods. They have increased labor output per unit to the degree the costs of production have actually been reduced by better methods of carrying on work. Industrial enterprises on a large scale are spending millions on research. In ten years automobile output per worker has increased 172 per cent, tires 211 per cent, oil 83 per cent, cement 61 per cent.

"Compare that with others. The packers have increased only 27 per cent, sugar refining 28 per cent, boots and shoes only 6 per cent. There has been an increase in agriculture since 1913 of 20 per cent. It is doubtful that business has any such opportunity as exists in agriculture to reduce cost of production through improved methods. Take corn,—Iowa shows a variation in cost of production from fifteen cents to seventy-five cents a bushel. In Illinois the cost of producing corn on 80 acre fields was reduced from fifty-two cents to twenty cents a bushel. The manfacturer who had it within his power to reduce production costs from fifty-two to thirty cents per unit would be tickled to death with the opportunity of meeting competition under these conditions.

"The way out for the farmer is (1) to become a business man, (2) to adopt business methods, to adapt himself to the same kind of conditions and be as efficiently mobile as is our manufacturer or our business man in the ordinary channels of his trade, (3) to rely less upon political promises and more upon individual initiative, (4) to work toward cooperative endeavor, but in the meantime not to wait for cooperative endeavor to solve all of these problems because individually he can do something at the present time."

PRICE OF COTTON JUMPED UP THIS WEEK

King cotton again showed signs of renewed vigor on Tuesday. After soaring 200 points Monday to a new high level for several years the staple was selling above supply when the market closed Tuesday afternon at an increase of about $2.50 a bale over Monday's high level.

Exchanges and brokers reported themselves unable to meet the demand of buyers and until the supply is increased with additional ginnings it is expected that the market will remain in its present erratic trend.

The staple was selling at anywhere from 19.60 to 20.30 on the New York market when trading ceased Tuesday. On the Birmingham market strict middling brought 18.75 Tuesday.

There was no doubt Tuesday, when experts again scanned the government's crop estimate of 13,492,000 bales that much of the buying was for long account, although it also was evident that shorts had not fully recovered in their commitments. The government estimate, the smallest in years, has literally swept the speculative element off its feet.

Alabama farmers have realized approximately $15,000,000 increase in their cotton crop in the last two days, on the basis of the phenomenal rise on the New York and New Orleans exchanges, and indications Tuesday were that many would hold their product for several days, rather than sell now in the belief that the price would continue to increase.

W. T. BAKER GONE TO MARKET THIS WEEK

Mr. W. T. Baker, proprietor of the W. T. Baker Dry Goods Co., the big store on Main Street, is away this week getting things ready for the fall and winter business at his store.

Mr. Baker has been in business in Clanton less than a year, but he has made a record that stamps him and his store as among the leaders in their line.

Mr. Herbert Lowery, assistant to Mr. Baker in the store is planning to pull a good stunt this week-end. He wants to have a surprise for the boss when he comes back and looks over the sales records. Read the big advertisement in another place in this paper. Then go around to see Mr. Lowery and help him out on his little scheme.

COOLIDGE'S ANNOUNCEMENT

The heavy thinkers of the metropolitan press are now engaged in an attempt to interpret the statement of President Coolidge: "I do not choose to be a candidate for President in 1928." It does not require much "interpretation." The President considers the presidental nomination. As between being and not being a candidate he makes a choice. That choice is against being a candidate.

With the nomination in his grasp, it is not probable that President Coolidge, were he insincere in his determination as has been intimated, would have opened the Pandora's box of numerous rival candidacies. It is possible, of course, that as the result of many such candidacies, the next Republican national convention may fall into such a deadlock that the call of duty may be sounded to President Coolidge—but that contingency seems so remote that it is very doubtful if it entered into the President's calculations.

The announcement of the President at least ensures a lively political season as soon as the dog-days are over. More than twenty men have been mentioned for the Democratic presidental nomination. As many will be mentioned for the Republican nomination. Probably a dozen will start. It will be a lively contest, and may the best man win.

AMERICAN OPPORTUNITY

A Georgia negro, who had been a slave in his youth died at Atlanta recently leaving an estate of a million dollars, and what is still better, the esteem of all who had known him regardless of race.

He started as a barber in his early twenties and his industry and courteous manners won him the respect of his white customers who steadily grew in number. When he died he had many outside interests but retained his original shop which had grown from a one-man affair to one requiring the services of forty-two men. And this colored capitalist had more than seven hundred negroes working for him in one capacity or another at the time of his death.

There ought to be a lesson for all of us in this man's career. He did not have the priceless heritage of American liberty at the time of his birth. But by using industry and sound judgment coupled with courtesy and attendance to business he was able to make a success of his life under what to most of us would appear to be unsurmountable difficulties.

The life of this negro is only another evidence of what can be done in America. Even the humblest child may later in life win some sort of success by proper attention to business. The qualities most required are honesty, industry, a reasonable amount of intelligence, and by staying on the job.

Opportunities are greater in America now than ever before. The country is expanding and developing in a way that was undreamed of a few years ago. All of this expansion and progress means new opportunities for American youth.

Surely if a man born in slavery, with the handicap of color can win his way to success, there is no reason why the average American youth should feel afraid.

One of our exchanges says that no man can appear dignified in a bath tub. Which naturally leads to the question: why should he want to?

Knocking The Knockers

By George B. Lockwood

At the opening sessions of a recently held national convention of a prominent American religious body, speakers wearing the cloth of the church in turn condoned so-called "companionate marriage," the overthrow of society as at present organized in this republic and contempt for the Bible and the prayer book of the church.

The right exists in this country to advocate any changes obtainable by an appeal to public opinion. The professed atheist who wishes to attack Christianity, the libertarian who desires to advocate free love, the socialist or communist who desires to argue in favor of either of these theories without advocating the use of violence in advancing them, has a right to do so, and those who do not wish to listen have the same right to remain away from their company.

For a clergyman to remain within the membership and even the ministry of a church whose doctrines he repudiates, is evidence of a lack of stamina which must fall beneath the contempt of all normal-minded men and women. To be willing to take advantage of the opportunity for a hearing afforded by such profession, and at the same time to use it for the purpose of subverting or destroying the institution to which he ostensibly yields allegiance, is a violation of the tenets of common honesty. To cover such conduct with pious profession is to suggest the lines of Shakespeare in Richard III:

"And thus I clothe my naked villany
With old odd ends, stolen forth from holy writ:
And seem a saint, when most I play the devil."

We have seen the Judas plant of disloyalty flourishing in American politics. We have seen public men and organizations catering to every element, however misguided or unpatriotic, in order to achieve a transient popularity. We have seen men in the enjoyment of all the priveliges and opportunities of American citizenship engaged in movements to subvert or overthrow the American government. We have seen the decay of discipline, of conviction, of the very sense of right and wrong, in secular organizations. But a church has other objectives than merely that of pleasing the mob, and attracting to it those who do not agree with it by surrendering tenets more right than popular.

Are the churches to become secularized; are they to lower their standards to please those who have wandered from them; are they to permit the substitution as a creed of political and moral licentiousness for certain defined principles of right and wrong, held to through evil as through good report?

If so, what is a somewhat letdown and demoralized world to rally to when the time comes, as it surely will come, when humanity is ready to return to moral and mental sanity, to the knowledge that the world must be made better, not by throwing off all restraint, but by returning to some measure of discipline and restraint, that it must be saved through high standards of private conduct and duty, which churches exist to inculcate, rather than lifted by its boot straps through political processes into an imaginary millennium?

Is it not about time for the rank and file of the churches of this country to rise up and demand that their disloyalists be required to do what honorable men need not be asked to do—get out under their own flag and fight from the side of the breastworks of which they belong, rather than to seek betrayal of the camp from within? Unless such rebellion is raised, vast injury is sure to be done to the cause of religion during the next few years by those who "wear the livery of the Lord to serve the devil in."

WE DON'T NEED THIS CONVENTION

Those who would destroy the American Constitution are always busy and various methods are devised for bringing this debacle about. The reason is not difficult to find. The Constitution of the United States has worked so well, has become such a bulwark of human liberty and individualism, that those who would seek to destroy the present order of society and set up communism in its place realize that they cannot accomplish their purpose until this great fortress of modern liberty has been destroyed. Among the methods which the so-called liberals are proposing to bring about the destruction or vital alteration of the present Constitution is that which advocates the calling of a new constitutional convention for the purpose of founding a new federal Constitution.

Doubtles some of those who approve of the scheme are well-meaning, but there will eventually be found behind the movement all of those who desire to break down the present American government and set up something different in its stead. Regarding this movement the National Republic says editorially in its current issue:

"The movement for the calling of a national constitutional convention is gaining some headway. Unity of opinion among those advocating such a convention as to the purposes of assembling it is not necessary, and the absence of such unity is apparent. Every Constitution tinker favors such a convention, each thinking it will offer an opportunity for the exploitation of his own particular hobby.

"Such diversity of opinion among the proponents of a convention itself ensures that once assembled it would be inharmonious; that its deliberations would be characterized by bargaining among the elements with a hodge podge sure of popular rejection as a result.

"But the mere calling of such a convention would open a Pandora's box of trouble for the people of the United States. National prosperity and security rest upon the foundation of confidence in the future, and with every fundamental of the Constitution challenged, and its fate in doubt, during a period of propaganda such as this country has never before known, that foundation would be undermined. The effect upon the common welfare would be seriously adverse.

"We have the most stable and prosperous civilization in the world. Its security is buttressed in a Constitution which has weathered the exigencies of nearly a century and a half. To render uncertain the future of that Constitution by entering upon an attempt at general revision would be an act of folly. The time to vanquish this movement for a constitutional convention is in its beginning stages. Those who are opposed to this thoroughly unsound scheme should make themselves heard."

It is said that more men than women commit suicide. This is because the men have all the things to worry about that the women do and then have the women to worry about besides.

Many Railroads Employ Live Stock and Agricultural Experts to Help the Farmer

For a railroad to be prosperous, the territory it traverses must be prosperous. The steam railroads of the United States are partners, not only of industry, but of the farmers as well—a great many of them employing trained experts in every line of agriculture and live stock endeavor, men who have had technical as well as practical experience in producing and marketing crops at a profit. These men are at the service of farmers who need their advice and counsel.

The Louisville & Nashville Railroad has for many years conducted a special department for bringing good farmers to the South, and for co-operating with them to the fullest extent in making their new homes pleasant and profitable—advising as to what crops to plant, and when to plant them; helping to arrange co-operative marketing plans and shipping arrangements; and literally doing everything in their power to help Southern farmers to achieve health, wealth and happiness. The help of these experts is gladly given without cost as a part of the L. & N. service.

BLEED THROUGH

THORSBY SECTION

(R. E. NORTON, Manager).

All members, and others interested, are asked to attend a meeting of Thorsby Fruit and Truck Growers Association to be held at Thorsby public school building at 2 o'clock p. m., Saturday the 13th day of August, for the purpose of discussing marketing crops from other points, and other business. Don't fail to attend.

A serious automobile smashup occured at Thorsby about 5 o'clock Sunday afternoon, during a thunder storm when Astro Wright, going south on the highway, alone in his Ford car saw another Ford coming north on its proper side of the road, but going so fast that young Wright sensed danger and ran his car off the pavement. The speeding car, evidently without restraint or guidance, plunged diagonally across the highway and struck Wright's car, making junk of both cars. When the occupants of the battering ram were segregated from the wreck the driver proved to be Thomas Childress, son of Clarence Childress, accompanied by two young ladies named Watson, all neighbors of young Wright in Pleasant Grove community. All of these young people had, as if by a miracle, escaped death or serious injury. One of the young ladies received a flesh wound which required several stitches to patch up.

We hope that the day is not far distant when people who show such reckless disregard of public safety will have their license revoked if they drive anything more speedy than a wheelbarrow on public highways.

Coolidge Crowd Will Back Fess

Push Ohioan For Nomination; Other Mid-Western States Have 'Favorite Sons'

Rapid City, S. D., Aug. 4.—A concerted attempt among the Coolidge Republicans throughout the nation to throw their strength to Senator Simeon D. Fess, of Ohio, as a presidental aspirant is the outstanding of a score of developments that followed president Coolidge's surprise announcement that he will not be a candidate for reelection.

Astonishment that swept the nation by the laconic declaration that he did not choose to run again grew to the proportions of a tidal wave Thursday.

President Coolidge, smiling and happy, with all the outward appearances of a man from whose shoulders a great burden has been lifted, arrived at his executive offices early in the morning to find that every messenger boy in Rapid City had preceded him.

Telegraphic messages had poured in upon him from the four corners of the country. To his surprise, a big batch had come from the democratic South. The first telephone call had come from a Wall Street banker who had been unwilling to believe the newspaper reports of his decision not to run. The first telegram was from a woman in Dallas, Texas urging him to reconsider.

Of the varied themes of sentiment that his declaration stirred throughout the country, the following two, literally translated, were the most common in the deluge that poured in on him Thursday:

"You have nothing to say about it. The Republican Party is going to renominate you whether you like it or not."

"You have made a good president. I regret very much your decision."

Despite how politicians regard it, the majority feeling of the nation as expressed in the messages received here is that the president is definitely out of it. The people seem to regard him as a man who does not talk much but means what he says.

The president's attitude on the soldier's bonus, as expressed in his first message to Congress, was Thursday recalled to those who suggested that his "I do not choose to run" left him free to accept renomination if the people chose to put him in the running.

Bonus Message

In his bonus message, the president said, "I do not favor the bonus," and Republican Floor Leader, Tilson, of the House, and other G. O. P. stalwarts raced through the capitol corridors saying, "The president intends this to be a negative statement that doesn't mean anything. Let's put the bill across." They did. The president vetoed it.

A common belief here is that the president has increased his popularity 50 per cent by announcing his decision not to run while at the zenith of his career and reduced by the same percentage any chance of obtaining renomination in the Republican convention next year.

He left all other possible candidates a free field for their campaigns. That they have taken advantage of it is indicated by reports received at the Summer White House that Gov. Lowden's organization has gone to work throughout the country and that a steady procession of Herbert Hoover adherents has made its way to newspaper offices throughout the country with the suggestion that Hoover, Dawes, and all other Republican notables will set out to capture delegates who will be personally loyal to them and not to President Coolidge. These delegates would be perfectly free to say, I am pledged to Mr. Blank, not to President Coolidge, because he said he would not run again."

"Favorite Sons" Busy

Advices from the mid-Western states tell the Coolidge people here that a host of favorite-son-candidates is ready to spring up, like Watson, in Indiana, Willis in Ohio and Wadsworth in New York. By such antics they would be enabled to obtain enough delegates to hog-tie the next convention.

Whether the president knows it or not, his personal followers are already launching a movement in behalf of Senator Fess. The president likes the Ohio Senator and regards him as a man of ability and good vision. Fess was the strongest supporter of the president's farm-relief plan. He is a dry, who would get the church backing. He completed a survey of political conditions which he reported to the president in Washington shortly before the Black Hills trip was begun and he will be here in a few days for a series of conferences with the president.

The pro-Fess movement among the president's followers has a double significance. If Fess could not be nominated, he would be a center around whom could be united a block of delegates sufficient at least to hold the balance of power in the convention. He could have with him a block of delegates who could be thrown to Coolidge if by any chance the exigencies of the situation demanded the renomination of the president.

The president, personally, is disposed to sit on the side lines and watch all candidates without giving a lift to any of them. Retiring at the zenith of his popularity, such as his father would have liked to see him do and as Mrs. Coolidge has been urging him to do, the president would not be disposed to diminish his standing by engaging in any partisanship battle that might diminish his standing.

WAYS TO BLOCK CROOKED PROMOTERS

By W. R. MOREHOUSE
Public Relations Commission, American Bankers Association

(This is one of a series of articles exposing the wiles of sharpers who are after your money.)

MANY reliable corporations, firms and individuals are engaged in developing mining properties, drilling for possible new oil wells and promoting new inventions and enterprises. On the other hand many unreliable persons are ostensibly engaged in the same pursuits, but in reality are only promoting frauds. Therefore, every investor should first divide the sheep from the goats before he hazards his savings. Because there are many dishonest manipulators using mining, oil, invention and promotion terms to deceive does not mean that all promoters in these fields are crooked. The truth is, there are many trustworthy men engaged in promoting enterprises that are honest investments. The problem is to know the difference between promoters of the reliable type and the high-pressure variety. The former are engaged in legitimate business. The other group is engaged in fleecing the public.

W. R. MOREHOUSE

The number of those who deliberately scheme to defraud is large and they are shrewd and deceitful. For this reason those who cannot afford to lose their savings should not trust entirely to their own judgment in making investments.

In order to divide the sheep from the goats—to distinguish between reliable and unreliable promoters, to tell the good investments from the worthless—the inexperienced investor should consult his banker or let the National Better Business Bureau, whose headquarters are in New York City, advise him. It costs nothing to get such advice from either source. It is safe to say that if those who have lost their savings through fraudulent schemes had followed this simple course they would still be in possession of their money.

Get the Facts

Invariably, get the facts and take no substitute. There is nothing better and nothing just as good as the facts when it comes to withdrawing your savings from the bank and investing them. The facts about an investment either strengthen its position or show it up to be risky—oftentimes too risky for the person who cannot afford to lose.

Good Advice that Prevented Disaster

New schemes to defraud are being hatched daily. The unscrupulous promoter never sleeps but is continuously plotting new methods of attack on the savers' hard-won accumulations. The liberties he takes with the law and the schemes he designs for belittling the sound advice of responsible persons makes it even more essential for investors to get the facts.

Remember that anything that is worth investing in is worth knowing about as to its safety, its income, and its marketability. Any investment which is enshrouded by a screen of glowing promises or is so complicated that neither you nor your banker can fathom it and get the hard facts isn't an investment you can afford to put your money into.

Make it an unbreakable rule to get all the facts, whether the investment be large or small, and you will save yourself the heartaches and bitter disappointment of losing your savings.

Millions of dollars which have unfortunately been lost through poor investment might have been saved if the investors had taken time to investigate before investing. There is always need for capital in safe, honest business and so great is the legitimate demand for investors' funds that not one cent need be wasted by them on fraudulent schemes.

Don't Trade Good for Bad

Don't exchange your investments for others you know nothing about. Some time you may be approached to make a trade by a plausible person claiming to have better investments to offer than those you have. Recently a woman owning a block of gilt-edge public utility stock was approached by two smooth sharpers and urged to exchange it for stock in a fruit company which, she was told, was not only very valuable then but would increase rapidly in value and soon make her independently wealthy. Fortunately she told her neighbor about her offer. It happened that the neighbor had recently been defrauded in a similar way. She advised the second woman to report her offer to the local better business bureau. Having handled many similar situations the bureau instructed the woman to make an appointment for the traders to meet her in her home.

They were on hand at the appointed hour. With the cunning of expert swindlers they proceeded to inveigle her stock away from her, assuring her that if she exchanged her public utility stock for that of the fruit company there was no doubt she would become very rich. But just as they were spreading out before her a beautifully embossed stock certificate the bureau's detective stepped out from his place of concealment and told the swindlers he had come prepared to take them for a ride in his car. They protested loudly and even struck at him, but experienced as he was in handling persons who resist arrest he soon had them handcuffed together.

Investigation revealed that the certificate of stock of the fruit company was fictitious. No such company had ever been organized. The evidence also disclosed that some certificates had already been issued and exchanged and there were a large number more ready for future use whenever a trade could be arranged.

Literally thousands of inexperienced investors are being swindled out of their good investments in such trades. It behooves all persons who have good investments not to exchange them without first getting all the facts from their banker or other person fully qualified to advise and protect them.

(A future article will tell of more schemes by which people are defrauded of their savings.)

Remarks From County Demonstration Agent

Mr. Stapp will Meet with Farmers at Different Places in County in Near Future

To all interested in the progress and further development of Chilton County.

During my past seven years experience in agricultural extension work I in agricultural Extension work I don't think I have ever witnessed as much interest in our work as there seems to be in Chilton County. Of course I have not been all over the county, neither have I seen nor met all of you people, but at least 98% of the people with whom I have met have expressed a keen interest in the work.

Now what I want to say to you good believers in Chilton County, is that I have already caught your spirits of boosting, formerly your county, but now OUR county. I think we have a wonderful county here already, but I know that further development will come very rapidly if we will all work together.

It is my aim and policy to work with all forces, everywhere in the county, that are striving to bring about further progress and development; and in fact in all that tends to make Chilton County a better place in which to live.

I am afraid that some of those who are apparently much interested in our work now may become discouraged because they may not be able to see some very quick changes, but I wish to call your attention to the fact that our work is bigger than any one man and that like any other safe business, the changes and development that are sure to come, will not be brought about in one month nor one year. It takes time to build up a big constructive and worth while county-wide agricultural program.

I am here to work with you and if everybody works and nobody shirks, we can make old Chilton County come to the front in the next five years as she has never done before in the same length of time.

I am scheduling below some meetings. I will appreciate it very much if you will arrange to attend one of these meetings. I want to get acquainted with you, study your needs and the needs of your community so that it will be of most benefit to you, to your community and to the county at large.

MAKE CLANTON BETTER TOWN

Speaking of the constant agigation to make Clanton a better town, Mr. W. C. Robinson says: "The best way to make Clanton a better town is to make better farms and more successful farmers in the communities thruout Chilton County." Sounds logical to us.

We speak sometimes of bringing industries to Clanton. We already have the greatest industry possible—the splendid farms throughout our county. With the coming of a county farm agent now there is a bright hope for wonderful progress in the next few years. And when the farms of the county become more prosperous, Clanton is sure to get her share of that prosperity.

NEWS OF PROVIDENCE, BEAT 13

Crops here are needing rain. Cotton picking is commencing.

Mr. C. S. McCain has sold his farm near Providence, much to our regret. Mr. McCain is a good citizen who is worth much to the community.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Hollidaye of the Chilton County News, spent the past week end on a trip to South Alabama. They returned Monday.

OUR EAST AND WEST HIGHWAY

We commend to the people of Clanton and Chilton County the importance of the proposition mentioned in the letter of Dr. Gragg in last week's paper—the East and West Highway through Clanton. No other future road project in Alabama can possibly hold such importance for Clanton and Chilton County as this one.

The State has already adopted the road from Selma up to Plantersville and into Clanton. The Highway Commission has indicated that this road will be surveyed and made one of the early projects for construction. It is logical to consider that this road coming into Clanton from Selma on the west should extend eastward across Coosa River and on to some point that will make direct connection with the State roads now in existence from Sylacauga through Talladega, Anniston, and Gadsden. This would place Clanton at the great cross-roads of Alabama.

We hope our citizens and officials will take the suggestion of Dr. Gragg and get busy with some kind of move looking toward the building of this road. The matter should be placed before the State Highway Commission with all of the force at our command. Who will suggest the first move in this direction?

JESSE BAKER GOING TO MARKET FOR BALTIMORE STORE

Mr. Jesse Baker, proprietor of the Baltimore Store, is away this week on a buying expedition. He will return this week end and will go away again for another trip of the same kind next week.

Mr. Baker stated upon leaving here for the markets that his fall and winter goods which were bought in advance are already beginning to come in. He will now make further purchases of a number of items, all of which, when delivered here will fill his store to the top shelf.

For the past twenty years Mr. Baker has been closely identified with the mercantile business of Clanton, and there is no one among our merchants who has a keener insight into the business world than he. His ability to understand business conditions makes him a keen buyer, and it is sure that when the fall and winter rush commences it will find The Balimore Store all fixed and ready with some of the most attractive bargains to be found anywhere. The secret of the Mercantile business is in the buying, and Mr. Baker knows how and when to buy.

MR. BINFORD DIED AT AUBURN LAST TUESDAY

A telegram was received Tuesday afternoon by County Farm Demonstration Agent, C. E. Stapp, from Dr. L. N. Duncan at Auburn, stating the death of Mr. E. E. Binford occured at Auburn Tuesday morning. The sad news was a distinct shock to many friends in Clanton. Mr. Binford was here last Wednesday before the commissioners court when they closed the deal to employ Mr. Stapp as county agent. He was not feeling well at the time, but it was not thought that his illness would bring him to death in less than a week .

Mr. Binford has been connected with the agricultural extension work at Auburn for several years. He was district supervisor of farm demonstration kork for a large portion of the state, which position he has held with ability and credit for a number of years.

He was recognized as a very valuable man in his work, and it is indeed regrettable that death has called him. He was a man of middle age and doubtless had hopes of many more years of usefulness.

Death of B. B. Comer In Birmingham Aug. 15

Famous Ex-Governor of Alabama and Leader of Industrial Enterprises in Birmingham District

Braxton Bragg Comer, former Governor of Alabama, and for years one of the leaders in the industrial enterprises in the state, died at his home in Birmingham Monday afternoon. Mr. Comer was unconscious when the end came, and was unable to recognize his children, among whom was Mrs. Craig Smith, who had arrived at the bedside of her father Monday morning after an interrupted tour of of Europe by her father's illness.

Physicians of national prominence had attended Mr. Comer for several weeks in an effort to forstall death, but they were unsuccessful. The manufacturer's illness became critical on July 6th, and he had been in a state of semi-consciousness at brief periods only since that time.

For a long time Mr. Comer had been recognized as one among the great leaders in business and industrial circles of Birmingham and Alabama. He has been at the head of various enterprises since the year of 1897.

He became Govrnor of Alabama on January 4, 1907, and served in that office until 1911. Later when United States Senator John H. Bankhead died Mr. Comer was appointed to finish his term in the Senate.

Mr. Comer was born at Spring Hill, in Barbour County, on November 7, 1848. He was married to Miss Eva Jane Harris, of Cuthbert, Ga., in 1872. It was in 1890 that Mr. Comer moved to Birmingham. The city was only 25 years old when he went there as President of the City National Bank and of the Birmingham Flour Mills. A short time he became president of the Avondale Cotton Mills, which position he held at the time of his death. He was recognized as one of the leading cotton manufacturers of the South.

It may be truly said that no man of his day and generation will leave a deeper impression upon the pages of Alabama's history than Braxton Bragg Comer. He was one of Alabama's really great men.

Sheriff Collins and Deputy Culp left here last Friday morning carrying Solomon Varner, negro, to the insane asylum at Mt. Vernon near Mobile. They returned Sunday afternoon. While on the trip they took occasion to cross the famous Mobile Bay Bridge and made a short detour into the state of Florida. Mr. Culp states that the most impressive thing he found on the trip was the enormous and tremendous number of mosquitoes in that section of the country. "A night among those mosquitoes," he says, "was worse than the night Jesse Baker and I slept in the railroad switch yard at Meridian, Mississippi."

JONAH AND THE WHALE

Some little stories I learned when a youth,
And one big fish story but every word truth.
Just listen right good while I tell you the tale,
How a soft shell preacher got caught by a whale.

Now Jonah was foolish but the Lord had a school
Where a big fish swallowed and taught him the rule;
There's a part of the story that's awfully sad—
That town full of soft shells, it went to the bad.

The Lord looked at their wicked and ignorant ways,
And threatened destruction in forty more days;
The Lord said to Jonah, go preach My word
To that ignorant crowd, that soft shell herd.

If they don't repent of their wicked ways,
I'll overthrow the city in forty more days.
The Lord called Jonah, but offered him no gold,
Nor tell him the school at which to get bold.

"The people of this city are nothing to me;
I'm a missionary, I'd rather cross the sea."
So Jonah went to Joppa in the greatest of haste,
And boarded a ship for a missionary place.

The Lord looked down on the mssionary board
And saw old Jonah a-running from the Lord;
He set the wind blowing and 'dangered the sail—
They paddled mighty hard but they couldn't help fail.

His ship went rocking and was tossed by the waves,
On a missionary ship Jonah couldn't be saved.
Then Jonah he confessed that missionism's sin;
The board threw him out, the whale took him in.

The whale said to Jonah, "Old preacher, don't fret,
The Lord sent me here to take you back wet;
And next time you'll go where the Lord says preach,
My stomach's a school, you must learn who to teach."

The most miserable ride that Jonah ever had seen
Was him coming home in a live submarne.
Sinners of Ninevah failed not to repent,
For the messenger of warning the Lord surely sent.

On the beds of the sea the whale tried to rest,
He swallowed some food, but it didn't digest.
Jonah got so restless, and sorely afraid—
In the Lord's preacher school he earnestly prayed.

God made a preacher in three nights and days,
But the soft shell Baptists they tried their own ways;
The preacher God made, shut in tight as a lock,
Couldn't get out no matter how hard he'd knock.

After three days the whale drew nigh to the land,
Sick at his stomach and about to expand.
He said to himself, I must surely eject,
His shell is getting hard, he'll never digest.

So his stomach it rumbled and growled and wailed,
The whale pulled to shore to deliver his mail;
He got to the shore and there looked all around,
Then threw the old preacher clear out on the ground.

Then Jonah thanked God for His Mercy and Grace—
An old Baptist preacher goes running a race
And said after three nights and days I have found
That the Lord and His work will never fall down.

He didn't look seaward with a wistful eye,
Nor sit in the sunshine his clothing to dry;
But he ran in hope a true preacher to be
Old Baptist at home, not missionary at sea.

After his schooling, without drying in the sun,
He started for Ninevah as hard as he could run;
When God calls a preacher, he's sure to win—
Missionary on the sea? No, never again!

Jonah got to the city, there none too late
To preach mercy and grace ent'ring the gate;
A hardshell Baptist God had made him to be,
And stopped Jonah from tramping across the sea.

There is just one right way to keep the skin clear and smooth

Skilled physicians recognize the appearance of pimples, boils and other skin eruptions as being an indication of an abnormal condition of the system. This is why so many thousands have been enabled to free themselves of these unsightly blemishes and painful annoyances by taking a course of S.S.S.

You owe it to yourself to try S.S.S. It helps Nature build up red corpuscles. It improves the processes by which the blood is nourished.

"I suffered from impure blood—was weak, and I had lost so much weight, I didn't look natural. I had pimples and was also bothered with a breaking-out that itched terribly. I also had boils one after another. I tried different kinds of remedies, but nothing did me any good until a friend advised me to take S.S.S., which I did. This was some time ago. Now I feel well, and I am getting along fine. S.S.S. stopped the itching and it cured me of boils. I advise all weak and run-down people to give S.S.S. a trial. It clears up the skin and makes you strong and fills you with energy." Mrs. J. W. Barker, 1337 Walnut Street, Cincinnati, Ohio.

S.S.S. is made from the fresh roots of medicinal herbs and plants and is prepared in a scientific way in a modern laboratory. It is time-tried and reliable.

S.S.S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.

Celebrate 15th Anniversary.—

One of the most brilliant social affairs of the season and one characterized by great beauty was the reception given by Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Atkinson at their home Tuesday evening in celebration of their fifteenth wedding anniversary. On the veranda vari-colored Japanese lanterns formed a pretty setting for the affair. The guests were met by Mrs. J. C. Page, who ushered them to the beautifully appointed punch table banked with zennias and snap-dragons entwined in coral vine clusters of grapes hung from the bowl. The delicious nectar was dispensed by Mesdames Grady Taylor and F. B. Shannon, who wore flame colored georgette gowns bleached in crystal. In the living room tall floor baskets and crystal vases holding Hoosier beauty roses, giant dahlias and snap-dragons formed a lovely background for the receiving line. Standing in the receiving line were Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Atkinson and their charming little daughters, Mary Francis and Joan, Mrs. J. F. Bates, D. A. Ripley and C. C. Atkinson. Mrs. Atkinson was handsome in a canary evening gown beaded in rhine stones. Her corsage was sunburst roses and valley lillies. Mrs. Bates wore a black lace dress with a shoulder corsage of orchid sweet peas. Mrs. Ripley was lovely in a blue chiffon gown and Mrs. C. C. Atkinson wore a flesh chiffon with trimmings of lace.

In the music room where the lovely crystal gifts were displayed one of the tables was centered with a miniature bride and groom standing before an improvised altar interspersed with tiny white candles. Wall vases and baskets of asters and pink rose buds added to the attractiveness of the room. The bride's book was presided over by Mrs. Mallie White who was becomingly gowned in flesh colored georgette. The dining room was a scene of loveliness. The color motif of pink and white was developed in the lovely flowers and appointments. A bride's bouquet of roses showered with valley lillies hung out from the chandalier. The table was covered with a cloth of Italian cut work over pink and was centered with a silver basket of pink roses and snapdragons. Tall pink tapers tied with white tulle and valley lillies surrounded the centerpiece.

Features of the evening were a program of music rendered by Miss Sunset Polk and an interesting contest. Mrs. Hodges was presented with the prize, a pair of hand painted candle sticks. Late in the evening a delicious ice course was served to about 75 guests.

AFFAIRS OF U. S. A.

At the close of the World War when it was believed by a goodly number of our people that the treaty of peace would insure "eternal peace and unfversal democracy" a great cry went up throughout the nation for world wide understanding. The League of Nations had been devised in the peace conference, and there were many well-meaning people who told us that if we remained out of the league and the World Court we would be blocking the path to perpetual peace and universal brotherhood.

These good people seemed to be of the opinion that all we had to do was to enter into some sort of agreement with the other nations and that such an era of good feeling would ensue that all of the vexatious problems of the world would be solved as rapidly as they appeared on the horizon.

But in spite of the insistence of these good internationalists the Senate of the United States thought differently. It refused to ratify the league covenant without some very material changes and the league was dropped so far as the United States was concerned. And the American people wisely ratified the action of the Senate in 1920 so that since that date there has never been any danger of our joining the League of Nations.

There followed the fight in the Senate for our joining the Warld Court. A resolution was finally passed providing for the adherence of the United States to the international tribunal but he resolution had been so carefully safeguarded with provisions for the retention of America freedom of action that some of the European nations failed to accept it. And so the probability of our joining the World Court was ended.

It can fairly be said therefore that since 1920 the American people in thought have been steadly turning away from the commitment of agreement which would entangle us in the affairs of Europe. And certainly recents events have shown the wisdom of this trend and have demonstrated the difficulty of accomplishing things through international conferences.

In the Geneva conference recently closed, the principal conferences were Great Bitian and the United States, the two nations above all others which on the surface, appeared the most friendly and most able to get together. And yet with our common language, our common customs and our more than a century of peace, with the politicians of both nations declaring that war between them is "unthinkable" we have never been able to get together on a program of cutting down the number of secondary warships. Now if Uncle Sam and John Bull can't agree on a comparatively simple proposition like this, with each asserting he is not afraid of war with the other, how can it be expected that great questions of world policy can be determined by an organization like the League of Nations, world wide in scope, composed of peoples alien to one another in languages, in customs, in ideals and in purposes?

Certainly the experience at Geneva was not one which would add greatly to our faith in the efficacy of world conferences where questions of national policy and national supremacy and safety are concerned. The relations of the United States and Great Britian have been steadly growing more friendly since the beginning of the present century. Some good people of late have even advocated an alliance between the two nations to guarantee world peace. The impracticability of any such alliance has been definitely shown in the recent Geneva conference. Our relations have grown closer with Great Britain because there has been mutual respect and a tendency to permit each nation to pursue its own policies so long as these policies did not interfere with the interests of the other. But now it must be admitted that temporarily at least, a conference designed to promote good will and peace, has only resulted in checking the growth of this cordial feeling between the two nations. Where before there was only confidence there is now a vague uneasy wonder as to what the other meant by his insistence in standing up for what he regarded as his naval requirements.

Therefore in spite of the internationalist view it is evident that conference between nations do not always promote peace and universal brotherhood.

Do women buy tires? They certainly do. And they show a remarkable preference for Silvertowns—sold by our store.

First—they buy Silvertowns here, because women are always keen judges of value. They know how to weigh quality and price—and get the most for their money.

But with tires—one more thing is vital. Women must have dependability—and that means freedom from tire trouble.

IN MEMORY

On Saturday evening, July 24, the death angel visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. D. N. Robinson of Mulberry and took away their sweet daughter. She had been in bad health for about a year, but she was confined to her bed only 6 weeks before her death. All was done that faithful friends and relatives could do. But God knew best and took her home to a land of peace. There is a vacant place in the home of her father that can never be filled, but we hope to meet her where parting comes no more. The deceased is survived by her father and mother, three sisters, and three brothers, Mrs. Willie Rodgers, Mrs. Kaddie Smitherman and Miss Lena Robinson, Mr. Lester Robinson, Mr. Argnus Robinson, and Mr. Dolby Robinson, and a host of friends and relatives. The remains were laid away in the New Harmony cemetery the next day. Rev. Cox officiated. We wish to thank those who lent a helping hand.—A friend.

To the Tenant Farmers of Chilton County:

You are now beginning to harvest this year's crop. From one-third to one-half of everything that you and your family have labored the whole year to raise will have to be given to your landlord as rent. If you owned the farm that you have cultivated this year, all that you pay your landlord would be added to your profits for this year's work. This added profit would mean much to the happiness and contentment of you and your family.

Resolve here and now to let this be the last year that you will tend a rented farm. Make it a point on your next visit to Clanton to come to our offices and learn how easy it is for you to own a farm of your own.

We are exclusive agents for many desirable farms, both large and small, that may be purchased at reasonable prices and on very liberal terms.

LITTLE BOY INJURED WHEN STRUCK BY AUTOMOBILE

A car driven by a negro named Peavy rushed into a crowd at the railroad station in Clanton Monday afternoon. Henry Lindsey, a 12-year old boy was struck and painfully injured. Several people in the crowd narrowly escaped.

The Lindsey boy was carrying in his arms his little brother, 15 months old, and was unable to get out of the way of the car. The lad was knocked unconscious and carried to the hospital. The Lindsey children are sons of Mr. W. T. Lindsey, a ditch engineer of the L. & N. Railroad. At the present time his family are in Clanton while his crew are located in camp cars here.

At the time the accident happened passenger train No. 3 was standing at the station and blocking the crossing of Second Avenue. The negro driving the car speeded along Second Avenue, and to keep from driving his car into the train turned down the track and into the crowd on the station yard.

City officers arrested the negro, who made bond for different charges which were preferred.

SAMPLES OF CONCRETE BRICK FROM E. F. MEAD AND SON

The Union-Banner was interested last week to look at some samples of concrete building brick submitted by Mr. E. F. Mead and his son, from their plant at Thorsby. These products constitute a variety of fancy patterns and appear to be very beautiful for use in finish work. Tests that have been made show the durability of the brick to be very high.

Mr. Mead has arranged for the Clanton Building Supply Company to handle his products in Clanton where samples are now on display. We suggest that anyone who contemplates building should see these samples.

EXPLANATION FROM MR. BISHOP ABOUT INJURY OF MRS. STROUD

Mr. W. W. Bishop says he fears that the statements in last week's paper concerning the manner in which Mrs. Stroud was injured by a fall at the Central Alabama Hospital, leaves an impression of undue blame on the part of Mrs. Stroud in not heeding his warnings against entering at the side door of the building.

In correction of the statements of last week's paper, Mr. Bishop says: "It was raining very hard when I carried Mrs. Stroud to the hospital, I drove to the side door, and as I did so I remarked that I did not think she could enter the building that way. She said she could go in that way if the door was open. I stopped under the shed where she got out of the car. I tried the bolt and found the door open. I stepped inside to view the place to see if I thought she could go in that way. After seeing inside I said to her: 'I do not see any way for you to go in here.' At the instant I spoke those words, Mrs. Stroud, who had stepped inside the door behind me, fell into the elevator pit. I hope no one will get the idea that Mrs. Stroud is to blame for going into imminent danger over a friendly warning, which was not the case. She, as well as myself, was merely investigating the place to see if she could go in that way when she stepped into the pit of the elevator."

Farmers Preparing for Crop of Hairy Vetch Coming Year

WEEKLY COMMENTS FROM THE DEPARTMENT OF VOCATIONAL AGRICULTURE OF THE JEMISON HIGH SCHOOL

(By J. P. Montgomery)

Farmers and business men of Chilton County are making a drive to place a large order of vetch seed in the county. Mr. J. N. Dennis of Clanton is doing the actual ordering of the seed, at cost to the farmers, thru the Alabama Farm Bureau. Mr. Boyd of the Peoples Savings Bank, Mr. Page of the First National Bank, both of Clanton, J. P. Montgomery of Jemison, and Ezell Thomas of Isabella are receiving orders and turning over same to Mr. Dennis. If you want seed place your order with one of the above mentioned men and with it a deposit of two cents on each pound of seed ordered. The seed will cost about 17 or 18 cents delivered and it takes 20 pounds to plant an acre.

A Few Details Concerning Vetch

1. What is vetch? Vetch is a legume like cowpeas; it takes nitrogen out of the air and stores it in its roots and stems.

2. Varieties. Two varieties have been worked out for Chilton County, hairy and monantha. There is little hope of getting monantha vetch seed this year as the supply is very limited. Chilton County farmers will have to plant hairy vetch.

3. Soils. Hairy vetch will grow on almost any kind of soil but low spots where water stands for even short periods of time should be avoided as vetch will not grow there.

4. Uses. Vetch is planted to turn under to get an increase of at least ten bushels of corn as compared with a like acreage without nitrogen fertilizers. A number of growers claim it will double your yield of corn over acres where no nitrogen is used. Vetch turned under at the right time increases the cotton yield in about the same proportion as for corn. Experiments at Auburn this year, as far as the eye can discern, shows corn planted after vetch with no nitrogen fertilizer to be better than corn with 300 pounds of nitrate of soda and five tons of manure per acre. The exact results of this experiment will be given out this fall after the crops are harvested. Vetch is oftentimes planted with oats and cut for hay. It makes a fine hay. It may be used for grazing in the late fall and winter and early spring months and vetch on land prevents winter leaching and loss of plant food.

5. Rate of seeding. Twenty lbs. to the acre when planted alone. Fifteen pounds and three packages of oats when planted together.

6. Fertilization. On land that was heavily fertilized with a phosphate fertilizer in the spring do not use any fertilizer. On land that was not fertilized this past spring use 400 pounds of acid phosphate or basic slag. Vetch can use the phosphate left in the soil by the spring crop.

7. Inoculation. By inoculation we mean the placing of the right bacteria in the soil. Without these bacteria vetch will sprout, come up and live a few days then turn yellow and die. More failures are caused from poor inoculation than any other one cause. The two favored ways used to inoculate the seed by successful growers are as follows: Pure culture molasses dirt method. You order pure-culture the same time you do vetch seed. This pure-culture contains the live bacteria and comes in a jelly like form. You pour water in the bottle according to directions. Then you add molasses so that the mixture will be a little sticky but not sticky enough for the seed to hold on it in clumps. You dampen the vetch seed with this pure-culture molasses mixture then roll the seed between the hands with dry dirt that has come from a field that grew vetch. In making this inoculation you will need three or four small vessels because you will more than likely pour too much molasses or too much pure culture. If the seed stick in clumps you need more pure culture in the mixture if the seed when rolled in dry dirt fail to hold the dirt in the form of a coat around each seed then you need more molasses in mixture. It generally takes about one fourth or fifth of molasses and the remainder pure culture. After the seed have been rolled in dirt you then mix your seed with as much dirt as possible and sow seed and dirt all together. The pure-culture will cost 60 cents a package and will be enough to inoculate 60 pounds of vetch seed. The second method of inoculating vetch is just like the first only no pure culture is used, just water, molasses and dirt. Vetch seed must always be planted as soon as it is inoculated.

In getting dirt from the field to inoculate vetch scrape off the first two or three inches of dirt and then get soil for the inoculation. Put this soil in the shade somewhere and let it dry. Be sure to keep it in the shade. If the soil is not dry it will cause your seed to stick in clumps when you roll them in the dirt, otherwise, damp dirt is as good as dry dirt. You dry it in the shade because sunshine will kill the bactera because sunshine will kill the bacteria in the soil when exposed to the direct rays.

When you once get a field to growing vetch you are then thru with the inoculating part. Do a good job the first trial and be thru with the job for good.

6. Method of Planting. The freer the land is of rubbish the better the chances are to get a stand. The seed should be planted one and one-half inches deep.

1. On land that grew cultivated crop and has fairly clean middles. If fertilizer is used to throw fertilizer braodcast down middles. Run a gee-whiz down middle. Sow seed and dirt. Run gee-whiz or cultivator of some kind thru middle again to cover the seed.

2. Disk corn and cotton fields. Throw seed on ground. Sow fertilizer if it is used. Disk seed and fertilizer in.

3. Vetch may be planted with a Cole planter made for the purpose. It plants 3 rows of vetch 4 to 6 to 8 inches apart and is used principally where the corn and cotton stalks are left standing and where planting is performed before the corn or cotton crop is harvested.

4. A grain drill is often times used for oats and vetch. It is better to plant vetch seed late in the afternoon or on a cloudy day so the inoculation material which contains the bacteria will get into the soil without being exposed to the sunshine.

7. Time of planting. Vetch may be planted in September and in November but at the present time October is accepted as the month for planting vetch.

NEW CHEVROLET SALES ZONE OPENED AT PORTLAND, ME.

Creation of a new Chevrolet zone sales office, the 20th to be opened since 1925 and the 43rd now established in the United States, more than half of which have parts distribution depots providing the public with quicker and more efficient service, was announced today by H. J. Klingler, general sales manager of the Chevrolet Motor Company.

The new zone located at Portland, Me., is the ninth to be established since the first of the year, according to Mr. Klingler, others been opened at Columbia, S. C., Salt Lake City, Utah, Richmond, Va., Butte, Mont., El Paso, Tex., Charleston, W. Va., Wichita, Kan., and Seattle, Wash.

"The rapidity with yhich new offices have been opened this year denotes a generally healthful condition of business throughout the country," Mr. Klingler said. "It will be noted that our new offices are located in every section of the United States, an indication that conditions are unformily good, which augurs well for the fall outlook. Further evdence is contained in the fact that Chevrolet sales for every month this year showed a substantial gain over the same period last year, and August sales for the first ten days indicated that we will have the best August on Record. By the middle of the month factory production will have exceeded the entire output for 1926.

"Our policy is to place the new zone offices wherever the growth in car sales warrants it. With this in mind we get a new index of the enormous increase in production and sales of Chevrolet by noting that in 1925 we had only 23 zone offices and an annual output of 519,060 units. Today we have 43 zone offices and our factories are planning to turn out nearly one million cars this year.

"The new office at Portland gives us a network of wholesale points in every section of the country, extending from Portland, Me., to Jacksonvill, Fla., and from Seattle, Wash., to Los Angelus Cal., with many intermediate points such as Fargo, N. D., El Paso, Tex., and Columbia, S. C. The last two additions to the list were at the Northern extremities—Portland and Seattle.

"Towns which acquire new zone offices benefit considerably by their establishment. Each zone office has its own sales manager and an assistant, a parts and service manager, a sales promotion manager, car distributor manager, an office manager, an accountant, five to twenty field representatives, and a large clercial force adquate to handle many thousands of business each year.

"In addition to the car sales duties executed at these zones, they prove of still further service to the public under our present plan that makes many of them also parts distribution centers. At 24 of the 43 zones provision has been made for the establishment of parts depots, each one to carry from $50,000 to $500,000 worth of parts, and bringing to the communities in which they are located a business of these proportions. This will obviate the delay entailed when new parts have been forwarded from the factory, and will assure Chevrolet owners everywhere of instant service on new parts or replacements."

FARM WOMEN MAKE FANCY PRODUCTS

Auburn, Ala., August, 15—That it is feasible to manufacture in farm homes a large number of valuable products was shown by the attractive exihibit collected for display at Auburn during the short course for farm people.

In the exhibit were hooked rugs made of wool and rags, evening fans made of feathers from farms, tufted counterpanes, linen bags, leather gloves, leather purses, cedar churn dashers, lids, and mixing paddles, reed trays, penendeele baskets, Mary Ann, angel food, and devil food cakes, cottage cheese, canned meats, soup mixtures, and marmalades.

These products were collected from Limestone ,Clay, Morgan, Talladega, Tallapoosa, Tuscaloosa, Bullock, Macon, Houston, Lee, Mobile, Dallas, and Jefferson counties.

In studying thest exihibits Miss Isadora Williams, district home demonstration agent, found high quality material and workmanship. She said that the exihibit was conclusive evidence of excellent talent among farm people to make such products. "They are anxious to make them provided they can sell them" she said. "A steady and dependable market will result in manufacturing these things in much larger quanities.

FARM AND HOME FACTS

Fruit trees that get no care do not even produce good shape.

It requires 65 to 100 hours of labor to produce an acre of Irish potatoes.

It is fortunate for Alabama farmers that the price of cotton advanced sharply at the beginning of the harvest season.

In all experiments by the Alabama Experiment Station basic slag has been just as good as acid phosphate for winter legumes.—M. J. Funchess, Auburn.

The 1926 corn crop will be the smallest in twenty six years, acording to the U. S. Department of agriculture.

Tobacco and cotton require more labor than other crops for production and the incomes of these two groups of farmers are at the bottom.

Cotton production east of the Mississippi river requires 100 to 125 hours of labor per acre, west of the river 35 to 40 hours of labor will make an acre.

Loafing hens in the farm flock eat up the profits the busy biddies make. Good poultrymen keep them just long enough to consign them to a poultry dealer.

At the request of members of the Alabama Farm Cotton Association crop in a long time pool. A recent estimate is that this cotton is worth $1,000,000 more than it was worth when it was pooled.

Child-birth
Here is a wonderful message to all expectant mothers!

When the Little One arrives, you can have that moment more free from suffering than you have perhaps imagined. An eminent physician, expert in this science, has shown the way. It was he who first produced the great remedy, "Mother's Friend." Mrs. C. J. Hartman, Scranton, Pa., says:

"With my first two children I had a doctor and a nurse and then they had to use instruments, but with my last two children I used 'Mother's Friend' and had only a nurse; we had no time to get a doctor because I wasn't very sick—only about ten or fifteen minutes." Use "Mother's Friend" as our mothers and grandmothers did. Don't wait, start today, and meanwhile write to Bradfield Regulator Co., BA 46, Atlanta, Ga., for a free illustrated book containing information every expectant mother should have. "Mother's Friend" is sold by all drug stores—everywhere.

BLEED THROUGH

Reunion of Conway and Barnett Families at Jemison last Sunday

Tuesday August 16, marked the 50th golden milestone in the happy and successful married life of Mr. W. H. Conway and Mrs. Ellen Barnett) Conway, of Jemison. In celebration of the happy event about 150 relatives from the four corners of the state gathered at their home on Sunday last to recount with these beloved people the many happy occasions that have marked their journey thus far through life.

The people of Mr. Conway at the time of the Civil War, following the death of father and mother in Chambers county, were scattered into different parts of the state. Never before has there been an occasion when these were gathered together until that glad day of last Sunday. Mrs. Conway's people, the Barnetts, are scattered over the state also. They were present with her at the anniversary occasion.

Mr. and Mrs. Conway were married in Coosa County. In November of August 16, 1887, near Goodwater, the same year, they came to Chilton county, where they have lived ever since. Their children, all of whom were with them on Sunday, are as follows: W. G. Conway, of Calera Route 1; Mrs. Susie Middlebrooks, of Birmingham; C. C. Conway, of Jemison; Dr. A. A. Conway, of Jemison; Mrs. W. J. Vinzant, of Union Grove; E. F. Conway of Union Grove; Mrs. Nat Smith, of Union Grove; Mrs. Bertha Burnett, of Titus. With exception of two, all the grandchildren were present.

The only two sisters of Mr. Conway now living were present: Mrs. Fannie McWhorter, of Goodwater, and Mrs. Nancy Sims, of Greenville.

Brothers of Mrs. Conway were present as follows: Fed Barnett, of Hollins; Frank Barnett, of Bessemer; Glenn Barnett, of Baldwin County; Albert Barnett, of Jemison; Roan Barnett, of Jemison.

Early Sunday morning automobiles began to arrive bringing different ones of the relatives from different places. All day they continued to come until as late as middle of the afternoon. All in all there were noted about 150 in attendance. More than sixty came from Birmingham.

Mr. Conway is 72 years old and Mrs. Conway is 71. Their lives stand out as a distinct success measured in terms of a valuable service rendered to their neighbors, friends, and associates. They have always maintained a high standard of character and reputation as useful Christian citizens. They have reared a family of boys and girls worthy of the footsteps of an honored father and mother.

"When I was married," said Mr. Conway, I could not read my name in print. My good wife taught me to read and write. She has been the inspiration of my ideals, and the constant faithful companion in all my joys and sorrows; in all my successes and failures she has been patient under burdens and cheerful always."

All of Sunday morning was spent by the gathered throng of relatives in talking with one another, in renewing old acquaintances. Many there had never met before.

About noon all were asked to gather in the front yard. Mr. Conway stood on the front porch and addressed a few brief remarks to the great family before him. He introduced Hon. J. Osmond Middleton, who in a short talk of very beautiful language fittingly expressed the sentiments which had brought the assembly together. As he painted the beautiful picture in words how Mr. Conway and Mrs. Conway had pledged their lives to mutual service, and how they have succeeded in faithfulness to thir vows, many tears were seen to flow amongst those whose hearts were keenly touched.

The address of Mr. Middleton closed with this quotation from a famous poet:

"Your golden wedding! Fifty years
Of comradeship through smiles and tears!
Through summer sun and winter sleet,
You walked the ways with willing feet;
For, Journeying together thus,
Each path held something glorious.
No winter wind could blow so chill
But found you even warmer still
In fervor of affection—blest
In knowing all was for the best;
An so, content, you faced the storm
And fared on, smiling, arm in arm.

Mr. and Mrs. Conway have made a deep impress upon the pages of time in which they have lived. Their friends are thousands, and all recognize in them the sturdiness of charater, the fine golden threads out of which their noble souls arc made.

Mr. Conway is as widely known as any citizen of Chiton County. He has been in public life in this county for many years. He was at one time a member of the Court of County commissioners, to which place he was elected by his fellow citizens. He brought to that office a degree of vision and ability which has seldom been equalled if ever excelled, by any man who has been vested with the honors and duties of that importan office.

For ten years he was in public life. Much of that time he spent as county farm demonstration agent, going all over the county in the interest of improved farming and modern agricultural methods. The work of Mr. Conway is considered by many of our leading citizens as the breaking of the dawn that brought Chilton County into modern farm progress. Mr. Conway expresses the gist of his agricultural doctrine in a few words: "I always told the farmers that the fellow who went into farming in this county to make money most generally made money out of farming."

The grandfather of Mr. Conway was Hugh Conway, a pioneer Baptist minister, who is said to have established the second Baptist church that was instituted in Alabama. It was at Concord in Lee county, near Columbus Ga.

His father was Henry Conway, who lived in Chambers County. He died in 1861, and his wife followed him a short time later. Young Henry Conway, at the death of his father and mother, was taken by an aunt and carried to Tallapoosa County, where he grew to young manhood. As stated above, he was married in 1887 to Miss Ellen Barnett, of Goodwater, moving to this county in the same year.

Mrs. Barnett's mother was a Robinson whose only brother now living is Mordecai Robinson, of Mineral Springs. He was present at the reunion last Sunday.

A long table was arranged across the front yard in the shade of the trees. Upon this table a dinnner was spread at noon hour. It was one glorious feast and proved one of the enjoyable parts of the day. Many who came brought a picnic dinner, which supplementing the generous preparation of Mr. and Mrs. Conway, made enough edibles to satisfy a gathering twice the size.

The day done, friends parted again. Cheerful goodbyes were said with here and there a tear. The first reunion of the Conways and Barnetts: a happy one indeed. May their tribe increase, and may their usefulness and honor as good citizens be doubled many times as the fleeting years go by, is the wish of a friend who was invited to attend this occasion last Sunday.

FOUR PEOPLE HURT WHEN HOTEL BURNS

Maplesville Hotel Blaze Traps Ten Who Escape by Leaping From Second Floor

Four persons were seriously injured at two o'clock last Saturday morning in a fire that destroyed the Maplesville Hotel, the Hardy Grocery Store, and the Masonic Hall, causing damage estimated at $10,000. The injured, all of whom were guests of the hotel, were:

Mr. and Mrs. Ephriam Jackson, and their four-year old son, of Augusta, Ga. Mr. and Mrs. Jackson received severe burns. The boy received slight burns and a broken arm.

F. A. Vaughn, of Birmingham, received a compound fracture of the right leg, and severe burns.

All of the victims were brought to Central Alabama Hospital at Clanton.

Mr. Vaughn died Sunday night about 8:30. The body was taken in charge by Martin, undertaker, and shipped to Birmingham Monday morning.

The other parties, according to reports from the hospital, are doing well and have good chances of recovery.

When discovered, the blaze was rapidly consuming the hotel, and the guests were forced to leap from the second floor of the building in their night clothes.

The two-story frame structure, along with a brick building adjoining, which housed the Hardy grocery store and Masonic hall, was destroyed with amazing rapidity. All efforts of the citizens to extinguish the fire was soon abandoned, and they turned their attention to preventing the spread of the blaze to other nearby buildings.

Ten were trapped by the fire.

All of the persons taken to the Clanton hospital were forced to leap from a second floor window to the ground. Besides being burned, they were hurt from the fall.

Mrs. Ella Pill, proprietress, was burned by the flames before she could make her escape, but her condition was not considered serious.

The hotel was of a 20-room capacity. The alarm was sounded after neighbors had heard the screams of the ten occupants of the hotel. Names of the other four were not learned and the register in the hotel lobby was destroyed in the conflagration.

Persons who gathered around the burning building after the alarm had been sounded, formed bucket brigades and after fighting for more than an hour to extinguish the blaze, their efforts were fruitless. The masonic hall, which occupied the 2nd floor of a two-story building adjoining the hotel, was destroyed by the flames.

Damages to both the Masonic hall and the hotel was estimated at approximately $10,000. Origin of the blaze was undetermined by officials.

MADE TEN THOUSAND DOLLARS ON FIFTY ACRES OF SATSUMAS

Last Friday there passed through Clanton a man by the name of Roy J. Ellison who was on his way from his home in Lexley, Ala., Baldwin County, to his old home in Altoona, Ala. Mr. Ellison stopped at the Banner office, being accompanied by Mr. A. W. Bethel, the auctioneer, and told us his big success in farming since going to Baldwin County.

Mr. Ellison reported that in 1925 he made on the 50 acres of Satsumas $10,000. In 1926 the storm hit him cutting the crop to about one-third. This year he has fair prospects for a much larger yield even than that of year before last.

We are pleased to hear of farmers in Alabama making such a success as is reported by Mr. Ellison. Imperial Baldwin is the place to make money farming.

HOME DAMAGED BY FIRE IN CLANTON TUESDAY P.M.

Last Tuesday afternoon about 3 o'clock the home of T. E. Wyatt on Second Avenue was discovered to be on fire. The alarm was given and shortly a large crowd was gathered to offer assistance. The city fire department got to the scene in time to save most of the building.

The fire originated in a closet in the center of the house. Practically all of the family's clothing was in the closet and was totally burned up before the fire made much showing elsewhere in the house. Practically all of the household goods were saved with the exception of damage from water and handling.

The fire brigade did valient work in saving the house, and the help extended in getting out the household goods was inestimable.

SOMEWHAT DISCONCERTING

It is a mighty unhandy job to get out a newspaper when one of the bosses' house gets afire along about the pinch of the game. The Union-Banner had that experience this week, which we hope doesn't come our way again soon.

Just as we were ready to begin printing the paper Tuesday afternoon the home of T. E. Wyatt was found to be ablaze. Everything in the printing plant of course stopped and the force joined with valient friends and neighbors and the city fire crew in an effort to save the house and contents.

The ordeal upset us much for this week, and if anybody finds any short comings in the paper, please be as charitable as possible in considering same, remembering, as many of you perhaps know by experience, that when a fellow's home burns it puts him in a bad fix.

Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Curlee of Birmingham left Monday after a visit to Mrs. J.M. Curlee and Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Rockett.

Meeting of Farmers Called For Wednesday, August 31 at the Courthouse

A meeting of the Chilton County Cooperative Association has been called to meet Wednesday afternoon, August 31, at the courthouse in Clanton at 2:30 o'clock.

Two very important matters are to come before the association at this meeting, it was announced by C. E. Marcus, secretary of the association. These matters have to do with the activities of the association in the past, such as final reports on the shipments of corn and poultry during the past season, financial reports by the secretary and the treasurer, and other details in connection with the operation of the association. The other important matter to be taken up at this meeting is the possibility of converting the Cooperative Association into a county unit of the Alabama Farm Bureau.

Heretofore, it has been impossible to organize a Farm Bureau in this county, due to the fact that the county had no County Agent. Now that Chilton County has taken its place with the other progressive counties of the state and has employed a county agent under the Smith-Lever act of the U. S. Congress, the citizens of the county may now enjoy the benefits and priveleges of both the State and National Farm Bureau organizations, by organizing a county unit of the Farm Bureau.

As have always been advocated by the Cooperative Association, organization is absolutely essential for the profitable growing and marketing of farm products, but now, with the services of an efficient county agent available to the farmers of the county the need for organization among our farmers and business men is even greater than before, if we are to enjoy maximum results.

With proper cooperation on the part of our citizens it would be possible to enjoy better results, even by continued operation of the Cooperative association, but will unquestionably be more beneficial to convert the Cooperative Association into a County Farm Bureau and thereby receive the benefits and advantages of the State and National Farm Bureau, which is recognized by agricultural and business authorities the country over, as the best and most proficient organization of its kind in existence.

Mr. Stapp, the County Agent will be present at this meeting and every farmer and business man in the county is cordially invited and strongly urged to attend.

THOMAS CONSOLIDATED HIGH SCHOOL IS NEAR COMPLETION

At the invitation of Prof. J. L. Wilson, the members of the County Board of Education together with a few citizens, went down to look over the Thomas Consolidated high school three miles south of Clanton last Friday. The group of men was carried through the building where several carpenters were at work, and everyone pronounced the house an ideal one. When it is finished, which will require only a few more weeks, the people of that thriving community will have a school building which they may be justly proud of.

The new school is the result of the consolidation of three old school districts of Poplar Springs, Bethel and Maple Springs. All three of these communities will be served by the Thomas school.

CHILTON COUNTY SINGING CONVENTION AT THORSBY SUNDAY

The annual session of the Chilton County Singing convention, using the new books, will be held in the public school auditorium at Thorsby next Sunday, August 28th. Services will begin at 9:30 o'clock and last until in the afternoon. Everybody come and bring your dinner.

Interest in the county singing convention has for the past few years waned; but we hope to renew this interest and get the organization back on foot again. This convention used to afford the best singings in this section of the State, and it behooves all those in the county interested in sacred music to take hold of the movement again and get it going strong.

This convention is not for any one section but for the entire county, and it is hoped that all singers of every community will feel that it is theirs and come to Thorsby next Sunday and let's get more interest aroused in the movement.—Akins Collins, Chairman.

HAND FAMILY REUNION HELD AT POPLAR SPRINGS FRIDAY

The third annual reunion of the Hand family was held last Friday, August 19th, at Poplar Springs church.

The families met about 10, A.M. All happy to meet together after another year had rolled by. Only one member has dropped out and left us since last year, Uncle Tommie Rich.

We had our usual business meeting in the morning after which every body went to the cemetery with flowers and placed them on the graves of relatives. At the noon hour a table was spread down in the grove by the church with delicious eatables. We also had plenty of lemonade. We spent a most enjoyable hour togethr eating and drinking and talking. These reunions will be long remembered by each member of the families present.

At one thirty other relatives and friends came in for the afternoon program. After a short song service led by Rev. J. L. Hand Uncle Bob Grant sang a special song, "My Old Cottage Home," then Dr. Ezell of Clanton delivered a most wonderful sermon on the "Family of Life." The Hand family was glad indeed to have Dr. Ezell preach such a good sermon. After the sermon Prof. O. L. Devaughn led a good song service. We were disappointed that Prof's. W. M. Devaughn and L. F. Grant could not be there and fill their places on the program with some good quartets.. About fifty of the near relatives were present.—Amye Robinson, Secretary.

BOY KILLED LAST WEEK AT JEMISON

12 Year Old Boy Killed By Ford Truck Driven by Bob Anderson Wednesday, August 17.

Johnnie Lewis, age twelve years, son of George Lewis, of Jemison, was killed instantly at Jemison about five o'clock last Wednesday afternoon when struck by a Ford truck driven by Bob Anderson, age 18, son of W. J. Anderson, of Jemison.

Reports of the incident say that the Lewis boy, together with a number of others were engaged in a game of checkers in front of the filling station of W. H. Conway, and that Anderson drove by in a truck. Just as the truck came up to pass the crowd of boys, it is said that the driver gave it a quick pull toward them, apparently in a playful effort to scare them. But the truck passed on by and after it had passed, it is stated that the driver put it in reverse and rushed backward directly into the crowd. All of them succeeded in getting out of the way except the Lewis boy, whose head was caught between the protruding bolster on the back of the truck and the gas pump. His brains were mashed out and death was instanteous.

The Anderson boy was placed under arrest and held until arrival of county officers from Clanton. He was brought to jail. Preliminary trial was held before Judge Wilson Saturday. Bond was fixed at $1,000, which was made and the boy released.

VISITOR FROM CHAVIES ON SAND MOUNTAIN IN DEKALB

The Banner had the pleasure of a call from our good old sand Mountain friend, Charley L. Glasscock, last Friday. Mr. Glasscock lives near Chavies in DeKalb County.

He is a brother of the famous singers, A. H. and E. L. Glasscock of Oak Hill. And by the way, C. L. is some singer himself. He was at Collins Chapel last Sunday afternoon and proved the above assertion to be a fact. And like the other two, he always has an appropriate joke to work in between his songs.

Mr. Glass was accompanied on his trip down to his old home place by his family and son-in-law, Mr. Jones. The Union-Banner was indeed pleased to have Mr. Glass call around to see us, and we were glad to meet him again at Collins Chapel Sunday and hear him sing.

FRANK HIGGIN'S PICNIC LAST FRIDAY

Mr. Frank Higgins and his sons, Joe and Flem, together with their families, poured out a wonderful treat to a number of their neighbors and friends last Friday at the opening of their summer home on Coosa River. The Higginses have gone to quite a lot of effort in making their arrangements for an outing place, and they have succeeded in rigging up what many have termed the prettiest place on Lake Mitchell.

The visitors there last Friday enjoyed one of the greatest feasts of the year. A large table was set under a spreading oak tree in front of the house. It was loaded to capacity with barbecued meats, camp stew, fried fish and many delicacies that had been prepared by the good women of the Higgins families and Mrs. Inez Smith, daughter of Mr. Higgins. No more delightful nor plenteous dinner was ever known anywhere.

Everyone who had the honor of being a guest on this occasion expressed much pleasure and many thanks to the members of the Higgins families for showing us such a splendid good time.

BLEED THROUGH

CHEVROLET PUTS OUT RECORD PRODUCTION THIS YEAR

That business conditions generally throughout the country are exceedingly fair, with every indication that they will continue so this fall, was the keynote of a statement issued Saturday by C. F. Barth, vice-president in charge of manufacturing of the Chevrolet Motor Company. Mr. Barth's statement followed the announcement that on August 12 Chevrolet topped its entire output for 1926 by turning out the 732,147th car so far this year.

"We are looking optimistically toward the Fall season," Mr. Barth declared. "There is ample evidence of country-wide prosperity. Crop conditions are considerably better than last year, diversification having helped the South and West. In the Northwest alone the yield this year is expected to be substantially above the average for the past ten years, in Minnesota, the Dakotas and Montana the grain crop being estimated as worth $150,000,000 more than last year.

"Other healthy signs include heavy railway shipping, which stands above the million cars weekly mark; unusually large postal receipts; exports and imports above last year's high figures; and—perhaps the best business barometer of all—dividend increases far outnumber reductions.

"The automobile, like every other staple commodity, is sensitive to any change in the economic situation. Although Chevrolet may be considered as representative of the industry because the phenomenal demand for our cars is shattering all previous production figures for gear shift cars, their even distribution shows that healthful conditions prevail from Coast to Coast and Border to Border. There are of course spotty areas of unemployment and depression, but they are relatively small and not of sufficient numbers to cause alarm or check the general era of good times ahead.

"We are proceeding under the heaviest production schedule in our history. Not only did we on August 12 turn out the 732,147th car so far this year and thus outstrip our entire output for 1926, but our August schedule calls for 89,474 units, an increase over January, February and July of this year and a considerable gain over August of 1926. Every month so far this year we have increased by a wide margin our own high marks for 1926.

"If the past may be used as a yardstick, we will set still more records before the close of the year. In both 1925 and 1926 our September production exceeded that of any other month in those years.

"While the total volume of automobiles manufactured during the past six months of 1927 may not exceed the output during the same period last year, when the U. S. Census Bureau figures show that 1,694,641 units were built from July to January, it must be remembered that last year was the most successful and remarkable in all automotive history, and that a considerable drop from last year's figures would still not mean that business was below normal.

"With so many healthful signs all pointing the same direction, there is every justification for the manufacturer of a dependable product to look confidently into the future months."

PROMINENT VISITORS ATTEND OLD TIME SING CONVENTION

Mr. and Mrs. B. J. Mize of Moffet, Alabama attended the County Convention at the courthouse Saturday and Sunday. They are anticipating a grand time in Birmingham Friday, Saturday and Sunday at the State Convention.

FORESTS ARE FOR USE

Montgomery, Ala., Aug. 23.—Forests are grown for use, as are other yields from the earth produced by the effort of mankind, and not primarily for their beauty and other incidental considerations. This principle is pointed out by the Alabama Commission of Forestry in connection with various proposals that timber trees should not be cut but should be allowed to remain standing indefinitely.

A thriftily growing forest is a beautiful sight and contributes many collateral benefits to the citizens of the community. However, a field golden with ripened grain or white with bursting cotton bolls is also beautiful, but all of these things are grown to be harvested and used and not primarily on account of their beauty.

Forestry is the business of growing timber for use, and when secondary considerations become the more important, the procedure is not forestry but something else. The incidental benefits derived from forests, such as hygienic influences, watershed protection and recreation, are far too important to be ignored. However these things are inseparable from the practice of forestry, and if the latter is undertaken on a substantial scale no one need fear that there will ever be a lack of the contingent advantages that properly appeal to a large class of citizens.

CANE CREEK

The singing society met at this place Sunday afternoon. The house was called to order by the chairman, Mr. E. C. Traywick, prayer by Mr. P. C. Weldon. A committee was appointed to arrange the program composed of R. E. Jones, F. J. Little and Tom Frank Teel. Those who directed two songs each were: Mr. E. C. Traywick, W. L. Sanders, F. J. Little, R. E. Jones, Tom Frank Teel, Marvin Traywick, Grover Jones, Elvin Traywick and Howard Jones, Misses Myrtle Weldon, Vergie Giles, Mavis Traywick, Meadie Lambert, Estella Giles, Oline Traywick, Weston Littlefield, Ethel Traywick, Lillie Mae Weldon, Glennie Traywick, Mrs. Lelia Gentry and Zula Retherford. Organists for the afternoon were: Misses Myrtle Weldon, Vergie Giles, Lillie Mae Weldon and Mrs. Zula Retherford. Four good quartets were sung by E. C. Traywick, W. L. Sanders, F. J. Little and Tom Frank Teel which were good and enjoyed by all who heard them.

We have had one of the best revivals here this summer that we have had in several years. Sixteen members were added to the church, 12 by baptism and 2 by letter and 2 restored back to the church. We elected Bro. Bailey for our pastor another year in which I don't think we have made any mistake.

The singing school closed Saturday. It was just 10 days but it has been so much help in getting the little ones started to singing and will be such a help to the community for them to begin singing early and keep it up We hope to have better singings than we have had.

Remember next Saturday and Sunday is our regular preaching days here also Sunday School at ten o'clock every Sunday morning. Visitors are always welcome.—Sect'y.

MERCER REYNOLDS ANSWERS CONGRESSMAN E. B. ALMON ON MUSCLE SHOALS QUESTION

The Chattanooga Times of August 4, 1927, printed a letter written by Mr. Mercer Reynolds, President, Chattanooga Chamber of Commerce, to Congressman Ed B. Almon of Tuscumbia, Alabama. The letter was prompted by a statement made by the Congressman to the effect that the cyanamid method for the production of nitrogen is one of the best, and that Muscle Shoals is the best location in the section for such a plant. The letter was prompted further by a statement credited to Congressman Almon in which he declared that anyone who claims that the cyanamid process is obsolete is either ignorant or has selfish interests. The letter follows:

"Congressman Ed B. Almon,
Tuscumbia, Ala.

"Dear Sir:—

"I do not know whether you have been correctly quoted in the Chattanooga Times of August 2nd, and I am enclosing a clipping which might be of interest to you.

"This clipping states that you spent some time with the officials of the American Cyanamid Company while in New York, studying the various processes for the fixation of nitrogen, and that you are convinced that the cyanamid method for the production of nitrogen is one of the best, and that Muscle Shoals is the best location in the world for such a plant. They further quote you saying that when anyone claims that the cyanamid process is obsolete they are either ignorant or have selfish interests, and that you declared this process is the only one now used in the manufacture of fertilizer in the western hemisphere.

"If you are correct in this, why does not Congress give to the cyanamid company the plant which the cyanamid company built for the government at Muscle Shoals and give them free secondary power to operate this plant with the understanding that they sell fertilizer to the farmers from this plant at cost plus 8 per cent, and let them demonstrate their process as they certainly should be able to demonstrate the cost of nitrates made by their process if they had a free plant and free power? I do not think that anyone would object to Congress making such a proposition with the cyanamid company, and I do not think the cyanamid company would for a minute consider such a proposition; in fact, Mr. Bell, the president of the cyanamid company, convinced me and I think the military affairs committee, that the cyanamid company and the Union Carbide Company were not so much interested in making nitrates as they were interested in getting a lot of government property that belongs to the people for almost nothing under the guise of producing cheap fertilizer.

"Judge, had you ever stopped to think that the farmers of the South used about 1,000,000 tons of cottonseed meal last year for fertilizer on account of its nitrogen content, and if Congress is going to donate Muscle Shoals and other power projects on the Tennessee river in order to get cheaper fertilizer for the farmers, is it not going to affect the price of cottonseed meal, not only the 1,000,000 tons that are used for fertilizer, but the entire 3,500,000 tons of cottonseed meal that was made last year, as the 1,000,000 tons that were used for fertilizer made it possible to sell the balance of last year's crop, 2,500,000 tons, for other purposes than fertilizer at a better price than they could have sold it had not this 1,000,000 tons been used for fertilizer?

"If you are going to protect the cotton farmers by such measures as the McNary-Haugen bill and at the same time donate government properties for corporations such as the cyanamid company and the Union Carbide Company in order that they may cheapen a product such as cottonseed meal that the cotton farmers are producing, where is the end?

"If you were to ask the cyanamid company to guarantee to make 50,000 tons of nitrates per year, this would not be as many tons of nitrogen as would be contained in the million tons of cottonseed meal that is now being sold for fertilizer, and if they were to guarantee to make 50,000 tons of nitrates per year I do not believe that they would guarantee to make it by the cyanamid process but they might sign such a guarantee in order to get our best power sites on the Tennessee river for nothing, and they would then, in all probability, make this 50,000 tons of nitrates by one of the more economical processes which is more modern than the cyanamid process, that is, the synthetic ammonia process or others that are possibly more economical than either the cyanamid or synthetic ammonia process.

"The only interest that I have in this entire matter is that I am a large user of electric power and I feel that the development of this entire section depends on our power projects in the Tennessee river being developed immediately by some company that will distribute it to the general public and not by a company that will use what power they need for their own use, and then, in all probability, sell their surplus power to the Public Utilities corporation and, in that case, when this power reaches me it will have two overheads and two profits and possibly three, if the United Carbide and the cyanamid company get these properties—as they would in all probability, pass the surplus power from one to the other and then to the Public Utilities Corporation for distribution. I do not know of any state or national law that could control the price that a private corporation would charge for current going to a public utilities corporation.

"I know and you know that neither the cyanamid company nor the Union Carbide Company is going to build power lines paralleling lines that are now owned by the Public Utilities Corporation.

"Judge, I am surprised that you would, for a minute, consider taking the last available power that West Tennessee, Mississippi and North Alabama have and let it be gobbled up by such concerns as the Union Carbide and the cyanamid companies instead of allowing it to be scattered over that section to be used in manufacturing industries, which is so badly needed, especially in Mississippi and West Tennessee.

"It might be interesting for you to know that the City of Chattanooga sold more manufactured products last year than the entire State of Mississippi, and if this power is gobbled up by the Union Carbide and the cyanamid companies instead of being used for developing West Tennessee, Mississippi and North Alabama, then that section has no one to blame but you and the people who are now openly working for the cyanamid company and the Union Carbide Company under the guise of the Tennessee River Improvement Association.

"I am reliably informed that out of about thirty plants being operated in Europe for the fixation of nitrogen, only three of these plants use the cyanamid process, and that not a new plant using the cyanamid process has been built in Europe in the past three years, while a great many plans using more improved processes have been built.

"Why did the private capital which investigated Muscle Shoals very thoroughly, and the cyanamid process very thoroughly, go to Hopewell, Va., and build an enormous plant, which plant does not use the cyanamid process?

"It is not necessary to operate electro-chemical plants twelve months in the year, then why not give the electro-chemical companies secondary power as there are very few fertilizer plants that operate as much as six months in the year, and we certainly can count on sufficient secondary power at Muscle and the upper Tennessee river to operate these plants from eight to ten months in the year.

"I am not, and the people of this section are not, directly interested in what happens to Muscle Shoals as that power belongs to your section, but we do object to your stopping the wheels of progress in this section when, in fact, the development of the upper Tennessee river will more than double the primary horsepower at Muscle Shoals, as well as at all other dams that are built in the Tennessee river from one end to the other.

Yours very truly,
MERCER REYNOLDS."

NOTE: Mr. Reynolds is not interested in any power company and has stated publicly that he has no intention of becoming connected with such a company. As president of a large civic organization and himself a wholesale user of industrial electric power, his interest in Muscle Shoals is from a standpoint of the future development of his community, and the South as a whole.

LEGUME ACREAGE IS TO BE LARGE

Auburn, Ala., August 23.—Between 500,000 and 1,000,000 pounds of winter legume seed will be planted in Alabama this fall. Most of it will be hairy vetch, say extension service workers at Auburn. If seed available a very large quantity of monantha vetch would be planted but only a small amount of seed can be had. Winter peas, too, will be planted.

The Alabama Farm Bureau Federation has received orders for more than 500,000 pounds of vetch seed. In addition some will be bought thru other channels, the exact amount not being known. The Farm Bureau is handling monantha vetch seed and Austrian winter peas also. The planting season for each of these legumes begins early in September. The experiment station at Auburn recommends planting immediately following the first good rain after September 15. If, however, a good rain falls early in September seed should be planted then.

By the use of winter legumes Alabama farmers are making their own nitrogen. These winter growing plants get started in the winter and then grow rapidly during the spring, during which time they gather quantities of humus or organic matter.

By growing one of these legumes on each acre, officials of the Alabama experiment station say that farmers can produce all the nitrogen they need and not have to go into the market and buy it. It is much cheaper than buying nitrogen.

Those farmers who obtain monantha vetch seed will be asked to produce and save all the seed they can so that within a few years every farmer can grow this crop, save his seed and then plant them.

LOVERS OF CLEAN ENTERTAINMENT MAY ATTEND MILT TOLBERT THEATRE

Lovers of clean comedy entertainment, good music, good acting, and interesting and instructive plays will join with the thousands of friends who have made the name of Milt Tolbert Show stand for unusual entertainment and enjoyment.

The Milt Tolbert Show is coming to Clanton for a solid week's engagement, presenting one of the biggest, most elaborate and finely staged tent theatre performances ever witnessed in this city or section. A big new tent theatre, one of the biggest on the road, will present many features not found in ordinary shows and prove the Tolbert title as the largest and finest tented organization touring the South.

New plays, never before presented outside of the big metropolitan theatres will make up the program. Revues of Broadway, extraordinary feature attractions, singing and dancing will present the people of Clanton and this section with the most complete program ever offered for the small price of admission.

A feature of the Milt Tolbert Show is the Radio Serenaders orchestra, whose music has been broadcast from many stations during the past season. Maybe the reason the Conference at Geneva failed is because Geneva is a wet town.

It isn't the red hand of bolshevism that disgusts us so much as its black heart.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Every year in every state tht vote in the primary elections is getting smaller and smaller.

The corn crop may fail but so long as they can make wood alcohol out of sawdust the bootleggers will still have plenty of pure corn liquor.

Soviet Russia's experiment of trying to teach the world a new system of government appears to be ending in failure.—Des Moines Register.

And to paraphrase the old saw, it probably won't be long before all good aviators go to Paris.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Chicago is said to be the noisiest city in the world and it's going to be a lot noisier yet if the Cubs happen to win the pennant this fall.

When everybody gets to traveling by airplane it's going to make life a lot easier for the state highway commissions.

There are all sorts and brands of gasoline on the market but doubtless the best kind is that which comes from contented oil wells.

When Lindbergh got to Paris he probably thought the hardest part of his job was over, but of course he couldn't anticipate the receptions he had coming to him.

As soon as we get this year's pennant races and world series settled we will have to begin worrying about where the next Republican national convention is to be held.

The only fellow who can best the stock salesman at handing out golden promises for the future is the candidate in the midst of a red hot primary battle.

It is said that lobsters are disappearing from the salt waters adjoining America, but there will still be plenty of them on dry land so long as the girls look as nice as they do now.

When these internationalists and pacificists preach disarmanent for the United States why don't they carry around a China with them as a benevolent example of disarmament?

It is to be remembered that most of the folks who demonstrated for Sacco-Vanzetti didn't demonstrate because they thought the men were innocent, but because the prisoners were reds.

Now that the Geneva conference came to naught the pacifists will no doubt want us to disarm anyhow as a horrible example to the rest of the world.

WE SHOULD HAVE A FARM BUREAU IN CHILTON COUNTY

The suggestion has been made that the Chilton County Co-operative Association, which was organized by a number of farmers during the past year, be altered, amended, combined or whatever is necessary in order to make out of it a Chilton County unit of the Alabama Farm Bureau. We second this suggestion, and believe it would be the means of more advantageous service to a greater number of our farmers.

Not that we would pronounce the Co-operative Association as useless. We believe that it has already proven its worth in some instances, and under conditions as they were at the time, we believe its organization was as good as possible for the farmers at that time and under those conditions.

But conditions are better now. We have a County Farm Demonstration Agent, very happily, which we regard as an asset that doubles the advantages of our farmers many times over. We were not able without a farm agent to step into the farm bureau business. With our farm agent we are able to go the gait. Our county agent alone will do much good for our farmers. But to give him a representative number of our farmers in a county farm bureau he can do much more good.

The farm bureau is a big thing which has done big things for the farmers all over America. We would like to see a thriving and active unit of this organization in Chilton County composed of farmers who are pressing forward to better things.

ROUNDING THEM UP

The Sacco-Vanzetti protest meetings in which the reds in America and their liberal brethern who do not wear the communistic label, have sought to set aside the administration of justice, have come as a distinct shock to those complacent Americans who have assured us that "there is nothing to this red movement anyhow."

If this shock has been great enough to cause a little action along proper lines it will indeed have been beneficial to the American public. There are signs now that it is going to have such an effect. It is said that the next Congress will be called upon to appropriate money to make a thorough roundup of alien reds and anarchists in the United States with a view to deporting those agitators who are in the United States illegally.

According to Commissioner of Immigration, Harry E. Hull, the department is doing what it can with the funds available to round up the alien reds and is meeting with some success although more help is needed. The immigration service is deporting about 12,000 undesirable aliens a year, according to the commissioner, but there are still many more who ought to be shipped out for the good of the country. There are said to be about 113.500 aliens in the public institutions of the country including asylums and penal institutions and about 20, 000 of these are deportable. The commissioner believes that a general survey of the situation should be made so that the country will know just where it stands with regard to undesirable aliens.

Mr. Hull says that the service has all it can do to keep up with the tide. Each day its representatives examine 100,000 persons on the border of America, which amounts to about 35,000,000 persons a year. Of course the more vigilance which can be used the more undesirable aliens can be kept out of the country.

It is to be stated in all fairness, however, that only a small percentage of the aliens in the country are undesirables. A great many of them are here legitimately and will eventually become good citizens. But the undesirable should be weeded out and the immigration laws ought to be strengthened rather than weakened if any changes are made. That there is a considerable Red element in the country is proved by the activity of the radicals in the Sacco-Vanzetti case. Of course not all of these are aliens. But the aliens who are communists and who are here unlawfully should be rounded up, and deported.

By George B. Lockwood

Ultra-pacificists and political demagogues frequently assert that wars are brought about by the pressure of business interests anticipating profit from organized slaughter. Economic considerations have caused some wars, but that business men as a class are more given to the plotting of war than other elements is on the face of it an inaccurate and even stupid statement.

The burdens of war fall heavily upon business enterprise. In its extravagant and wasteful expenditure burdens are created for business, always reflected in high and sometimes almost confiscatory taxes. The fabric of busines is broken down, the channels of business clogged and changed. Speculators and financiers, comparatively few in number, do profit by war; the great mass of business men are its heaviest financial losers.

Those whose memories run back to the Spanish-American War can not forget the abuse showered on President McKinley because he sought by diplomatic means to avert war. For this he was denounced on the floors of Congress as " the tool of Wall Street," deaf to the cry of the suffering in crucified Cuba, and too careless of national honor to be willing to "avenge the Maine," because of the alleged influence upon the administration of great commercial interests which, it was said, opposed war. So long as Congress stood with President McKinley it was overwhelmed with a veritable flood of protests from the people because of the failure to declare war. It was Champ Clark, opposition leader in the House, who declared that the opposition party "dragged the administration into war by the scruff of the neck." This attitude of the minority was due to popular pressure. The popular demand for war seemed almost universal.

Nor can it be said that any of the wars in which this country has engaged were brought about by the pressure of business interests. The financial stake which America had in Europe had something to do with American entry into the war, but it would not have happened if German attacks on American vessels had not aroused popular feeling to a high pitch. Certainly more active than business interests in urging American entry into that war were American idealists and internationalists who believed that the cause of civilization was at stake in the European struggle, and that if the United Statse should remain out of the war, the defeat of the Allies would be followed by attack of the victorious Central powers on the United States.

Our Revolutionary War was not precipitated by business interests; most men of property in the colonies were opposed to a war for separation. It did not cause the War of 1812; it was the Jeffersonian party which precipitated it, not the business sections of the country, notably New England, where opposition to the war rose almost to the point of revolt. In these same sections the Mexican war was opposed. Great business interests of the North sought to avert the Civil War; it was a war of principle, almost unamiously supported in both sections.

It is estimated that the ultimate loss to the Unjted States by reason of the World War will be equal to nearly one-third of the total national wealth at the beginning of the war. It created taxation of unprecented proportions, and business as a whole suffered vastly more than it benefited by reason of the war. Income taxes rose to as high as sixty per cent and never will subside to the pre-war level. Scores of thousands of men thought they had prospered during the war discovered when deflation came that they had suffered heavy losses. No element in the country would be more reluctant to see the country become involved in another war than the representatives of productive enterprise. Indeed, one of the results of the World War has been to make war seem as terrible on the commercial side, as in loss of life and morale.

Ours is a government of public opinion, and we cannot engage in war without the approval of that opinion, as declared through the Congress of the United States, which is not in the habit of flying in the face of that public opinion upon which every member's tenure of office depends. The theory that the American people can be duped into war by prospective profiteers is no compliment to American intelligence or integrity, nor has it historical justification. Such statements are a part of the "bunk" outfit of the demagogues and ultra-pacifists.

The world is progressing. The old-fashioned woman who used to wield a broom with both hands now has a daughter who can handle a steering wheel with one.

The girl who has a boyish bob and who wears knickers still has one thing to be thankful for. She can't raise one of those cute little wolly-worm moustaches no matter how hard she tries.

Representative Garret says that President Coolidge's announcement will not affect the Democratic situation but he fails to go on and say what would affect it.

They used to say that long skirts gathered germs. Now we wonder whether these short skirts increase the amount of eye-strain in the country?

A LESSON IN ONIONS

It is the wail of the free traders that the agriculturists do not benefit directly from the tariff. The free traders waive aside the indirect benefits, including the great home market in which more than eighty per cent of all our products are sold, and declare that the farmer buys articles which are higher because of protective tariff and sells in the open markets of the world.

Of course everyone who has looked into the situation knows that all commodities which are used exclusively by the farmer on the farm are on the free list and pay no duty at all. And it can be found on investigation that there are a great many crops raised by the farmer which would disappear entirely from American soil should the tariff be removed. The western farmer with his beet sugar and other protected commodities, the southern farmer and fruit grower with his specialized products all realize the value of the protective tariff, directly as well as indirectly.

Quite frequently we read in the newspapers of some specific instance in which the growers of the country are demanding even greater tariff. The latest example is that of the onion growers of Ohio and Indiana. Their cause has recently been advocated by Senator Willis, of Ohio, who proves by his statements on the subject that he "knows his onions."

The crop of onions raised in certain parts of the Central States, where the soil is favorable, is very considerable and forms an important part of the economic picture. Egyptian and Spanish onions are now seriously competing with the home product, reducing the price of American onions.

There is a reason. In the first place the Egyptian grower lives in a shanty made of sticks and subsists almost entirely upon rice, with a little dried fish thrown in once or twice a week. He wears little if any clothing and his wages, if he is an employe, as he usually is, amounts to about $3 a month. Compare his condition with that of the average farmer in our Central States and it can easily be seen that he will outsell the American onion grower in his own market unless the latter gets enough tariff to make up the difference in the cost of producing the goods.

The present tariff on onions is twelve cents a bushel higher than under the low tariff law which preceded the present one, but because of higher cost of transportation this is not now regarded as sufficient and an effort will be made to increase the protection.

Here is another example of how the tariff directly helps the farmer. Many more can be found if one will take the trouble to look for them.

DRAIN THE SWAMPS

The legislature has before it a drainage bill providing for the organization of drainage districts and the assessment of the cost against benefiting property. These drainage districts have the authority to issue drainage bonds validated officially by the probate judge of the county concerned. Thus the cost is spread over a period of years and rendered as little burdensome as possible. In the meantime, the land reclaimed by drainage is given an opportunity to yield the returns that would retire maturing bonds.

It is estimated that five million acres in Alabama is subject to reclamation by drainage. This is an important territory and is well worth while to recover from its present state of inutility. Swamp land is usually rich land, having accumulated considerable depth of humus during the centuries of its submergence. Some of Alabama's potentially most productive soil is thus inaccessible until drainage is accomplished. It is very uneconomic to delay its reclamation.

Twice before in the past decade has the Alabama legislature enacted drainage laws, only to have them later voided by the supreme court because of some conflict with the constitution. It is hoped that this time the provisions have been so carefully scrutinized that they will escape a similar fate. If the sponsors of the measure have not already done so, it would be well for them again to study the measure carefully in order to correct any invalidating defects.

So many progressive measures in the past have contained constitutional defects that it would seem the part of wisdom for the legislature to set up some sort of machinery to take up all important acts item by item, scrutinize them exhaustively and remedy all formal defects, so that the will of the legislature might be insured against nullification due to some overlooked conflict with the constitutional provisions. Alabama is now at a critical point in her development. She cannot afford the long delays involved in the avoidable postponements of legislative authority to undertake essential enterprises. When the legislature fails through inattention to technical and formal requirements of our statutes, then the legislature has not fully discharged its trust.—Alabama Journal.

CLANTON Swings To SILVERTOWNS!

Compare these two diagrams, and you see how Water Curing gives uniform heat, uniform cure throughout every Silvertown. Curing from both sides makes them tough clear through.

More Silvertowns on Clanton cars than ever before.

All indications in this section reflect the nation wide swing to Silvertowns—the recognition of Goodrich Silvertown quality, value, economy.

This swing is the reward of building a wonderful product. A tire so good that motorists, using it, have passed along the word of its excellence.

Since the early days of balloon tire experience, the Silvertown balloon tread has been winning friends by its tremendous mileage and silent safety.

Back through the years the WATER CURE has added inner strength and outer toughness to every Silvertown—strength and toughness which the public has discovered and praised. Thus a powerful force has swung Silvertowns to their present dominance—the force of good-will, the hearty word of millions who know by experience what distance and safety modern Silvertowns will deliver.

Mrs. Gracie Wilson of Montevallo visited relatives here last week to attend the meeting.

Rev. G. B. Golden and family of Spring Hill, Alabama were in our midst Sunday.

Several from Cedar Grove and other places attended services here last week.

Rev. W. J. Willis and family of Kinston, Alabama and Clark and family are visiting their daughter and sister, Mrs. J. R. Helms, this week. While here they are planning to visit relatives in Shelby County.

Grandmother Thompson attended the meeting here last week, visiting her children also.

Our revival services began the second Saturday in August. Rev. R. M. Stillwell, Evergreen, was with us and did the preaching until Monday at noon. Rev. C. W. Walton of Notasulga, the helper was here and took charge of the services. We had good interest to begin with and large crowds at both the day and night services. Bro. Walton did some fine preaching, to which the crowd listened with an attentive ear.

We were glad to have with us during the meeting the "Jesse Baker," quartet which was enjoyed by everyone.

We feel that the meeting was a success. We feel greatly encouraged since we heard so many good testimonials, and good talks. There were nine additions to the church. Eight on profession of faith and one by letter. The offering for the helpers was $117.50. Some one said, "It's hard times," but this don't sound like it. This proves that there is some one interested in God's work.

Our Christian Endeavor is growing more interest. We must compliment our young people for their good programs they are putting on.

The death angel visited the home of Bro. Billie Smith Friday night and claimed the soul of Miss Daut Wilson. She had been sick for several weeks but we thought her condition to be better. She passed away sweetly to the unknown world. She told her people she was ready to meet her saviour. She was a sweet woman. Though age was creeping upon her she had a smile for everyone. She came to church the second Sunday and was interested in the services but she took sick Sunday night and was unable to come to the church any more. We feel that our loss is her gain. Surely she is resting in peace. Her remains were carried to Walnut Creek, M. P. Church for burial, of which church she was a member, Martin of Clanton in charge. Rev. F. A. Gibson and Rev. G. B. Golden conducted the funeral. The many beautiful flowers proved the dear sister had many friends.

BOB JONES COLLEGE TO OPEN SEPTEMBER 14TH

Panama City, Fla., August 23.—In a meeting of the Board of Trustees of the Bob Jones College here Dr. Bob Jones outlined plans for the opening of the College on September 14th.

Dr. Jones told the Board that the Bob Jones College is meeting from the start all the requirements of the Southern Association of Junior Colleges, which will mean that any student can do freshmen and sophomore work here and then enter the junior class of any college or university in America.

Dr. Jones further stated that students are being enrolled every day, and that practically every part of the United States will be represented in the student body the first year inquiries having been received within the last two weeks from 19 states, and from Canada.

Plana were worked out for the celebration on the night of September 13th. At this time the new College will be dedicated with a banquet given in the magnificent new College Dining Hall. This banquet will be attended by representative citizens, governors, senators, educators, ministers of the Gospel, and prominent business leaders.

The two boys' dormitories and the girls' dormitory were completed last week, and the furniture is now being placed in these buildings. Many citizens have expressed surprise at the rapidity with which the building program was carried on. Ground was broken last December, and even among the friends of the College there were many doubting Thomases who said the buildings could not be ready by September 14th; but they have been completed a month in advance of the opening.

Dr. Jones says, "The explanation for the success of the undertaking is the fact that I have efficient co-workers, and the rank and file of the Christian people of the country are loyal to the orthodox position of the Bob Jones College; and, best of all, Almighty God has helped us."

Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Higgins Hosts.—

Reynolds, Judge and Mrs. L. H. Reynolds, Mr. J. W. Patillo and family of Billingsley, Mrs. P. C. Smith, Dr. and Mrs. J. P. Crumpton, Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Alred, Virginia, Robert and Leo Alred, Mrs. Newt Calloway, Mrs. Loren Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Omar Reynolds, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Ousley, Mr. and Mrs. Mac Wyatt, Mrs. Retherford and children, Miss D. D. Reynolds, Miss McGee, Mr. Rush, Miss Imogene Sims, and Edith and Vinson Sims.

Enormous Sums Of Money Invested In Railroad Equipment

In order to furnish the most efficient transportation service in all the world, American railroads must provide and keep in best operating condition, motive power and equipment costing enormous sums of money (the total investment in equipment of United States' railroads is about $5,400,000,000 while the annual cost of keeping this equipment in perfect running condition approximates $1,300,000,000).

Each year, large numbers of locomotives, passenger cars and freight cars are being retired from actual service and replaced by newer equipment—an expense made necessary by the normal wear and tear of a gigantic operating plant, coupled with the desire of the railroads to keep their physical equipment in the most efficient condition. It costs the L. & N. Railroad more than $33,000,000 a year to keep its equipment in serviceable condition, and requires a constant working force of over 17,000 men.

EZELL CONCLUDES 5 YEARS AS PASTOR IN CLANTON SUNDAY

Next Sunday morning Rev. S. J. Ezell will conclude his fifth year as pastor of the Clanton Baptist Church. This is the longest pastorate in the history of the church. We feel also that it may be truthfully said that the same has been the most successful period in the history of this beloved institution. It has been five years of great unity and progress in the local work. During this time about $20,000 has been raised on the local church equipment debt and for repairs on the parsonage. One of the outstanding achievements of this period was in October, 1925, when the church building was dedicated free of all debts.

The Sunday school has been completely reorganized and graded, and attendance has more than doubled. A total of 377 new members have been added to the roster of the church in the five years, an increase of 151 per cent. The church has taken an active part in the Unity Baptist Associational work all along.

Concerning the period of his pastorate here, Rev. Ezell made the following statement to the Union-Banner:

"It has been my purpose from the beginning to serve Clanton and Chilton County in all educational, agricultural, as well as spiritual interests. Along with me in the work has been my wife sharing equally with me the burdens and pleasures, the joys and sorrows. She has done a remarkable work in the local W.M.S., increasing its membership and attendance more than three-fold. At present there are enlisted in this important auxiliary to the church more than 150 active members, perhaps one of the best organizations of its kind in the State.

"Mrs. Ezell has taken a leading part in the Unity Associational W. M. U. work, and together with her faithful associates has reorganized the associational W. M. U. Until today it one of the best in the state, and is often held up as a model. The Associational W. M. U. dedicated their room in Eldridge Academy in honor of Mrs. Ezell and the work she has done in the Association.

The services at the Baptist Church next Sunday will be carried out along lines appropriate to the occasion of this anniversary of the Ezells in Clanton. It is hoped that a record attendance will be there.

The people of Clanton and Chilton County are justly proud of Dr. and Mrs. Ezell. While their work has been centered in and around the Clanton Baptist Church, their influence has spread abroad and has shed a beneficent light of Christian spirit among all of this section of Alabama.

ON THE HIGHWAY
:-: Pan-Am Gasoline and Motor Oils :-:
Tires And Tubes

Developed to Meet Today's Motoring Demands

TODAY'S high-speed motors out-perform any we have ever known. But more explosions per mile, more wear on moving parts, put new demands on fuel and lubrication. Never before has it been so important to have clean gasoline and tougher oil!

That is why Pan-Am gasoline is refined with such unusual care; and Pan-Am oil improved.

This clean gasoline is entirely free from dirt and sediment. Notice how crystal-clear it is next time you see a Pan-Am pump. More than this, Pan-Am gasoline is also purified to remove the invisible corrosives and carbon-forming elements found in many gasolines. Thus it keeps your motor cleaner; besides giving your car new power and better mileage.

And the improved Pan-Am oil is made especially from a paraffin-base crude to stand the gaff of added heat and friction. It is a tougher oil that holds its body mile after mile. Thus it adheres to cylinder walls and bearings effectively; reducing wear and adding power.

You'll find motoring more enjoyable and less expensive, if you demand these better products. They are sold under one name, by your regular Pan-Am dealer.

Miss Marie Driver Died Last Sunday Morning

DAUGHTER OF MR. AND. MRS. SEWELL DRIVER CALLED AFTER YEAR OF PAIN

Miss Marie Driver, age 14, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sewell Driver, of Temple community, died at the family home on last Sunday morning. She was buried at Temple church on Monday. Martin had charge of the burial and the funeral was conducted by Rev. Perry Mims.

The little girl had suffered severe physical affliction for more than a year. She was in the hospital for several weeks about a year ago. One of her legs had to be amputated in order to save her life then. Following her dismissal from the hospital her condition improved. By the help of many loving and sympathetic friends and through sacrifices of a father and mother who threw all their resources into the effort to bring her back to a comfortable situation, an artifical leg was secured for her.

But illness overtook her again and she answered the final summons on last Sunday morning. Before her last sickness set in she had become able to walk very well and her hopes for the future had brightened, only to be overcast again by a shadow that swept her young life across the dark valley of death.

Her parents and friends believe that whatever hopes she had entertained for comfort and happiness in this world are now multiplied a thousand fold in the eternal city which is surely her abode for all eternity.

ANOTHER ONE

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Gladys Johnson Saturday night a baby girl weighing 8 pounds. They will call her Ella Mae.

Rev. W. P. Lowery of Thorsby was in our office the first of this week. He told us that we might tell our readers that the meeting at Collins Chapel last week was mighty good. 8 new members were added to the church. Rev. L. E. Goodgame of Florida did the preaching.

VISITING PREACHERS AT FRIENDSHIP LAST SUNDAY

Members and visitors at Friendship last Sunday morning as well as Sunday night were treated with something special at both preaching hours. At 1 o'clock we were permitted to listen to Rev. L. E. Goodgame from Panama City, Fla. And at 7:30 that evening Rev. W. W. Carlton from Josephine, Texas preached to us. Both of these men are formerly of Chilton County, but Goodgame has been left here for forty years and Carleton hasn't been here in 11 years except probably passing through.

Rev. Goodgame preached a wonderful sermon Sunday, and Friendship church was more than glad to have him visit us and preach for us. The sermon Sunday night by Rev. Carleton was very deep and also touchingly rendered. A very good crowd consisting of several visitors were present and all thoroughly enjoyed listening to the sermon.

Two Men Captured At A Still In Operation

ED HAYNES AND CHAP HORTON CAUGHT IN SHERIFF'S NET LAST FRIDAY

Sheriff Collins and Deputy Murrah caught Ed Haynes and Chap Horton operating a still last Friday. The men were arrested and brought to jail. Preliminary trial was held last Saturday before Judge J. L. Wilson and they were released under bond of $500 each.

The raid was mede in the Northern part of the county. The still was located near the old Charley Martin place. The two men had the outfit all fired up and filled with beer ready to start the flow of moonshine. The still was destroyed by the officers.

Ed Haynes lives at South Calera, just across the Shelby County line. Horton lives in Chilton County just South of the Shelby County line.

J. M. GLASSCOCK TAKES OVER THE GIN AT COOPERS, ALA.

The cotton gin at Coopers, which has for a number of years past been operated by J. T. Rockett, has been bought by Mr. J. M. Glasscock of Jemison. Mr. Glasscock is placing machinery in first class working condition and is now ready to do ginning.

Mr. Glasscock is an experienced ginner, having had fifteen years experience in that work. He built the gin at Jemison which Shaw Brothers is now operating, and he has worked at other gins. He has been out of the gin business for some years, but has concluded to get back in. He has selected a good field at Coopers, and he ought to do good business there.

We are carrying in the Banner this week an advertisement for Mr. Glasscock inviting his friends and the former customers of the gin to come and get acquainted.

SUPRISE SHOWER FOR MRS. S. J. EZELL LAST MONDAY

Mrs. J. Lee Smith was hostess to Circle No. 1 of the Baptist Woman's Missionary Society at her home on Seventh Street, Monday afternoon. A surprise linen shower was tendered Mrs. Ezell in honor of their Fifth Anniversary of their stay in Clanton. The color scheme of orchid and white was beautifully carried out in detail throughout the entire house. Large silver baskets holding specimen dahlias, roses and zinnas were tastefully arranged in the living room and parlor. The tea table had as its central motiff, a large silver bowl with orchid and white sweet peas. Orchid and white streamers were suspended from the chandelier to the table. Beautiful linen gifts for Mrs. Ezell were arranged on the table. Mrs. Smith was assisted by Mrs. J. P. Hayes and Kathryn Hayes in serving tea and punch. The members and guests of the afternoon included Mesdames Tom Parrish, E. E. Upchurch, A. N. Minor, Loren Smith, Paul Ousely, Arthur Willis, H. T. Pipes, W. M. Wyatt, P. T. Hinkle, D. C. Alred, W. H. THE NEW FORD MAKES A WONDERFUL RECORD

A news item from Detroit is to the effect that Mr. Esdel Ford gives the following information on the new Ford which is to be ready for an early delivery.

"In a recent test," said Mr. Ford, "one of these cars was driven 110 miles in two hours. In the first hour of the trip, the car covered 56.1 miles, covering the remaining 53.9 miles during the second hour of the test. This test was made over average road conditions—some smooth and some through hilly country. The car consumed less gasoline and oil than any of the previous models put through similar tests."

He further stated "We have known from the beginning that this new Ford would be a handsome car. Experiments have been made with a wide variety of color schemes and body designs and all of these have been decided upon. When this car is formally introduced within the next few days, we shall be able to say that it is the best and most moderately priced car we know how to build."

"SELLING SOULS" FEATURE PLAY OF MILT TOLBERT

Monday night, September 5 is the opening date of the Milt Tolbert Tent Theatre in Clanton. They will be here for a full week, and have a nice list of plays to put on for Clanton vaudeville fans.

"Selling Souls" is the feature play which comes off on Friday night of next week. Other numbers will be "Keep to the Right," "Other Peoples Business," "Unmarried Mothers," "The Push," and "The Heart of Peggy."

Mr. Wagner, the advance advertising man for Tolbert assured us last week when he was here that the show will be the best this year that they have ever had. They have a lot of new characters and new scenery—in fact everything is new except the name, according to Mr. Wagner.

The Milt Tolbert cast consists of forty people and they are all artists. The people of Clanton know what to expect from this tented organization because it has been here for the past several years.

They especially boost their "Radio Serenaders," who furnish the music for the show. So if you expect to see a good show this season, get ready to take in the Milt Tolbert next week.

GOLD MINE REPORTED FOUND FOUR MILES WEST OF THORSBY

This May Be The Beginning of a '49 Rush To The Hills of The Northwest Part Of Chilton County

We have always known that there were a lot of mighty good things in Chilton County. There have appeared many time and in many ways some golden opportunities to make money, but we never suspected that such a thing as a real gold mine would turn up in our midst. But such a thing now seems to be approaching the realm of our possibility.

The report has come that an honest to goodness gold mine has been found on the Ben Childress place west of Thorsby. It is said that the find has caused a considerable rush in that section, and we have heard some staggering reports of property rights being bandied about in terms of thousands of dollars.

We do not know just what there is to the story; but there is surely something doing over in that direction. Some people from Clanton have visited the scene and they report that business is picking up right along.

It is said that ore is being dug from the ground that is worth $196 a ton, and that a car load will be shipped to the gold factory somewhere right soon. Some samples of the rough product were brought to Clanton and exhibited. We can vouch for the fact that there is something in those rocks that looks like gold; but then we are reminded that all that glitters is not gold.

At all events, we recognize the fact that Chilton County is such a good country that it would not be entirely beyond possibility for us to have a real gold mine. Maybe we will have some further news from this source next week.

MRS. MONROE BENSON VERY SERIOUSLY SICK

Mrs. Monroe Benson has been very seriously ill at her home in Clanton during the last few days. It was thought Monday that her condition would be fatal, but she has held on with possibly a slight improvement noted at the time this is written.

Mrs. Benson is the daughter of Uncle John Hayes. Her many friends are hoping for her recovery.

Reese Will Preach At Friendship Next July

EVANGELIST ACCEPTS CALL TO PASTORATE IN PERRY, FLORIDA

T. E. Wyatt is in receipt of the following letter from Rev. T. O. Reese, the famous evangelist, which is self explanatory:

Marbury, Ala., August 26.

Dear Bro. Wyatt:

You will take notice in the papers that I have been called and accepted the call to Perry, Fla. This will not hinder me from holding your meeting at Friendship fourth Sunday in next July. I will book it and will want to come up out of the hot weather in Florida, so you may let your people know that I will fill the engagement just the same as if I had not accepted the Florida work. I begin my work in Perry about September 10th.

Some few weeks ago Rev. Reese was approached on the matter of conducting the revival at Friendship next summer, and the tenor of the above letter from him will show that, even though he is moving to Florida, he will be at Friendship beginning the fourth Sunday in July, 1928.

Rev. Reese is one of the most noted evanglists in the South. He has preached in Clanton and held meetings in most of the large cities of the country. We are very fortunate in getting him at Friendship, even though we did have to make our date with him nearly a year in advance.

CLANTON GINS WILL RUN NIGHT

Owing to the great rush with which cotton is being picked and brought to Market Mr. J. N. Dennis and Mr. Joe Maddox are announcing to their customers this week that they will run their gins a night until the rush is over. This will enable them to turn out about twice as much cotton, and will be a distinct advantage to the frmers by enabling them to get their cotton gathered and ginned before the bad weather sets in.

News Items From Jemison Vocational Agricultural High School

The Department of Vocational Agriculture has been laying a cement walk on the school grounds this past week. The walk is only half finished and will be continued at a later date. The work was done by the teacher and some school boys taking vocational agriculture. Concrete construction is now considered a farm job and is listed as a part of the course in vocational agriculture. We hope that each school boy in the vocational course may learn some concrete construction during this coming school year.

Many local cement workers use sand and gravel as it is found in the creek beds. However, the trouble with that practice, is that you never know what you are doing and you generally have more sand in your mixture than is best and thus have a weaker mixture. We screened the sand from the gravel and used the exact proportions recommended.

We did not wash our sand, but we believe it would have been better to have done so. The local people claim good success without washing the sand. A test made on the sand showed twice as much dirt as allowed to avoid washing. In the future we may wash all of our sand.

The Lehigh Cement Cmpany of Birmingham recommend a one-course sidewalk which is 1 part cement, 2 parts sand and 3 parts gravel. We used that mixture but in addition we added a 1-4 inch top dressing of half sand and half cement.

Mr. Sam Reynolds of Jemison is considered the Tree King by the Parent-Teachers Association. He has been very sucessful in getting trees to grow. He plants them all sizes from one inch to 5 inches in diameter, and as a rule they live and flourish.

The trees on the school campus have not grown so well. Sixteen trees were planted last spring and ten are now living. The causes of some dieing are first and mainly, the lack of water during the summer months and second some of the trees were set out too late. However, we feel that we have been successful with our tree program especially under the conditions that we had to labor under. As for shrubs, ninety-eight per cent of them lived.

One thing the school boys learned well last year was the importance of preventing hollow places from forming between the roots of the trees and the ground underneath. These hollow places or holes are called air spaces. The best way to prevent that is to place dirt around the sides of the doots and then hold the bucket as high as possible and pour the water thus washing the dirt under the roots. Just to pour water in a hole when planting is not enough. The loose dirt must be washed away from the sides of the roots and settle under the roots to fill all the crevices.

Mr. D. W. Williams of Jemison says the way to get a tree to grow is to place corn cobs in piles near the roots. He says these cobs will become soaked with water and furnish water during the dry spells. We never heard of such a plan before but may try it.

Mr. Henderson Hayes shipped two car loads of watermelons to Birmingham, besides he trucked a large number of melons to the city. He did not sell his carloads of melons to any one man. He unloaded them himself and trucked them around to the different stores.

Messrs Josh Sorrell, Walter Lenoir, G. W. Spivy, Seab Shaw all have corn varying from one to three acres that bids fair to yield from 75 to 100 bushels per acre.

Baker Junior High To Open Wednesday Oct. 5

SCHOOL WILL BE IN CHARGE OF PROF. MARTIN FORMERLY OF CLANTON SCHOOL

Owing to the fact that the Baker Junior High School is a new school, it is impossible to know all who might be interested in this school. For the reason we feel that a great deal of publicity should be given to the opening.

The new building is erected, according to state plans and will consist of four classrooms. The entire building will be seated with the most modern all-steel desks. All grades will be taught from the first to the ninth, inclusive.

The incidental fee for all grades will be $2.00 for the entire term. We feel that this is not enough, but we are willing to keep it as low as possible if the patrons will pay it promptly. The Treasurer of these funds will be announced later.

The school will open on Wednesday October 5 at 8:30. Every person who has any interest in the school is urgently requested to be present on the opening date. Mr. Lawrence, County Supt. of Education, and Dr. S. J. Ezell are expected to be present at the opening and deliver and educational address. Please come and tell others.

During the last few days it has become neccesary to make one change in the faculty. The faculty as it stands is composed of the following members: W. E. Martin, Principal and teacher of the Junior High grades. Mr Martin for the last four years has been principal of the Clanton Public School. Miss Mamie Stuart of Fayette, teacher of the fifth and sixth grades. Miss Stuart for the last three years has been a teacher in the Thorsby Public School. Miss Gladys Kemp, third an fourth grades. Miss Kemp was formerly a teacher in the Enterprise Consolidated School. Miss Gertie Baker, first and second grades. For the last two years Miss Baker taught in the Mt. Pleasant Junior High School. If neccessary other teachers will be added as soon as school opens.

We wish to take this opportunity to thank those who have contributed towards the building of the school. We wish to assure you that your donations was appreciated, regardless of the amount. In next week's paper we will publish a list of the contributions that have been made. If there are any who object to the use of their names, please notify the principal of the school and your name will be omitted. If there is anyone who wishes to make a donation for this purpose please mail your check to E. D. Baker, Clanton, Ala. Route 7. We shall be very glad to have your contributions, whether you have been given an opportunity or not.

Please watch the paper for further announcements.—Trustees of School.

Biggest Rattle Snake Ever Heard Of Here

MISS ALCIE LOWERY KILLED IT WHILE ON VISIT IN BALDWIN COUNTY

Miss Alcie Lowery of Jemison recently returned from a visit to her brother, J. W. Lowery, who lives at Robertsdale, in Baldwin County. She brought back with her the skin of a rattlesnake which she killed while there. The size of the reptile as shown by his skin was the largest ever heard of in this part of the country. According to Miss Lowery, the snake was the largest ever known in Baldwin County, even there where extra big rattlers are said to be very common.

The big snake was eight feet long and had 21 rattles. Miss Lowery found him in her brother's yard, and the story of how she conquered him unassisted was real interesting. Her brother offered to do the killing but she insisted upon having the pleasure herself. Securing a strong stick she stalked her prey until everything was shaped up just right when she came down upon his head with one fatal blow.

After the execution she skinned the vicious monster with her own hands, and planned to stuff the hide, but was unable to season it properly on account of the hot weather.

Woman Is Successful Selling Automobiles

Selling automobiles, generally regarded as a business restricted exclusively to men, is the latest field to be invaded successfully by a woman, who has even shown her ability to out-shine her masculine competitors.

Mrs. Pearl Bollig, of Sioux Falls, S. D., the first saleswoman in the United States to achieve the honor of membership in the Chevrolet Motor Company's 72-Car Club, a star salesman's organization, has just been awarded her second year's membership, marking her as one of the foremost sales experts among the company's 14,000 salesmen. This record means that since Aug. 1, 1926, Mrs. Bollig sold 72 Chevrolet cars, an average of six cars monthly, and has duplicated her sales performance of the year previous, which first gave her a much-coveted place in the honor organization of the company.

Occupied with the manifold cares of a housewife, with two growing boys to look after, Mrs. Bollig's career as a Chevrolet saleswoman began with the purchase of a Chevrolet sedan for her personal use, back in 1923.

"I liked the car, and so did my friends," said Mrs. Bollig, "Then I thought I should be able to please others with the car, because of my own pleasure in the ownership. I applied for a position with a Sioux Falls Chevrolet dealer and assisted in the Chevrolet booth during the auto show that year. I interested many school teachers, who found it a novel experience probably, to learn how to drive a car from another woman, and many business men bought cars from me. This was the first sales experience I have ever had and my enthusiasm for selling continued.

"Any woman who starts out to sell automobiles will succeed if she so conducts herself as to command the respect and confidence of everyone in her community. It is no job for a woman seeking excitement or a lark. It's hard work.

"I let nothing interfere with my work, although I never neglect my home and children. And I don't wait to let buyers come to me—I hunt them up by going from house to house. When I gain their confidence, closing the sale is not so difficult, once the prospect has overcome his or her doubts about dealing with a saleswoman."

Mrs. Bollig will be an honored guest at a banquet to be tendered members of the Chevrolet 72-Car Club in the district including Sioux Falls.

Mr. F. G. Taylor has returned from Nashville, Tennessee on a business trip.

RHEUMATISM

May be relieved by rational treatment—it can not be rubbed away.

Are you one of those unfortunates who suffer with pains in your muscles and joints, commonly called rheumatism, making you miserable, less efficient, interfering with your working hours, ruining your sleep?

You may have tried many things without relief. Why not try S.S.S.? For more than 100 years it has been giving relief in thousands of cases, as testified to in unsolicited letters of gratitude.

"I suffered from rheumatism for a good many years. At times my joints would swell so, I couldn't walk. I tried almost everything. Went to Hot Springs . . . . then finally decided to try S.S.S. I took a course. In a short time the rheumatic pains entirely left me. I am now in perfect health, and want to add that I have tried all kinds of medicines but I think S.S.S. is the best." Earl C. Campbell, 115 West Main Street, Johnson City, Tenn.

S.S.S. is purely vegetable. It is extracted from the fresh roots of medicinal plants and herbs and gives to Nature what she needs in building you up so that your system throws off the cause.

From youth to later years S.S.S. is a proven tonic—give it and take it where a tonic is indicated.

S.S.S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.

Eddie Holcombe Killed Wednesday At Bunker Vinzant's Saw Mill Near Chapel

Fell Upon Circular Saw and His Body was Cut in Two; Died Instantly. Had Lived Here Only Few Weeks.

Eddie Holcombe, age 27 years, was killed Wednesday morning about 9:30 when he accidently fell upon the saw at the lumber mill of Bunker Vinzant near Collins Chapel. The young man was working at the mill tripping logs. After the carriage had passed the saw with a log and started back he is said to have stepped aboard and losing his balance, fell upon the saw.

Entering his right side about the waist line the saw ploughed its way downward and diagonally through the hip cutting off both legs except a bit of flesh just above the left knee.

Holcombe is comparatively a stranger in this part of the country. His people live at Rule, Texas. He had been in the Collins Chapel and Mineral Springs communities about two or three weeks. According to Mr. Vinzant, for whom he was working at the time of his death he had impressed his acquaintances as being a honorable and upright young man.

The body was taken in charge by Martin. As this is written Wednesday afternoon the undertaker was making efforts to communicate with relatives for instructions as to the disposal of the remains. Holcombe was a single man.

James B. Drake, president of the Birmingham Real Estate Board, had two ribs fractured on the train which was carrying him to Seattle, Wash., to attend the national convention of Real Estate Boards.

Woodrow Porter, of Millport, is in a serious condition as a result of the explosion of a toy boiler. Fragments of the outfit struck the lad's right arm, mangling it, and amputation of the limb may be necessary.

According to papers filed, George Baker, father of the plaintiffs, was killed in na accident at the brick yard June 27.

What About This For Sportsmen of Clanton?

Would You Like to Get the Big Noise Hot off the Wires In Final Games?

Within the next few weeks there will be played two baseball series in two different sections of Americ that will be of intense interest to the sport loving citizens of Clanton. These will be the World Series and the Dixie Series. Of course no one can yet tell who the contending teams will be in these interesting contests, but regardless of who they are and where these games take place, there will be just lots of folks here in Clanton and the surronding country who will be interested in the outcome.

Here is just a suggestion from one who has always enjoyed baseball. Why can't a bunch of us fellows rig us up an electric score board and place it in some easily accessible place, underwrite us a leased wire from the telephone or telegraph company and get the retunrs on these interesting sport events, direct from the playing field just as they are played.

Last year and year before last, the writer of this suggestion happened to be traveling iin Texas at the time of the World Series and Dixie Series were being played. In almost every little town these electric score boards had been set up and as the play by play results came in over the leased wire they were flashed on this score board and thousands of enthusiastic baseball fans were gathered up around the boards, having the time of their lives enjoying the games almost as well as if they had box seats just behind the catcher.

Baseball Fans, think it over and let's see if we can rig ourselves up to enjoy these two sport events right here in Clanton this year just like hundreds of thousands of fans will do in other parts of the country when these games are played.

A BASEBALL FAN.

Editors Note:—The fellow that wrote the above article said when he handed it to us that he would start the ball to rolling toward getting this score board fixed up and the wire leased if enough interest could be aroused to put the thing over.

If you are interested leave your name at the Union-Banner Office and this "Baseball Fan" will get in touch with you.

To the Tenant Farmers of Chilton County:

You are now beginning to harvest this year's crop. From one-third to one-half of everything that you and your family have labored the whole year to raise will have to be given to your landlord as rent. If you owned the farm that you have cultivated this year, all that you pay your landlord would be added to your profits for this year's work. This added profit would mean much to the happiness and contentment of you and your family.

TAX PAYING TIME CLOSE BY

That good old time which we all love so well — tax paying time—is fast approaching again. This week the Tax Collector and Tax Assessor are advertising their rounds of the county, which will begin on October 5, and will continue throughout the month until every precinct in the county has been visited, and the opportunity of participating in the fun of paying taxes has been extended to every citizen.

There is one good thing about having to pay taxes. Like Christmas it comes but once a year.

HUNTING OUT OF SEASON

We have been hearing some reports already that people are beginning to shoot squirrels in some portions of the county. This is a violation of the law, and should be prosecuted.

People who have a chance to observe such violations or are in position to find out about same should report it to the sheriff. Everybody ought to wait till the game laws come in and take an even start in the chase for game. Those who want to and will observe and obey the laws should make themselves a committee to help see that the other fellow does not hunt out of season. This is another instance where the people must help the officers enforce the law.

OPENING OF THORSBY PUBLIC SCHOOL

True to the well-established spirit of Thorsby comes this week the story of the opening of the Thorsby Public School. Thorsby has a name and a fame that extends all over Alabama as one of the best educational centers in our commonwealth. This is deserved for Thorsby because the people there are really and trully at heart interested in education. They support their schools and they consistently see to it that their schools are deserving of support.

County Supenintendent Buford Lawrence, County Farm Agent, C. E. S.app, and Probate Judge L. H. Reynolds from Clanton were visitors at the opening of the school Monday morning. These gentlemen made short addreses to the gathering of pupils, patrons, and friends of the school. They report that all indications were that Thorsby is alive with the old school spirit in beginning this year, and that the splendid opening is a harbinger of another successfull session under the management of Prof. W. T. Bean.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

Occasionaly you hear the remark that the "little fellow" using the term in the economic sense, will vote for higher taxes locally and care nothing about the reduction of taxes nationally because he pays little if any federal income tax and pays on little real property at home. If the "little fellow," and there are a great many more of them than the big ones, has any such impression now is a good time to erase it, for it is certainly fallacious.

It is true of course that the big earners and property owners pay tax to the government and to the local taxing units, but it must not be forgotten that they pass it on down to the little fellow wherever possible, and that it generally is possible to do so. So after all the "little fellow" pays most of the tax whether he realizes it or not, and he ought to be especially slow about voting taxes upon himself under the mistaken impression that he is voting the burden on someone else. And it is equally true that he is vitally interested in federal income tax reduction of a large scale whether he pays an income tax or not.

One Harvard economist who has given the matter considerable study estimates that the average income earner in the United States pays at least $350 a year or about a dollar a day taxes, most of which have been passed on down to him in one form or another. The landlord collects in higher rents, and the merchant who has to pay the tax of the manufacturer and the wholesaler passes it down to the consumer. In other words, as Professor Munro concisely put it, "Taxes are an element in the cost of everything, an element just as certain in interest, wages and profits."

Here is something for the average man to remember. When taxes are reduce nationally, even on large incomes it reduces the burden of living, and unnecessary expenditures calling for higher tax levies in the city and county and state increase the cost of living to the poor man even though his actual taxes are no more than a dollar or two a year. Economy in expenditure and efficiency in government are the real ways to reduce taxes. The method of trying to push the taxes on to the other fellow won't work. He has a habit of giving them back to you in another form.

When the average man gets to realize this fully and votes accordingly there will be some hope for lower taxes and a lowered cost of living. We must have improvements of course. The people demand and are entitled to the latest and best things in hospitals, schools, libraries and other institutions. But all expenditures ought to be scanned carefully and we ought to see there is a real need for the improvement before it is made. Each year now more and more of our roads are being built from funds collected directly from the motorist himself, who is demanding the roads. This ought to simplify the problem some, but care in expenditure will always tave to be taken by the public representatives. And when the people realize that they have to pay the cost whether they actually pay taxes or not they will help their public servants in the exercising of care.

Unless the people are alive to their own problems and select officials who will act wisely they cannot expect a lower cost of administration of the local government. Unfortunately what is everybody's business is too often nobody's business and goes by default. But the contractors, the salesmen of building material and others interested commercially in the expenditure of the public money are always on deck, whether the deck be attached to the county courthouse or the state legislature. Too many of the people who have to pay are pacified by the belief that they can pass the burden on to someone else.

AFTER THE MANNER OF ALA.

Alabama is to vote next January on the issuance of $20,000,000 of school bonds. The bill providing for the election passed the senate of that state during the past week, and the forces of progress in Alabama are already planning to carry the election.

This is the state that last April voted $25,000,000 of road bonds; the second $25,000,000 road bond issue by Alabama, which has not been afraid to use its credit for highway construction and has set a shining example to other Southeren states.

Alabama does not think small thoughts in the matter of road bulidings or education, and the last two bond issues—$25,000,000 for roads, last spring, and the proposed $20,000,000 for schools next January—illustrate in the most striking manner the progressive spirit of the people of that state.

We predict that Alabama will rise to the opportunity and vote school bonds, just as it twice voted road bonds in big blocks.

Education and domestic transportation are two of the prime essentials. With good roads supplied, the automotive industry will do the rest—thoroughly aided and abetted by the public, both rural and urban, for the farmer needs the car even more, if possible, than the city dweller.

Schools and roads—both are coming and coming fast. Schools we have had, in abundance; the transformation now under way does not involve statistics so much as it does methods of instruction, improved courses, modern equipment, the physical comfort of the pupil, and the atmosphere and surrondings amid which he attains his mental growth. The actual number of schools in the rural districts probably is decreasing, but the consolidated school, with its improved facilities, gives vastly better service.

The progressive spirit of Alabama, as so practically exibited by her voters when they march to the polls, typifies spirit of the entire South, with our enlarged vision and our increasing readiness to use our credit for the worthwhile things of life—Industrial Index, Columbus, Ga.

Powell, Howard Parrish, Frank Cleckler of Providence, S. V. Miller, Gerthie Easterling, Leroy Mims, Chester Wyatt of Concord, Jodie Connell, J E. Miner, Virgle Robinson, Clarence Mims, M. The revival meeting at this place last week was also a great success. Rev. W. W. Robinson of Providence did most all the preaching and there were 13 additions to the church, 11 by Baptism and 2 by restoration. The meeting closed Thursday night. Three of the members joined at the water. It was the great pleasure of the writer to assist in the Baptism. May God in his everlasting merey lead and direct each one of you, is my prayer. Let us put on the whole armor of God that we may be able to resist the fiery darts of the wicked. As your. superintendent, may I offer you a garment of Sunday School attendance which is the best thing I know of. Some of our parents would be benefitted of they would accept this also.

God forbid that we boast, but we have at this place one of the best Sunday schools anywhere. But there is always room for improvement. So let us remember the Sunday school hour which is 10 o'clock. May I especially invite those of this community to attend and help us build characters, for the harvest is white but the laborers are few.—M. Lockhart, superintendent.

THE part played by the kidneys and their importance to bodily health should be clearly understood. Sluggish kidneys do not thoroughly cleanse the blood of poisonous wastes. Many Chilton County Farmers Have Placed Orders for Hairy Vetch Seed

County Agent, C. E. Stapp, Says Soil Building Important for Chilton Farmers; Terracing and Legumes are Recommended

I have seen enough of Chilton County to decide that soil building should be one of our major projects in our program of work here. I find that most of the farms are fairly well terraced. This terracing work should be continued because no headway in soil improvement can be made as long as our lands are allowed to wash away.

Many of our farmers have long since learned the importance of planting peas or beans in their corn as a means of improving their soil, but I find a large percentage of the farmers in this county failed to plant peas or beans in their corn this year.

In addition to peas and beans, the Experiment Stations are reccommending vetch as a soil building crop. Peas and beans are of course summer crops, but vetch is sown in September or October on the hard ground in the cotton and corn middles and scratched in or disked in lightly. It makes little growth during the winter but makes heavy growth in March and April, when it is turned into the soil and followed by another crop. The Alabama Experiment Station has found out some interesting facts concerning vetch during the last three years. They have found that it is not neccessary to delay turning vetch under until it has made a rank growth. The tests show that a growth of vetch that covers the ground good has all the nitrogen in it that most any crop will take up, and that a growth waist deep or better may have nitrogen equal to six hundred to eight hundred pounds of nitrate of soda.

Vetch nat only stores nitrogen in the soil but loosens up the potash and brings the land back to the new ground state of cultivation. Two hundred to four hundred pounds of phosphate should be broadcast to the acre of vetch, however it will make good growth on land that was fertilized well last spring. Vetch must be carefully inoculated. Where it fails to catch the inoculation it turns yellow and dies.

All our test work with vetch proves that early planted vetch makes more growth than late planted vetch. For example, vetch planted September 30 in tests made twice as much tonnage per acre as vetch planted November 24th.

About one hundred and twenty farmers have placed their orders for some vetch seed to date. Other farmers who want to make a start toward building their soils this fall should place their orders for seed at once as it takes some little time to get the seed.

The following farmers have already placed their orders:

DAILY VACATION BIBLE SCHOOL HELD AT MINERAL SPRINGS

A most interesting ten days were spent at Mineral Springs from August 15 to 28, by Mr. Walter J. Miller and Mrs. Miller together with Misses Kate and McMae McNeill of Jemison, Ala. Mr. Miller is the Sunday School Missionary under the Board of National Missions of the Presbyterian Church U. S. A. He began his work in the Mineral Springs community last April when a Sunday School was organized in the school house and this organization had an average attendance during the month of July of 65.

The Vacation Bible School started on August 15 with an enrollment of 51 boys, girls and young people between the ages of 4 and 20 years. At the close of the school the enrollment had increased to 101 and the records show that the average attendance was 65. This was due to the dividing of the school into two sides, the 'Reds' and 'Greens.' With Miss Curtys Gore as captain of the Reds and Miss Merle Retherford as captain of the Greens. The Reds brought in the most new members to the school. In connection with this contest a "Doubler's Club" was organized. Each pupil who brought in another one was given a star behind their name. Mr. Bode Retherford won the prize in this contest, having 12 stars to his name on the Green side. Wallace Little on the Red side brought in 11 pupils.

The school lasted 3 hours daily, from 1:30 P. M. until 4:30. During this time the boys and girls were assembled together and were taught the value of worship with a theme such as loyalty, kindness and right choices brought to the attention of the children. The school was divided into age groups for a 40 minute time of Bible Story work, memory work and study of the Bible. A period was also held for handwork which consisted of the boys working with coping saws and the girls with needle work. The latter made aprons in the Junior and Intermediate groups to keep as a reminder of these pleasant days spent together. The boys made small boats and match boxes and cut out horses from wall board as their part.

In addition to the teachers named above, the principal of the school was greatly indebted for the work done by Miss Curtys Bean, Miss Olys Bean and Miss Lois Bean of the Mineral Springs community. There was also a fine spirit of cooperation on the part of the parents in allowing the children to attend,although some of them needing them badly in the fields, but were willing to make out in some way that the children might attend each day. We are very proud of the record that 37 attended the school every day and were given a small prize as a reward.

On Sunday afternoon, August 28 a closing exercise was held which was well attended by the fathers and mothers of the community. A review was made by departments of the work done and a pageant illustrating the value of Bible Study in the life of our children was put on. Several prizes were given at this time. Perhaps the most interesting contest was between Charles Retherford, a Junior boy and Lovie Hilyer, a Junior girl. Maude Retherford an Intermediate girl and Lois Bean an Intermediate girl. This contest to recite from memory, portions of the Bible namely: The Lord's Prayer, Beatitudes, Ten Commandents and other things. All these four did fine but the judges awarded the prize to Charles Retherford.

At the close of the exercise many of the parents expressed their appreciation of the work done, both in words and with a freewill offering. And it is the hope that a still better Vacation Bible School can be held some time next summer.

Let Me Gin Your Cotton

The farmers of Chilton County are invited to bring me their cotton to be ginned, and I promise to render the very best service possible.

My gins have been thoroughly overhauled this season, and I believe they are in shape to gin your cotton with full satisfaction.

My gin began operation in 1923, which year I ginned 1,100 bales. ..Later my plant was enlarged, and last year I ginned 3,673 bales, the largest number turned out by any gin in the county that year.

I a mglad that the service which I have rendered in the past has brought so many customers to my new gin. My aim for the future is to continue such service as will bring added satisfaction to my patrons.

The farmers are invited to call upon me for any service which I may be able to render them in the way of improving agricultural conditions generally.

FORESTRY AND PARKS CLOSELY RELATED

Montgomery, Ala., August 30—Among the numerous relations of forestry to livid, recreational and cultural affairs is its close connection with the development and management of parks, points out the Alabama Commission of Forestry. This is particularly true of large areas such as are usually comprised in the state parks.

Forestry and park administration are both forms of land management involving nonagricultural plant growth, particularly the growing, protection and development of trees, groves and woods. The engineering features and field operations involve in both cases are practically identical, varying only in the relative stress placed upon details. In general, it may be said that this similarity extends through all phases of administration up to the point of actual use. In the case of forestry, the trees grown are harvested for economic consumption, while in the case of parks they are used chiefly for recreational and ornamental purposes.

Even the management of the more intensively cared for city parks has close contact with forestry through the practice of arborculture. However, florculture and municipal engineering enter more extensively into city parks than into the management of wild land areas. The relation of the latter to forestry projects is responsible for placing the management of state parks in the hands of forestry departments quite generally throughout the country.

BICE WOULD UPHOLD SUNDAY SCHOOLS

Editor Union-Banner:

Please allow me a small space in your paper for a few words in regard to Sunday Singings.

I wish all presidents, secretaries, or managers would think about the Sunday schools and churches before they call for singings all day on Sundays. I believe if we have two days singing it should be on Thursday and Friday; and if for one day, any day besides Sunday.

I notice the Glass brothers have their singing societies on Sunday afternoons and they have good success in their singings. No one likes good singing better than I but I wish all to remember the teachings of God's word in the Sunday School The all-day singings on Sunday have just about broken up our country Sunday schools.

Paul said all we do, do it in decency and in order. Order means a great deal. Bretheren, I ask you to give serious thought to this matter.—J. Bice, Thorsby, Ala.

After the program the P. T. A. will elect its officers. This organization has been a great asset in the school and it desires that every person interested in the Jemison high school become an active member of the organization this year. CHILDREN URGED TO BEGIN FIRST DAY OF SCHOOL HERE

To the patrons of the Clanton Grammar School:

I have just received a letter from Miss Mary C. Hobdy, principal of the Clanton Grammar School, urging all parents to send their children the first day of school, especially the beginners, to avoid starting new classes. This is certainly a worthwhile request and I trust that all patrons will do their best to comply with it. Yours for better schools. — B. Lawrence, County Supt. Education.

THE MECCA OF AMERICA

Birmingham, Ala., August 23—The Mecca of America, Inc.—the nationwide movement to build a national home for dependent children in Alabama goes on the air WBRC Wednesday night, August 31 in its regular fortnightly Radio program. There will be a message from Ex-Governor W. W. Brandon of Tuscalosa a talk on "The Children of the Mecca" by Dr. Allen G. Loehr, orator and scholar of Birmingham; and several solos by Mr. Charles Bernhard, baritone, accompanied by Mrs. Charles Bernhard, both musicians being connected with the First Christian Church Choir, Birmingham.

The Mecca movement, according to Acting President Fred W. Rapp, is gaining widespread attention, not only as an Alabama project but as a national effort. Physicians see the possibilities in the Home and several noted doctors have recently become members of the Board—Dr. D. S. Moore, and Dr Courtney W. Shropshire, both of Birmingham. Other Birmingham members are H. M. Weaver; Commissioner W. E. Dickson; and J. M. Yielding. The rest of the board consists of Congressman M. C. Algood of Gadsden; E. A. Nash and A. A. Fendley of Oneonta; and Fred W. Rapp of Winona Lake, Indiana. An intensive publicity and membership campaign will start early in September to raise funds for building the first unit of the home in the Spring.

NAMELESS AND ASTRAY

He was a kind-hearted old gentleman. It upset him to see the poor little chap crying.

"What's the matter my little man?" he asked sympathetically.

"I'm lost, boo-hoo!"

"Lost? Nonsense, you mustn't give up hope so soon. Where do you live?"

"Don't know," whined the youngster, "W-we've just moved and I c-can't remember the address."

"Well, what's your name?"

"D-don't know?" exclaimed the old gentleman.

"No," sobbed the boy. "M-mother got married again this morning."—Pittsburgh Chronicle Telegraph.

Waxahatchie Tribe No. 9, Improved Order of Red Men, is on the high road to success again. Several years ago this organization was the sensation of fraternal circles in this section of Alabama. There was a slump during and following the World war just as there was a slump with all fraternal activities. This condition is unexplainable, and Red Men of these hunting grounds believe it is inexcusable at this time, so far as Waxahatchie Tribe is concerned.

Accordingly, the chiefs are assembling in regular order, and the council fire is burning every Tuesday night at the same old place. There is an opportunity here for Red Men to be useful and active, and the old members of the Tribe have set their heads and hearts to put her on the map again.

All former members are urged to come back. Now is the time to get back while the chance to reinstate is open. Some palefaces are coming along and the meetings are very interesting. This part of Alabama will hear from Waxahatchie Tribe again before many moons.

(S. K. NORTON, Manager).

Mr. R. A. Maddox, assistant principal of Thorsby Institute, anonunces that, beginning Friday, September 2nd, he will be at the Institute office in Helen Jenkins hall to confer with parents and students about the courses of study; and wonid like to see before the opening of school all new students and any old ones who wish to make changes in their studies.

Thorsby Public school held opening exercises at 10 a.m. on Monday of this week. Interesting talks were given by Mr. Stapp, our new farm demonstration agent, Mr. Lawrence, County Supt. of public schools, and Judge Reynolds. Prof. W. T. Bean, principal said Tuesday morning he had not had time to check up the enrollment but was confident is was at least 200. The teaching force, besides the principal, are: Miss Ruth Lois Primm, Miss McMae McNeil and Miss Kate McNeil, the latter having charge of a host of beginners or first grade students. Mrs. W. L Leary is retained as music teacher.

Mrs. J. R. Helms is the guest of Mrs. W. H. Wilson this week. On Saturday night they in company with Mrs. J. H. Goddard attended a meeting at Cedar Grove church, at which a Junior Christian Endeavor society was organized under direction of Rev. Helms, pastor of the church, who afterwards preached a sermon.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Each had as their guest on Wednesday and Thursday of last week Mr. J W. Hart of Crestview, Fla., an old time friend of the family, when they lived in the Florida community. Mr. Hart gave the writer some very interesting information as to what west Florida farmers are doing with high bush whortleberries, sometimes called Rabbit Eye Blueberries, which they plant like orchards with about 200 trees per acre, one man in his neighborhood having 80 acres. Many others have smaller tracts. These orchards or some of them have been in bearing for more than 30 years and are not bothered by insects and never fail to produce a good crop each year. The only enemies are the birds which are gormandizers of the fruit, but since the trees are prolific bearers there are enough berries for the farmer and the birds.

The trees begin bearing at three years old and at four years will produce a crop that will cover all expenses needed to bring them to that age and stage. The trees continue to grow and produce larger crops from year to year, like cherries. He told of one tree that produced 60 quarts and some twenty feet high, requiring a ladder to gather the crop.

Those farmers have learned as many others have that the only way to profitably handle crops is through an organization, which they have recently effected to ship to northern markets. The season lasts about 4 months, beginning in May. We believe our fruit growers ought to investigate this matter further

Howard Brothers are making a substantial improvement at the green houses by building an entirely new front 24 by 46 feet, to be used as work rooms and office for their business. The sheds now used for this purpose will be torn down and replaced by the new structure.

Mr. W. T. White killed a large rattle snake last Thursday and Mr. W. M. Wright killed one Friday that was four feet long.

P. R. Griffin is on the sick list.

A. J. LeCroy was not able to go to Mulberry church last Wednesday to the all-day singing which was the closing day of Prof. Devaughn's singing school.

The Church yard was almost filled with cars and wagons and the house was nearly full of people. The singing was fine and I hear that Mr. Joe Peters was so well pleased with the music that he gave one dollar to help pay for a new piano, and many others did the same, Even Mrs. J. C. Edwards who is back in the 804-90 used to sing the songs that were in the Christian Harmony provided one dollar.

The dinner was fine and plentiful, a considerable change of times since 1886.

We are thankful for the good work done by Prof. Devaughn and will be glad to have him with us again next summer.

The new school house is progressing nicely.

The building seems to be too large for what is in the pocket books in the community. Credit is a great blessing to many people.

REGISTRATION OF CHEVROLET LEADS ALL OTHER CARS

Figures just released show that for the seventh consecutive month Chevrolet registrations have led every other single make of car in Wayne county, Mich., in which Detroit is the leading center.

During July just ended Chevrolet not only topped every other make of car by registering 935 models, but also led the list of truck registrations with 106 commercial cars, an increase of more than 100 per cent over Chevrolet's high mark in July 1926.

Commenting on these records, R. H. Grant, vice-president in charge of sales, declared that "Chevrolet's consistent leadership is a definite tribute to the public's utter confidence in and appreciation for our cars."

"It is especially significant that Wayne county should show this overwhelming preference for Chevrolets. Wayne county is the center of the industry. The people here live on and work in the automobile factories. They are motor wise. They do not put their stamp of approval on a car unless they believe that it represents the utmost in motor car value."

Chevrolet factories, Mr. Grant said, are continuing their record-setting pace by turning out more than 3,500 units daily, so fast that by the middle of August the entire output for 1926 was expected to be passed.

WHO'S GOT 'EM?—I have a number of house jacks lent out to my friends, neighbors and acquaintances, some of which I have forgotten about. So I hope that all who have borrowed my jacks will bring them back to me as I need them. I thank you.—J. B. Farley, Clanton, Ala.

Mr. Amos Baker of Powderly, Ala., was a visitor in Clanton last week. Mr. Baker lived here several years ago. Many of our old citizens were delighted to meet him again.

Child-birth

Here is a wonderful message to all expectant mothers!

When the Little One arrives, you can have that moment more free from suffering than you have perhaps imagined. An eminent physician, expert in this science, has shown the way. It was he who first produced the great remedy, "Mother's Friend." Mrs. C. J. Hartman, Scranton, Pa., says:

"With my first two children I had a doctor and a nurse and then they had to use instruments, but with my last two children I used 'Mother's Friend' and had only a nurse; we had no time to get a doctor because I wasn't very sick—only about ten or fifteen minutes." Use "Mother's Friend" as our mothers and grandmothers did. Don't wait, start today, and meanwhile write to Bradfield Regulator Co., BA 46, Atlanta, Ga., for a free illustrated book containing information every expectant mother should have. "Mother's Friend" is sold by all drug stores—everywhere.

BETTER WAGES FROM BETTER MILKERS

By following certain well-defined rules, any farmer can obtain good wages for taking care of milk cows, says the Sears Roebuck Agricultural Foundation. Failure to adopt the practices laid down by these rules will cause the farmer to work for very low wages and possibly nothing.

Records covering 21 farms in one county, gathered by the Minnesota College of Agriculture, showed that the wages received for the time spent on milk cows varied from as high as 77 cents per hour to as low as 7 cents. Since the farms were all in the same locality and had the same market, this variation must be attributed to differences in the methods employed.

The principal rules by which to obtain good wages for milking cows, as shown by the actual experience of many farmers, are as follows:

1. Keep cows sired by pure-bred bulls of high producing ancestry.
2. Weed out the poor producers, as indicated by the amount of milk produced, the butter fat test, and feed record.
3. Take measures to control disease and eliminate losses from tuberculosis, abortion, garget, etc.
4. Feed rations which are adequate with respect to protein, succulence and variety, and vary the quantity in proportion to production.
5. Supply ample pastures throughout the season.
6. Keep the expense for barns and equipment on a reasonable basis.

One of the most important factors in determining the wages received for milking cows is the rate of production per cow. An average production of 300 pounds of butter fat is a reasonable goal. In some fluid milk districts, it has been found that dairymen whose cows produce less than 9,000 pounds a year stood little chance of making a profit. A farmer who keeps average cows producing only 140 to 165 pounds of butter fat a year can not expect to receive good wages for taking care of them.

Mr. and Mrs. Cary Baker of Tarrant City spent last week with Mr. Posey Marcus and family.

Corn-Hog Price Ratio Has Now Reversed

While the recent advance in corn prices, coupled with the decline in hogs, has made the corn-hog ratio unprofitable for feeders, the hog situation is unlikely to become as unfavorable as in 1923 and 1924, according to the Sears Roebuck Agricultural Foundation. Increased market supplies, together with decreased export sales of hog products, have been responsible for forcing hog prices downward, while prospects of a small corn crop following the moderate crop produced last year at a time when feeding demand is increasing, caused the sensational advance in corn.

At the present time, 100 pounds of live hogs at farm prices will only pay for about 9 bushels of corn, compared with 18 bushels last year and an average of 11 bushels since 1910. Since approximately 8½ bushels of corn are required to produce 100 pounds of pork, including the cost of maintaining the sow, the present ratio does not leave enough margin to cover other costs besides feed.

For a year and a half, the corn-hog ratio has been highly profitable, perhaps the most profitable for any like period on record. While production has been stimulated as a result, it has not acquired any such momentum as it had four years ago. Hog growers should be able to readjust production without the extremely low prices which developed when they were liquidating their herds after the last peak of expansion was reached.

Periods when the feeding ratio is profitable for eighteen or twenty-four months tend to alternate with similar periods when it is unprofitable. This tendency should be kept in mind in making plans for fall litters, as it indicates that mild curtailment of production is advisable. After another year it may be time to expand breeding herds once more. Farmers who follow up-to-date methods of feeding by balancing rations or using self feeders, furnishing forage crops in season, giving minerals, and taking sanitary precautions in order to avoid disease losses, will be in position to show a profit even while prices are on a low basis, the Foundation states. Inefficient producers whose costs of making pork are high will lose money and will be forced to contract their herds.

Hon. E. E. Calloway of Lakeland Florida was in Clanton this week on a short visit to Mr. A. C. Smith.

Mr. and Mrs. Carter Willis of Thorsby spent Sunday with Mrs. S. R. Goodgame.

Convention of Baptist Young People Closes

The entire program of the convention being based on living for Jesus in B. Y. P. U. was of vital interest to all present on August 28th at White City Baptist church.

One of Birmingham's most talented musicians, Joseph Mereno, of Howard College being at the piano with Joe Heacock Jr. leading the worship in song. After which Miss Willard Davis lead the devotional in an interesting talk. Luther Little told of living for Jesus in mind. Christ was used as a true example. Next Joe Heacock Jr. explained in a simple but wonderful way, Jesus in Our Physical Strength, sketching the physical strength of great men with Jesus for an example. After which Rev. DeLoach sang, "I'm a Little Old Fashioned I know."

Rev. Theo Haris being unable to reach White City to deliver the conventional sermon R. E. Johnson occupied the pulpit, reading 2 Peter. First he made a plea for Alabama Baptists to visit every B. Y. P. U. No other could have been more consecrated as he while discussing the part that the adults have in fostering Unions and the church responsibility for spiritual development of its members.

Just at this time everybody greeted everybody else, all receiving a warm welcome assembled around the big table with a big welcome for a big amount of fine eats. Prepared by the White City members. After having eaten and gotten acquainted we reassembled for the afernoon session with a song service leading back to the subject of the day. Miss Glenn led the devotional, reading the Transfiguration as, "Living for Jesus in Service" was the subject.

Our president, Miss Cobern, presiding the following were discussed: the duties of the secretary and treasurer, Bible Reading, leader grand captain also the best methods for planning a program. Two officers were elected, Vice president for Unity, Luther Little, President of District No. 3, Miss Delene Williams, of Clanton, Alabama.

After Rev. Arthur Deloach stressed the fact that living for Jesus is well worth while the meeting soon closed.

Watch the papers for the time and place for the next meeting. You be sure your Union is represented.

The regular contribution of rattlesnake skins for this week was brought to The Union-Banner office Tuesday morning by Mr. Harvey Bowden of the northern part of the county. The snake was killed near the old Charley Ellison place. It measured five feet long and had ten rattles. Never before have we heard of so many big rattlesnakes in this part of the country.

LOOK OUT FOR THE SQUIRREL SHOOTERS

Sheriff Collins issues warning to those who engage in shooting squirrels out of season. Violators will be prosecuted if caught. The Sheriff also points out that citizens who know of such violations should not wait for the officers to take action. Any citizen who can catch a violator of the game laws has a right to arrest the guilty party and bring him in and get half the fee for making the arrest. If a landowner knows of anyone hunting on his land before the season opens, he should secure the proper evidence, and have the party looked after by the law. This is the only way to break up the bad practice of hunting out of season.

PARTY OF CHILTON FOLKS ON MOTOR TOUR LAST SUNDAY

Ed Mims reports an interesting trip with his car last Sunday when he carried Mr. and Mrs. William Cleckler and their daughter in law on a visit to relatives and friends near Uniontown. The party left here early Sunday morning going by way of Selma to Uniontown. They returned by way of Marion, Centreville, Randolph and Jemison.

Mr. Mims says he observed the appearance of crops on the trip and he was impressed with the fact that they look bad. When he got on the subject of roads he said:

"You can tell the boys who are kicking about Chilton County roads that they ought to make a trip into some of our neighboring counties and see the difference. When you drive over the bad roads in some of the other counties and hit Chilton County line coming back you can tell the difference with your eyes shut.

"I especially want to mention the new road that has been built this summer from Randolph to Jemison. That is a dandy and ought to be appreciated by the people of West Chilton. Taking it upon an average, I am convinced that the roads of Chilton County will stack up better than any other county in this section of Alabama."

FORMER CLANTON PASTOR WRITES FROM TENNESSEE

Dear Mr. Editor and Brother:

I am writing for two reasons. First, to express my sympathy for you on the occasion of the fire that occurred at your house, which at the best is a very undesirable event, though at the same time I am pleased to know it did not prove more disastrous, and that the loss sustained is covered by insurance. May you never have another event like that, I mean so far as the fire is concerned.

You will note that I have changed my address from Fayetteville, Tennessee to Tracy City, Tennessee, where I am now pastor of the church here, and also Missionary to Grundy County, being the only resident Baptist preacher in a population of 10,000 people. A few Sundays ago I preached at Sewanee, Tennessee, in the Cumberland Presbyterian church. That place is the center and hot-bed of Episcopalianism for he South with a population of about 800 people. I am informed that I was the first Baptist preacher that ever preached there. The building in which I preached, or the church represented by it, had no preaching for a year before my going there. It seems inconcievable from a Baptist standpoint that such conditions should exist right at our own doors. Amid 10,000 people there are not more than perhaps 200 Missionary Baptists and as the rest of them are either very irregular or hard-boiled in their particular faith and order, it will be many a long day befoe we convert them to the New Testament Church with the present limited resources now being expended.

Having changed my address as above please do so on your mailing list, as I appreciate the paper, and like to keep in touch with Clanton affairs.

Hoping you and the family are well, and the household will soon be straightened out again after the fire which usually disorganizes things, I am as ever, Yours very truly.—P. G. Carter, Tracy City, Tenn., August 31, 1927.

COUNTY AGENT'S NOTES

I find the European fruit moth is attacking the tips of the peach tree limbs. The tips of limbs attacked by this insect show dead leaves and black wax. Cultivate the trees clean by plowing and hoeing close up to the trees then follow the regular spray schedule for control.

If you have a home orchard, and I think every farmer should have, see your county agent about controlling the peach borer, also about time and kind of spray for other diseases and insects.

JONES REUNION AT MULBERRY LAST SUNDAY

One of the most enjoyable affairs of the summer was the Jones reunion at Mulberry in Chilton County last Sunday, September the 4th. Those who were present were Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Swan and children of Birmingham, Mr. and Mrs. Bowden of Birmingham, Mrs. Fred L. Martin of Gulfport, Mississippi, The Rev. Fred Lee Martin Jr. of Gulfport, Mississippi, Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Oden of Maplesville, Mrs. David Vines and children of Selma, Mr. and Mrs. B. L. Jones of Clanton, Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Jones of Clanton, Mr. and Mrs. B. E. Jones of Montgomery, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Higgins of Birmingham, Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Jones and Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Jones of Jonestown and others.

A talk was made by Rev. Fred Lee Martin which was very interesting and was enjoyed by all.

Paul Oden gave several vocal selections.

During the noon hour a very elaborate dinner was served.

Honors for Percy M. Pitts, Chilton's Representative in Alabama Legislature

The defeat of the Chilton County Board of Revenue Bill in the legislature of Alabama will forever stand out as an achievement of Hon. Percy M. Pitts, our representative, which establishes him with distinction in the minds of the great majority of our citizens. In accomplishing the defeat of this bill Mr. Pitts can and should be credited with a successful discharge of the one great obligation which was placed in his hands by his constituency.

While he did not introduce a single bill for enactment into law, that is more of a credit to him than a cause for blame. Alabama would perhaps be better off for years to come if many more representatives could say the same thing. It is almost universally agreed that we already have too many laws, and the legislature which has just adjourned added about 700 more to the number.

It is a stock argument in campaigns in this county that a Republican representative in Montgomery is equivalent to no representative at all. That was used against Mr. Pitts. Such is not true. While it is a fact that the legislature of Alabama is composed of Democrats almost entirely, yet they are men of reason in most cases. Upon local county measures they most generally adhere to the wishes of the county representative.

Such was the case this time. It was not so much a matter of Percy Pitts, Republican or Percy Pitts otherwise politically. Mr. Pitts contended for the best interests of his county and the defeat of the Board of Revenue Bill. He was fair, square, and honest with his colleagues, and displayed sane judgment in every act he was called upon to perform. His conduct impressed his fellow-members that he was a man worthy of confidence; and when he told them the best interests of his county demanded the defeat of that bill they found out through other representations made by many citizens of the county that he was telling the truth, and they stuck to him when voting time came.

Percy Pitts has demonstrated that even if a man is a Republican, if he will prove himself every inch a man he can gain audience with other real men, even though they be his political opponents.

The verdict of the people of this county upon the record of Mr. Pitts as their representative in the 1927 legislature might well be expressed in these words: He has fought a good fight; he has finished his course; he has kept the faith; enter thou into the joys which are reserved for faithful servants who are honest and conscientious in the discharge of the duties of public trust.

The Union-Banner here and now nominates the Hon. Percy M. Pitts as Chilton County's representative in the next legislature of Alabama. Do we hear a second?

LAMBERT INJURED AS JACKED TRUCK FALLS ON PROSTRATE BODY

With his spine fractured as the result of a terrific blow across the back of his neck, suffered Sunday morning at 10 o'clock when a Ford truck under which he was working slipped from a jack and struck him, J. W. Lambert of Hazen, is seriously injured at the Vaughn Memorial hospital where his condition today was said to be precarious.

Paralysis induced by the blow to his spine has affected the entire lower part of his body.

Lambert was working under the truck, in the back yard of his father's home, just off Jeff Davis avenue in the neighborhood of the Buckeye Cotton Oil Mill Company's plant. While he bent under the rear axle the jack holding the truck slipped, letting the full weight of the body down on his neck, knocking him senseless.

The injured man was carried at once to the hospital in an automobile, without waiting for the arrival of an ambulance.—Selma Times.

Later reports say Mr. Lambert is still in a very serious condition. He was operated on Monday morning. His back was broken, but there is hope. It's just hope against hope. The words above about him being knocked senseless is a mistake. He has been conscious all the time, but knows his condition is just a chance.

OLD TIME SINGING AT THE COURTHOUSE HERE

Don't forget the regular second Sunday singing at the courthouse. A large delegation from Birmingham has promised to be with us on that occasion, among whom are, Prof. A. F. Lokey, Shirley Bros. and Prof. John M. Dye, who will be the organist for the singers. The public is invited to attend and especially the people of Clanton.—Chairman.

UNION-BANNER GETS FINE BUNCH OF ENGLISH PEANUTS

VERBENA BAPTISTS TO BUILD S. S. ANNEX TO THEIR CHURCH

At conference last Sunday, the members of the Verbena Baptist church, according to the pastor, Rev. Arthur Deloach, voted to build a $5,000 annex to the present building to take care of the Sunday school classes. The plans for the annex were prepared by the famous church architect, Mr. Patterson. It is understood that the contract for the building will be awarded him also.

MRS. MONROE BENSON DIED LAST FRIDAY

The death of Mrs. Monroe Benson, age 28, occured at the home of the family in Clanton last Friday following an illness of about thee weeks. She had been in bad health for five years, but was not taken seriously ill until a short while back.

She is survived by her husband, Mr. Monroe Benson, mechanic, of the Clanton Motor Car Co., and three small children, Marie, age 8, Lurline, age 5, and Shirley, age 3. Mrs. Benson was the daughter of Mr. John W. Hays, and was the first of fourteen children of that family to answer the grim reaper.

The remains were laid to rest at Collins Chapel cemetery on Saturday with Martin in charge. Rev. J. H. Lembrick, assisted by Rev. W. P. Lowery, conducted the funeral.

The many sorrowing friends of Mr. and Mrs. Benson are bowed in grief at the untimely death of this beloved young flower of womanhood.

ANOTHER BAKERY SHOP TO BE IN CLANTON

A sign on the front of the Wade building formerly occupied by Main Street Garage says that a bakery shop will be opened in that building about September 15th. We have been unable to obtain any information as to who will operate the business.

We welcome this business to Clanton. There is every reason to believe that a good bakery business here would be profitable, notwithstanding that it has been attempted by various ones in the past with no permanent success.

Mr. D. Wyatt from Swift Creek in Autauga County was in Clanton Tuesday of this week. In conversing with the editor of the Union-Banner Mr. Wyatt stated that up until a year ago, he had not visited in Clanton since there were only two stores and one frame hotel. This was in the time of the Gullahorns.

Uncle Bill Wyatt of Florida is spending some days with relatives in and near Clanton.

Mrs. W. M. Wyatt and Mrs. L. C. Duncan attended the show in Birmingham Friday night.

MARK TUCKER'S STATE CAPITOL NEWS LETTER

One of the most constructive measures passed by the legislature at the session which concluded its labors at Midnight Friday, or when the capitol clocks registered that hour, was contained in the Agricultural and Industrial Code, upon which a recess committee, standing committees in both houses and Code Commissioner, Harwell G. Davis, had been at work since the early days of the 1927 session.

The act is one of the most voluminous ever adopted in this state. It reenacts many of the sections of the former agricultural laws, and in addition provides for inspection of hay, grain dairy products and various items of farm production, both at points of origin and principal markets. It is designed to meet halfway those large corporations that desire to buy standardized Alabama products for their commissaries and otherwise improve markets for diversified commodities from the farms.

A state board of industries composed of seven members, with the governor as ex-officio chairman and the commissioner as ex-officio secretary is created to give force and effect to the industrial section of the department, which heretofore has been a department of industries only in name. The new board will be appointed by the governor for terms of varying length and their successors will serve for twelve years. The five non-official members will serve without any pay whatsoever. The industrial section is supported by an appropriation of $25,000 per annum, and authorized to receive donations further to carry on the work of industrial research and development. The chief task assigned the board by the act is that of creating industries in small municipalities and rural sections that will utilize farm products as their raw materials.

The only work of the present session that surpasses this "code" in constructive importance is that in reference to the extension of school terms and for the improvement of educational facilities in both public schools and institutions for higher learning. These betterments in the cause of learning will be accomplished through special means of obtaining revenue, such as the tax on cigars and cigarettes, and will place no additional burdens upon the home owners or farmers of the state, other than the taxes which have heretofore been in effect.

Rural sections of the state and the farming population have received greater attention at the hands of this legislature, it is stated by students of the situation at Montgomery, than has been accorded them at any previous legislative session. While it apeared at the beginning of the session that Governor Bibb Graves would have to work with a hostile majority in House and Senate, the final results have shown his policies to prevail in practically all of the most important matters covered by new legislation.

Governor Graves has approved the bill creating a Real Estate Commission for the state of Alabama, which goes into effect January 1, 1928. He will appoint three real estate dealers, residents of the State for the past five years or more, as members of the board, and they will take the oath of office prescribed for other officials of the state.

Four executive amendments were proposed by the governor for his approval and these changes in the original bill were adopted by the House and Senate. In the opinion of the advocates of this legislation the governor's recommendations only serve to strengthen the measure. One provides that the special licenses for realty brokers and salesmen shall be collected as other state licenses are collected and another provides that expenditures under the act shall be approved by the governor, a third requires members of the board to take the oath of office for the faithful performance of their duties as such, and the fourth provides that all money collected under the act and not required for the enforcement of its purposes shall go into the general funds of the state.

The license required of realty brokers is $10 for the first year and 5 per cent thereafter, each year. The license for realty salesmen is one-half of those amounts. President H. S. Matthews of the Alabama Realtors Association makes the estimate that there will be a considerable residue for the state treasury, as only the secretary and a stenographer draw salaries and members of the board a small per diem when actually in session.

Following the passage of the act giving the state's officials backing to their efforts for a stabilized profession, the Alabama Realtors Association announced the beginning of a campaign to advertise all Alabama, to bring in new industries.

There will be preaching Sunday, September 11, at Henry Haywood's home on L. & N. railroad near Bill Mims crossing, starting at 10:30 o'clock. Everybody invited to come. Subject will be Isaiah 53:5, conducted by Jesse Mitchell.

Attempt to Increase the Partridge Supply

We, the undersigned farmers of Pinedale and Cane Creek communities, will attempt, during the next few years, to increase the supply of partridges in our communities. The partridge is a very useful bird to the farmer, living on insects alone, and we feel that in protecting them, and giving them a chance to increase in number we will be helping ourselves by disposing of insects which injure our crops, and also, will be a help to sportsmen in that the 2624 acres of land which we own will eventually become a feeder territory where the birds may multiply in safety and from there spread out to other sections where hunters may have the pleasure of hunting them.

In doing this we will post our land against all hunting. We do this solely for the purpose stated above, and not to hurt anyone's feelings or to inconvenience anyone.

We hope that the hunters will get our view on this matter and co-operate with us, which will, we believe, be beneficial to both farmers and hunters alike.—(Signed).

HAIL AND WIND DOES MUCH DAMAGE MONDAY AFTERNOON

Reports have come in concerning heavy damage by wind, ain and hail east of Clanton about four miles Monday afternoon. The center of the storm is said to have been about the farm of Bud Robinson on the Higgins Ferry Road. Fields white with open cotton were stripped naked and much of the cotton beaten into the ground. Damage to all crops is said to have been severe. This is the same community that was visited by a destructive hail storm just a little earlier in the growing season of last year.

CLANTON GRAMMAR SCHOOL OPENED HERE MONDAY

The opening of the Clanton Grammar School took place Monday morning with the principal, Miss Mary C. Hobdy, directing activities for organization and classification of pupils. The total enrollment on the first day was 198, who were classified by grades as follows:

First grade, 36; second grade, 34; third grade, 31; fourth grade, 32; fifth grade, 33; sixth grade, 32. Of the total enrollment 17 were listed for transportation to the school on ruck.

The following is the list of teachers in the school for this session: Mrs. W. M. Smith and Miss Sarah Pollard, first grade; Miss Lucile Sherwood and Miss Avis Grantham, second grade; Mrs. H. G. Tabb, third grade; Miss Bessie Thomas, fourth grade; Miss Gladys Watson and Mrs. Mamie Spencer, fifth grade; Miss Mary C. Hobdy, principal, sixth grade.

Miss Hobdy urges that all pupils who contemplate attending the school this session come in this week and register, even if it be impossible for them to enter right now. It is very important that she know as soon as possible what the total enrollment will be in order to properly classify them and complete the grades.

Feel Tired and Languid?

Waste Impurities in the Blood Make One Dull and Listless.

Do you wonder why you feel so drowsy and out of sorts? Too many feel always tired, dull and achy. Too often the cause is sluggish kidneys that permit waste impurities to remain in the blood and cause one to feel dull and listless—to have a nagging backache and annoying headaches and dizzy spells. That the kidneys are not working right is often shown by scanty or burning excretions. Assist the kidneys with Doan's Pills. Users everywhere recommend Doan's. Ask your neighbor!

The Railroads Are Ready To Move Bumper Crops

"Help for the farmer" is coming in a very practical way from the great steam transportation lines of this Nation, taking his crops to market quickly, efficiently and economically. This is the giant task piled on American railroads at this season of the year, and so handled by the carriers as to insure the farmers the best of service—at the same time holding down the cost to the consumer.

Cotton, corn, wheat, oats and small grains are moving to market faster and more satisfactorily than ever before in the history of transportation. ¶ It is interesting to note that during 1926 the railroads hauled an average of about eleven and a half tons of freight for every man, woman and child in the United States.

Try This Next Time You Are Sick

WRITE down your symptoms and send them (cash with order) to a doctor a hundred or a thousand miles away. In due time you will receive your medicine if you still need it. This is a ridiculous thought, isn't it? But scarcely more ridiculous than many other things that many people are doing all the time.

When you are ill you want service—quick service—personal service, friendly and interested service, known and efficient service, and you call in one of our good home town doctors. The same principle applies to every dollar you spend for necessities of life. Who is as interested in home people and home progress as home merchants and home business men? Nobody else is. There is no substitute for face-to-face dealing. We should keep our money at home.

You may think you do better for yourself when you buv from mail order houses, but you don't, and when you send your money away you are sapping the life out of home progress.

Chilton County High School Opened Monday

The Chilton county high school opened Monday morning of this week with promising indications for a very successful year. About 200 pupils have been enrolled, with several more to enter in the next few days. Beginning Tuesday, every department of the school is running full time. Reports from the faculty say that the student body has shown a spirit of intense interest and al lare entering into their work with zeal.

The school is well equipped to begin with this year, and every indication points to the must successful session in the history of the school. A splendid school spirit on the part of parents and students seems to warrant this prediction.

Athletics will receive a due proportion of the time of the students, but will not detract from the literary efforts. More boys are coming out for football each aftenoon. Prospects are bright for a winning team again this year.

The girls will have the advantage of two coaches for their part in athletics. Plans are being made to begin basketball practice for the girls immediately.

ISABELLA AND MULBERRY

Isabella High School opened Monday with all the teachers present, and from the looks of everything we believe we will have a better school this year than we have ever had. We have new teachers, lots of new pupils and we hope to soon have a new building. Prof. Griffin and Prof. Thomas were all smiles and we are hoping that the teachers and parents will cooperate with each other and make our scool a success. The grammar school will open the first of October.

Mr. Pierce Griffin, one of our farmers of this cmmunity, had the misfortune to get his barn burned last Tuesday night. He had about 900 pounds of seed cotton to burn and his truck was under the barn but he managed to get it out before it was burned.

Mr. and Mrs. D. O. Manning accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Tucker of Birmingham returned recently from an extended visit to their sons, Mr. R. E. Manning of Miami, and other parts of Florida and Georgia. They report a delightful trip.

Mulberry W. M. S. met with Mrs. A. D. Martin last Saturday afternoon and had a real good meeting. Mr. J. D. Griffin's oldest son, Robert Lee Griffin, took a two horse wagon and a bunch of the W. M. S. ladies with him to Mrs. Martin's and all had a pleasant ride and lots of fun.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Willis and Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Olvey, all from Birmingham was visiting their parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. O. Manning last week end.

Mr. Joe Carter, the manager of our new school building, is coming on fine with his work.

The Jones family had a reunion at Isabella Methodist Church last Sunday, and from the looks of so many around the church there must have been a crowd of them. I hope they had a delightful time and I know as usual they spread a bountiful dinner.

Mrs. Ernest Grooms, who has been at her mother's, Mrs. Deason for some time, will be at her home in a few days.

Miss Bonnie Clyde Griffin entertained the B. Y. P. U. at a social last Saturday night. After a number of games were played refreshments were served.

Misses Gladys and Alma Sexton entertained the Y. W. A. last Wednesday evening.

We now have most all the organizations for our young people. We are very proud of the work our boys and girls are doing.

HURRY VETCH ORDERS

From September 15th to October 15th is the best time to sow vetch.

If you have not placed your order and want to start soil building this year, send me your order for 20 lbs. vetch for each acre you want to plant inclosing two cents per pound as a deposit, and your order will be set to the Farm Bureau and delivery of the seed made as soon as possible.

Up to this date more than 150 farmers have placed orders for over 20,000 pounds of vetch seed, enough to plant 1,000 acres.

For information relative to vetch growing consult Mr. C. E. Stapp, the county agent at Clanton, Prof. J. P. Montgomery, Jemison, Ala., or Prof. Earle Thomas, Maplesville Route 1.

JUDGE GARY'S ADVICE

Judge Elbert H. Gary, chairman of the Board of Directors of the United States Steel Corporation was known as a wise and patriotic man. His public statements were noted for their clearness of thought and their sound logic. Never, however, did he express saner thought than in his last will and testament. His advice to his family in the matter of investments is so clear and concise that it deserves the widest publicity.

In his last will and testament Judge Gary says:

"I earnestly request my wife and my children and descendants that they steadfastly decline to sign any bonds or obligations of any kind as surety for other person or persons, that they refrain from anticipating their income in any respect; that they refuse to make any loans except on the basis of first-class, well-known securities and that they invariably decline to invest in any untried or doubtful securities or property or enterprise or business.

"They should reject any representations or opinions of others if involved in any doubt. They will be approached frequently with suggestions for investment that are not entitled to be relied upon from a business standpoint."

It is impossible to measure the amount of misery and misfortune which has resulted in the world from misplaced confidence in the signing of surety papers, and in investments in "wildcat" and "blue sky" schemes for making money rapidly. It would seem that experiences of this kind have been so general and have been given so much publicity that everyone would be aware of the danger of business operations of the sort. And yet it seems that there is annually a new crop of inexperienced ones who must learn their lesson in the bitter school of misfortune.

Judge Gary's advice to his family is worth considering. Cut it out and paste it up where you can look at it the next time that an alluring blue sky salesman comes along.

BUICK

When Buick improves upon Buick —the standard for the year is set

Buick for 1928 introduces a higher standard of beauty and luxury than the world has ever known. Buick interiors are as modish as exquisite drawing-rooms—as harmoniously colored—and as comfortable. Buick's new Fisher bodies are low-swung without any loss of head-room or road-clearance.

And so, down to the smallest detail of construction, wherever refinements could be made, Buick has made them. Again Buick has improved upon Buick. Again the standard for the year is set.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

The dollar is growing in purchasing power and is now worth 61.7 cents as compared with the pre-war dollar of 1914 according to the National Industrial Conference Board. It is now worth about thirteen cents more in buying power than when it hit the low point in 1920. The reason given for the increasing value of the dollar is the decline in the cost of living which has been steady during 1926 and the current year. Among the contributing factors in this decrease is a slight decline in rents and in the retail clothing prices together with an average decline of .8 per cent in retail food prices.

During the period of 1926 and up to date in 1927 wages have fluctuated little the report says, and employment has been steady. The significant statement is made too that average wage earnings show a remarkably steady upward trend, average earnings for each worker employed in June being even slightly higher than they were at the beginning of 1926.

There is not much consolation for the calamity howlers in this report. The old charge that "the rich are becoming richer and the poor poorer" now seems decidedly archaic, and in view of the trend of events and the general progress upward even in rural districts it will be necessary for the tariff baiters to change their arguments to some extent if they decide to make the protective tariff an issue in the next campaign, which is doubtful.

The free traders in Congress and outside told us, when the present tariff was in the making, that it would result in a greatly increased cost of living, that prices would go up much faster than wages and that the "tariff barons" would get all the benefit from the higher duties. Some concerns which were interested in getting cheaper woolens from England and Saxony went so far as to insert ads in the newspapers telling their customers how much higher the price of clothing would be under the new tariff and suggesting either directly or by inference that they ask their representatives in Congress to vote against the tariff. Well the tariff bill passed and the price of clothing did not become prohibitive. And it is doubly interesting to note in this report of the Industrial Conference Board that the decline in retail clothing prices is a contributing factor to the increased purchasing power of the dollar.

As a matter of fact things have turned out just as the protectionists predicted. Wages have gone up because the workers have been protected from cheap European competition. And the great assured home market has permitted the manufacturers so to increase their production and reduce manufacturing costs that the cost of living has not increased. We have therefore at this time what would seem to the theoretical economist an impossible condition—an increase in wages and a reduction in the cost of living. The theorist told us that it couldn't be done, but the theorists as a rule are free traders, internationalists and whatnot. They fail to give due weight to the American idea of standardized production. Nothing suceeds like success, and despite any predictions we may hear now, it is a good bet that the tafiff will not be the paramount issue in 1928. The people see too plainly how it has worked in America and how far superior our economic position is to that of the most fortunate of the European nations. Any party which makes "tariff for revenue only" the issue next year will be committing political hari-kari.

Mr. Pitts, while a lonesome Republican in the Alabama House of Representatives, came out without a scratch, making a record which we believe will go down in history as the most successful of any representative this county has ever sent to Montgomery.

THE LEGISLATURE ADJOURNED

The Legislature of Alabama adjourned its 1927 session last Friday night. Since that time the press of the State and many public officials, high and low, have been busy thinking up words of praise or words of blame to write an epitaph for 1927 legislators severally and collectively.

Many people find themselves expressing thanks to the legislature for what was done in this or that instance. Others find it more fitting to thank them for something that was not done.

Chief interest in the 1927 legislature among citizens of Chilton County was centered in the attitude of the lawmakers upon the question of a certain local bill designed to abolish the court of county commissioners and establish a board of revenue; and incidentally while making the machinery of Chilton County's government over, to make it so that hereafter none but Democrats should have a chance to be elected and sit in the seats of the mighty.

That this bill was turned down by the legislature is an instance where that body is accorded the thanks of a great number of people for something they did not do.

We have contended from the beginning of this bill that it was a deadly dart aimed at the vitals of the principle of local self government of Chilton County. Members of the legislature who looked deep enough to discern the truth of the motives being sought by advocates of the bill, and it is fortunate for the people of Chilton County that those gentlemen saw fit to let the bill die in the borning, and not to molest the orderly process of government affairs in Chilton County by the enactment of such a wild scheme.

Indeed should Chilton County people feel kindly and thankful to the 1927 legislature for refusing to entertain and enact the board of revenue bill.

Another local bill seeking to enlarge the corporate limits of the Town of Clanton, also went by the board and was lost in the shuffle at the last hour of the session. Some there are who are glad this bill was not passed; and some are sorrowful.

We believe the corporate limits of the Town of Clanton should have been extended. But we also believe that the proposed bill was a case of too much of a good thing. It should have been amended so that the increase in area of the town would have been within reason, and we doubt not that it would have been passed.

The advocates of the bill were too sure of their ground. They believed they could put the bill over as originally drafted without making any concessions to those who wanted the measure modified. They held on to the original bill and lost the whole thing.

The legislature may be charged with erratic wildness on some subjects, but they must have credit for being sane upon the matter of Chilton County's local bills.

OUR TARIFF AGAIN

In a recent speech at Allentown, Pennsylvania, Secretary of Labor Davis declared that the American protective tariff is the bulwark between the American workingman and idleness and is the chief factor in this country's prosperity.

"What would you rather have," he asked, "the men of Europe doing the work, or the men of the United States? If we had no tariff the factories of other countries would run and ours would have to be closed. We must think in terms of America."

Here is the tariff situation, as it affects the workingman in a nutshell. It is not a question of reducing his wages but of facing a loss of job and the soup kitchen or starvation. Eventually if free trade were continued, it might be possible for manufacturing to be resumed in America on the basis of European wages and European conditions. But nobody in America wants such wages paid or such living conditions endured. And first at any rate would come idleness in the factories and general stagnation.

But the farmer is directly interested too. Lowering the tariff would not help him because he is now paying no tariff on commodities used exclusively by himself. It would hurt him both directly and indirectly. Indirectly because his great home market for provisions would be destroyed and directly because he would face competition in certain agricultural commodities from Cuba, from Mexico, from China, from Canada, from South America and Spain and Italy.

And the farmer knows this. He realizes it in the South and in the Southwest as well as in the North and Northwest. That is why the tariff is no longer regarded as a sectional issue. Growers in Florida and Texas need it as well as the farmers of Minnesota and Colorado.

Marvin W. Marcus of Memphis, Tenn., was in Clanton Sunday and Monday visiting his father, T. J. Marcus. "Mutt" reports that he is getting along well in the Tennessee metropolis. He is a member of a firm engaged in the sign painting business, which is his old hobby from boyhood. Sign painting and advertising are his second nature. His many friends here hope for him continued success.

GOOD FEELING ERA IN TRADES

We are now enjoying an era of good feeling in American industry and this accounts in a large measure for our present prosperity according to James J. Davis, Secretary of Labor in the September issue of the National Republic. Speaking of the better industrial relations, Mr. Davis says:

The victory we have won is really a victory over ourselves and over our former ignorance. Our present prosperity is the result of a long process of economic education. Business and finance have been utilized, of course, by the Federal Reserve System. But in my estimation, this and other mechanical means are the least of the factors that have released us from our former slavery to panic. Let me tick off a few of the states of mind we have slowly arrived at, which I think account for our present fortunate condition.

In the first place, worker and employer have risen out of their former state of fixed hostility, while regrettable, was perhaps unavoidable, inevitable. Men of business genius were then shaping together our large modern production units, our great corporations. These inspired distrust, at first, not only in the ranks of the labor but among us all. Now we see the benefits we derive from these larger, more unified, more scientifically managed enterprises. We early learned to control them. Now they control themselves. Or public opinion keeps them keyed to a high ethical standard. When they were young, nevertheless, labor especially feared them. In defense of itself, labor likewise was driven to organize into units directed by able leaders. These organizations, in turn, inspired a certain distrust in employing ranks. The result was a state of constant mistrust and suspicion that often broke forth into violent strikes.

Beyond all doubt these ever-recurring labor disputes, with their costly stoppage of production and the disturbance they wrought to industry in general, contributed greatly to the keeping in existence the old cycle of booms and panics. And I can't help thinking that much of this present prosperity is the result of a better spirit that has come into being between the 42,000,000 American workers and their employers. The old suspicion and hostility have given way to thorough understanding and willing partnership. Great strikes have all but disappeared entirely. The coal industry seems the only one left to be afflicted by them, and I hope for the time when that industry also may be organized and run on lines of the same understanding and cooperation that prevail nearly everywhere else in American industry.

It is not only that the worker and his employer get on amiably together, as men. They have become truly working partners. Modern science and invention have enormously sped up the machinery of production, and business genius is constantly at work in distributing this enormous output at ever lower and lower costs to the public. Our vast capacity to produce would only involve us in worse depression than ever, if our capacity to consume had not kept pace.

When asked by a New York Times correspondent why there was neither free speech nor a free press in Russia, Leon Trotsky replied that freedom of the press in America was nothing but freedom to pay two cents for a paper produced by burgeois journalists in the pay of capitalists. No wonder they can't harm Trotsky over there when he can dodge like that.

HUDSON CAR ESTABLISHES AN ECONOMICAL RECORD

During the past week a party of tourists called by the Bates Motor Company, local Essex-Hudson dealers, to inform them of what an economical record they believed had been established since this party left Jackson, Mich., in a Hudson car.

The party, composed of Rube Vickers A. C. Frenche, Hupmobile dealer, Jno. T. Morrison, Dr J. J. Holes, anad R. D Boland, left the Michigan city the latter part of August, and since that time they had covered a total of 2387 miles up to the date they were in Clanton, and had used only 163 gallons of gas, for an average of better than 14 1-4 miles per gallon, and they stated that they averaged 18 miles per gallon from Tallahassee, Fla, to Montgomery.

In the covering of so many miles, the party stated that they had to encounter most every class of highway, and the owner of the car was high in his praise for the many features found in the way of riding comforts as well as from an economical standpoint.

POOR ORIGINAL TORN

PEACE AND PREPAREDNESS

Peace is the most necessary condition for the world today. Another war like the great war would probably result in the extinction of western culture. Every intelligent man knows this. Above all, those who took part in the fighting between 1914 and 1918 know what modern warfare means, and know only too well that the next war will, as Marshal Foch has said, be a war against civilian populations.

But there is no use losing our heads about the matter. There is no use introducing childish resolutions like that introduced before the World Federation of Education Associations at Toronto. The abolition of military training in all civil educational institutions is not an essential step in the cause of world peace. Because men are trained to keep discipline and respect order and to carry on with their work, no matter how disagreeable, it does not necessarily mean that they will henceforth go about the world seeking whom they may devour.

Military training, as taught in civil establishments, does not make soldiers in hese days. It makes good citizens, for anybody who has been taught to do his job is a better citizen than the man who shirks it; and man for man, those who went to the war are better men than those who could have gone and did not go. But the sort of drill which is given in schools does not make fighting men today. In happier days, when cannon balls could be dodged, and battles were won by the infantry which were more than a match for the opposing infantry in muscular development and quickness of movement, the simple manoeuvres of the parade ground were no doubt of practical use. But nowadays when the whole army is being mechanicalized, and it is possible to serve a long campaign without ever seeing a live enemy, it is nonsense to talk as if training in discipline were the same as military training. The gentlemen of the World Federation of Education Associations are talking too much by the book and too little from experience. —Montreal Star.

NEWS IN BRIEF

Field reports show that only an early crop of cotton has been made in Alabama this year. The weather, boll weevils, and other things prevented a late crop. The crop is much smaller than that of 1926.

For the first time the National Dairy Exhibition will be held in the South this year. It will take place at Memphis, Tennessee, October 15-22 in connection with the Tri-State Fair. Arrangements have been made to accomodate 300,000 visitors.

Since December, 1925 the purchasing power of a dollar has increased 6 per cent, according to the National Conference Board. It is now at its highest point since July, 1924, being worth 61.7 cents as compared with the 1914 dollar.

A study of farmers in New York revealed that a high school education is equivalent, on the average, to an investment of $6,000 in 5-per cent bonds. A college education is estimated as being worth one and one-half times as much as a high school training.

It has been found that the ten master farmers of Alabama (1) Live in good houses; (2) Use modern equipment; (3) Practice modern methods; (4) Read, study and think; (5) Keep step with progress; (6) Protect and enrich their soil; (7) Use power and machinery; (8) Follow scientific research; (9) Cooperate with other farmers; (10) Profit by their county agents. And they are good citizens who have found genuine satisfaction and profit in farming.

It still has to be proven that knee dresses are any bigger handicap than hoop skirts for the proper rearing of babies.

It is said that the cost of living declined steadily during the first half of 1927. And of course the most important decline was in the price of gasoline.

No matter what unpleasantness may happen in Europe there are plenty of internationalists in America willing to admit that it is all our fault.

FROM MR. A. A. JACKSON

The following letter by Mr. A. A. Jackson was sent to The Birmingham Post, which was refused publication by the Post. It is reproduced herewith by request of Mr. Jackson. —Editor.

Editor The Post:

Your statement in regard to Senator J. Thomas Heflin's speech at Abbeville, is that Tom has gone wrong in denouncing the Catholics. If what reformed catholics tell us is true we need more Heflins, and no more statements like yours.

Father Chiniquy, who lived in the Catholic church fifty years says the catholics are determined to take possession of the United States, and rule it. But they cannot do that without acting secretly and with the utmost wisdom. Let us pray God that they may sleep and dream their sweet dreams a few years more. How sad will their awakening be, when with our outnumbering votes we will turn them forever from every position of honor, power and profit. What will these hypocritical and Godless sons and daughters of the fanatical pilgrim fathers say when not a single judge, not a single teacher, not a single policeman will be elected if he be not a devoted Roman Catholic? What will these so-called giants think of their ability and shrewdness when not a single senator or member of Congress will be chosen if he be not submitted to our holy Father, the Pope?

Can we deny the above statement which coms from the pen of a man who lived in the Roman Catholic church fifty years? Is it possible that the Catholics have control of the public press, and this country is in danger of Catholic rule? If so God send us more Heflins and a reformed press. Respectfully.—A. A. Jackson.

A poor Australian woman was notified the other day that she was one of the heirs to the great Senator Clark estate, and the newspapers say that she took it very calmly and went on with her washing. Maybe she figured that the lawyers would get most of it anyhow.

It is possible that there might be other donations as it has been hard to keep a correct record of all donations made to the different members of the Finance Committee.

A lot of people continually complain of the weather but very few of them are able to do anything about it.

Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler says that no great man has appeared as a result of the World War. But he didn't say it while visiting Mussolini.

It used to make a man mad if you didn't enthuse over his dog and now it makes him sore if you knock the kind of car he drives.

FARM AND HOME FACTS

Flowers are entitled to a place around every home.

Successful gardeners will plant several vegetables during September.

The high price of cotton will offset the smaller yields this year.

If grazing is not available a little green feed ground and fed to chickens pays well.

Farmers who milk cows expect good prices for their milk and cream this winter and also next year.

Painting farm buildings costs very little as compared with the protection and the improvement in appearances.

Satsuma orange growers in Baldwin and Mobile counties anticipate a nice crop of first-class oranges this fall.

Home mixing fertilizer by the "Auburn Plan" is demonstrating its value on thousands of farms by producing larger yields of cotton.

Culling chickens to get rid of those that are unprofitable requires a little effort but it begins to pay a dividend every day in a smaller feed bill.

It's all right to be on time, but it's not advisable to be on the railroad crossing when the train is scheduled to be there.

A lot of women would be happy if they could only look as young as they feel.

She was an invalid in his home in Thorsby for a long time before she went to the hospital where better care could be given her than could be done in a private home. WILLIAM WALKER MAKING IMPROVEMNTS AT HOME

Mr. William Walker, well known farmer and landowner, who lives in the Mulberry community, has been engaged this summer in some extensive improvements that will add much to the beauty and comforts of his country estate.

A concrete fence around the yard was built by Mr. Will Deshazo. This is a somewhat unique arrangement but is very attractively designed. Uncle Billy plans to have inside this fence and around his house one of the prettiest lawns in the county.

The Walker home composed of Uncle Billy and his two sisters, is known far and wide for its hospitality. They are receiving the congratulations of their friends for the added beauties of their place this summer. Mr. Deshazo is being heartily commended for his splendid job on the concrete fence.

COLLINS CHAPEL SCHOOL WILL OPEN SEPTEMBER 12

A telegram from Prof. Luther E. Little, who is now in Shreveport, Louisiana, and who has accepted the position as principal of the Collins Chapel Junior High School, asks The Union-Banner to state that Collins Chapel school will begin its 1927-28 session on Monday, September 12th. Mrs. Popwell and Miss Vines have been retained for another year. Miss Beatrice Alexander, formerly at Clanton City school, has been added to the faculty.

All pupils are expected to be present at 9 o'clock, and all parents are urged to attend opening exercises.

Let Me Gin Your Cotton

The farmers of Chilton County are invited to bring me their cotton to be ginned, and I promise to render the very best service possible.

My gins have been thoroughly overhauled this season, and I believe they are in shape to gin your cotton with full satisfaction.

My gin began operation in 1923, which year I ginned 1,100 bales. Later my plant was enlarged, and last year I ginned 3,673 bales, the largest number turned out by any gin in the county that year.

I a mglad that the service which I have rendered in the past has brought so many customers to my new gin. My aim for the future is to continue such service as will bring added satisfaction to my patrons.

The farmers are invited to call upon me for any service which I may be able to render them in the way of improving agricultural conditions generally.

Supt. Lawrence Writes Regarding School Matters of Current Interest

To the Editor, The Union-Banner:

Since so many people are asking about the length of the school term and date of opening of schools I am taking this opportunity to answer these questions through the paper.

In the first place some have an idea that we will share fully in the General Educational Bill and many people are laboring under that impression. The Bill provides that in order for a county to share in the Equalization fund of $900,000 it must, among other things, vote the one-mill county school tax. No county that fails to meet this condition can share in it. Hence our county will get no part of it regardless of rumors that the bill is unconstitutional. The bill has been passed by the Legislature and been signed by the Governor and the Supreme Court holds that it is constitutional.

In view of the above facts we are uncertain about the length of our school term. We are going to do the best we can, and if possible have a six months term.

The General Educational Bill provides $850,000 attendance fund. Our county will share in that but in order that we may get the maximum from this bill let me urge that every patron make an effort to send the children every day. The larger our average daily attendance the greater amount we get from the attendance fund. We cannot afford to lose any of this in view of the fact that we cannot share in the $900,000 Equalization fund.

The regular county term will open on October 5th. The Teacher's Institute will be held on October 3 and 4th.

In conclusion let me ask for the cooperation of every patron in the county in making our school system what it ought to be. I am exceedingly grateful for the cooperation received in the past and I feel confident that we are going to have a better year this year than we have had heretofore. Yours for better schools.—B. Lawrence, County Superintendent of Education.

INTERESTING TRIP TO SOUTHERN PARTS OF ALABAMA

Messrs. Gip Melton and Rube Riggins made a motor trip to Baldwin County and other south Alabama points last week, which they report to be of much interest. They say they like the looks of the farming country down there very much.

NEW CHIEF OF POLICE HERE

We are unofficially informed that Mr. Bud Jones has resigned the position as chief of police of Clanton and that his place has been filled by the employment of Mr. John Boockholdt.

Mr. Boockholdt is a well known farmer of the Enterprise community, whom we understand is moving to Clanton to place his children in school here.

MISS MARY JOHN BURK DIED

On last Saturday at four o'clock Miss Mary John Burke of Route 7, one of Chilton County's most beloved young women passed into the great beyond.

Over a period of two years Miss Burke fought a courageous fight but her Heavenly Father called her to her home.

The funeral services in charge of Mell Martin, were conducted at Notasulga Sunday morning at 11 o'clock at Salem church, where she had joined as just a little girl. Rev. Strough conducted the services.

Miss Burke will be remembered as working at Elmore's and The Leader where she always had a cheerful smile and a word of encouragement for every one with whom she came in contact.

She is survived by her father, Mr. John Burke, her sisters, Misses Leslie and Sallie Lou Burke, Mrs. Williamson of Speigner and another sister who now lives in Louisiana, and a brother, Willie Burke.

Her many friends mourn with the family in this sad loss.

FIELD SELECTION OF SEED PAYS BIG DIVIDENDS

Auburn, Ala., Sept. 5.—Annually in the early fall there comes an opportunity for saving seed for planting the following year, and county agents say that a few days spent selecting and gathering seed in the fall should pay more than the same amount of time spent in any other way.

Only in the field in the early fall is it possible to select seed intelligently. If done early before the seed are damaged by weather better germination and more vigorous plants will be obtained.

When seed corn, for example, is selected in the field it is possible to see the conditions surrounding each stalk. If seed is selected in the crib this is not possible.

The big object of field selection of seed is to select that which is better and which will increase production. A plant which happens to have more space or to have an advantage in fertilizer is not the one from which to select seed.

Those which are outstanding with conditions the same as those of other plants are entitled to be selected for seed. Any farmer who repeats this practice year after year is certain to be rewarded with larger yields and bigger profits.

The principle of seed selection is that "like begets like." Therefore, seed from superior plants will produce superior plants.

CHEVROLET SALESMEN FETED

A series of nation-wide holidays topped off with banquets, the tribute of a great company to its leading retail salesmen, is now being staged by the Chevrolet Motor Company in honor of 2790 retail salesmen who during the selling year ended August 1 acheived membership in the Company's "72 Car Club," a star salesmen's honorary organization.

This year's roll exceeds by more than three times the list for 1926, when only 873 salesmen qualified for membership, and furnishes a new index of the tremendous production and sales record established by this company during the year.

Winners of the coveted honor are being feted for one day at a series of special celebrations being held at the headquarters of the 43 zone sales offices during the first fifteen days of September.

Among the 1927 Club members are 583 who also qualified in 1926, and who as a consequence have been presented with a diamond emblem by the company in token of their leadership among all the more than 14,000 Chevrolet retail salesmen in the country.

Membership is achieved by selling 72 or more new cars during the 12 months between August 1 and August 1. During the 1926-1927 period 72 Car Club members sold more than one-fifth of the 990,109 units produced by Chevrolet in that time.

The 72 Car Club is believed to be the largest organization of its kind in the country. It has a national as well as a local zone organization corresponding to a lodge or fraternity, its officers being the sales leaders in their various districts. National officers are, President, E. F. Cleveland of Ensley, Alabama, who sold 431 new cars during the year ended August 1; Vice President, Chas. Zabel, Reading, Pa., with 337 new cars; Secretary, L. H. Morrell of Johnson City, Tennessee, 289 new cars; and Treasurer, B. S. Reilly of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, with 288 new cars.

In a message to the winners R. H. Grant, vice-president in charge of sales stated that "Your extremely impressive selling achievement points to the great opportunity for the future. I can assure you that the policies which have helped so materially to bring about Chevrolet's success will be continued. They are, first, a good product that is constantly improved, and, second, the use of good business methods in selling it.

"There is every reason to believe that these same policies will bring us a large share of the business in our price class in the coming year."

PERSIMMONS ARE GETTING RIPE IN CHILTON COUNTY

Montgomery, Ala. Sept. 6.—The persimmons are getting ripe and some have already served the purpose of all good fruit and been eaten with the greatest delectation, says the Alabama Commission of Forestry. This refutes the old theory that the fruit of the persimmon does not mature until frost.

The belief that frost is necessary to add the finishing touches to the ripening of the persimmon probably originated in Virginia where the climate is less mild and the growing season is comparatively short. The farther south one goes, however, the earlier the persimmons ripen and later the frost comes.

As early as the last of August ripe persimmons were found and eaten in Chilton County, Alabama. There is considerable variation in individual trees, but in Alabama on some of them the fruit ripens a month before frost and in Florida two months.

PLACEMENT TESTS WILL BE GIVEN AUBURN FRESHMEN

Auburn, Ala., Sept. 6.—Psychological and placement tests in algebra and English will be given the 600 first year students expected to enroll at the Alabama Polytechnic Institute during Freshman Week, September 8 to 13 according to announcement made Tuesday by Prof. B. L. Shi, registrar. Tests results will be used by instructional and educational faculty as an aid in determining the student's ability. The tests will be administered under the direction of the Department of Education.

Freshman Week was instituted 2 years ago at suggestion of President Spright Dowell to aid the freshmen in assuming the new duties of college life. By having them arrive several days before the remainder of the student body, the faculty conducts a course of lectures, conferences and tours of various departments designed to familiarize the freshman with the college. In this way, freshman become acquainted with their new surroundings before the usual confusion and rush which accompanies the opening week.

Committees will meet the trains and assist the freshmen in finding a boarding house. During the week they will attend lectures, explaining many phases of student life including the advantages of a college education, the selection of courses, student college activities, honor societies, how to take lecture notes, the college regulations, and college spirit.

RADCLIFFE CHAUTAUQUA OFFERS FINE PROGRAM ON SEPTEMBER 17-19-20

Three Days Crowded with Excellent Entertainment and Educational Features

A varied program of entertainment seldom heard outside of the large cities, together with educational features of such outstanding importance as to bring written praise from some of the greatest men in the country is offered to the people of Maplesville in the Radcliffe Chautauqua which comes there on September 17-19-20.

The program includes musical numbers both vocal and instrumental, dramatic recitals, lectures and plays which will give everyone, no matter how young or how old, something to laugh over as well as to think over.

The musical program furnished by the Porter Vochestral Party and Herb Morris' Rocky Mountain Quartet, will be a rare treat. These musicians perform on all sorts of music-making instruments, some of which are so novel that these players have become noted far and wide for their unusual performance.

Among the three plays staged by the players, "Give and Take," comes after a most successful run in New York, where it convulsed Broadway, and became known as "The Biggest show on mirth." The two one-act plays, "A Clean Sweep," and "Baby Shoes," which these players will also present for your entertainment, reviewers pronounce a scream from start to finish.

There is no question but that every member of this community is interested in the subjects of the three afternoon lecturts, Choosing your Vocation," "Choosing your Habits," and "Choosing your Ideals," which are masterfully presented and cannot help but be of great help to every individual who is fortunate enough to hear them.

Everyone will also get a great deal of pleasure and inspiration from hearing the three evening lectures: "The Blind Goddess," "The Silent Umpire," and "The Old Birsh Rod," which the same speakers will deliver in a way that will impress every individual with the message they convey.

Taking it all in all, the Radcliffe Chautauqua program is a brilliant affair which is worth double the cost of admission. Two performances are given each day, afternoon and evening, with complete change of program at each performance.

The price of this excellent program is within the reach of every one. Adult Season Tickets are only $2.00 each, and the Junior Season Tickets are but $1.00 each. Divide these figures by twelve, and you will see that the cost of each event is but a few cents. Don't miss a single bit of this splendid program, and be on hand early to help the Committee make the whole affair the most successful and enjoyable community event of the year.

The Chautauqua Programs will be given in the Chautauqua tent. Hours of Concerts will be: 3 P. M. and 8 P. M.

There will be given a free Community Pragram in the tent Friday night, September 16th, and a musical program.

CHEVROLET PRICE REDUCTION

A new low price for Chevrolet's latest and most beautiful model, the Imperial Landau, which now lists at only $745 f. o. b. Flint, Michigan, was announced today by R.H. Grant, vice-president in charge of sales of the Chevrolet Motor Company.

This reduction was made possible by volume production growing out of the tremendous demand on the part of the public everywhere for this "Most Beautiful Chevrolet" when it was first introduced in May of this year, Mr. Grant explained.

"Seldom has the industry seen the warm and enthusiastic public response that greeted the initial offering of the Imperial Landau, which at that time was priced at $780," Mr. Grant stated. "The output for this model far exceeded the production schedule.

"This great volume spelled manufacturing economies that the public will share in because of the lowered price effective today. In addition to making our newest model available to a wider field of prospective motorists, the reduction is further evidence of our aim to build the best possible popular proced car at the lowest cost consistent with sound merchandising principles.

"The new low price on the Imperial Landau gives us a complete line of cars consisting of seven passenger models and two commercial types ranging in price from $395 for the half-ton truck chassis to $745 for the Imperial Landau."

WILSON REUNION

On August the 23 our children began early to gather at our home to celebrate their Father's 76th birthday, and it was a perfectly enjoyable day. All the children were with us and a good many of the grandchildren, and I must not forget Mrs. Jack Mims was with us also. The first thing was a watermelon cutting which they all enjoyed so much. The next was at eleven o'clock. The tables were carried out in the yard under the beautiful trees which gave us such nice shade and Oh, what a bountiful dinner was spread and they all seemed to enjoy it so much. I don't think I ever saw a nicer dinner and there was so much of it and the children furnished it all. Yes, and we got some nice presents which we appreciate very much. After dinner was over the ice cream and lemonade was plentiful, and so from first to last it was a day spent in pleasure until the hour arrived for them all to return to their homes. The parting was sad for me.—Mrs. G. W. Wilson.

THANKS FROM MR. BENSON

Mr. Monroe Benson wishes to express through The Union-Banner his thanks to friends and neighbors who were so kind and helpful to him and his little children during the ilness and death of his wife. He especially desires to mention the kindness and sympathy of the families of Mr. Busby, Mr. White, Mr. Willie Bean, and Mr. Eugene Wyatt, and Dr. Wood for his faithful medical attention.

IN MEMORY

On Monday afternoon, September the 2nd at one o'clock the death angel visited the home of Monroe Benson taking his wife, aged 28. She had been in ill health for more than two years but not so serious until the 15th of August when she took her bed never to be up again.

She was kind and affectionate to one and all. One of her greatest delights was doing favors for her friends, who were many. She was laid to rest in Collins Chapel cemetery with Brother Limberick conducting the funeral and Mr. Martin, undertaker, in charge.

There was a host of relatives and friends who paid the last respect and a beautiful floral offering.

She is survived by her husband, and three daughters, Marie, aged seven, Lurline, aged five, and Shirley aged two, of Clanton. Her mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. John Hayes, of Jemison and thirteen brothers and sisters of whom are, Bill and Leonard of Thorsby, Austin, Ted and Mrs. Relious Collins of Birmingham, Mrs. Volley Mims of Mobile, Mrs. Oscar Bean and Mrs. Parnell Mims of Tallessee, Henderson and Lucile Hayes of Jemison, Lawrence of Calera and Smoton and Hiram of Atlanta, Georgia. She was the first of the children to die.

Oh! Melvie how we do miss you, and hope to some day meet thee where there isn't any dead.—A friend Mrs. Willie Bean Jr.

HOW TO GO BROKE FARMING

2. Keep no livestock.
1. Grow only one crop.
3. Regard chickens and a garden as nuisances.
4. Take everything from the soil and return nothing.
5. Don't stop gullies or grow cover crops—let the top soil wash away, then you'll have "bottom" land.
6. Don't plan your farm operations. It's hard work thinking—trust to luck.
7. Regard your woodland as you would a coal mine, cut every tree sell the timber and wear the cleared land out cultivating it in corn.
8. Hold fast to the idea that the methods of farming employed by your grandfather are good enough for you.
9. Be independent—don't join with your neighbors in any form of cooperation.
10. Mortgage your farm for every dollar it will stand and buy things you would have the cash to buy if you followed a good system of farming.

APPRECIATION

The family of M. Norman Allen wish to thank their many, many friends for their kindness during the extended sickness and death of their wife and mother.

They have many thanks for the doctor also who was so attentive during her sickness. Everything was done for her that was in the power of us all to do. But God knew best and he called for her to come up higher and cease from her suffering.

'Twas hard to say good-bye (not always, but just a little while) but she was prepared to meet her God, and she was glad when the summons came to take her to her heavenly home, where there'll be no more suffering.

To the relatives weep not for her but live to meet her when you are called to go.

Cleanliness is impossible where there are flies or similar disease carrying household insects. Flies taint everything they touch. Infect milk, Meat and sweets. Transmit thirty different diseases. There is just one right way to keep the skin clear and smooth

Skilled physicians recognize the appearance of pimples, boils and other skin eruptions as being an indication of an abnormal condition of the system. This is why so many thousands have been enabled to free themselves of these unsightly blemishes and painful annoyances by taking a course of S.S.S.

You owe it to yourself to try S.S.S. It helps Nature build up red corpuscles. It improves the processes by which the blood is nourished.

"I suffered from impure blood—was weak, and I had lost so much weight, I didn't look natural. I had pimples and was also bothered with a breaking-out that itched terribly. I also had boils one after another. I tried different kinds of remedies, but nothing did me any good until a friend advised me to take S.S.S., which I did. This was some time ago. Now I feel well, and I am getting along fine. S.S.S. stopped the itching and it cured me of boils. I advise all weak and run-down people to give S.S.S. a trial. It clears up the skin and makes you strong and fills you with energy." Mrs. J. W. Barker, 1337 Walnut Street, Cincinnati, Ohio.

S.S.S. is made from the fresh roots of medicinal herbs and plants and is prepared in a scientific way in a modern laboratory. It is time-tried and reliable.

S.S.S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.

Chilton Promised Road From Selma to Clanton

Gravel Road to be Extended from Plantersville to Clanton, via Maplesville and Jones Town.

Judge Reynolds received from Judge Finnell, chairman of the State Highway commission, Tuesday the assurance that a state highway would be built in the near future from Plantersville in Dallas County into Clanton. The road will come into Clanton by way of Jones Town. The road from Maplesville to Clanton will all be South of the present Maplesville road and will be straighter and much shorter.

This road will be an extension of the road already in Dallas County from Selma to Plantersville, and will be of the very best gravel surface. We are indeed proud to learn of the certainey of this project and that it will be done in a short time.

The commissioners court of Chilton County will go ahead and rebuild the bridges on the old Maplesville highway, inasmuch as they have learned that the new state highway will not interfere with the old road bed.

Interesting Report Of Providence Revival

Rev. M. J. Parrish, pastor of Providence Baptist Church in Beat 16, was a visitor to The Union-Banner office during the past week. He made an interesting report of the revival meeting which was recently held at Providence, in which he was assisted in the preaching by Rev. W. W. Robinson.

Baptising services were held last Sunday a week ago conducted by the pastor, assisted by R. M. Robinson. Eleven candidates were baptised. During the meeting two former members were restored to the fellowship of the church.

"There was one thing of special interest about our baptising which I want to mention," said Brother Parrish. "We baptised a cripple boy 23 years old, who has never walked a step in his life. His time is spent wholly in a rolling chair. He was brought to the water's edge in his chair when the boy, chair and all, were placed in the baptismal pool. He sat in his chair when the ordinance of baptism was administered to him.

"The conversion of this youth was also a striking instance of the conviction of the Holy Spirit. The young lad confined to his home, through guidance of a Godly mother, had made up his mind of his own accord that he wanted to join the church and be baptised, and become numbered with the children of God's kingdom. When he presented himself and communicated his conviction and experience to us we took him in and baptised him. And I believe it was one of the most impressive scenes I have ever witnessed in my long experience and work as a preacher and minister of the gospel."

We have learned from different sources that the revival at Providnce has had a far reaching effect for good among the people of that community. Rev. Parrish and Rev. Robinson labored hard to present the truths of the gospel to their hearers, and we are glad to hear them say that they feel that the results are sufficient to make them feel repaid in the spirit of righteousness for their labors.

EPHRIAM E. SMITH SELLING CHEVROLETS FOR POLK BROS.

Commissioners Court Thank Chilton Citizens

We, the Commissioners Court, in regular session hereby express our hearty appreciation of the assistance that was rendered in helping to defeat the bills that were passed by the Senate, one to abolish the Commissioners Court, and the other to destroy our school system.

We especialy want to thank all Democrats for their assistance, for we realize without their help the bills would not have been defeated.

We are glad to know that a large number of Democrats was big enough to rise above party and take a stand for what they thought was right.

We pedge our best efforts to help build up Chilton County, and we urge all, regardless of politics, to feel free at all times to advise, suggest or help in any way for the upbuilding of the County, and the improvement of the roads.

If anyone knows of any County employee that is not doing their duty, we would be glad to get the information.

We want to get as much for the money we spend as possible. We know to make a success of the road work we must have the cooperation of the people. The road work is scattered over the County, and it is impossible for us to see all the work, and unless we have the help of the people we just cannot make a success.

Stories About People Who Have Made Good

Stories to be Published About Folks Who have Gone out into the World from Chilton Co.

There are a great number of people who once lived in Clanton and in Chilton County who have gone out into the world and made a name for themselves in one way or another. Some of these sons and daughters of Chilton County have reached eminence in professions, trades, business and otherwise.

The Union-Banner believes that stories about these people will be of interest to the folks of the town and county, and will also be a proper recognition of the accomplishments of those who are chosen as the subjects of such stories.

Accordingly we have arranged for a special writer to cover these subjects fully and freely. Beginning next week we will have a story about some one of these people, and each week thereafter we will have a character sketch of one of them, together with a story about where they are, what they are doing, and the outstanding characteristics which have made their success possible.

We shall put forth every possible effort to make these stories both valuable and interesting. Anyone who has in mind any individual who once lived in Clanton or any part of Chilton County, who has gone out into the world and made a success in a business or profession, is invited to send us the name of such person together with all available information that will be helpful in writing these stories. Watch for the first one to appear next week.

GIN REPORT ON COTTON IN CHILTON COUNTY

Mr. Robert J. Jones, special agent of the bureau of the census, United States Department of Agriculture, for Chilton County, makes the following report this week of cotton ginned in Chilton County.

There were 1981 bales of cotton of the 1927 crop ginned in Chilton County prior to September the first of this year, as compared with 73 bales of the 1926 crop ginned prior to September the first of last year.

Mr. Jones releases these reports twice each month, and he promises to give them to us for publication each time. The next report will cover ginnings up to September 15.

MISS MADELYN ORR VISITS B'HAM KINDERGARTENS

Miss Madelyn Orr left Tuesday afternoon for Birmingham, where she will spend the week visiting the Magic City's best kindergartens, including several of the T. C. I. and a number of others. While there Miss Orr will purchase modern equipment for her year's work.

On Monday morning, Sept. 19, Miss Orr will open her private school at 9 o'clock.

SENATOR HELFIN'S STATEMENT ON INCREASE USES OF COTTON

He gave out the following statement September 12th.

"The world has consumed more American cotton in the last twelve months than ever before in the same length of time. The marvelous growth in the last two years of the automobile industry, and the aeroplane industry, the trunk and suitcase industry, and the cement industry all have contributed to the increased consumption of American cotton.

"Millions of automobiles have come into existence and cotton is used in tires, tops, lining and cushion coverings. Millions of trunks and suitcases are covered and lined with cloth made of cotton.

"Cotton is used in making wings for aeroplanes and millions of yards of cotton cloth are used in making cement sacks.

"The 1927 cotton crop is far short of the world's demand for American cotton. Cotton more than any other product, gives to America the balance of trade and brings more gold into the United States every year than the world's annual out put.

"Cotton will sell this fall for twenty-five cents and more."

State Campaign For A School Building Fund

Citizens all over State to be Fully Informed of Intentions and Work of School Fund.

An educational campaign for the school building fund amendment will be conducted from state headquarters at 501 Dexter Avenue, Montgomery, under the management of Dr. R. E. Tidwell, and with Henry M. Hobbie, president of the Fourth National Bank as treasurer.

While the advocates of the amendment do not expect any serious opposition to this measure, they desire that all voters shall be fully informed in regard to the amendment, its results in behalf of equalization of educational opportunity and its effect upon the state treasury and other ddepartments of government.

A review of the amendment act and accompanying enabling acts shows that the amount of bonds to be issued thereunder for the building and improvement of public school houses and for buildings at the institutions of higher learning, including normal schools, cannot exceed $20,000,000, and that each county will be alloted $200,000 of the bond issue money for the canstruction of permanent buildings for its public schools. The remainder of this fund goes for permanent construction and improvement at the colleges and normal schols.

The amendment act expressly provides that nothing therein contained shall be canstrued to authorize any increase in the rate of taxation, and that the interest and principal of the bonds shall be paid from a fund derived by setting aside for this purpose one mill of the two and a half mills now levied by the state for general purposes. Experts in state finance show that this can be done without injury to any department of the state government or the reduction of any appropriation made by the legislature.

There is scarcely a county in the state of Alabama that does not need greater and beter school buildings and a more permanent character of construction for its schools. There will be state wide and county wide surveys made before the bond issue money is allocated, in order that the money allotted to rural, town and city schools may be expended where it is most needed, to carry out the general idea of equalizing opporaunity throughout the state.

Appropriations have been made by the legislature to provide new buildings of a permanent character at the colleges and normal schools, but the Unified Educational Act expressly provides that the appropriations shall not go into effect in event of the passage of the educational building fund amendment, which will be known as Article No. 21 of the State Constitution. The total of these appropriations is $4,100,000, and the treasury of the state will be relieved to that extent during the coming three years by the adoption of the amendment, as that money will remain in the treasury and will more than compensate for the one mill diverted from the general fund. The total which the institutions of higher learning will receive if the amendment is ratified will be $6,600,000, while are rural, town and city public schools will receive $13,400,000 from this source.

Advocates of better educational facilities in town and country are calling attention to the fact that it will be many years before public schools and colleges can be properly provided with ample and permanent buildings under any other system that may be devised, and that the passage of the amendment offers the only certain, immediate and permanent building program for all classes of public institutions that has yet been offered.

JIM PARRISH SEVERELY HURT IN ACCIDENT IN BIRMINGHAM

The Union-Banner was unable to get an accurate report, but we learn from current reports here and there that Jim Parrish, son of Uncle Tom Parrish of near Clanton, was seriously hurt in an accident on the railroad yards of the T. C. I. at Bessemer either Saturday or Sunday. It seems that his left arm was crushed so badly that it had to be amputated at the shoulder, and one of his feet was considerably bruised up. Late reports from the T. C. I. General Hospital, where Mr. Parrish was carried, say that his condition is very serious.

COMMITTED TO EDUCATION

(Editorial, Alabama Journal)

The schools in Alabama will soon resume their sessions, after a very fruitful vacation, perhaps the most fruitful in their history. For during this vacation the state of Alabama has considered the case of its schools, found them less liberally supplied with funds and esuipment than they should be, and so appropriated many millions to remedy the deficiency. As a result, the friends and administrators of education in this state now for the first time find themselves with ample funds to begin the foundations of a bigger, broader and more effective eucational system. The money given to this purpose will not be enough for all time, but it is enough to carry us through the next three or four years. At the end of that time a new legislature will assemble and will be able to consider what further measures are required.

The next quadrennium should see the longest step forward ever taken in education in Alabama. For the first time it is decreed that no school shall remain in session for a period of less than seven months each year. For the first time it is provided that funds shall be given each county to insure schooling for all its children, regardless of the remoteness of any district. For the fist time the state government has admitted the right of education to take a foremost and commanding position in state legislation. Although the revenue bill was considered prior to the discussion of the education bill, that was only in order that the latter might be taken with some assurance that funds would be in hand to support its provisions. Now the people of Alabama are able proudly to inform the world that they do regard education as worthy of liberal endowment.

The result of this expenditure of money on education will not be immediately apparent, but each year the state will reap its reward in a more and more substantial and measurable harvest. Increased public enlightenment, better performance among all citizens, wiser choice of men for public office, a higher level of citizenship offering itself for public office, greater devotion to the task of developing Alabama, natural assets of all kinds, and a deserved pride in all our public institutions are bound to be the sheaves in that harvest. If that is not worth a bond issue of twenty million dollars to Alabama, or many times twenty million, then it is not worth anything. Fortunately, the majority of the people believe that no matter how much efficient education costs, it is worth more than it costs. In fact, for every dollar that we withhold from education we pay a dozen dollars in the tax on ignorance. Let everyone figure it up for himself.

All half of the world knows about how the other half lives is that it's probably beyond its income.—Ohio State Journal.

ANOTHER ONE OF ALABAMA'S FREAK LAWS

At the close of their engagament here last week the management of Milt Tolbert's Tent Theatre announced that they did not know if they would ever come back to Clanton again. They said they would discontinue showing in Alabama on the first of October on account of the operation of a law recently enacted by the legislature which imposes a license tax of $300 per week for all shows of that character.

No argument is needed to establish the fact that such a law is unfair and unsound. It is one of those laws which makes one wonder what in the world could have caused sensible representatives to vote for it; or whether on the other hand they were all asleep when they voted for it and didn't know what was in it.

We see no reason why Milt Tolbert or any other good decent show of that character should be banished from Alabama. It is owned by Alabama people, the Hales of Dothan. The money they make is spent in Alabama. Even a large portion of it is spent in the towns where they take it in.

Their show is decent and respectable. The entestainment which they offer is high class and delightful in every respect. It is a shame that such a freak law should get into the statutes and completely prohibit them from playing in this state.

It is said that the pressure of the powerful moving picture interests is responsible for putting the law into our revenue bill, and we doubt not the truth of that statement. This makes the situation more absurd. Milt Tolbert's show comes much nearer giving the people value received for their money than does the horde of dime-brand picture houses all over Alabama which charge 30 cents to show you a stale and out of date picture program.

AMERICAN LABOR DAY

Labor Day in Europe, coming in the early spring, usually means a day of turmoil and rioting. Labor Day in America has just passed. The New York newspapers tell us that a million people left the city on the date to enjoy an outing in the country, at the seashore or in the mountains. People flocked from the smaller cities to the country in equal proportion to spend the last week-end holiday which the waning summer will afford.

It is significant to note that these millions of people were principally from the more modest walks of life. They left the city on trains and trolleys, or in automobiles of all makes and descriptions from the humble flivver to the smooth running six or eight. They left with full dinner baskets, in most instances taking their wives and children with them. There was no rioting, no sedition and no trouble.

In fact Labor Day was a typical American holiday and it was a typical holiday because in America the man who labors is little different from the man in other walks of life. He is well fed, has a good job, owns his own home, is educating his children and, if he is thrifty, saving up a little money for a rainy day. He can drive to the lake or the seashore or the mountains if he so desires, and in most cases he did so desire.

The worker in America knows he is a part of America. He knows that here lies not only the future of himselfand his children, but perhaps the future of civilization. He realizes that under the American system with its high wages and steady employment he is infinitely better off than the worker in any other country in the world. Hence he has little patience with the misguided agitator or the professional communist.

That is why an American Labor Day is a typical holiday for everone, the business man and the lawyer as well as the iron worker and the carpenter. There is no class consciousness, therefore no agitation. Everybody has a good time together. There is no need or call for class demonstration.

EVERY SCHOOL IN STATE WILL HAVE FULL TIME TERM

For the first time in the history of Alabama, a new school year is about to open with absolute assurance of terms of at least seven months in every county in the state. This is made possible by increased appropriations which the Legislature has provided for public schools. Fifty of Alabama's 67 counties are affected by this provision for the lengthening of school terms. This extension of school terms, made possible by additional funds for the public schools, also benefits directly more than half of the apprroximately 800,000 persons of school age, which the last school census showed residing in Alabama. Some of the public schools will open in a few days now. Others will begin their work in October. The law does not specify when school sessions shall begin, requiring simply, seven months schooling in every county. The figures quoted as to counties and number of children affected, were obtained from Dr. R. E. Tidwell, state superintendent of education, who, in commenting upon what a fine thing has been accomplished for the boys and girls of Alabama, in providing them with seven months of schooling each year, recalled Monday, that unfortunately, some of these children will have to attend school in "hovels," instead of modern, sanitary, well lighted, well ventilated, comfortable buildings. The need for better school buildings with the improved facilities and enviroment they will provide is imperative, Dr Tidwell said, and expressed the hope that all who are interested in the progress of education in Alabama, will support the proposed bond issue for the provision of these buildings. This bond issue will be voted on at a special election to be held in Alabama, on January 10, 1928.—By Joseph R. M'Coy in Birmingham News.

During the 1924-25 season Louisiana produced 731,263 pelts of all kinds and Alaska produced during the same year 285,345 pelts. It is said that the Louisiana pelts were worth to the growers more than all the gold produced that year in Alaska.

In 1880 more than 71 per cent of the population of the United States was rural. For the first time the urban populaion was in the majority in 1920 when 51 per cent of the American people were living in cities and towns of more than 2,500 population. Since then urban population has increased while rural population has decreased. In 1926 farm population diminished by 649,000.

Dr. Crane Finds His Greatest Thrill In Ministering to Millions of People

"Ministering to millions of people, gives me more of a thrill and greater joy than anything else I could possibly do."

This statement was recently made in an interview by Dr. Frank Crane, noted author and writer, whose daily editorials are read by more than 20,000,000 newspaper readers throughout the country.

As Dr. Crane talked, the interviewer was impressed by the breadth and depth of his human sympathy, his anxiety to serve his fellow man.

"Early in my life as a preacher," continued Dr. Crane, "I learned that people didn't want to listen to long sermons. So I made mine short, cut them down to twenty-five minutes and found that even then they were too long. This set me to thinking. If people only seemed to grasp one point at a time why not give it to them just that way? The thought came to me that if they could see this one point stated briefly in print it would impress itself on their minds as no speaker could possibly do."

Dr. Crane then described the heart-aches and disappointments which followed before he succeeded in getting this idea across; of resigning his pastorate in Worcester, Mass; of tramping the beaten paths to editorial offices where he found it difficult to get a hearing; and of finally accepting an offer of $1 a day to write six editorials a week.

That was less than fifteen years ago and today his editorial is seen in papers in every state in the Union, in England, France, Denmark, India, South Africa, Australia and Japan. He is widely quoted from platform and pulpit. His name in America is a household word, for truly, he ministers to millions.

"How do you keep your fingers on the pulse of the reading public?" the interviewer asked. "How can you be sure that your editorials are striking a responsive chord?"

A secretary entered the room with an armful of mail.

"Here's how I know that I am reaching the hearts of my readers," replied Dr. Crane, pointing to the huge stack of mail. "Each day I receive hundreds of greeting cards, messages of appreciation from my readers all over the world." He held up a dozen cards for the interviewer's inspection. There were greeting cards from half a dozen states, two from England, one from Mexico, one from Australia and one from far away Singapore.

"My job is to study people, and to write to and for them. I know them enough to know they don't want to be preached at nor to hear me moralizing about them. They are after knowledge about themselves. That's what they want to know — themselves. And when through the course of the year I receive thousands of greeting cards and cheerful messages, I know that in something I wrote the sender of the card had seen—himself.

(Editorial, Alabama Journal)

The schools in Alabama will soon resume their sessions, after a very fruitful vacation, perhaps the most fruitful in their history. For during this vacation the state of Alabama has considered the case of its schools, found them less liberally supplied with funds and esuipment than they should be, and so appropriated many millions to remedy the deficiency. As a result, the friends and administrators of education in this state now for the first time find themselves with ample funds to begin the foundations of a bigger, broader and more effective eucational system. The money given to this purpose will not be enough for all time, but it is enough to carry us through the next three or four years. At the end of that time a new legislature will assemble and will be able to consider what further measures are required.

The next quadrennium should see the longest step forward ever taken in education in Alabama. For the first time it is decreed that no school shall remain in session for a period of less than seven months each year. For the first time it is provided that funds shall be given each county to insure schooling for all its children, regardless of the remoteness of any district. For the fist time the state government has admitted the right of education to take a foremost and commanding position in state legislation. Although the revenue bill was considered prior to the discussion of the education bill, that was only in order that the latter might be taken with some assurance that funds would be in hand to support its provisions. Now the people of Alabama are able proudly to inform the world that they do regard education as worthy of liberal endowment.

The result of this expenditure of money on education will not be immediately apparent, but each year the state will reap its reward in a more and more substantial and measurable harvest. Increased public enlightenment, better performance among all citizens, wiser choice of men for public office, a higher level of citizenship offering itself for public office, greater devotion to the task of developing Alabama, natural assets of all kinds, and a deserved pride in all our public institutions are bound to be the sheaves in that harvest. If that is not worth a bond issue of twenty million dollars to Alabama, or many times twenty million, then it is not worth anything. Fortunately, the majority of the people believe that no matter how much efficient education costs, it is worth more than it costs. In fact, for every dollar that we withhold from education we pay a dozen dollars in the tax on ignorance. Let everyone figure it up for himself.

All half of the world knows about how the other half lives is that it's probably beyond its income.—Ohio State Journal.

ANOTHER ONE OF ALABAMA'S FREAK LAWS

At the close of their engagament here last week the management of Milt Tolbert's Tent Theatre announced that they did not know if they would ever come back to Clanton again. They said they would discontinue showing in Alabama on the first of October on account of the operation of a law recently enacted by the legislature which imposes a license tax of $300 per week for all shows of that character.

No argument is needed to establish the fact that such a law is unfair and unsound. It is one of those laws which makes one wonder what in the world could have caused sensible representatives to vote for it; or whether on the other hand they were all asleep when they voted for it and didn't know what was in it.

We see no reason why Milt Tolbert or any other good decent show of that character should be banished from Alabama. It is owned by Alabama people, the Hales of Dothan. The money they make is spent in Alabama. Even a large portion of it is spent in the towns where they take it in.

Their show is decent and respectable. The entestainment which they offer is high class and delightful in every respect. It is a shame that such a freak law should get into the statutes and completely prohibit them from playing in this state.

It is said that the pressure of the powerful moving picture interests is responsible for putting the law into our revenue bill, and we doubt not the truth of that statement. This makes the situation more absurd. Milt Tolbert's show comes much nearer giving the people value received for their money than does the horde of dime-brand picture houses all over Alabama which charge 30 cents to show you a stale and out of date picture program.

AMERICAN LABOR DAY

Labor Day in Europe, coming in the early spring, usually means a day of turmoil and rioting. Labor Day in America has just passed. The New York newspapers tell us that a million people left the city on the date to enjoy an outing in the country, at the seashore or in the mountains. People flocked from the smaller cities to the country in equal proportion to spend the last week-end holiday which the waning summer will afford.

It is significant to note that these millions of people were principally from the more modest walks of life. They left the city on trains and trolleys, or in automobiles of all makes and descriptions from the humble flivver to the smooth running six or eight. They left with full dinner baskets, in most instances taking their wives and children with them. There was no rioting, no sedition and no trouble.

In fact Labor Day was a typical American holiday and it was a typical holiday because in America the man who labors is little different from the man in other walks of life. He is well fed, has a good job, owns his own home, is educating his children and, if he is thrifty, saving up a little money for a rainy day. He can drive to the lake or the seashore or the mountains if he so desires, and in most cases he did so desire.

The worker in America knows he is a part of America. He knows that here lies not only the future of himselfand his children, but perhaps the future of civilization. He realizes that under the American system with its high wages and steady employment he is infinitely better off than the worker in any other country in the world. Hence he has little patience with the misguided agitator or the professional communist.

That is why an American Labor Day is a typical holiday for everone, the business man and the lawyer as well as the iron worker and the carpenter. There is no class consciousness, therefore no agitation. Everybody has a good time together. There is no need or call for class demonstration.

EVERY SCHOOL IN STATE WILL HAVE FULL TIME TERM

For the first time in the history of Alabama, a new school year is about to open with absolute assurance of terms of at least seven months in every county in the state. This is made possible by increased appropriations which the Legislature has provided for public schools. Fifty of Alabama's 67 counties are affected by this provision for the lengthening of school terms. This extension of school terms, made possible by additional funds for the public schools, also benefits directly more than half of the approximately 800,000 persons of school age, which the last school census showed residing in Alabama. Some of the public schools will open in a few days now. Others will begin their work in October. The law does not specify when school sessions shall begin, requiring simply, seven months schooling in every county. The figures quoted as to counties and number of children affected, were obtained from Dr. R. E. Tidwell, state superintendent of education, who, in commenting upon what a fine thing has been accomplished for the boys and girls of Alabama, in providing them with seven months of schooling each year, recalled Monday, that unfortunately, some of these children will have to attend school in "hovels," instead of modern, sanitary, well lighted, well ventilated, comfortable buildings. The need for better school buildings with the improved facilities and enviroment they will provide is imperative, Dr Tidwell said, and expressed the hope that all who are interested in the progress of education in Alabama, will support the proposed bond issue for the provision of these buildings. This bond issue will be voted on at a special election to be held in Alabama, on January 10, 1928.—By Joseph R. M'Coy in Birmingham News.

During the 1924-25 season Louisiana produced 731,263 pelts of all kinds and Alaska produced during the same year 285,345 pelts. It is said that the Louisiana pelts were worth to the growers more than all the gold produced that year in Alaska.

In 1880 more than 71 per cent of the population of the United States was rural. For the first time the urban populaion was in the majority in 1920 when 51 per cent of the American people were living in cities and towns of more than 2,500 population. Since then urban population has increased while rural population has decreased. In 1926 farm population diminished by 649,000.

Dr. Crane Finds His Greatest Thrill In Ministering to Millions of People

"Ministering to millions of people, gives me more of a thrill and greater joy than anything else I could possibly do."

This statement was recently made in an interview by Dr. Frank Crane, noted author and writer, whose daily editorials are read by more than 20,000,000 newspaper readers throughout the country.

As Dr. Crane talked, the interviewer was impressed by the breadth and depth of his human sympathy, his anxiety to serve his fellow man.

"Early in my life as a preacher," continued Dr. Crane, "I learned that people didn't want to listen to long sermons. So I made mine short, cut them down to twenty-five minutes and found that even then they were too long. This set me to thinking. If people only seemed to grasp one point at a time why not give it to them just that way? The thought came to me that if they could see this one point stated briefly in print it would impress itself on their minds as no speaker could possibly do."

Dr. Crane then described the heart-aches and disappointments which followed before he succeeded in getting this idea across; of resigning his pastorate in Worcester, Mass; of tramping the beaten paths to editorial offices where he found it difficult to get a hearing; and of finally accepting an offer of $1 a day to write six editorials a week.

That was less than fifteen years ago and today his editorial is seen in papers in every state in the Union, in England, France, Denmark, India, South Africa, Australia and Japan. He is widely quoted from platform and pulpit. His name in America is a household word, for truly, he ministers to millions.

"How do you keep your fingers on the pulse of the reading public?" the interviewer asked. "How can you be sure that your editorials are striking a responsive chord?"

A secretary entered the room with an armful of mail.

"Here's how I know that I am reaching the hearts of my readers," replied Dr. Crane, pointing to the huge stack of mail. "Each day I receive hundreds of greeting cards, messages of appreciation from my readers all over the world." He held up a dozen cards for the interviewer's inspection. There were greeting cards from half a dozen states, two from England, one from Mexico, one from Australia and one from far away Singapore.

"My job is to study people, and to write to and for them. I know them enough to know they don't want to be preached at nor to hear me moralizing about them. They are after knowledge about themselves. That's what they want to know — themselves. And when through the course of the year I receive thousands of greeting cards and cheerful messages, I know that in something I wrote the sender of the card had seen—himself.

THE PRACTICE OF SNAKE TESTS FOR RELIGION

The following editorial comment on the subject of snakes and religious faith was clipped from The Alabama Baptist of last week:

The daily press last week carried a story of a "holiness" preacher near Birmingham who let a copperhead moccasin bite him as a test of his faith. Sure, he said, a snake could bite him and it would do him no harm, but at any rate, he had to be taken to a hospital. In the last few years in Alabama three others of our holiness brethern have let rattlesnakes bite them as a test of faith. Two of them died, and it took three doctors to save the other one. It is time now for our friends to prove their faith by their good work, and not by the folly of a snake test.

This comment reminds us of a holiness snake test that was said to have been conducted in one of the bush arbor meetings of Chilton County.

Brother John and Brother Bill, two of the most ardent and most faithful members of the congregation figured that they had enough of the spirit to withstand the poison of a rattlesnake. They were to demonstrate their faith by letting the snake bite them.

The rattler socked it to Brother John first, and then took a whack at Brother Bill. The preacher was master of the ceremony (but did not alow the snake to bite him.)

Everything was going in great style until some few minutes had elapsed, and Brother John began to get sick. Brother Bill was making it all right, and the preacher was holding him up as an example of one who had sufficient faith to defy even the deadly copperhead. But Brother John was getting sicker and sicker all the time. He grew desperately sick, and proclaimed that something must be done to save him.

Whereupon Brother Bill went over to Brothtr John and remarked: Brother John, you see I am allright. It did not hurt me for the snake to bite me. It looks to me, Brother John, as if you haven't got enough.

Enough of what? Shouted Brother John. I tell you I've got enough of fooling with rattlesnakes.

I mean you haven't got enough of the faith, replied Brother Bill.

Now Brother Bill, returned Brother John, besides being right bad snake bit, it shore is bad to have a brother like you stand up before me in a dying condition and tell me that my religion ain't no account.

The Alabama Baptist concludes its remark by saying it is time now for our holiness friends to prove their faith by their good works, and not by the folly of the snake test. It looks to us like it is time for them to show to the world that they have better sense than to play with rattlesnakes.

REPUBLICANS AND SAW BRIARS

A farmer from one of the black belt counties moved over into the western part of Chilton.

Sitting around the community store one day a group of men were discussing a variety of subjects ranging as usual from the ridiculus to the sublime.

The newcomer who had said nothing for a long time finally spoke up and said: I never saw a Republican nor a saw briar until I came to Chilton County.

One of the group, a prominent citizen of many years habitation in that community, changed his chew of tobacco over to the other side, spat a long amber streak into the sand and replied: well, my friend, them's two things we've got a mighty heap of in this county, and I tell you, they have proved to be the devil to get rid of.

Fifty of the 67 counties in Alabama this year will have the full seven months rural school terms which is provided in the educational laws of the State. Chilton is one of the 17 counties which will not be able to have the full term. This in spite of the fact that Chilton is third from the top in Alabama counties in point of taxable wealth available for the education of its children on a per capita basis of the number of children in the county of school age. To have adopted the one-mill tax this year would have put our county up to the highest standard in the state.

Luxurious ocean liners traveling between New York and European parts have made a ten per cent reduction in rates. But they'll have to do better than that before they get much of our business.

RURAL SCHOOL TERM THIS YEAR

It doesn't do any good to cry over spilt milk or to say I told you so. Facts are facts, and business is business. Pigs is pigs, in other words, and that's all there is to it.

Chilton County's rural schools this year are not going to be up to par with the general run of Alabama rural schools. It is a shame that such is a fact, but it is a fact just the same.

A few months ago when the one-mill tax election was up for consideration we were told that our schools would not be up to par with schools in other counties unless we voted the onemill tax.

Many people hooted at the idea and charged all sorts of things against those who were pulling for the tax. They said it was all a scheme to filch more taxes out of the people and that Chilton County schools would get just as much money out of the state without the one-mill tax as they would with it.

Well, that kind of stuff has proven to be untrue, just as we knew it was untrue when it was being used as an argument against the one-mill tax.

The most forward counties in Alabama are now guaranteed a seven months school term for rural schools. Chilton County has no guarantee even for six months. Why? Because we have not complied with requirements of the state.

Some may want to step aside and argue the unfairness of such a law. But this is no time for such an argument. We are faced with the fact that Chilton County schools are not able to come up to the standard of the best schools in Alabama.

Boys and girls of Chilton County are just as deserving of the best schools as any boys and girls in Alabama. And it is a duty we owe them to see that they have such schools. No arguments or hair-splitting we can produce will excuse us from properly and fully discharging that obligation to our boys and girls.

There are just two other counties in Alabama that have as much per capita wealth back of the education of their children as Chilton County has. Yet we are not providing for the education of our children as well as many of the counties which have far less resources with which to support their schools. There is no excuse for such a state of affairs, and the inevtiable result is that Chilton County is by its negligence thereby branded as a county which deliberately refuses to go the limit of its opportunities for the education of its children.

Our Superindent of education and county board of education assure us that they are going to do their best to provide for the county the best and longest rural schools possible with the funds in their hands.

NO MORE BURDENS

The metropolitan newspapers recently carried dispatches from Geneva to the effect that the League of Nations might feel called upon to interfere or "use its good offices" as the diplomats put it, in touble in South America. The Tacna-Arica dispute of recent note between Chile and Peru was cited as an example and it was said that league diplomats would evince great interest in the reception such an idea would have in the United States.

Up to this time the feeler senta out from Geneva has caused no ripple on the placid surface of American politics. It is generally known here just as it is known in Europe that the League of Nations has now reach- of a new low point in its prestige and influence in world affairs. The recent action of Lord Robert Cecil is but another indication of this.

The league has failed to meet requirements in one crisis after another. It has failed to bring about any disarmament in Europe and there is no prospect in the immediate future for disarmament. It has been able to do nothing to help China, to help in the many other disputes in Europe, as witness the Russo-British crisis, the trouble between Italy and Serbia and the numerous difficulties in the Balkans and along the Russian frontier.

It is evident therefore that the league has reached a low point in its history. With so many unsolved problems in Europe the time hardly looks ripe for it to venture into fresh fields of trouble like Latin-America. The latest gesture seems to be a gesture of diversion, designed to take the minds of the world off what the league has failed to do in Europe.

We are all sorry that the league is unable to promote peace and disarmament in Europe, but until it does, we will doubt the advisability of taking on new burdens across the sea.

RESCUING THE FARMER

Former Governor McKelvie of Nebraska recently called attention to the fact that while the business men of the United States annually spend $850,000,000 in advertising their wares, only $30,000,000 of this outlay goes toward acquainting the farmers with what the merchants and manufacturers have to sell. And Mr. McKelvie added that the farmers each year have a potential purchasing power of $10,000,000,000.

There may be some reasons for this apparent discrepancy in advertising for the business of the farmers. Doubtless the disproportion is not so great as apparent, owing to the fact that as a general rule the advertising rates in the local papers going to the farmers are not so great in proportion as in the high powered magazines and newspapers which do not cover the rural field. And it may be that the national advertisers have been discouraged by the bear stories which have been going out from the agricultural states to the effect that the farmer is on the verge of sinking to the level of the European peasantry.

At any rate the advertisers are making a mistake by not paying more attention to the rural advertising field. The farmers have money to spend and they spend it. And they are best reached by the local newspapers. The farmer is the most careful reader of the newspapers and periodicals which he takes and the best way to reach him is through his local newspapers. National advertisers ought to get acquainted with this fact if they do not already know it. And it is the duty of the local newspapers to acquaist the national advertiser and the world with the fact that the farmer is no broke, that he lives as well as his brother in the city, if not better, and has money to buy the things which the business men advertise for sale.

The official report bp F. W. Burns, Auburn, shows that Fern's Lady Dot, mature Jersey cow owned by J. W. Baxter, Hunstville, topped the list of cows on test in Alabama during July by producing 1241 pounds of milk containing 78.94 pounds of butterfat.

The production of vegetables has been increasing in recent years three or four times as fast as the increase in population in the United States. Carlot shipments of vegetables increased from 345,572 in 1920 to 194,691 in 1924. Lettuce has made an unusual gain.

HOOVER ON BUSINESS

Few men if any, are mort intimately conversant with business and economic conditions in general throughout the United States than Stcretary of commerce Hoover. His conclusions as a rule are based upon statistices and data that are both comprehensipe and reliable. His sound predictions in the past justify the assumption that he knows whereof he speaks, and his views, publicly, expressed have come to be accepted by the rank and file of Americans as authoritative.

His latest summary of the business situation is somewhat conservative, but it cannot be interpreted in any sense as being unfavorable, and due to the more or less prevalent supposition that the tide of American trade activity has reached its crest and is due for a recession, his report will probably be read with more interest than usual.

Considered "by and large," business, he says, shows little variance during the present year and there are no tangable indications of a decline in the remaining months. Capital, he notes, continues abundantly available and cheap money is stimulating business activity. During the first seven months of 1927 the construction industry, usually considered to be a barometer of the business conditions, has shown an increase in contracts awarded. At the same time exports were 5 per cent greater than for the corresponding period of 1926. There is renewed activity in the industries which have fallen slightly below their 1926 marks.

Bank clearings the first seven months of 1927 slightly exceeded those of the same months of 1926. Railway traffic, however, has shown some decrease. Weekly and Monthly loadings of freight cars since April of 1927 have without exception fallen below 1926 and in some instances they have been less than in 1925, but Mr. Hoover points out that the decrease for the year to date is only a fraction of 1 per cent, although July showed a decrese of nearly 3 per cent and the first half of August nearly 5 per cent.

Agriculture continues to display the most uncertainty although latest prospectst are for a fair crop, a good price level, barring of course, the possibility of an early frost. Here and there trade conditions are somewhat spotted, due to seasonal factors or to local conditions. But, all things considered, industrial signs point to a continuance of the highly prosperous conditions of 1926. Nothing has so far appeared on the business horizon to cause alarm and nothing certainly should justify severe retrenhment or more than ordinary caution.—St. Louis Times.

"Everybody loves the farmer" says as editorial caption in the New York Times. And the farmer is slowly coming to realize that one of the things the matter with him is that he has almost been loved to death by the politicians.

UNITED STATES DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE

Auburn, Ala., September 8.—A cotton crop of 952,000 bales is in prospect for Alabama this year, according to a report issued today by F. W. Gist, agricultural statistician, cooperating with Alabama Extension Service.

The forecast, which is based on the Septembtr 1 condition of 58 per cent of normal, promises less than two-thirds as much cotton as the state made last year, about 70 per cent as much as we made in 1925, and a little less than the 986,000 bales produced in 1924. However with the increase in price, this year's crop of less than a million bales will bring the farmers one-fourth more than last years crop of practically a million and a half bales.

The abondonment this year has been heavier than usual, with one hundred thousand acres which will not be picked of the 3,329,000 acres planted this spring. On the harvested acreage the yield per acre will be about 141 pounds, judging from the September 1 condition. Last year we made 196 pounds per acre.

The heavy loss in condition from the 70 of last month is due largely to increased boll weevil activity in sections where they were present last month, and the infestation of portions of the state which were not troubled with weevils a month ago.

The bolls this year are slightly smaller in size than last. The number now considered safe is practically the same as last year. However this is no indication of the relative yields for the two years, since this years crop is a week or ten days ahead of last years, and the weevil has put a top crop out of the question in most parts of the state. A year ago the top crop was a considerable factor in producing the excellent yield of 196 pounds. A large per cent of the bolls this year are near the bottom of the stalks. We may expect a much earlier harvest than in 1926.

As will be seen from the district conditions below, best prospects are found in north Alabama where the weevil has not done much damage, and worst prospects in the southern part of the state.

Are You Really Well?

For Good Health There Must Be Proper Kidney Action.

DO you find yourself running down—always tired, nervous and depressed? Are you stiff and achy, subject to nagging backache, drowsy headaches and dizzy spells? Are kidney excretions scanty and burning in passage? Know then that these are often signs of improper kidney action. Sluggish kidneys allow acid poisons to remain in the blood and upset the whole system. If your kidneys are acting sluggishly, assist them with Doan's Pills. More than 50,000 users have publicly recommended Doan's. Ask your neighbor!

CHEVROLET SHATTERS PREVIOUS PRODUCTION RECORD

Shattering all previous production records for the manufacture of gear shift cars for the eight consecutive months this year, the Chevrolet Motor Company in August completed 91,453 units for its greatest August in history, according to figures released today by H. J. Klingler, general sales manager for the company.

This new record brings the total output during the first eight months of this year to 786,336 units as against 513,507 units during the same period last year and 732,147 units during the entire year of 1926. The 1926 output was passed this year on August 12.

Last August Chevrolet turned out 76,586 units, showing an increase in August, 1927, of 14,867 units, for a gain of more than nineteen percent.

To accomplish this tremendous volume the nine great Chevrolet factories in the United States have been running practically at peak production during the entire year, while the export plants have maintained a similar fast pace, attending to the world-wide appeal of the "Most Beautiful Chevrolet."

In view of the fact that the monthly output has consistently exceeded the production schedule—the August volume being nearly 2,000 units over schedule—Chevrolet officials were satisfied this year's output would approach one million cars.

Col. Charles A. Lindbergh's first automobile was purchased when he was a boy in Little Falls, Minn., from Charles Farrow, Chevrolet dealer of that city. Mr. Farrow says of him that "As a high school boy 'Lindy' was always interested in getting around the country in the fastest way possible. First he bought a bicycle—then a motorcycle—then an auotmobile. He always took good care of his car showing that he was a natural born mechanic. He learned to drive quickly, and when a cloud of dust came down the street we were always sure that young Lindbergh was in the center of it."

Orders have been placed for 100 Chevrolets to be delivered this year to the State Highway Department of Pennsylvania. The fleet includes dump trucks and passenger models for use in construction work and supervision of the State Highways.

CURB MARKETS ARE A GREAT SUCCESS

Auburn, Ala., September 9.—Thru curb markets tens of thousands of dollars worth of Alabama farm products are now being sold annually direct to consumers in the towns in which these markets are located. A survey of curb market results has been made by Miss Isadora Williams, district home demonstration agent, Extension Service, Alabama Polytechnic Institute. She found that total sales from the beginning of each market up to July 1, 1927, amounted to $317,554. Sales since July 1 have added several thousand dollars to this and the total is around $350,000.

Curb markets are now operating in Gadsden. Tuscumbia, Anniston, Opelika, Selma, Montgomery, Mobile, Troy, Athens, Decatur, Dothan, Talledga, Sheffield, Eufaula, Ensley, Bessemer and Union Springs. The Gadsden market is the oldest in Alabama. It was established in the fall of 1923. Sales on this market up to July 1, 1927, totaled $114,680. The Tuscumbia market is the second oldest and total sales up to that date were $104,832.

Most of these markets are open only three days each week. Tuesday, Thursday and Saturdays are marketing days for most of them. A few markets operate other days.

Miss Williams found that a large amount of products sold would go to waste without a curb market through which to sell them. She found also that curb markets are stimulating people to increase and improve production and to add many articles which they would not have thought of producing or making had there been no curb market for marketing them.

FARM AND HOME FACTS

It is time to plant winter legume seed.

He who has wet cotton ginned is a loser.

Cotton picked soon after it opens makes a better sample.

Rare indeed are farmers who save too much feed.

Liberal feeding during the winter is essential to large milk production.

Good judgment in cutting timber to be burned for fuel will make money for the owner.

Every bit of hay saved this fall will be needed during the winter and spring.

When every farmer practices seed selection in the field in the early fall farming will become a more profitable business.

Gathering nitrogen from the air is cheaper than buying it in sacks; and one of the best ways of gathering it is to let winter legumes do it.

Farm Bureau members are taking some of their cotton money this fall and paying the initial deposit on fertilizer for delivery next spring.

Farmers who thought last spring that they would be wise and reduce the amount of fertilizer under cotton find now that they made a serious mistake.

SINGING AT MARS HILL

The home of T. E. Wyatt on Second Avenue, which was injured by fire a few weeks ago, is now in the course of repairs. Some other improvements are being added.

Coolidge Against A Special Session

White House Announces Decision Not To Call Congress Unless Further Investigation Shows Need

Washington, Sept. 19.—Unless convinced by further investigation that a special session of the new Congress this fall is necessary, President Coolidge will adhere to his original decision against calling one.

This was stated officially today at the white house after the president had presided at the first cabinet meeting held since before his departure for the Black Hills of South Dakota exactly three months ago.

Views, both direct and indirect, which Mr. Coolidge has obtained since his return to Washington have been rather against calling a special sessision either of the congress as a whole or of the senate separately in an effort to dispose of the Smith and Ware controverted senatorial election cases.

Mr. Coolidge has conferred with Senator Curtis of Kansas and Representative Tilson of Connecticut, republican leaders of the senate and house, who advised against any special session, and he will take up the question with a number of other senators and representatives before reaching a final conclusion.

Those opposing a special session of congress hold that little could be gained by calling congress to Washington before December since none of the major measures which are to be considered have been tentatively shaped.

As to a special session of the senate some republican leaders oppose it because they do not believe it would be possible to maintain a quorum steadily or to bring to Washington a full membership for any decisive vote on either the Smith case or the Vare case.

NEGRO ESCAPED FROM JAIL SATURDAY NIGHT

Hayes Darby, negro, by a clever contrivance of his own, coupled with perhaps many hours of hard work, succeeded in making his escape from the Chilton County jail last Saturday night and left for parts ungnown. He was in jail on a charge of forgery.

To accomplish his escape the negro took an old pocket knife blade and fastened it in the split end of a broom handle. With this crude instrument he cut a hole about 12 by 16 inches in a steel wall a quarter of an inch thick. Through this hole he squeezed his body out of his cell and into the open hall of the jail. Coming downstairs to the big front door of the building he secured a window weight and a bedstead railing and prized off the fastening of the latch on the inside, thus gaining his freedom.

Darby was one time janitor at the jail, and perhaps the knowledge gained then aided him in laying the plans by which he escaped confinement.

Uncle Buddie Headley Died Suddenly Monday

After being left for only a few minutes sitting in the swing at his home, apparently in usual health, Sylvester Headley, known all over Chilton County as Uncle Buddie Headley was found dead by his daughter. It was about 9 o'clock on last Monday morning, and at the time Uncle Buddie and his daughter were living in the Dud McKinney house between Verbena and Mitchell Dam.

Mr. Headley was about 77 years of age. The remains were buried at Shady Grove near the home Tuesday afternoon at two o'clock, Rev. M. J. Parrish officiating.

To say that Uncle Buddie Headley was a good Christian man is not beginning to express his noble character. He was good, kind hearted, upright, honest, and just about as nearly Christlike as an ordinary man could be. He has never done any great things, but he was loved by everybody who ever chanced to meet and get acquainted with him.

A number of close friends and relatives from near Clanton attended the funeral Tuesday afternoon. Most of the children of the good old man were present to pay their last respects to his earthly form. He is survived by a number of sons and daughters; his second wife preceeded him to the grave nearly two years ago.

FIVE BOYS CAUGHT WITH HOME BREW LAST SUNDAY

Luther Arant, William Wilson, Threen Watson, Clarence Jones and J. C. Massey were caught by Sheriff Collins last Sunday with a quantity of home brew concealed in the woods in the Mt. Pleasant community. It is stated that in addition to several bottles of home brew there was a the boys apparently were preparing quantity in large containers, which to put in bottles. They had at the place a testing apparatus, empty bottles, caps and a capping machine all ready to do business.

All members of the Fidelis Sunday School class are urged to be present next Sunday. Plans are to be made for the hike the following Tuesday night.

LAW AGAINST FISHING IN COOSA COUNTY ON SUNDAY

In the recent legislature of Alabama, a local bill was passed making it a violation of the law for anyone to fish in the waters of Coosa County on Sunday. This will be of interest to many sportsmen in this section of the state who are patrons of the fine fishing waters of our sister county on the east.

Lake Mitchell with a shore line of perhaps fifty miles between Mitchell Dam and Lock 12 constitutes so much of the western border line of Coosa County, and it is one of the finest fishing places in Alabama. Hatchett, Pennymotely, Weogufka, and several other large creeks come into lake Mitchell thru Coosa County. But the law now says you are subject to be taken up if you fish there on Sunday.

We don't know who is going to be clothed with the authority and charged with the responsibility of keeping fishermen out of that region on Sundays. But we will venture that whoever attempts to do it will have a real job on his hands.

GAME AND FISH LAWS REMAIN UNCHANGED

Hon. I. T. Quinn, Commissioner of game and fisheries of Alabama, has issued the following statement concerning the game laws of Alabama:

"The Governor having vetoed the new game and fish laws passed during the closing days of the recent legislature, there are no changes in any respect whatever in the general laws relating to game and fish.

"The open season on game birds and animals for the coming season, therefore are as follows (both dates inclusive):

"Deer (male) Nov. 1 to Dec. 31; squirrels Nov. 1 to Jan. 31; bear Nov. 1 to Feb. 28; wild turkey (gobbler only) Dec. 1 to March 31; quail (bob white partridge) Nov. 20 to Feb. 20; dove (fixed by Federal statute) Oct. 16 to Jan. 31; duck, goose, snipe coot (mud hen) Nov. 1 to Jan. 31; fur bearing animals (to be trapped) Nov. 1 to Feb. 28."

C. E. MARCUS GOING TO MISS.

Claud E. Marcus, manager of the Central Alabama Development Co., real estate dealers has been asked by the Divisional Commander of the Salvation Army to direct a $50,000.00 fund campaign in the state of Mississippi. Mr. Marcus has accepted and is leaving for Birmingham tonight where he will confer with a group of Salvation Army officials from Mississippi tomorrow.

Mr. Marcus said that since the opening of a new territorial headquarters in Atlanta a few months ago, which has charge of all Salvation Army in all states south of the Ohio river and as far west as El Paso, Texas, that a large expansion of Salvation Army is being planned. New buildings, both men and women's social service, new rescue homes, children's hospitals and day nurseries as well as a large number of new corps are to be opened as fast as they can be financed. The $50,000.00 campaign in Mississippi is for the purpose of greatly increasing the work in that state, where the organization is still doing a big work in flood relief.

Mr. Marcus said that his leaving would in no way effect the Central Alabama Development Co., for his brother Clay Marcus would take charge of the business and with the assistance f another experienced real estate man who will join the firm on October 1, the business will be carried on.

MARINE CORPS AT BIRMINGHAM HAS SEVERAL OPENINGS

The United States Marine Corps wants an unlimited number of men for service in the United States Marine Corps, said Serg't. L. F. Hill, in charge of the recruiting station, in the Old Post Office Building. The men, however must all be A-1 men between the ages of 17 and 35. The standards are high and the marine corps wants only the best type of men. Excellent opportunities are offered to those enlisting. Applicants who are accepted will be sent to Parris Island, South Carolina, for their first training, and from there they are likely to go anywhere in the country or abroad for service. While on duty they will have an opportunity to obtain an education through the Marine Corps Institute, of Washington, D. C., which is now training more than 7,500 students through the correspondence method. More than 40 courses of study designed to fit men for various civil pursuits are available.

TON-LITTER HOG SHOW PLAN

Auburn, Ala., Sept. 20.—By means of a ton-litter hog show at the Union Stock Yards, Montgomery, October 5-6, exhibits representing the best methods in hog production in Alabama will be displayed. Ton-litters which represent the latest and best available information on economical hog production will be seen at the Montgomery show, according to F. W. Burns, extension livestock specialist, who directed ton-litter work in Alabama in cooperation with county agents. He is making plans of the show.

The Montgomery stock yards has offered $500 in cash prizes. Ten prizes of ton-litter exhibits are offered, the highest being $75 and the lowest beign $20, five prizes o nindividual gilts and barrows ranging from $15 down to $5 will be awarded. In addition the county making the largest number of ton-litter entries will receive a trip to the International Livestock exposition at Chicago next December.

This is the second year of ton-litter hog work in Alabama. Reports received by Mr. Burns from the county agents say that farmers with ton-litters have been very successful. Many of them will exceed the goal, which is to make one litter of pigs produce on ton of pork by the time they are 180 days old, or six months old.

In conection with the show a big sale of hogs will be conducted, taking place on the last day. The ton-litter and other hogs will be sold at that time.

Why can't Chilton County farmers get in this contest next year? See your county agent about it.

Jack Hayes of the Washington Senators

Jack Hayes, the son of Dr. and Mrs. J. P. Hayes, of Clanton was born in 1906. He attended the Clanton grammar school and in 1926 he graduated from the C. C. H. S. He attended the University of Alabama in '26 and '27 at which time he played college ball. Before entering professional ball Jack played the Roanoke and Abbeville teams.

Several months ago he signed up with the Barons of Birmingham in the Southern League, who recently sold him to the Washington Senators of the American League. Since that time he has done some good work. The following is copied from a Washington paper written by Louis A. Doughar, the famous sports editor of that paper:

"On the nice smooth Washington bench he sat and sat. He rode around the circuit in pullmans, taxicabs and plain ordinary street cars. He played third base and short stop and right field and left [illegible] but all in practice. The wee[illegible] passed and he simply seemed [illegible] luck' chassall.

"Then at his wits end to make his team out of the doledrums Lucky Harris pulled out Bluege and substituted Hayes. That was Friday, September 9th. The kid got the one real hit off Ted Lyons that day and handled himself nicely in the field. The following Saturday he appeared in the short field where he belongs by the way, in two games he went to bat eight times and cracked out three hits. In the field he continued to perform easily and surely. The next day he collected two hits for himself and the second one turned the tide in favor of the Griffs. It was his clean smack in the 12th that scored Bluege with the winning run. Hayes has been up 14 times, has scored two runs and has collected six singles for himself, averaging .428.

"Hayes has a strong arm and considerable accuracy in pegging. He covers the whole short field, having plenty of speed and a lot of daring. He dodges nothing and nobody. The Griffs seem to have picked up a shining pebble to find it a pearl of great price."

Chilton County is exceedingly proud of the achievements of this young citizen of Clanton.

MRS. EMMA RUTLAND DIED LAST SUNDAY NIGHT

On Sunday night at 9:45 one of Chilton County's most beloved citizens, Mrs. Emma Rutland passed to the Great Beyond at her home in Verbena ,Ala. All of her children, together with a number of close friends were at her side when the end came.

Mrs. Rutland was taken ill about a month ago, at which time she was carried to the Methodist Memorial hospital, Montgomery, where she underwent an operation. She stood the operation well, but complications set up which caused her death. Throughout her illness she was nursed with love and tenderness and the best nurses and doctors. She died at the age of sixty-three.

She is survived by four sons and two daughters, namely: Mr. Berry Rutland, Verbena; Mrs. Cora Parish, Verbena; Mrs. Fred Calloway, Clanton; Mr. Felix Rutland, Jacksonville, Fla.; Mr. Aulcy Rutland, Verbena and Mr. Hobson Rutland of Verbena.

The deceased is the daughter of Oliver Culver of Coosa County and sister of Mrs. Sarah Brown of Rockford, Henry Culver of Clanton, Grier Culver of Billingsley and Jack Culver of Coosa County.

Mrs. Rutland was the great grand daughter of old Daddy Culver who moved to Coosa County and settled in 1835, and was known as one f the most devout Christians in the county.

The deceased was married to W. W. Rutland in 1876 in Coosa County and they moved to Chilton County in 1895, and settled at Verbena, where she was a member of the Methodist Church. She was a devout member from childhood of the Methodist church, and was recognized as a true Christian, a good wife and mother, a constant attendant of the sick of the community, a noble humanitarian and a good neighbor, always ready to answer any call to do good. Her friends were numbered by her acquaintances wherever she lived.

Her death has left a vacancy in the hearts of her loved ones that can never be filled.

This information was gathered from Mrs. Fred Calloway and Mr. J. B. Gulledge, a life-long friend of the family, known to them as "Uncle Ellis."

Funeral services were held at the Verbena cemetery Monday afternoon, at 4 o'clock, Rev. Tate conducting the services.

Mr. Mell Martin had charge of the funeral arrangements.

Registration Law Gets A Change

Amended Law Provides Voters Shall Register from October 1 to December 31, Except in Jefferson County

Sweeping changes in the law covering the time of registration of voters in Alabama, are effected thru amendments to the law enacted by the present legislature.

The amended law, which has been signed by Governor Bibb Graves, provides that during the period from October 1 to December 31, 1927, and each two years thereafter, the boards of registrars of the several counties, except Jefferson, shall register voters during 30 working days. In Jefferson the period is 75 days. Also that beginning on the fourth Monday in January immediately following, the boards of registrars shall meet for ten days at the county court houses for the registration of voters for the period of ten working days.

Formerly, boards of registrars met in each county, every two years, for a period of 40 days, during the months of January, February and March. Boards of revenue or courts of county commissioners were authorized to issue an order, on off years, for the opening of registration books during the month of July for 10 working days.

Under the amended law, boards of revenue may issue an order for the opening of the rgistration books for a period of 10 days in the month of January on odd years. This latter provision does not apply to Jefferson county, where the board of registrations is to meet the second Monday in December 1928; second Monday in June 1929; second Monday in August 1929, and every two years thereafter, and remain in session six days at each of such sessions for the purpose of registering voters.

Board of registrars are to meet in every county on the first Monday in January, 1928, and every two years thereafter, for the purging of the registration list, and remain in session one week.

A Call To The Baptists Of Chilton Association

We have had few years in which the Lord has been better to us than He has this time. He has blessed us in so many ways we could hardly name them and since He has been so wonderously good to us it seems proper and right that we should make an effort to show our appreciation of it in better service to Him.

At the same time the Lord has been so wonderously good to us He has never needed our services more than at this time. Every part of our denominational work is suffering for lack of support and we are writing you this letter urging that every pastor and the members of every church in the association do their very best for the unified program.

You recall no doubt that last year the association voted unanimously to make an effort to raise at least 10c per capita in every church for the support of Brother Durbin who was at that time, and is now, a student in the Newton School. Brother Durbin is a deserving young man who is making every sacrifice possible to prepare himself to preach the gospel and I trust that your church will make an earnest effort to raise the 10c per member we agreed on at the last Association.

If you see fit to make a contribution to him please take this offering separate and apart and put it in a separate envelope and mark it for Brother Durbin and deliver it to the clerk of the Association.

Let us insist that the delegates who attend the Association this year make it a point to be present, both days of the Association. Dr. Green will be with us on the second day and we are sure he will have a good message for us.

Trusting that your church may have a full representation both days of the Association, we are. Yours very Truly—R. Lawrence, Moderator; W. T. Billingsley, Clerk.

POOR ORIGINAL

SUMMARY OF LEGISLATION RELATING TO EDUCATION

NEW LEGISLATION

I. Unified Program—Appropriations.

The unified program carrying appropriations totaling around three or three and one quarter million dollars for current operations has become a law; the Equalization Fund of $900,000, the Attendance Fund of $850,000, the Library Fund of $18,300, the Normal Schools and Teacher Training Equalization Fund $360,000, the A. & M. for Negroes $10,000, the Rural Schoolhouse Fund $128,500, Vocational Education Fund $100,706. High School Fund of $411,000, Alabama School of Trades $20,000, State Board of Education $32.500, Alabama College $187,623, Alabama Polytechnic Institute $332,605, University of Alabama $332,605, totaling $3,721,341. These appropriations are for 1927-28 and there will be slight increases from year to year through the quadrennium. The capital outlay for the institutions of higher learning, including the normal schools, is $4,100,000 for the quadrennium. If the bond issue of $20,000,000 is ratified the capital outlay appropriation just mentioned is voided and remains in the Treasury.

2. Proposed bond issue of $20,000,000 for educational buildings and improvements.

For elementary and high schools there will be $200,000 for each county totaling $13,400,000. This will be entirely new money for the public schools, county and city, of the State. For the institutions of higher learning, including the normal schools, there will be $6,600,000.

3. Textbook Law.

This law provides for the purchase of textbooks by a special board called the Textbook Purchasing Board composed of the Governor, State Superintendent of Education, and Chairman of the Board of Administration. The actual distribution of the books will be through the State Board of Administration. This method is not mandatory, however. The Board may use any method of purchasing and distributing that in its judgment is the most economical. The law provides for a committee on courses of study, as well as a textbook committee, which has the responsibility of recommending three alternate texts in every subject, one of which shall be selected for use in the public schools by the Textbook Purchasing Board. The appropriation of $150,000 to aid in the purchase of textbooks was made conditional, subject to approval of the Governor. The use of high school texts in cities of 2,500 or over is the same as under the old law.

4. There are numerous other acts of more or less general importance but the above appear to be of State wide significance. All laws relating to schools will be assembled and printed in connection with the School Code which was adopted by the Legislature and approved by the Governor.

II. Revision of School Laws—School Code.

Due to many needed changes and revisions that seemed desirable in laws relating to public education, the Recess Legislative Committee on Education was urged to approve a plan which would make possible a systematic handling of all revisions and changes and at the same time make possible the legal codification of all laws relating to education. This suggestion was approved by the Legislative Recess Committee on Education. This Committee spent several weeks in a careful and painstaking study of the laws calling to its assistance the State Superintendent of Education and the person selected as Code Commissioner, Hon. Harwell G. Davis, former Attorney General who set up in proper code form all laws relating to education and at the same time incorporated therein all of the revisions and changes which he was directed to make in accordance with the action of the Committee. The school laws in codified form were presented to the Legislature and reviewed by a Committee of the House and Senate, which unanimously endorsed the Code. By proper act the Code was duly adopted and approved by the Governor, and promulgated through proclamation as the School Code of Alabama to become operative on the first day of October, 1927. The changes in the Code are numerous. The most important are herewith noted:

1. The term of the members of the State Board of Education has been changed from twelve years to six years.

2. The State Superintendent may grant authority for the expenditure of balances remaining in various treasuries of the county and city boards of education after the purpose for which the appropriation was made has been accomplished.

3. The State Board of Education is charged with the responsibility of reviewing the actions and audits of county and city boards of education and of county and city superintendents of schools when appeals are made to the State Board on matters relating to finance and other matters seriously affecting educational interests.

4. Provision is made for a complete county unit administration if the board of education of counties or cities desire such, and by resolution ask for an election to ratify such county unit.

5. The county treasurer of school funds is made the custodian of county high school funds and the position of county high school treasurer is abolished.

. The term City has been defined as a corporation and community of 2,500 inhabitants or more according to the last or any succeeding Federal census. All communities with less population than this are reckoned as county territory in accordance with the definitions followed by the United States Census Bureau and the school affairs of all territory, except that in cities of 2,500 population or more, will be under the county board of education, while the cities with a population of 2,500 or more will be under a board of education selected by the city council or commission as now provided by law.

7. Provision is made for the inclusion in a city district of additional territory by agreement between the county and city boards of education and confirmed by a majority vote of the voters voting in the election called for the ratification of the consolidation of adjacent territory with the city district.

8. The ability of a county or city to borrow money for current operations is specifically limited to one third of the sum paid out for current expenses during the preceding year.

9. School trustees will be selected by the county board of education from the nominations made by the patrons of the school.

10. County boards of education are given authority to employ county superintendents who are not qualified voters of the counties in which such persons are appointed. This change was necessary on account of certain decisions of the Supreme Court and an opinion of the Attorney General to the effect that the county superintendent is a civil officer.

11. Provision is made by law fixing the age of the child at the time of the opening of school as the official age of the child for the current year. This has the effect of preventing children entering school at any time during the year they may become six years of age.

12. Unexpended balancts at the end of the fiscal year are not to revert but are to be carried over and used the succeeding year. This has been the case with the appropriations to all institutions of higher learning and boards that draw funds from the State Treasury and the change will simply make possible for the schools and activities under the State Board of Education the same provisions.

13. District warrants are made a direct charge against the district tax at the same time the county tax is made equally liable for the payment of the warrants and interest. This will have the effect of more adequate under-writing district warrants and in that way will make them more desirable investments and at a lower rate of interest.

14. The article on school attendance was rewritten and all preliminary steps required before parent or child can be dealt with under its provisions are radically changed. The compulsory attendance period was made to coincide with the length of the school term.

15. The article on certification and teacher training was rewritten and made to conform with what appears to be the best practice in this important field. The number of examinations was reduced to one a year to be held in July.

16. Rural schoolhouse law remains the same except that the limitations with respect to the number of rooms has been removed, and where permanent construction is contemplated, the amount per room may be increased up to a maximum of 100 per cent above that provided under the old law. County high schools may also share in this fund. County boards of education make application for aid rather than leaving it, as was the case formerly, to the initative of private citizens.

17. Changes in the textbook article have been in accord with the act, House Bill No. 357, which became a law and very materially changed provisions of this article. It has already been discussed under the head, "New Legislation."

18. The article on high schools was rewritten and it was made mandatory on boards of education to establish a system of high schools just as has been done with reference to elementary schools. County high schools become a part of the high school system but without losing the special appropriation. Provisions of the article apply in the main to all high schools, rather than simply to county high schools.

19. The section on scholastic periods has been changed to provide that the scholastic year shall begin with the first day of July and end with the 30th day of June of each year.

MULBERRY SINGING SOCIETY

The Mulberry singing society met at two o'clock last Sunday afternoon with the house almost full of people. Those who did not attend missed some mighty good singing. Prof. Devaughn was with us again and he sang some real good 1928 new songs.

We have our singings every first and third Sunday afternoons We hope when we have the next one the church will be full.—Mrs. D. O. Manning, Mrs. Holis Calfee, Herman LeCroy, Committee.

Clean
GAS and Tougher
OIL

Today's high-speed motors demand them

MOST automobile engines today operate at 20% higher speeds than those of a few years ago. They are more efficient—but they put new demands on fuel and lubrication. Cylinders foul quicker unless gasoline is clean; and this increased speed not only means more wear on moving parts, but develops terrific engine heat.

To meet these changed conditions, Pan-Am gasoline is refined with unusual care and Pan-Am motor oil has been improved.

Pan-Am gasoline is clean—entirely free from clogging dirt and sediment. Notice how crystal-clear it is next time you see a Pan-Am pump. The Pan-Am purifying process also removes invisible corrosives and carbon-forming elements. Thus, clean Pan-Am gasoline keeps your motor cleaner; besides giving your car new power and gasoline economy.

And the improved Pan-Am motor oil is made especially from a paraffin-base crude to stand the gaff of added heat and friction. It is a tougher oil that adheres to cylinder walls and bearings effectively; reducing wear and adding power.

Ask for both of these better products at any Pan-Am station. At home or on strange roads, you'll find the Pan-Am dealer a reliable merchant.

THORSBY SECTION

(S. E. NORTON, Manager).

At an early hour last Sunday morning Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Carter discovered that their house was on fire, and they scarcely had time to escape with no salvage. The house, a good one, and its contents were totally destroyed. The origin of the fire is unknown, but it evidently started in the kitchen. Owing to the fact that there was no wind at the time the fire was not communicated to other property, as everything out of doors was very wet from the soaking rain which prevailed earlier in the night.

Another fire caused by lightning at the home of Mrs. Emma Foshee, west of Thorsby, destroyed a good barn, together with a mule, and the summer's crop of corn and fodder.

At the Union Prayer meeting held at the Baptist church last Wednesday night there were just 60 people present, and at Christian Endeavor at the congregational church Sunday night the attendance was 70 and a lot more came in for the song service which immediately followed the Christian Endeavor meeting.

Next Sunday at 9:45 the Congregational Sunday School will have a Rally Day service to which the whole community is invited. Last Thursday night there was a business meeting of the members and friends of the Congregational church to plan for and discuss a program for the work of the church for the coming year. Much interest was manifest, and committees were appointed to have charge of various activities of this orgaization. After the business meeting light refreshments were served by the ladies.

Rev. Neil McQuarrie, Atlanta was a visitor in Thorsby Tuesday.

D. L. Ward has begun the erection of his home on the lot adjoining east of the hotel property on Jones street.

Akins Collins has also started work on his new house on Jones Street facing the Lutheran church.

Mr. Jim Pate is preparing to build on the site where the former home of the Norton's was destroyed by fire.

Others are contemplating building but have not yet made definite arrangements to do so.

Miss Kate McNeil and Mrs. Lillian Dobson, teachers in our public school are on the sick list. Miss Jaunita Connatser is substituting.

Prof. Bean, the principal, says the enrollment is increasing and the school spirit and progress the best since they have been in the new building.

It takes more than a good building for the proper conduct of a school, and Prof. Bean is pursuing his former practice of endeavoring to secure equipment. He has recently arranged to furnish the primary department with the smallest desks made at an expense of $192.00 and expects to have them installed within the next few days. He is planning to pay for them by giving entertainments during the next few months. He has learned that Thorsby people appreciate their public school and are good boosters whenever opportunity offers to make improvements in it.

The Eastern Star will hold a "Spend the day Party" Wednesday, September 28th at the home of Mrs. D. H. Gentry. Friends of the Star are invited to be with them.

Thorsby Parent Teachers Association will hold their next meeting at the home of Mrs. W. H. Raybon, on Thursday afternoon, September 29.

Thorsby Institute is getting organized for the school work of the year. The student body, drawn from several states and many Alabama counties, has had several additions the past week. There are many new students entering as freshmen from Thorsby and communities round about. Altogether the prospects are very good for a successful year.

The Ladies Guild will meet this week Thursday with Mrs. A. E. Reagan.

The Ladies Guild will give its annual reception next Friday night at 7:30 at Helen Jenkins Hall to which the teachers, pupils, trustees of the school, alumni, former students of the school, and contributing friends of the school are invited.

There will be English services in the Lutheran Church next Sunday morning at the usual hour.

Mr. Howard Garrick and wife of Marbury were visitors in Thorsby last Friday. On Saturday they and Mrs. C. M. Williams, and two daughters motored to Montgomery.

Mr. Sumner Gerald and sister, Lola, were visitors Sunday from Birmingham.

Mrs. Walter Morgan and children and Arnold Soberg of Birmingaam spent Sunday with their parents and Mrs. M. J. Soberg. They left little Marvin Morgan for some weeks visit with his grandparents.

Mr. and Mrs. Edd Piper went to Birmingham last Wednesday to attend the funeral services of Mrs. B. J. Flummer of Ensley. Mrs. Flummer was for several years a resident of Thorsby.

Miss Sadie Shannon of Montgomery, sister of Mrs. N. C. Peterson, spent Sunday with her sister.

Mr. and Mrs. B. M. Barnes of Birmingham visited several days last week with Mrs. Barnes' mother, Mrs. Frank Nelson.

Mr. Martin Nelson of Ensley spent Sunday at home in Thorsby.

Mrs. Sam Goddard and Miss Alene Mims spent Tuesday at Lomax. Miss Mims is going to teach at Jackson Chapel.

A wedding of much interest thruout the county was that of Miss Audell Burnette of Thorsby and Ottis Miller of Clanton, Sunday afternoon, September 18, at three o'clock at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. S. Burnette. The bride was attired in a lovely brown georgette with trimming of blue cut velvet and accessories to match. There was only a few close friends and relatives present. Immediately after the ceremony the bride and groom left for an extended trip through North Alabama and part of Tennessee.

They will make their future home in Clanton.

Revolutionizing Alabama's Cotton Ginning Industry

Electricity—Good Roads—Motor Trucks

THESE three factors are rapidly revolutionizing Alabama's cotton ginning industry — taking it into the larger communities where big electric installations are making quicker and better ginning service possible.

At these electric gins in larger centers, the steadiness of motive power makes a better, smoother, sample by eliminating gin cut cotton. Good sample–free from gin cuts–always brings top market prices.

And after the cotton's ginned, the farmer has his cotton and his seed right at the market, saving him the extra haul.

Cotton growers and cotton ginners are equally enthusiastic over the radical change which electricity, good roads and motor trucks are working in the cotton ginning industry of Alabama.

In 1923 this company served 35 Alabama cotton gins.
In 1927 there are 167 gins in 39 Alabama counties on the lines of the Alabama Power Company and Gulf Electric Company.

This number is increasing rapidly. Within a reasonable time, it is believed that every cotton grower in the state will be within easy hauling distance of an electrified cotton gin.

Cook, 107 North Holt, Montgomery, at high noon. Rev. Bonds of the First Baptist Church performed the ceremony. May We Present.—

Clanton is very fortunate in having a number of splendid teachers and we have every reason to believe that 1927-28 will be a wonderful school year for Clanton. The splendid faculties of the grammar and of the high school together with the interest and cooperation of each parent will insure success. Let's get behind the teachers and help with all our might.

In order that we may know our teachers better a brief introduction will be made through our paper to you each week. We shall first introduce Mrs. Smith, one of the first grade teachers in the grammar school. Mrs. Smith comes to us from South Carolina where she graduated at Woman's College, Due West. She taught her first school at Pelzer, South Carolina. Her next school was in Greenville, South Carolina, where she taught two years and she also taught two years in Abbeville, South Carolina. Mrs. Smith comes to Clanton highly recommended from each school as a primary teacher. The person who said: "The requisites of a primary teacher are patience and a love for children," must have had Mrs. Smith in mind, because she has a goodly store of each. Her pleasing personality has already made her a host of friends among the children and also the grownups of our city.

We will next introduce Miss Sarah Pollard, another able first grade teacher. Miss Pollard's home is in Sheffield, Alabama. She is a graduate of the Class of '27 of the Florence Normal School, where she did extensive practice training in primary school work. Miss Pollard is highly recommended by Dr. Willingham, president of the Florence Normal School, as being one of the best teachers ever sent out by him. Miss Pollard is a charming young lady whose personality wins children as well as every one else with whom she comes in contact.

Mrs. C. F. Jones Hostess.—

Mrs. C. Fenn Jones was hostess to the members of her bridge club Wednesday afternoon at three thirty. In the living and dining room where the tables were arranged baskets of dahlias and zinnias formed the attractive decorations. At the conclusion of a series of bridge games Mrs. Glenn Boyd held top score and was presented with a lovely bottle of perfume. Mrs. Jones served a delicious ice course to the following members: Mesdames Glenn Boyd, Grady Broadhead, J. P. Hayes, J. W. Hayes, Eric Hart, Hosea Downs, T. C. McSwain, Omar Reynolds, J. C. Jones and Miss Louise Orr. Miss Betty Mullins was an invited guest.

Mr. and Oscar Jones Hosts.—

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Jones were the delightful hosts at a bridge party at their home Thursday evening at 8 o'clock when they entertained the members of the Night Club. On the veranda where the bridge tables were arranged garden flowers in baskets and wall vases formed the pretty decorations. DISAPPEARING MILLIONS

Impressed with the axiom that money always goes to money, economists a few years ago were wont to speculate on the probable growth of the vast fortunes of the day. Some of them declared that they would eventually become a menace to the state. Within the past few days we have had evidence that these fears were exaggerated. No matter how great a sum one man may gather in his lifetime, it is subject to distribution through natural causes. The final dispersion of the famous Hopkins fortune is a case in point.

Mark Hopkins was a pioneer among American multi-millionaires. Through his part in building the Union Pacific railroad he amassed a fortune which was estimated at his death to be anywhere between $50,000,000 and $300,000,000. The disintegration of this sum began at once upon his death. The estate was divided among a number of relatives, the largest part by far going to his widow.

Before her husband died Mrs. Hopkins had adopted the son of her laundress and indicated that he was to be her heir. Subsequently she married the son of a New England mill hand, Edward F. Searles, whom she had hired to decorate her home. When she died she left Searles her fortune, and the adopted son brought suit. The case was in court for years and was finally settled by Searles for $3,000,000.

From then on Searles lived a life apart. His closest associates were his secretary, Arthur T. Walker, and an elevator boy, Angelo Milton Ellison, to whom he had taken a fancy. At his death Searles left his fortune, which had shrunk to $13,000,000, to his secretary. The elevator boy brought suit, and the estate was again tied up in the courts, this tme for seven years. Walker finally won the suit. His death a few days ago revealed, according to some estimates, that the Hopkins fortune had decreased to $5,000,000, which will be distributed among a number of Walker's relatives and friends. Thus the collossal fortune which Mark Hopkins gathered has been dispersed, most of it going to persons in moderate circumstances who were in no way related to him.

The dispersion of the great fortune of J. Ogden Armour is even more dramatic. So recently as 1916 Mr. Armour was believed to be worth $125,000,000. Within five years his fortune collapsed, and the question is now raised whether what remains will much more than liquidate his debts. "I have lost so many millions," he is reported to have said just before his death, "that I cannot keep track of them."

Evidently it is much more difficult to keep these vast fortunes intact than it is to gather them, hard as that is.—New York Post.

According to the New York Times a noted French observer declares that the League of Nations is sick and needs our aid. Probably he would suggest the gold cure, eh?

J. Ogden Armour's estate dwindled from $200,000,000 to $1,022,500, and yet most of us would be willing to appear satisfied with what was left.

The wise guy who used to pretend that he knew all about women has a successor in the fellow who thinks he understands the Einstein theory.

Mrs. Jack Dempsey is, we understand, suffering from a nervous breakdown, but what she has to be nervous over we can't see. She doesn't have to fight Tunney.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

PRIVATE CONTROL

After having, as one exchange puts it, "nurtured the infant air mail service to its present stage of proved success," the government has turned over its lines to private operators. The National Air Transport Corporation recently took over the crack New York-Chicago run, the last link of the Transcontinental line remaining under government control. This means from now on that the commercial air service in the United States, including the air mail service, will be developed by private corporations and by individual enterprise. The government will of course continue to assist the air service in every way possible, by lighting the airways for night flying, and in many other ways, including indirect subsidies.

As postmaster General New put it:

"The real purpose of the business has been to demonstrate to private capital that the service was not only possible scientifically, but that it could be made profitable commercially, and thereby encourage the creation of a new industry in the United States.

"Today there are more companies making airplanes in the United States than there are manufacturing automobiles. There are fifteen privately owned lines flying the air mail, and there are several others for which contracts are let and which shortly will be placed in operation. Among these is one from New York to Atlanta."

The government has put the air service on a substantial basis and then wisely turned it over to private capital for development. The government has built up a merchant marine and in time this will be turned over to private shipping interests for further development. Experience has proved that services of this kind can better be operated by private effort.

We need our air service and our merchant marine brought to the highest point of development, for our prosperity in time of peace and for our safety in time of war. The government will always be willing to aid the commercial air service and the merchant marine, because they are necessary to our national welfare. And these will develop faster under private control with the necessary federal aid.

CANE CREEK

Health in this community is very good at present.

Everybody is busy picking cotton.

Our singing Sunday afternoon was fine. We had several visitors from Providence which we were more than glad to have, and invite them back again. The house was called to order by the Chairman. After singing one song prayer was offered by F. C. Weldon. Then a committee was appointed consisting of W. L. Sanders, Willie Cleckler and Miss Flora Shirley to arrange the program. Those that directed two songs each were Mr. E C. Traywick, Willie Cleckler, Dalton Bice, Durwood Cleckler, W L. Sanders, Mrs. Essie Cleckler, Mrs. Zula Retherford, Misses Vergie Giles, Mavis Traywick, Vulina Shirley, Lillie Mae Weldon, Flora Shirley, Messrs. Tom Frank Teel, W. L. Jackson, T. J. Little and R. E. Jones. Three quartets were sung, arranged by W L. Sanders which was also good. Organists for the afternoon were Miss Vergie Giles, Lillie Mae Weldon, Mrs. Zula Retherford and Mrs Essie Cleckler. We used the 1927 and 1928 Showalter books but we are going to use the 1928 song books next Third Sunday afternoon and we expect to have another good singing then.

Remember next Saturday, Saturday night and Sunday is preaching here and our pastor will have something to tell us that will be worth coming to hear.

ABOUT NAVIES

The London Referee declares that "for no consideration on earth will England consent to surrender the right and power to protect her own empire by the means by which it was won. She was born of the sea; by the sea she will hold her own, and she and she only will determine the limit of the sea power needed to discharge that task."

This is a position which, as Americans we have, of course, no rght to criticize. If Great Britian believes that her safety and the integrity of her empire demand a big navy then the British government would of course be recreant in its duty if it did not maintain a big navy.

But it does not follow that because Great Britian needs, or thinks she needs, an imposing navy, that America should accept inferiority in the naval line. We have a pretty good country ourselves. We have lots of commerce, both trans oceanic and coastwise, and most of this commerce would be endangered in event of war. It is entirely probable therefore that some of our own safety depends on a good sized American navy, despite the opinion of a number of pacifists and internationalists to the contrary.

The Worcester Telegram, with this British position in mind, well sums up the situation in the following paragraph:

"America is naturally impressed by the British opinion. If world conditions make it advisable for Great Britian to have a powerful navy, it would be no less wise for the United States to have a powerful navy, too. It is a compelling argument."

And there you are. Rather than continue to discuss with our British cousins what now seems to be purely a theoretical question, let us see that our own naval needs are taken care of.

NEW FREE TRADE IDEA

"France," says the New York Times, "is not the only country where things are going on to cause searching of hearts among American high tariff devotees. In England several large steel manufacturing companies have just made a combined agreement—what for? Why to lower prices to English consumers. The scheme is ingenous. To every domestic purchaser of steel who for six months refrains from buying foreign steel a rebate will be given. Thus instead of asking for a protective tariff to keep out steel now being sold in England by German and Belgian and American makers—to the amount it is said of $250,000,000 annually—in that way raising the price, the English steel masters propose to undersell the foreigner in the home market."

The inference is of course that the British are going to keep out steel exports by selling cheaper at home through rebates and so giving the home steel producers the benefit of home made goods and lower prices at the same time. It is doubtful whether knowledge of this plan will cause any anguish to protectionists here or raise any considerable number of advocates of a similar plan for America.

The most significant thing in the above statement is the admission that in even free trade England with low wages and unemployment some sort of protection is needed to keep foreign concerns from capturing the steel market. Here is a condition and not a theory which needs some explaining on the part of the free traders.

Now in order to undersell foreign competition in the British market without a protective tariff the British manufacturers will have to cut costs. And cutting costs means cutting wages to a point below the lower wage scale in continental Europe.

For this reason it is not likely that any adaptation of the plan will be popular in America. Any such scheme in America would mean putting the American workers on the low wage level of European workers or even lower with European standards of living. That may work in Great Britian but it can't be put over in the United States.

American business men and American workmen prefer the economic scheme which is in effect today. Wages are now going up and price indices coming down. This is possible because the American manufacturers, with the great American market as their special field, are so able to increase and stabilize production that costs can be reduced in spite of the high wage scale. This is the American idea and it beats any plan for inverted protection by lowering the tariff walls and then trying to keep the American market by offering rebates to American consumers if steel.

A number of distinguished British visitors when served with corn on the cob on a Pullman diner didn't know what it was and had to be instructed in the proper method of eating it. Just think of the misfortune of knowing nothing about corn on the cob.

A Maine grandma aged 101 and a New Hampshire grandpa aged 100 took an airplane ride the other day and enjoyed it. Some of these days they are going to carry this flaming youth stuff too far.

Mayor Jimmy Walker says that he was much attracted by Mussolini and knowing something of the number of Italian votes in New York City we judged that he would be.

South Carolina boosters assert that the state needs double its present population. Here is a good chance for the Republcans to do some valuable colonizing.

IN MEMORY OF MY HUSBAND

We know not what it is dear,
This sleep so deep and still,
The folded hand, the awful calm,
The cheek so pale and chill;
The lids that will not lift again,
Tho' we may call and call,
The strange white solitude of Peace
That settles over all.

We know not what it means, Dear,
This dread to take our daily way
And walk in it again.
We know not to what other sphere
The Lord who leave us go,
Nor why we're left to wander still,
Nor why we do not know.

The child who enters Life
Comes not with knowledge or intent,
So those who enter Death must go
As little children sent.
Nothing is known, but I believe
That God is overhead;
And as life is to the living,
Death is to the Dead.

Pimples, Boils, Skin Eruptions

Skilled physicians recognize the appearance of pimples, boils and other skin eruptions as being an indication of an abnormal condition of the system. This is why so many thousands have been enabled to free themselves of these unsightly blemishes and painful annoyances by taking a course of S.S.S.

"I suffered from impure blood—was weak, and I had lost so much weight, I didn't look natural. I had pimples and was also bothered with a breaking-out that itched terribly. I also had boils one after another. I tried different kinds of remedies, but nothing did me any good until I began taking the S.S.S., which I did. This was some time ago. Now I feel well, and I am getting along fine. S.S.S. stopped the itching and it cured me of boils. I advise all weak and run-down people to give S.S.S. a trial. It clears up the skin; makes you strong and fills you with energy." Mrs. J. W. Barker, 1337 Walnut Street, Cincinnati, Ohio.

You owe it to yourself to try S.S.S. It helps Nature build up red corpuscles. It improves the processes by which the blood is nourished. It is time-tried and reliable.

S.S.S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.

The PUBLIC Is Making Money Out Of The Railroads

Efficiency of operation and the constant vigilance on the part of the steam railroads of the United States in improving every branch of their service has brought about great monetary returns to the American people. Here are some of the ways in which the public has profited by improved railroad service:

During the year 1926 the average rate per ton mile declined at such an extent that the public was saved $150,000,000 in freight charges compared with the year 1925. During the year 1926 an increase of more than $30,000,000 was paid by the railroads in taxes making the total amount of money from which the public received the benefit, approximately $180,000,000 in one year. During the year 1926 with an increase in earnings, after taxes, of $227,000,000, the employes received $96,000,000 more than in 1925, and the increase in the purchase of materials and supplies for operating purposes, and other minor items, amounted to $89,000,000.

In short, the benefits accruing to the public, employes, and owners of American railroads as a result of added efficiency in operation, and heavier traffic, totaled $369,000,000, of which the public received 44%, the employes 28½%, and the owners 27½%. American railroads are delivering the best transportation service in the world, and at the lowest cost.

BUICK DEALERS ENTERTAINED

Flint, Mich., Sept. 21—The Buick Motor Company this week launched one of the most ambitious projects of its sort ever undertaken, when it devoted two days to entertaining, here at the General Motors Proving Ground, the first contingent of its 3,800 dealers, the majority of whom will be similarly entertained during the next nine weeks.

The plan was developed at the suggestion of the dealers themselves. The thought behind it is to show them at close range the methods and materials which enter into manufacture of Buick motor cars. When they leave Flint, they will carry to their homes throughout the country a new appreciation of the product which they sell, and their enthusiasm, Buick executives believe, will communicate itself to their organizations, with a stimulating effect. For the dealers, when they leave here, will have spent virtually an entire day inspecting the Buick factory; they will have studied in detail the part the famous Proving Ground is playing in the development of fine motor cars, and they will have enjoyed contact with Buick's executives.

The dealers are coming to Flint on special Pullman trains on which they will live during the one-night lie-over here. The dealer organization has been divided up by the Buick branch and distributor territories for ease of accomodation, the first group, already entertained, coming from Memphis territory. During the remainder of the dealer visit period, two contingents will be received each week, the first on Monday and Tuesday and the second on Thursday and Friday.

The program arranged for the 125 Memphis territory dealers is typical of those which will follow. Arriving Monday morning the dealers were taken to the Buick factory in automobiles, divided there into groups of 10 or 12 each, provided with guides, and conducted through the plant. To avoid confusion and facilitate inspection of manufacturing processes, the various groups started at different points, spending as much time in each department as they desired.

At noon the party adjourned to the ballroom of the Hotel Durant, where luncheon was served. Talks, not only on manufacture, but on sales problems and other subjects of vital interest, were given by E. T. Strong, president and general manager of the Buick Motor Company, C. W. Churchill, general sales manager, E. N. Steger, and E. J. Poag, of the sales promotion and statistical department.

Following these talks, which lasted until about 2 p. m., the visitors returned to the factory, where each group resumed its inspection trip where it left off before lunch.

On Tuesday morning, the dealers were driven to the Proving Ground near Milford, where Buicks travel 20,000 miles a day to safeguard the quality for which Buick is famous. As a preface to their inspection of the facilities of the Proving Ground, O. T. Kreusser, the resident superintendent, made a detailed explanation of the institution's functions, methods and equipment. William H. Alexander, of the Buick engineering staff, then explained that, extensive and thorough as is the Proving Ground's activities, Buick is constantly conducting tests in various parts of the country, for the sake of the added light they shed on Buick's adaptability to all climatic conditions and its performance on various topographies as well as many other phases of operation.

The Proving Ground motion picture film, which goes fully into the many-sided work carried on there, was exhibited before lunch, which was served in the dining room on the premises. Then the visitors inspected all the special apparatus, much of it unique, which the Proving Ground has developed to provide "yardsticks" for all phases of Buick performance. Special interest was shown in the "fifth wheel" which provides an accurate speed gauge, the "bath tub" test, and the "twenty four hour hill" or towing dynamometer, whereby a constant load of any desired weight can be imposed on the car under test and maintained as long as desired. It consists of a chassis on which is mounted resistance apparatus, adjustable to produce any degree of drag on the car towing it.

After inspecting the equipment, which they did in small groups, so that all might see at close range, the visitors were taken to the speed oval, for a demonstration of the Buick roadsters which are creating such a sensation at the Proving Ground. It was followed by the return drive to Flint, and embarkation for Memphis.

The visiting dealers were enthusiastic about their two days here. "Buick's hospitality will be well repaid," said H. C. Gillespie, manager of the Memphis Branch, "in the renewed enthusiasm with which these dealers return to their work. What they have seen of Buick manufacture, in these two days' intensive study of that subject, can not but be reflected in an increased enthusiasm. They now know, more intimately than ever before, the unceasing vigilance with which Buick insures its famous quality; and after meeting the men responsible for the Buick, and seeing the vast Buick organization in action they realize, if they never did before, the world of real significance behind Buick's famous slogan: When Better Automobiles are Built, Buick Will Build Them."

The dealers from the Atlanta and Jacksonville territories will be here Monday and Tuesday of next week, and those from the Pittsburgh territory arrive Thursday for their two-day stay.

"It is easy to make twice as many bushels of oats as bushels of corn on an acre of Alabama land."—G. D. Sturkie, Auburn.

The farmer who keeps his children out of school two or three weeks during the session will realize his mistake.

In 1926, 127 demonstration farm flocks in Alabama averaged 160 eggs per hen. The income per hen above feed cost was $2.95.

This cotton crop in Alabama has presented further evidence in favor of home-mixing fertilizer and large application per acre.

Experiments at Auburn have shown that, as an average, oats planted in the fall make twice as much as oats planted in the spring, October being the best month for planting them.

The best of everything the dairy industry affords will be on display at the National Dairy Show at Memphis in connection with the Tri-State Fair, October 15-22.

The "Auburn egg laying mash" is as follows: 200 pounds corn meal, 100 pounds wheat middlings, 100 pounds ground oats, 100 pounds (55 per cent) meat scraps, 20 pounds bone meal and 5 pounds salt. Any amount can be made but the proportions should be as stated here.

Evans Boy Caught With Stolen Goods

Arrested and Put in Jail Following Robbery of Store of The Leader Last Saturday Night

A 15-year old boy by the name of Evans, who stated that his home is at Graceville, Florida was put in Jail last Saturday night or early Sunday morning by city policeman Tom Wyatt, on a charge of burglary. The boy was in possession of a quantity of goods which were identified by M. Lande as belonging to the stock of The Leader.

It is reported that the boy hid himself in the warehouse at the rear of the store Saturday night and was concealed there when the store was closed after the day's business. It seems that he remained quiet until the small hours of the morning when he turned on a light and began to pick out what he wanted.

Policeman Wyatt saw the light in the store which was unusual for the early hour of Sunday morning. Upon watching the situation he was able to catch the burglar with the goods after he emerged from the store The lad had two suits of clothes, two suits of underwear, two shirts, a belt and $14 in cash which he took from the cash register.

The cash represented the lifetime saving of Harry Margolis, an employee of the Leader. It was a little toy bank into which Harry had been dropping his odd nickels and dimes since he was a small child. All of the stolen goods and the cash were recovered.

It is said that when the policeman came up with the boy burglar he was all diked out in his new togs, and looking for a ride toward Florida.

The boy was brought before Mayors Court Monday morning, and account of his age, he was turned over to the Juvenile Court. Sitting as Judge of the Juvenile Court, Probate Judge Reynolds Monday afternoon, committed him to the state reform chool, to which he was carried Tuesday.

Clanton Baptists Will Build New S. S. Annex

Addition to Present Church Building Will be Made at Cost of $14,000. Work Started This Week

Work was begun this week on the erection of a Sunday School Annex to the Clanton Baptist Church, which improvement will cost in the neighborhood of $14,000. During the past two weeks a campaign has been put on among the members and friends of the church which has brought together a fund sufficient to build the addition and pay for it in cash. Ground for the new annex was broken Tuesday.

The addition to the present building will be 36 feet by 52 feet and will be three stories high. The structure and lines of architecture will be in harmony with the beautiful design that prevails in the main building which was erected in 1922. It will be connected with the main building on the south side and extending 52 feet toward the county courthouse.

Mr. Leon H. Watson of Birmingham, formerly of Miami, Florida, is the engineer, architect and builder of the annex. He will supervise the construction work.

A building committee was named recently to have charge of the work for the church. The following are members of the committee: Deacons J. Watts Moore, chairman, G.C. Harris, F. R. Woodyard, W. A. Kemp, J. W. P. Murphy, J. P. Lawrence. In addition to the deacons there are on the committee the following: Guy Higgins, Mrs. Grady Broadhead, Mrs. Watts Moore, Mrs. J. E. Gowan, Mrs. E. E. Upchurch, Mrs. J. P. Hayes.

The heating of the new annex has presented a question that concerns the whole of the church building and in order to solve this question an important meeting will be held at the church next Sunday morning at which every member is requested to be present.

The matter is to be considered to determine whether a new unit for heating will be installed in the annex, or whether the present heating apparatus in the church building shall be taken out and disposed of and the new heating plant be installed to serve the whole church building as it now stands together with the annex. The building committee has determined some interesting figures on this question and desire to put the matter before the membership of the church for thier consideration before taking final action.

It is said that Henry Ford is taking over several million acres of rubber tree land in Brazil, which indicates that Uncle Henry may not have so much faith in Tom Edison's synthetic Folrida rubber plant after all.

FREAK STALK OF COTTON FROM ALFRED MIMS FARM

Alfred F. Mims, of Cross Roads community, has contributed the latest specimen to our list of curious things. It is a stalk of cotton. Its history, as given by Mr. Mims, is as follows:

Back in the spring as I was plowing my young cotton I noticed at the end of the row some of the old last year's stalks left there were sprouting out young branches right at the ground. I did not pay much attention to them until later in the season I noticed one in particular had grown a big fine top and showed indications of making some cotton. I left it there and watched it to see what it did. So here it is to show for itself.

It is a stalk of cotton about three feet high, and to the casual observer it would be taken as nothing out of the ordinary. But upon close inspection it is found that there was one sprout which came out from the old stalk right at the ground and this grew into a fully matured stalk with several branches on it just as any ordinary cotton stalk.

But for boll weevil interference, it would have produced a dozen or more perfect bolls of cotton. There are several bolls on the stalk, some of them open, and some of them are withered. Some of the locks in the open bools are defective, showing that the weevil put in his appearance in time to hinder the full production of fruit.

Mr. Mims had a good many things to say about his crop one way or the other. And before he quit he mentioned something about politics. You know Alfred was a candidate for Tax Collector the last time, and was defeated. But he is in a good humor just the same as if he had been elected.

FRIENDSHIP SINGING LAST SUNDAY AFTERNOON

The regular monthly singing was held at Friendship church last Sunday afternoon. The new 1928 books were used altogether, and the singing was a little awkard, nevertheless good, considering the fact that the songs were entirely new to everyone. Dirctors were: H. W. Lowery, T. E. Wyatt, G. C. Powell, J. E. Miner, Rube Miller, C. H. Robinson, O. L. Devaughn, S. V. Miller, M. Lockhart and J. W. Cagle. The service was closed by prayer by R. M. Robinson. Organists were: Mrs. Lennie Gillespie, Mrs. Annie Robinson and C. H. Robinson.

Rev. W. P. Lowery preached at 11 o'clock and at the evening service. Two very good sermons were delivered at both of these services. The Sunday night service closed Rev. W. P. Lowery's year's work as well as his pastorate of the church. The next service on the fourth Sunday in October will be held by the new pastor, Rev. M. J. Parrish of Providence.

The church cannot thank Rev. Lowery enough for the splendid work he has done at Friendship. He has always been right on the job regardless of weather or circumstances, and he leaves the church just as he took it two years ago, with love and good will to and from everybody. Everybody at Friendship loves Bro. Lowery and wishes him well wherever his work may carry him.

CHILTON OPENS SEASON BY DEFEATING MARBURY 37-0

The Chilton County High School football squad opened the year's season by defeating the Marbury High School by a score of 37-0, last Friday.

During the first ten minutes of the game O. Sanford had carried the ball across the goal line for 6 points for Chilton. E. Brunner was knocked out in the first quarter which left a weak spot in the backfield, but Simms was waiting on the side line to fill it. This is Simm's first year to play football but he played his part even better than expected. L. Sanford another member of the backfield showed some fine playing and was good at 'calling em.' Nelson also of the backfield plowed through Marbury's line for many yard's gain.

O. (Pete) Sanford the fastest thing on the Chilton team also proved he could leave anything Marbury had, by running around left end for 80 yards for another touchdown. During the third quarter he crossed the goal line for three times over and around the Marbury lines. Willis and Wade at ends also showed good playing, although this is their first year. Retherford, at center, played a wonderful game, making no misthrows and helping to hold the Marbury line back. This is also Retherford's first year.

The Chilton line held like a stone wall all during the game. Only once or twice did Marbury break thru for a few yards gain. Broadhead and Johnson played well on the strong line, as did Gowan and Mims. In fact the whole team played good which is shown by the score of 37-0.

Next Friday the Chilton team is to play Verbena at Clanton.

About Time for Big Potato Contest To Start; Enoch Foshee Is Expecting One

Again the fall of the year is here and with it comes tater digging time, syrup making, goober parching, and the many other diversions that go to make life on the farms of Chilton County really worth living. We do not see why it is that anybody can ever make the sad mistake of leaving such a life as is afforded on our farms and go to the cities and smaller towns to live a life of hand-to-mouth drudgery.

Rich people of the cities are said to feed out of a silver spoon all their lives. Poor people of the cities feed out of paper bags; and lots of the time it is empty bags. The farm is the best place in the world, and the only reason we who have left the farm don't go back there is because we can't; which is about the saddest part of the migration from farm to city.

But that is a bit off the subject we had in mind when we began to write this tale. We were going to talk about potatoes when we started.

Judge Enoch Foshee was in the Union-Banner office Saturday and sprang the first potato yarn of this season. When you hear it you will know how much of it to believe, especially if you have ever had the honor of knowing Judge Foshee, which honor nearly everybody in Chilton County has had. Here is the tale that Enoch told:

"It aint quite time to dig taters yet you know. They are not just exactly sweet and juicy until the frost kills the vines. But I decided the other day that I wanted some taters to eat on and help out the meal barrel till I could get time to go to the mill.

"I hitched up a mule to the plow and went away yonder to the upper side of my patch to the outside row. I got a good sized wagon load of potatoes out of that row; and just any number of them would weigh as much as six, eight and ten pounds.

"I can hardly wait now to finish digging my whole patch. When I get down about the middle where the ground is rich and fine, I would not be at all surprised if I find plenty of yaller yams as big as a sack of guano."

Well, it won't be long now. This county is terrible for big potatoes, and we are sure they will soon begin to bring them in all the way from two feet wide to six feet long. You remember one fellow started from home last year to bring us one that was five feet long. On the way down here he dropped it and broke it all to pieces.

PEANUTS MAY BE GROWN SUCCESSFULLY IN CHILTON

Splendid Samples of Improved Spanish Brought in by W. L. Williams From his Farm near Maplesville, Alabama.

It has long been known that the soils of Chilton County will produce peanuts abundantly. But so far this product has not been grown to any commercial extent. In fact it has never been followed far enough here by any farmer to settle the important fact of whether or not peanuts could be made a good money crop for our farmers.

There are several different problems that have been mentioned by Chilton County farmers in considering the growing of peanuts. There is the ever-present question, and we might say puzzle, of adequate marketing. This problem bobs up with everything as well as with peanuts. Likewise there is a problem of threshing peanuts and getting them into condition for marketing.

Mr. W. L. Williams from over near Maplesville came to The Union-Banner office last Saturday with a sample of Improved Spanish peanuts which he is producing on his farm this year. They were as fine as we ever saw, and it certainly seems to us that if Chilton County farmers can grow such a product, there ought to be some means of marketing them and making the operation a profitable one.

Mr. Williams said that he has two acres planted in peanuts this year from which he has already hauled in 15 two-horse wagon loads. He used as fertilizer about fifty pounds of acid phosphate to the acre. The ground is sandy loam. Some other farmers in the same community have planted peanuts extensively this year, said Mr. Williams. They are determined to check up the matter closely and try to determine if it is possible for them to grow and market them profitably. We want to get a threshing machine in our community, said Mr. Williams, if we decide there is anything for us in the growing of peanuts.

Mr. Williams carried a sample of his product to the office of Mr. Stapp, county farm agent, and stated that he wanted to get some ideas from Mr. Stapp about peanuts. We feel sure that the county agent can help our farmers to determine just how they can make money out of peanuts.

Mr. Williams has carefully selected his seed and improved them for several years, and it seems to us that if there is any profit for Chilton farmers in peanuts, it would be a good idea for the crop of Mr. Williams to be distributed over the county as seed for planting.

Whatever an intelligent minority may or may not be accomplishing in government, it appears in headlines that a bayonet minority is ruling Russia.—Pittsburgh Post Dispatch.

A special feature of the meeting will be the song services each evening, which begin promptly at 7:30, and on Sunday afternoon the services will begin at 2:30.

The Unity association will meet in its Seventy-Third Annual Meeting with the Big Springs Baptist Church just south of Billingsley, Alabama in Autauga County, on Tuesday and Wednesday, October the 4th and 5th, 1927.

Please permit me to urge that every church in the association prepare a report and send it to the association along with its quoto of delegates and let us spend two days in service and in planning for the service of God.

The following B. Y. P. U. program will be rendered at a night session of the association:

7:30—P. M. Keynote, Living for Jesus.
7:30—Song Service.
7:45—Devotional, "Jesus wants all those who live for Him to be trained" Allie Walker.

8:35—A solo, "Living for Jesus" by Arthur Deloach.

The B. Y. P. U. program at night of the first day is something new and we hope will prove a great blessing. I hope all the delegats will come prepared to spend the night and attend the night meeting. I think it will be of special benefit to the young Baptist people of the association.—Yours in the work.—J. Z. Mims, Moderator.

LITTLE GIRL KILLED IN AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENT

Little Bernice Butler, age five years, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Butler, was killed in an automobile accident near Jemison about seven o'clock last Wednesday evening. The family were returning home on a truck from the farm of a neighbor where they had been working when the accident happened.

The remains were buried at Collins Chapel Thursday afternoon, Rev. W. P. Lowery conducting the funeral.

The many friends of the Butler family extend their sympathy in the hours of their sad bereavement.

MORE NITROGEN FROM AIR

Auburn, Ala., Sept. 19.—The practice of taking nitrogen from air rather than importing or buying it in a synthetic form is becoming more general in Alabama by increasing the acreage in winter legumes. In 1918 only 1,535 pounds of hairy vetch seed were planted in the state. Two years later (1920) the amount had increased to 10,470; in 1922 to 149,465; in 1924 to 399,417; and in 1926 it was around 600,000 pounds. This year a still higher mark will be reached. The Alabama Farm Bureau alone will handle considerably more than 600,000 pounds. Chilton County will handle more than 20,000 pounds.

Hairy vetch and other winter legumes are valued chiefly for soil improvement because of the large amount of nitrogen and humus they add to the soil. To some extent they are used for grazing and for hay—either alone or in combination with oats.

The planting season begins with early fall; and experiments at Auburn have shown that early planting is better. The last half of September and the first of October is the best planting season.

In addition to planting early county agents are stressing the importance of inoculation and of deep planting. Two or three inches is preferred. Shallow planting is risky, due to weather conditions at this season.

Along with hairy vetch a new and better winter legume is being introduced. It is monantha vetch, the seed supply of which is very limited this year. The state farm bureau has bought a supply and it is being placed with farmers in a few counties with an agreement that all seed will be saved next spring. Chilton County will get 1000 pounds of this new vetch.

YAMAKITA CLUB

Member-hips in Club Yamakita, "Alabama's Country Club," are now available to residents of Clanton. L. M. Mathews has been named club representative for Clanton and surrounding territory.

Club Yamak ta is being built at old Shelby Springs in Shelby County, famous as a hosterly long before the Civil War. Fallen somewhat into disuse in recent years, it is now being revived by a group of Birmingham men headed by Clyde Nelson, who was reared in the shadow of the place.

Walls are now rising for the $250,000 clubhouse and hotel which will be available to members and guests. A swimming pool has been completed and in use, an 18-hole golf course complete except for letting the grass become compact on the putting greens, while other improvements are planned under way.

Eventually pleasures at Yamakita will include golf, tennis, swimming, boating, horseback riding, trap-shooting, playgrrounds for children and such indoor entertainment as daneing, amateur dramatics, music and the like.

The golf course was laid out by the Pearce-Robinson Co., designers of the Sesqui-Centennial grounds at Philadelphia. The landscape engineers are also arranging the immense lawn front of the hotel where mammoth oaks shade the mineral springs and recall the days when Shelby Springs was the rendezevous of Alabama's best society. Seven springs, five of them mineral waters, have been shown to have medicinal value. A dam has been built to impound the stream that flows across the 3,000 acres of the property.

Yamakita or Shelby Springs, is just four miles off the Montgomery highway at Calera and only seven miles from the exact geographical center of the state. The road from Calera by Yamakita to Columbiana is on the approved list of the highway department for paving out of proceeds of the next bond issue. A chert road now passes the property, which can be reached from Clanton in less than an hour.

The plan of a state country club has been worked out with success in other states. Alabama is the first to try it out in the South, and the prospects are assuring. The state country club will be a place where members or guests may go for a few hours, a day, a week end or for a longer period and enjoy all the delights of a country club coupled with the peace and beauty of a rural setting.

W. A. Glass and E. R. Cobb of Oak Grove, above Jemison, were business visitors to Clanton Monday.

SCHOOLS WILL SOON GET LESSONS OVER THE RADIO

Columbus, Ohio, September 26.—Greater public instruction by radio is predicted in the near future in a report made public today by the Educational Survey Society.

The time is not far off, according to the Society's report when practically all public and private schools will be furnished with radio receiving sets in every classroom for receiving lessons from a central studio.

In a recent radio address, General Bullard, chairman of the federal radio commission, was quoted as urging this wider use of the radio, especially for the benefit of farmers and the rural communities.

Public schools in connecticut and Cleveland and some parts of California already are teaching music to the pupils by means of radio and such outstanding musical colleges as the Cincinnati Conservatory of Music have urged a wider use of the radio in musical instruction in the schools, the report shows.

"By means of radio, rural schools will be able to get the very highest type of instruction," the report stated. "Whereas the average rural school is unable to afford the latest in advance educational theories and practice."

Many of our state universities, the report pointed out, already operate radio broadcasting stations, and they would be glad to cooperate with the state educational departments in the establishment of radio instruction to the public schools.

TRAFFIC ACCIDENTS REDUCED BY HOMICIDE SQUAD

Traffic accidents are being effectively reduced at Cleaveland, Ohio, by a newly organized and unique homicide squad that is doing much to insure the safety of that city's streets.

The plan, which is being studied in other localities in the hope that by adopting it traffic fatalities elswhere may be lowered, consists in maintaining a squad of trained investigators competent to secure evidence that will hold in court and fix blame on the person responsible for the accident.

Two police officers, a sergeant and a patrolman comprise the working crew. As soon as a traffic accident is reported these officers hurry to the scene in their Chevrolet used expressly for this purpose and secure all available data. One man is a skilled photographer and takes pictures of the scene from number of different angles. The other carris a typewriter and makes out a complete report right on the spot.

The names of all parties to the accidents are taken, as those of all witnesses, and statements from everybody are typed. By getting statements immediately, as well as photographs to introduce into court at the trial, the police have complete and accurate information on which to gase a prosacution if anyone is shown to be at fault.

In addition to this Chevrolet which has the essential speed and snap to get the investigators to the scene quickly the squad has complete photographic equipment including a dark room for developing pictures immediately after an accident, two offices to which principals and witnesses are often brought and quizzed, filing cabinets, and draughting materials to make sketches of the scene. This squad is said to be the only one of its kind in the United States.

Edward J. Donahue, traffic commissioner, who put the plan into effect, credits it with being one of the most practical safety factors within his long experience. Already the squad has secured many manslaughter convictions, while convictions on the charges of reckless driving and fleeing from the scene of a accident run into the hundreds.

The International Harvester Company has announced three inventions designed to revolutionize the harvesting of cotton. They are a cotton picker of the spindle type for use in the lowlands and in other sections where the entire crop cannot be harvested at once because of uneven ripeing; a stripper or boller designed for harvesting upland cotton which matures quickly and evenly; a cotton cleaner to be used in cleaning stripped cotton and bolls.

VETCH SEED WILL BE COMING THIS WEEK

County Agent Stapp advises us that the shipment of Monantha vetch seed to fill orders for Chilton County farmers will likely be made from Montgomery Friday or Saturday of this week. Mr. Stapp was in Montgomery Tuesday and was informed by Farm Bureau officials that the seed were now on hand in Montgomery and would be shipped this week.

Monantha is a new variety of vetch, a quantity of which will be used by Chiltin County farmers this fall. It is practical to save seed of this variety, whereas with hairy vetch this is almost impossible.

MULBERRY-ISABELLA NEWS

Mr. Stapp our County Agent visited our school last Monday.

Missss Paralee Thomas and Eugina Barge spent last week end in Birmingham visiting relatives.

NEW BAKERY IN CLANTON IS OPEN THIS WEEK

Announcement is made this week of the opening for business of the new Clanton Bakery. The plant is located in the Wade Building on Main Street next to Robinson Bargain Store. Messrs. J. H. Brittain and A. P. Elliot, two hustling young business men from Birmingham are in charge of the place. They have installed all new and modern baking facilities, and promise to put out a jam up line of bakery products of the highest quality.

We feel that we should urge Clanton people to patronize this business concern. We need a good bakery here. There is need for it and we should support it. We believe these men are going to make the business of such character as to deserve the pride and support of the people of Clanton.

PROMINENT RESDENT OF VERBENA SUCCUMBS TO ILLNESS

After an illness extending over a period of two or three years, J. T. Bland, age 77, died at his home in Verbena Monday of this week. The funeral was held at the Verbena Baptist church Tuesday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. Rev. B. Lowrence conducted the funeral, assisted by Rev. Arthur Deloach of Verbena.

Mrs. Bland died about two years ago. Mr. Bland is survived by three daughters, Mrs. Boatwright of Montgomery and Misses Birdie and Jewell Bland, at home in Verbena. There is one son dead.

Mr. Bland spent his early days in Montgomery, where he was born. At an early age he moved to Verbena, where he has lived ever since.

We meet on the first and third Sunday evenings. All singers and lovers of music are especially invited to come and bring their song books and we will have a good singing.—E. H. Calfee.

It would occur to a man up a tree that the League of Nations, if it decides to "consider" the Panama treaty will find iself a great deal like the fellow in the story who took in too much territory.

Broadus Connatser Of Birmingham "Barons"

We choose as the second subject of this series of stories another one of Clanton's baseball stars who gives promise of a successful future as an actor in the great national pastime. Last week we told about Jack Hayes of the "Senators." This week it will be Broadus Connatser of the Barons.

The career of "Connie" started when he was a student at the Chilton County High School back about 1920. His work on the local baseball club of the school was a sensational success, and he drew the mark for a famous baseball player of the future. Every year has marked his rise up the ladder until now it seems that he is destined to take the part of a regular member of the Birmingham baseball club.

Broadus is the son of Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Connatser of Thorsby. He is a nephew of Mr. W. W. Fox, of Clanton, with whom he is connected in business. He spends his off-days here with Mr. Fox between the baseball seasons. He was born in Sevierville, Tennessee, in 1903, and moved to Thorsby with his parents in 1915. His grdauation from the Chilton County High School was at the end of the 1920 session.

Pursuing his studies diligently along with his athletic prowess he graduated from the University of Alabama in 1926 with a B. S. degree. During his college course he was a regular member of Coach Wallace Wade's wonderful baseball club, playing his regular position of first base.

At his graduation from the University "Connie" signed a contract with the Birmingham Barons and joined them at the beginning of the 1926 season. He was sent to the Vicksburg club of the Cotton States League. He played the 1927 season with the Jackson club of the Cotton States League, holding his contract with the Barons. This year he had a large share in the honors which won the pennant for his club at Jackson. He played in a post season series with the Monroe Club, which won four out of five games played.

Broadus is a very popular young man with hundreds of his admirers who have followed his career with a deal of interest. It is very probable that he will have a chance as one of the mainstays of the Baron lineup for next year, and everybody believes he is able to hold the fort at first base to the satisfaction of his boss, the honorable Johnny Dobbs.

CEDAR GROVE

There was singing at this place last Sunday afternoon. The directors were messers J. W. Lowery, D. T. Melton, Kermit Lowery and Zack Lowery. Several quartets were sung. Organists were Mrs. Emmett Smith, Mrs. Marion Littlejohn, Mrs. J. R. Helms and Miss Leila Melton. Some of the directors were not present. They probably attended singing elsewhere.

There was preaching Sunday morning and Sunday night by the pastor, Rev. J. R. Helms. Sunday School is being carried on here and a Junior Christian Endeavor has been organized. We would be glad to have the cooperation of the people of the community to help us carry out these religious organizations.

Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Helms and little Mildred Johnson visited Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Eiland Sunday at noon, and they also visited Mr. G. D. Melton Sunday evening.

Mr. Leon Mims spent the week end with parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Mims. Mr. Mims holds a position with the Wetumpka Ice Company at Wetumpka.

Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Ward visited Mr. and Mrs. Jim Price Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Riggins are visiting their daughter, Mrs. Jesie Messer, near Verbena this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Amos Smith spent a day or two of last week in Birmingham.

Misses Lela and Bertha Melton had as their guets Sunday night, Miss Willie Belle Scroggins.

Quite a few from this place attended the singing at Mars Hill Sunday. Among whom were Misses Mattie Paton, Claudie and Onzelle Eiland and Mr. Vernie Smith.

Friends of Mrs. Frank Collins will be glad to learn that she is up and going again after undergoing a serious operation this past summer.

The table was beautifully decorated with roses and fern. Cake and cream were served to the following guests. A Call To The Baptists Of Chilton Association

We have had few years in which the Lord has been better to us than He has this time. He has blessed us in so many ways we could hardly name them and since He has been so wonderously good to us it seems proper and right that we should make an effort to show our appreciation of it in better service to Him.

At the same time the Lord has been so wonderously good to us He has never needed our services more than at this time. Every part of our denominational work is suffering for lack of support and we are writing you this letter urging that every pastor and the members of every church in the association do their very best for the unified program.

You recall no doubt that last year the association voted unanimously to make an effort to raise at least 10c per capita in every church for the support of Brother Durbin who was at that time, and is now, a student in the Newton School. Brother Durbin is a deserving young man who is making every sacrifice possible to prepare himself to preach the gospel and I trust that your church will make an earnest effort to raise the 10c per member we agreed on at the last Association.

If you see fit to make a contribution to him please take this offering separate and apart and put it in a seperrate envelope and mark it for Brother Durb'n and deliver it to the clerk of the Association.

Let us insist that the delegates who attend the Association this year make it a point to be present, both days of the Association. Dr. Green will be with us on the second day and we are sure he will have a good message for us.

Trusting that your church may have a full representation both days of the Association, we are. Yours very Truly.—B. Lawrence, Moderator; W. J. Billingsley, Clerk.

REPORT OF UNITY CHILTON COUNTY S. S. CONVENTION

The annual meeting of the Unity Chilton County associational Sunday School convention was held with the Bethsalem Baptist Church, Sunday September 25.

The convention met at 10 o'clock and after devotional conducted by S. M. Yates, the program was taken up. The first speaker was Prof. A. E. Davis. He spoke on the subject "What can I do in the Sunday School?" Be there! Boost it! Study the lesson! Pray for it! These were some of the things mentioned by Prof. Davis which every individual might do in the Sunday School. "How our Sunday Schools can be made more interesting," was very ably discussed by C. E. Stapp. Among the many things brought out by Mr. Stapp which would make the Sunday School more interesting were: better organization, interesting worship period, officers meetings. Short talks which were very interesting and instructive were made on this subject by Rev. W. J. Riddick, Emmett Moore, A. E. Davis, D. S. Robinson and Mrs. W. J. Billingsley.

At the noon hour a very bountiful repass was served by the good ladies of the community. This was enjoyed by the large crowd present.

The afternoon devotional was conducted by Prof. J. L. Wilson.

Mr. McGuire, one of the State workers in explaining the Standard of Excellence, brought out many benefits to be derived from attaining the Standard of Excellence in our Sunday Schools.

The next subject, "What is the Sunday School worth to me as a pastor," was discussed by Rev. B. Lawrence. He emprasized very forcibly the assistance of the Sunday School to the pastor in his work.

H. A. Harris was re-elected as President, W. J. Billingsley was elected Vice-President and G. F. Harris Secretary.

The next annual meeting will be held with Pleasant Valley church.

We were very fortunate in having two of our State workers, Emmett Moore and Mr. McGuire to whom is due much credit for the success of the meeting.

We feel sure that it was a day well spent and that the information and inspiration received at this meeting will have an influence for larger and better Sunday Schools in the two associations, especially the Sunday Schools which were represented.—G. F. Harris, Secretary.

A Chicago chief says that Americans eat the most but subsit on coarse and vulgar food like ham, eggs, beefsteak and French fried potatoes. It is our guess however that there are certain sections of Europe where this diet would be cordially received in spite of its "vulgarity." The thing to do of course, is to adopt free trade standards so that our people can get better acquainted with the refining influence of soup.

The super-partiotism of the free trade internationalists is indicated by the glee which their newspapers are evidencing over the fact that France is giving Germany, her former enemy, preferential tariff rates over America, her former ally.

As France only takes one per cent of America's exports while the United States takes ten per cent of France's total exports it is easy to see which nation is to be hurt most by any serious misunderstanding over tariff treaties.

THE POLITICAL WEAKNESS OF THE SOUTH

"The Southern States can never hope for full consideration from either of the national parties so long as they permit their electoral votes to be cast in advance," said Henry W. Anderson, a Richmond, Va., lawyer, before the Institute of Public Affairs at the University of Virginia a few days ago. While Mr Anderson is a Republican, in this view he is one with many southern Democrats who are finally awakening to the fact that the south has made itself such a sure thing for the Dimocrats that neither party worries about it.

The Republicans do not waste time in a hopeless fight for what they cannot get and Democrats do not have to fight for what they have. Recently the Atlanta Constitution urged that the south should have its say in the election of a Democratic candidate for President, but it is far from easy to "sell" the idea when the choice of a standard-bearer does not mean one more or one less electoral vote from the solid south. When there are doubtful states in the south, then will they be regarded as worth catring to.

Those who have noticed the light votes cast in Southern states in comparison with those in the North will be interested in Mr. Anderson's statement that between 1895 and 1910 eight of the eleven Southern states adopted new constitutions, while in the others "stringent and discriminatory election laws" were passed. The avowed purpose, said Mr. Anderson, was to eliminate the negro vote without violating the Fifteenth Amendment, but actually the new laws were largely used to disqualify "a large proportion of the white population opposed to the dominant political organizations."

The result of these measures, Mr. Anderson declares, is that the presidential vote in the south declined from one in every seven of the population in 1888 to one in every fifteen in 1912. Comparing the eleven Southern states with the eleven of about equal population in the North, Mr. Anderson said that in 1920 the northern percentage of votes to people was thirty-three, while in the south the percentage was fifteen. "Thus" Mr. Anderson asserted, "the solid south is maintained, but at the price of politics freedom and popular government."

A glaring instance of the discrepancy mentioned is found by comparing the election returns of Connecticut with those of Georgia. By the census of 1920 Georgia was the twelfth state in the United States with a population of nearly 2,900,000 while Connecticut, twenty - ninth state, had less than 1,400,000. And yet, in the presidential election of 1924, little Connecticut, less than half as populous as Georgia, cast in excess of 400,000 votes, or more than double Georgia's 166,000.—Hartford Courant.

KNOCKING THE KNOCKERS

The free trade and internationalist press of the country is gloating over the action of the French government in suddenly hoisting tariffs on American goods from 100 to 500 per cent over the tariff rates charged upon German importations. We are told by these papers that this discriminatory action is justified by the policy of the American government in maintaining a "high protective tariff."

It might be assumed from the representations of the newspapers that the protective tariff idea is original with the United States, and that the system is an innovation in France. What is concealed from readers is that France already had in force a tariff averaging as high as that of the United States, without that justification upon which the American tariff is based, namely that production costs, chiefly labor costs, are higher abroad than at home. The French tariff is now tremendously increased not as against a country of lower production costs, as in the case of Germany, but as against a country already handicapped in foreign markets by the highest wage scale in the world.

Moreover, American trade is handicapped in France as French trade is not in the United States. Americans residents in France are specially taxed. State monopolies control certain staples. Extraordinary means are sometimes adopted to curtail the American trade. An American glass company shipped to France three years ago a large cargo of art glass of a new type. It was so cheap and attractive that it was heavily advertised by one Paris department store. In the crush of bargain buyers two or three people were hurt; whereupon the government of Paris issued an edict forbidding the further sale of this ware because of its tendency to create public disorder.

Loud clamor is raised by the American free trade press, in justifying the French discriminations, about the prohibitive character of our tariff. Importations from France are far larger both in volume and value under the existing tariff than under previous tariff. It is convenient to conceal this fact. Our foreign purchases under this tariff are more than twice as great as they were in any pre-war year, even under lower tariffs. Our European purchases were half again as great in 1926 as in pre-war years under the lower tariff rates.

In any conflict between American and foreign, especially European, economic interests, a powerful group of American newspapers and magazines may be depended upon to side against the United States. The influence here is not great, because the alien spirit of these publications is well understood at home. The unfortunate phase of this situation is that these expressions are printed abroad as justification for further enmity and discriminations against the United States.

The action of the French government is seeking to paralyze the trade of a former associate, following evidence of a determination to repudiate a debt settlement which charges France only with money loaned following the war for rehabilitation purposes, calls for firm action. The existing tariff law permits the President to increase tariff rates fifty per cent against any nation discriminating against American trade. It even authorizes the President to place a complete embrgo for importations against such a country. Unless drastic action is taken in this case, the French example may be imitated in other European countries. Since France takes from the United States but one per cent of our exports, and the United States buys ten per cent of the exports of rance, it iwtll be noted that in a game of this kind America holds the high cards. It is to be hoped that despite the encouragement of American outlanders, better judgment will prevail in France and the possibility of further ill feelings be avoided.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

A special dispatch from Jacksonville to the New York World, archenemy of the policy of protection, gives the startling information that "Democratic Flordia" is appealing to a Republican administration at Washington for a tariff to protect its citrus and vegetable idustry from a "ruinous foreign competition." Looking across the Mexican border down into Cuba, the dispatch continues, and viewing increased acreage given over to the exclusive production of vegetables and fruits on which Florida heretofore has held a monopoly, and growers throughout this state are alarmed.

The World dispatch continues with the information that petitions are being circulated to ask Congress for a special protective tariff, and that 500 growers in a recent meeting declared that unless they got this additional tariff they would be forced to quit tilling the soil and turn their ground into pasture for grazing cattle. The growers declared further that Florida is helpless against the competition of Mexico which has in recent years invaded markets east of the Mississippi. During this year it was said Mexico marketed more than 5,000 cars of Tomatoes in the United States and more than 1,000 cars of English peas. Back in 1922 the total shipments of vegetables to the states amounted only to 900 cars. On the other hand, 1922 the Florida tomato crop amounted tofourteen million dollars, while this year it totaled only three million dollars. The pineapple industry, it is said, has been ruined in Florida because of cheap European competition and Mexican onions are putting Florida onions out of business.

Evidently Florida is suffering from something in addition to a deflated winter resort boom. And incidentally it may be said that Florida is not the only state so inconvenienced. Texas and other southern states are feeling the weight of Cuban and Mexican competition and the political warriors in those sections of the country are beginning to stir restlessly in the free trade trenches.

Now the Florida and Texas growers are agriculturists and farmers just as are the sugar beet growers of Colorado and Utah. Closely akin to these in sympathy are the dairying industries of the Northwest and the sheep and cattle industries of the West. Altogether these form a pretty respectable group in our total farm industry, and they are directly as well as indirectly interested in the tariff. To say therefore that the farmers of the country are to be caught in the campaign next year by the old shop-worn cry of free trade is absurd. They will not be caught in the states in which the above named industries flourish and they will not be so caught in the grain growing states.

As a matter of fact the tariff is no longer a northern and eastern issue. The action of the Florida growers demonstrates this. Nowhere has protective tariff sentiment grown so rapidly during the past dozen years as in the South. And so, just as the tariff is becoming something more than a sectional issue it is getting to be something greater than a mere partisan issue. Tariff sentiment is growing in the South. If i: is losing anywhere it is in some of the financial centers of the country where certain interests are now more concerned in financing Europe than in promoting new industries in America. All of which shows that strange things still come to pass in this land of wonderful changes.

This is the period of year that tests the ability of the average man or woman to resist the temptation to substitute an auto-excursion for attendance on divine worship. Get the church-going habit.—Burlington Free Press.

County Farm Agent's Notes

Compiled By C. E. Stapp, County Farm Demonstration Agent for Chilton County.

WHAT ABOUT A FARMER'S EXCHANGE FOR CHILTON?

Do you want to make your County Agent's office a place of exchange between buyers and sellers? My experience is that there is some one who wants to buy everything you have to sell, provided what you have has quality. Of course my activities in marketing are limited but I hope we can organize a good strong County Farm Bureau at an early date and through that organization be able to handle all of the farmer's marketing problems.

The man who wants to buy what you have may be a local man or he may be a buyer in a distant market. As soon as the buyers in the distant markets finds that you have a Farm Bureau and a County Agent to manage it, your County Agent will begin receiving letters and telegrams relative to something you may have for sale, but unless your Agent knows what you have for sale he can not answer these inquiries intelligently and to the best advantage.

Your County Agent is already having inquiries for corn in the shuck for crushing for feed purposes also for new crop shelled corn for milling purposes. He was offered $26.50 a ton f.o.b. Birmingham for two car loads of old corn or thoroughly dry new corn this week. He was offered $1.10 per bushel f.o.b. Birmingham for shelled new corn, but your County Agent doesn't know who has corn for sale.

In making the above suggestion I do not mean to discourage advertising in your County papers, because I find that a few cents spent in advertising something we have for sale or for something we want to buy usually brings very satisfactory results; in fact I think that if farmers would advertise more there would be less waste and more income on the farm, but in connection with your advertising let your agent know your wants.

As a further example of the exchange idea, several days ago Supt. of Education, Mr. Lawrence came to my office and told me he wanted to buy a good cow. He told me the kind of cow he wanted. That same day Mr. Boockholdt came in and told me he had a good cow for sale. He gave a description of the cow and his selling price. I put Mr. Boockholdt in touch with Mr. Lawrence and Mr. Lawrence got the cow, what he wanted, and Mr. Boockholdt got the money, what he wanted.

Let your wants be known and your agent will do his best to serve you.—C. E. Stapp, County Agent.

ITALIAN RYE GRASS MAKES GREEN LAWNS

Auburn, Ala., Sept. 28.—During the winter, as well as summer, southern yards and lawns may be green, according to the College of Agriculture at Auburn. For making green lawns during the winter Italian rye grass should be used. It is easy to grow, it makes a quick growth, and it is resistant to southern winters.

The first half of October is named as the date for sowing seed of this grass. Late September is good. If planting is delayed until November there will be little green during the winter months.

Planting the seed is not difficult. If a sod already exists the seed may be sown on top of it. They will sift down to where there is sufficient moisture for germination. Raking before planting to loosen the soil may help. The seed should be covered on bare spots.

Where no sod exists the land should be plowed or spaded and then harrowed until it is smooth. It is then ready for the seed, which, in either case, should be sown in both directions in order to get a uniform stand.

The rate of seeding where there is no sod is 50 to 75 pounds per acre; where thede is a sod 100 pounds aer needed.

An application of 600 to 800 pounds of commercial fertilizer or a heavy application of manure will pay. This grass responds quickly to liberal fertilization.

Chickens and sparrows like the seed. If left unprotected many of them will be eaten.

Highway accidents during the last five years have resulted in 114,000 deaths and 3,500,000 injuries, according to the American Road Builders Association. Last ear 25,302 people were killed aand 759,060 were injured.

Under the direction of the International Iastitute of Agriculture at Rome a world agricultural census will be taken in 1930. L. M. Estabrook, former chairman of the United States Crop Reporting Board will direct the census.

A homemade quilt show is to be staged at Louisville, Ky., October 3, and handsome cash prizes will be awarded. Women in Tennessee, Kentucky and Indiana are allowed to compete.

CRYSTAL GAS KILLS PEACH TREE BORERS

Auburn, Ala., Sept. 28.—Peach tree borers which bore into the peach trees just above the ground—recognized by the wax secretion following their entrance—can be controlled. Their life cycle is such as to make it practical to get them with an insecticide each fall.

W. A. Ruffin, extension entomologist at Auburn, says that the right time to apply this poison in north Alabama is between October 1 and 15; in south Alabama from October 15 to 30. Paradichlorobenzene, which is also known as PDB, as paracide, and as crystal gas, is the insecticide used. County agents are informed as to where to get it.

Only trees of three years of age and older can be treated with this insecticide. Trees three to five years old require 1-2 to 3-4 ounce per tree. Trees five years old or older require 3-4 to one ounce per tree.

Remove grass, trash, and other rubbish from near trees. Do not dig into the soil. Leave it firm, level and free from trash or grass one foot from the tree. Then spread the PDB in a narrow circle around the tree. The circle should be about two inches from the trunk of the tree.

The next step is to build a mound of dirt four to six inches high around the tree. This dirt should be free from trash. Do not allow any of the insecticide to touch the tree.

Remove dirt in four to six weeks. This is important.

TIMELY FARM FACTS

When grazing is not available cut and feed greens to chickens.

Care in saving feed during the fall will make the supply last longer next spring.

Copper carbonate dust mixed with oats before planting at the rate of two or three ounces per bushel of oats is o good method for preventing smut.

In 1926 the hens inthe commercial unit of the poultry plant at Auburn averaged 196 eggs per hen. The income per hen above feed cost was $3.50.

Five sub-stations on as many of the principal soil divisions of Alabama will be established during the next two years to study agricultural subjects.

State Superintendent on School Curriculum

TO ALL SCHOOL AUTHORITIES:

September 9, 1927.

Under the direction and authority of the State Board of Education, and in accordance with the provision of the new law recently enacted by the Legislature the Committee on Courses of Study was appointed and called into conference which resulted in the following recommendations which I am placing in your hands in order that they may be made effective at once.

1. That experience based on several years observation justifies a rather sweeping investigation and study of the present curriculum offerings in the several grades of the elementary, junior and senior high schools of the State.

2. That in order to make such an investigation it will be necessary for the Committee to spend considerable time in becoming familiar with the various school units of the State and to digest as fully as possible the many splendid studies in the field of curriculum revision which are available for guidance of the Committee in arriving at a program for schools in Alabama.

3. That pending a full report, the Committee feels justified in recommending transfer from the required or prescribed list to the optional list, the following textbooks adopted for use in the State:

First Grade—The Silent Reader, A First Reader (Wheeler)

Second Grade—Songs of Childhood (Ginn) The Silent Reading, A Second Reader (Wheeler).

Third Grade—Co-Basal, Industrial and Applied Art, Book III (Mentzer) Co-Basal, Practical Drawing, Modern Arts Course, Revised Book III (Practical); Introductory Music (Ginn); The Silent Reading Hour, Third Reader (Wheeler).

Fourth Grade—Co-Basal, Industrial and Applied Art, Book IV (Mentzer) Co-Basal, Practical Drawing, Modern Arts Course, Book IV (Practical); Introductory Music, Continued, Page 72 to end (Ginn.)

Lewis and Rowland, Silent Fourth Reader (Winston).

Fifth Grade—Co-Basal, Industrial & Applied Art, Book V (Mentzer; Co-Basal, Practical Drawing, Modern Arts Course, Book V (Practical); Elementary Music, Part 1 (Ginn); Lewis and Rowland, Silent Fifth Reader (Winston).

Sixth Grade—Duggar, Agriculture for Southern Schools, Revised (Macmillan).; Co-Basal, Industrial and Applied Art, Book IV (Mentzer); Co-Basal, Practical Drawing, Modern Arts Course, Book VI (Practical).; Houghton, Preparing for the World'e Work, (Scribners); Harris, Elements of Conversation (Johnson); Carpenter, New Europe (American); Elementary Music, Continued Pat II (Ginn); Lewis & Rowland, Silent Sixth Reader (Winston)

First Year—Haviland, Modern Physiology, Health and Hygiene, Good Neighbors with supplement and directions, (Lippincott.)

Third Year, Junior High—Haviland Modern Physiology, Health and Hygiene, Good Neighbors with supplement and directions (Lippincott).

4. That these books may be continued, however, and where local authorities desire to do so it will undoubtedly be best to make no adjustments. It is thought best, nevertheless, to place these books on the supplier of textbooks required to be purchasmentary list and thus lower the numbed by the patrons of the public schools.

5. The Committee feels that in the matter of reading it is highly desirable that sets of five to twenty of the same reading books in the several grades of the elementary schools be purchased and placed in the school library. This will do more good to reduce the burden of textbooks to be purchased by the children than any other like expenditure of money. The new funds provided for rural libraries should be utilized in every school in which they can be legally used.

6. School authorities are urged to ask that the pupils refrain from purchasing textbooks to be used exclusively in the second semester at the present time in view of the fact that action may be taken by the Committee on Courses of Study which would materially change the requirements.

Please give the information contained in this communication to all teachers and school authorities under your general supervision in order that their work for the coming year may be organized in harmony with the recommendations herewith submitted to you for your guidance.

With all good wishes, I am,

Sincerely yours,

R. E. Tidwell.

The above is a letter received from the State Superintendeent, Dr. R. E. Tidwell.. B. Lawrence.

RHEUMATISM

May be relieved by rational treatment—it can not be rubbed away.

Are you one of those unfortunates who suffer with pains in your muscles and joints, commonly called rheumatism, making you miserable, less efficient, interfering with your working hours, ruining your sleep?

You may have tried many things without relief. Why not try S.S.S.? For more than 100 years it has been giving relief in thousands of cases, as testified to in unsolicited letters of gratitude.

"I suffered from rheumatism for a good many years. At times my joints would swell so, I couldn't walk. I tried almost everything. Went to Hot Springs . . . . then finally decided to try S.S.S. I took a course. In a short time the rheumatic pains entirely left me. I am now in perfect health, and want to add that I have tried all kinds of medicines but I think S.S.S. is the best." Earl C. Campbell, 115 West Main Street, Johnson City, Tenn.

S.S.S. is purely vegetable. It is extracted from the fresh roots of medicinal plants and herbs and gives to Nature what she needs in building you up so that your system throws off the cause.

S.S.S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.

THREE MILLION MILES OF HARD TESTING

In that sensational record lies a new explanation for the phenomenal success of the Chevrolet Motor Company, which has consistently shattered all pervious high marks for the manufacture and sale of gear shift cars every month so far this year.

Three years ago this month Chevrolet first began using the facilities of the great General Motors Proving Grounds at Milford, Michigan, to develop and perfect its product, and in that time three million miles have been piled up by Chevrolet test cars, it was announced today by O. E. Hunt, chief engineer of the Chevrolet Motor Company

"An average of twelve Chevrolet test cars are constantly on view at the proving grounds, purring up the steep inclines, ploughing through the deep sand or mud roads, testing the speed and endurance on the track, or undergoing one of many severe trials that a car is put through at this veritable 'sweat shop' for automobiles." explained Mr. Hunt

"Each test car is driven about three months and in that time totals from 30,000 to 50,000 miles. While many cars are driven farther, the average is probably not higher because that distance is sufficient to prove any new mechanical feature we may have under observation, or to reveal any fault that may require correction.

"After a car attains this mileage it is taken to our Experimental Laboratory and there dismantled under the supervision of skilled engineers. Every part is tested and inspected. all evidences of wear are noted, and if any detail is not as it should be, we get to work immediately developing a new part or process to replace the old. The new feature is then built into an entirely new car, or 3 new cars if the operation is vital, and this car in turn goes through the rigid rites of the proving grounds and then to the laboratory. The cycle continues until we have arrived at the proper solution of every problem.

As We Grow Older

Proper Kidney Action Is More Than Ever Important.

As we grow older, there is apt to be a gradual slowing up of bodily functions. The kidneys are the blood filters. If their action becomes sluggish they do not thoroughly cleanse the blood of poisonous wastes. This tends to make one tired and achy, with often nagging backache, drowsy headaches and dizziness. A common symptom of imperfect kidney action is scanty or burning excretions. Elderly people recommend Doan's Pills. This tested diuretic is endorsed the country over. Ask your neighbor!

With the Vocational Teachers

DEPARTMENT, VOCATIONAL AGRICULTURE OF JEMISON H. S.

It is encouraging to read an article like the one that appeared in last Sunday's edition of the Birmingham News. There a noted scientist says in part that the farmer of today knows more about his profession than the scientist of 50 years ago knew. He knows more about soils, insects, plant and animal life and more about his occupation in general than the scientist of 50 years ago.

Do you suppose that this country will ever become like Denmark, where every farm boy scrambles to get hold of a farm. Where farming is the most prized and envied of all the lines of business.

What about the farmers of Chilton county? Are they going forward? Are they students as well as workers of agriculture? Are they close observers? Do they realize that they are in a line of business that demands a large amount of research work, requires experimental data continually so as to develop with the growing demands of the farmer. Many things that his grandfather did years ago are still good. Yet does he realize that many of the best practices of even ten years ago are now poor practices? The farmer like the man who is manufacturing automobiles is in a competitive business. He is competing with farmers in other states. If he sleeps while other men improve their soils he will find them forging ahead and he dropping gackward. Then too we all know that with prosperous agriculture we have a prosperous country.

Chilton County has a number of farmers who are giving their very best efforts to the occupation of farming. When they plant tomatoes they plant a wilt resistant variety. When they use a new fertilizer they check on it to see the results. They have developed active minds and are men of good judgment. How would such a man enjoy working in one of Henry Ford's factories where he would work eight hours a day, push one little lever. It would bore him. it would hold back the initiative that he has developed in handling his farm. It would not give him the thought that farming gives him. On the farm he is anxious to learn and there he finds a life-long study that will never be finished. There he finds variety of effort in the different tasks and decisions and thus an opportunity to develop into a man rather than a machine.

In every community in Chilton county you will find some men like this. He may tell you first that he is not educated but he is thinking of a different kind of education. You will find him interesting like most men are interesting who are doing their very best in life. Such men generally have the high ideals that make for good citizenship and are a source of inspiration to the man who knows him well. They are the unconscious leaders of the county. They form the basis of our agricultural prosperity and thus of our county's prosperity.

EVENING SCHOOL AT FAIR VIEW ON SOIL BUILDING

Prof. Earle Thomas of Isabella High School is conducting an evening school at Fair View schoolhouse. There he meets with the farmers to work with them on their soil building problems. There they discuss the results of their last years practices and lay plans for their future farm practices. The work is at times thrown open for free discussion and there they learn from one another. Every man is a teacher if he would but give out to others the best that he has. Mr. Thomas gives a regular lesson each evening. Among them are the proven methods that he has found practical with his students at Isabella and the experimental data as given out by the different experiment stations of the country.

Among the subjects that have been discussed or will be discussed before the classes are over are, the planting of winter cover crops, with special emphasis on vetch; the fertilization of corn, cotton, legumes and truck crops; the value of barnyard manure and methods for caring for same; the value of lime and a detailed study of commercial fertilizer analysis.

The school is progressing unusually well. Especially when you consider that it is in progress during the season when the farmers are picking cotton all day long. With such interest as is being shown it is sure to bring the best of results.

Each farmer will carry a project on his farm. There the teacher will visit him and do all that he can to assist him in every way. An evening school is never what you call finished until after the project records are turned in and then analyzed.

In observing Alabama cotton fields this fall it is very noticeable that large applications of fertilizer produced the largest yields and the largest profits.

An Open Letter to the Editor

From the President of General Motors

LAST SPRING I wrote you that my belief in the country newspaper had led us in General Motors to decide to advertise our products together in the small-city press of the country.

The returns from the series of the messages recently published have justified that faith; and we shall continue to advertise in your community through your newspaper this fall.

It occurs to me, however, that some of your readers may be asking: "What is General Motors?" and "Why is General Motors?" These are fair questions and I should like to answer them as frankly as I can.

General Motors was organized some years ago on the theory that a group of large companies, working together, could render a better service than they could separately. In this we simply applied to industry a principle that is as old as civilization as regards the human family and human progress.

Original members of the General Motors family were Buick, Cadillac, Chevrolet, Oakland and Oldsmobile, together with the Delco-Light Company and other well-known companies manufacturing automotive equipment. By joining together their resources, we were able to establish great Research Laboratories, a 1245-acre Proving Ground and the GMAC Plan of credit purchase; to effect vast economies in purchase and manufacture and distribution; to assure and maintain the quality of every product in the General Motors family.

Has the General Motors family principle proved itself in practice?

The best answer, I think, is to compare the Chevrolet, Buick, Cadillac, Oldsmobile and Oakland of today with the models of five or ten years ago.

Then add Pontiac, a General Motors creation. Add LaSalle, another General Motors creation. And then consider how General Motors has developed these cars into a complete line, within which any family may find a suitable quality car at the price it plans to pay: "A Car for Every Purse and Purpose."

Another example is Frigidaire, the electric refrigerator. General Motors had the resources to spend millions to develop a satisfactory refrigerator, and then to apply to its manufacture the same processes which have increased the utility and lowered the cost of the automobile.

We believe that this record justifies General Motors as an economic institution. Its products are quality products, first of all. Their prices represent the economies of united effort passed on to the purchaser. In the last year one in each three automobiles chosen by the public has been a General Motors car. The service of Delco-Light electric plants has extended to more than a quarter million homes, while Frigidaire has become the world's largest selling convenience of its kind.

We believe also that the values now offered in the current General Motors products (which are listed below) prove anew that "many minds are better than one" and that a family of companies, working together, can produce results which are decidedly in the public interest and of increasing benefit to the individual family.

Very truly yours,
Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., President

Mrs. J. C. Jones Hostess.—

One of the most delightful social affairs of the week was the luncheon given by Mrs. J. C. Jones, Thursday, to the members of the Thursday Sewing club. Masses of garden flowers attractively arranged in baskets and bowls formed the decoation in the living and music rooms. In the dining room the luncheon table was centered with an old fashioned bouquet in a silver basket. The place cards with bright daises marked the guests places. At the noon hour Mrs. Jones assisted by Mrs. Claud Jones and Mrs. Irene Rasberry served a delicious 3 course luncheon. Included in this enjoyable affair were Mesdames J. P. Hayes, J. Lee Smith, C. Fenn Jones, T. C. McSwain, Mallie White, E. E. Upchurch, Hugh Simpson, J. Watts Moore, John VanDerveer, Hugh Jones, P. T. Hinkle, Tom Jones of Montgomery, Alex Richards of Shreveport, La., and Miss Elsa Blitt of St. Louis.

May We Present.—

We have the pleasure this week of presenting to you two other teachers whom you have every right to be proud. Misses Lucile Sherwood and Alice Grantham, who are the second grade teachers at the Grammar school.

Miss Sherwood's home is in Brundige, Ala., an interesting town, sixty-five miles south of Montgomery. In May Miss Sherwood graduated from Troy Normal School where she did practice teaching in the three primary grades and double practice teaching in the second grade. Miss Sherwood a pretty young lady of semi-blond type, is very conscientious and capable and is intensely interested in her work. Her pupils are exceedingly fortunate in having such a splendid teacher.

Miss Grantham is a native of the very progressive city of Troy, where she also attended Troy Normal, which means that she is a well trained teacher. Last year she had a very successful year as primary teacher in a consolidated school at New Hope, in Coffee County. Miss Grantham is an attractive titian haired young lady whose splendid personality has made a host of friends in her new home. She is one of the few people who has found her talent and developed it to its fullest capacity and needless to say that talent is primary work.

Both Miss Sherwood and Miss Grantham are making their home with Mrs. Joe Hester.

Famous Song Writer Killed in Car Mishap

T. B. Mosley Meets Death When His Automobile Accidentally Runs Amuck

Hurrying toward Birmingham to attend religious services, T. B. Mosley, 43, sacred song writer, of Albertville, Ala., was killed at 10:45 a.m. Sunday when thrown from an automobile that overturned at Center Point Road and Gadsden Highway, a mile beyond Huffman, Alabama.

Two other persons, a mother and her daughter, are at Woodlawn Infirmary with injuries from which they will recover. Both were thrown from the car.

They are: Mrs. J. W. Davis, Albertville, who has slight body bruises, and Miss Maynor Davis, 16, Albertville, broken collar bone and possible fracture of the skull.

Mosley suffered a compound fracture of the skull from which he died instantly.

Persons who were nearby and who witnessed the accident told Coroner J. D. Russum, who investigated, that the automobile, a light coupe, was being driven by Mosley at a moderate rate of speed, but when it reached the junction in the road it jerked suddenly and turned turtle, falling on its radiator.

A light traveling bag recovered from the car, contained personal belongings of Mosley and a song book, entitled "Ideal Songs," which included a number of hymns which he had written.

A verse of one of these "One by One Death Calls," seemed to foretell Mosley's fate, with these words:

"One by one death calls our loved ones,
From their sorrow, toil and care;
They have gone to be with Jesus
In that home beyond compare.
Now they walk the streets of glory
On that happy, golden shore.
Death is swallowed up in victory;
They are safe forevermore."

Johns, whose ambulance answered the emergency call, and removed the mother and daughter to Woodlawn Infirmary, is holding Mosley's body pending funeral arrangements.

Mosley is the fourth Albertville person to die in automobile accidents in the last two weeks.

NEW BABY AT HOME OF REV. LOCKHART

Rev. Malcolm Lockhart of Refuge was in town last Friday. There was an unusual briskness in his step and a smile on his face that wouldn't come off. His friends all noticed the difference. When pressed for an explanation he blushingly imparted the news that a new baby girl had arrived at his home during the past week.

The Methodist Sunday School will hold a Rally Day Service Sunday morning, October sixteenth, at the regular Sunday School hour. They hope to have every member present, and are cordially inviting very Methodist in the city to come and worship with them, both on that Sunday and throughout the winter.

Bates Motor Co. Moves To The Old Ford Place

Larger Quarters will Enable Bates To Display Hudsons and Essexes In More Attractive Manner.

The Bates Motor Company, local dealers in Hudson-Essex cars, are moving this week to the Hayes Building which has just been vacated by the Clanton Motor Car Company. The building is being completely renovated and rearranged to accomodate the needs of the new occupants.

There will be a department devoted to the display of new Hudson and Essex cars, another for used cars, a stock and parts department, and a large repair shop fully equipped for handling repair work on all kinds of automobiles.

Mr. H. M. Bates, owner of the Bates Motor Company, stated this week that he would have a much nicer place than heretofore, and will be in position to push the sale of Hudson-Essex to the limit in this territory. He is building up a strong selling organization for handling both new and used cars.

The public is cordially invited to call on the Bates Motor Co., in their new location. The motorist will here find anything he may be looking for in the way of automobile service and assistance.

CHILTON HIGH SWAMPS VERBENA HIGH 50 TO 0

Chilton County High's footballers continued their winning stride here last Friday afternoon, trampling the team from Verbena High 50 to 0.

Honors were pretty evenly divided O. "Pete" Sanford getting three tauchdowns, L. "Re-Pete" Sanford and Bruner two each and Nelson one. Chilton's line was a stone wall to Verbena's backs, including the invincible Lett, the husky Verbena fullback, who was touted to "give 'em fits."

The outcome was apparent from the first, as Verbena fumbled on the second play, H. Martin recovered for Chilton, and Nelson drove over the Verbena goal line for the first counter just two minutes after the starting whistle. Touchdowns came thick and fast, and the count stood 20 to 0 at the end of the first quarter. Another was added in the second quarter, three in the third, and L. Sanford complied with the fans request to make it 50 to 0, by intercepting a Verbena pass and dashing 30 yards for the last touchdown during the last two minutes of play.

Chilton showed much improvement in their work, especially the backfield, while the line showed that the game with Marbury and the practice folowing had done them much good, as several of Chilton's forwards got their "baptism of fire" in the Marbury game.

Marbury was hopelessly outclassed and outplayed, but not outfought, making the best of the little end of a cat-and-mouse affair.

All in all, Chilton has a good team —a well-coached team— and above all, a bunch of fighters worthy of the name—"Tigers."

The "Tigers" take on Coosa High next Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Be there! High School ball park at 3:30 p. m., Friday afternoon. October 7. Watch 'em strut! Just two bits! The season record—

Chilton—37 ..... Marbury—0
Chilton—50 ..... Verbena—0

Chilton—87 ..... Opponents—0

When they sought to take charge of John and his jar, business kindly picked up a little bit, but the excitement was soon over and John was under bond for violating the prohibition law.

State Examiners Make Report On Chilton County School Business

Supt. Lawrence and Treasurer J. C. Page Accorded Words of Praise for Efficient Handling of School Affairs

A recent report made by state examiners upon the management of the school business of Chilton County speaks in very complimentary terms for those who have charge of the finances of the schools of Chilton County, Mr. Buford Lawrence, superintendent of education, and Mr. John C. Page, treasurer of the Chilton County School Funds.

Believing that this report made to Governor Graves would be interesting reading for the people of Chilton County who are very much concerned about the management of our schools, The Union-Banner has secured a copy of the report, which we publish herewith:

Hon. Bibb Graves,
Governor of Alabama.

In accordance with instructions received from the Executive Departent thru Hon. Chas. C. McCall, Chief Examiner of Public Accounts, we have checked and examined the books and records of the following officials of Chilton County for period herein given, and submit the attached as our report: B. Lawrence, superintendent of education, and J. C. Page, treasurer of school funds, from October 1st, 1924 thru April 30th, 1927.

The superintendent's records and books were neatly and properly kept, thus aiding us in the examination, and demonstrating efficiency as an officer. All contracts and payrolls were passed on by the county board of education and recorded in the minutes. The superintendent has been very cautious to execute contracts and payrolls in strict compliance with the law, which is commendable.

The treasurer's books were well posted and each account was treated on the bank books as the code provides. The treasurer's books showed care and efficiency, thus proving to give personal attention in serving the county board for which we are sure the board and superintendent are very grateful.

Much progress is being made in the educational work of Chilton County. From our insight of the outline and program which the board and superintendent is putting on and anticipate to put into operaton, we feel sure that the county will set a pace in educational advancement.

We gratefully acknowledge the courtesies and assistance rendered us by Supt. Lawrence and Treasurer Page.

The report was signed and submitted to Governor Graves by W. B. Sasser and E. O. Creel, assistant examiners of public accounts of the State of Alabama.

BUFORD LAWRENCE

Mr. Lawrence is County Superintendent of Education of Chilton County, and as such is the main cog in the operation of the school system of the county. How he is and has been discharging the duties of his office may be seen from the report of the state examiners printed on this page.

In view of the expressions contained in this report, coming from the source of our state examiners, The Union-Banner feels that it is proper and in order to congratulate the school system of the county upon such service as has been rendered by Superintendent Lawrence and Treasurer Page. It should be borne in mind that this report covers every detail of the financial operations of the schools of the county over the period named, which involved the handling of thousands of dollars of the peoples' tax money. We consider it an honor for these officals to have the stamp of approval of the State of Alabama placed upon their official actions in such excellent terms as stated in this report. And we doubt not that the people of Chilton County will hold them in high esteem for the faithful and efficent manner in which they have discharged their duties toward our public schools.

County Agent Stapp met with the farmers of Pilgrim's Rest school near Pletcher Tuesday night of this week and discussed soil building and fertilizers.

Wednesday morning he held a poultry culling demonstration at the home of Dr. Strock at Verbena.

Mae Beverly Hester of New York

We often read in the leading magazines of the day histories of people who have set a goal and worked unceasingly to attain their ambitions, and we find these articles interesting and inspiring, but it is much more interesting to know that we have a true example of this in our own little city. Miss Beverly Hester has aimed at a star and is beginning to realize her life ambition. But before we tell you these facts it will be interesting to know something of her history.

Miss Beverly Hester, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Hester, was born in Verbena, Alabama. Her parents moved to Clanton when she was four years old and here she spent her busy and happy childhood days. Her musical career started when she was eight years old, her first teacher being Mrs. B. J. Matthews. Miss Hester made such phenomenal progress at the very beginning that she was cited as a promising musician when she was still a tot. At thirteen years of age she studied piano with Mrs. Rivers, a splendid teacher in Birmingham. She continued to show such talent and ability that she was interviewed by Dorothy Dalrymple who gave her a wonderful write-up in the Birmingham News. When asked what she thought of rag time music she replied, "Rags are all right in their place, but Chopin fascinates me." The love for better music together with untiring effort has been the key note to her success.

At the age of sixteen she graduated at the Chilton County High School. The following years she attended Judson College from which she graduated in 1918. So thorough was she not only in technique and theoretical knowledge but also in interpretation that she was able to graduate from the Cincinnatti Conservatory in one year. There she was also recognized as an unusual talented musician. There she was accorded an honor never before bestowed upon a student in the history of the Conservatory, she was allowed to give a concert in which she demonstrated her ability, both in voice and piano.

Two years ago she taught piano in Biringham and was organist at the Independent Presbyterian Church.

Now Miss Hester is in New York, the mecca of all American musicians. She has continued her musical studies under Richard Hagerman and other noted musicians. Among the famous singers she has accompanied are Oscar Sanger and others. She has played in a number of New York's leading theatres.

Needless to say Clanton as well as Alabama is very proud of the achievements of this brilliant young musician. We are sure that she will be numbered among the stars in the musical world in a short time.

ASA PAYTON ARRESTED LAST SATURDAY ON LIQUOR CHARGE

Asa Payton, who lives on the Lige Bates farm near Providence in Beat 16, was arrested in Clanton last Saturday morning and placed in jail on a charge of violating the prohibition law.

The arrest was made after officers Collins, Murrah, Culp, and Easterling had returned from Payton's home where a search had uncovered a small quantity of whiskey. A neat little trap door built in the wall of the house beside the fireplace was discovered by Sheriff Collins, and after he succeeded in working out the combination, the little door was opened and a pint of liquor was found carefully concealed. While the house was being searched deputy Lewis Easterling went out to the smoke house to look around, where he found a gallon jug that contained about a pint or quart of wet goods.

Further search of the place revealed a nice round hole about 16 inches in diameter dug in the bottom of a stable and covered with boards. There was nothing in the hole, but the officers state that it looked mighty suspicious that something had been hidden there. "It was such a nice place for about a five-gallon jug," said one of the officers.

THREE ARRESTED FOR GAMBLING LAST SUNDAY

A delegation of officers went into the swamp north of Lomax last Sunday to take a look for gambling parties and they found five men engaged in their favorite Sunday pastime. Three of them were captured, being by name Robert Jones, Bob Coody, and Dewey Price. Monday morning they answered the call in Justice Wilson's court and planked down $17.50 each to pay off the damages.

CHILTON COUNTY TRAINING SCHOOL OPENED MONDAY

The Chilton County Training School for colored boys and girls opened Monday, October 3 for its fourth year's work. The principal, Lawrence C. Johnson, who carried the scrool through a most successful session last year, is again at the helm, assisted by a faculty of specially trained teachers as follows: M. P. Coprich, Gussie L. Hardy, Leona Brown, Ida Free, Eliza Charles, Cornelia Banks.

The opening of the school saw an enrollment of 161 students. A large number of parents and friends were present to witness the opening exercises. It was stated that it was the most impressive opening the school has ever had, which seems to coincide with other manifest indications that the work of this session throughout will be the greatest in the history of the institution.

The colored people of this county are to be commended for the spirit which they have put forth and the labors that have borne fruit in this wonderful school for their boys and girls. It is a school training plant fully equipped to do all grades of school wark up to preparation for college entrance. It seems only a brief yesterday that such a thing for colored boys and girls was considered a vague impossibility.

The Chilton County Training school is making better citizens out of the colored people of this county, and we hope its effectiveness in this respect may increase many fold as the years go by.

Mr. and Mrs. Jackson will make their future home in Birmingham. Their many friends wish them much happiness and prosperity.

WHEN MR. COOLIDGE COMES: A HEARTY WELCOME AWAITS HIM

This intelligence that Mr. Coolidge while on his way to Cuba may visit Birmingham deservedly awakens lively interest in Alabama. Though reserving its political support for a party not his own, this state cherishes for the president not only profound respect but warm personal regard as well. Alabama's people realize with Jefferson that we are all Democrats, we are all Republicans in that we are all Americans. They recognize also that every difference in opinion is hardly a difference in principle.

The country's present chief magistrate succeeded to the nation's headship at a crucial moment in its history. Conditions affecting the moral fiber of the government were then not reassuring. To Mr. Coolidge it was given to handle this perilous situation so that the honor of the nation that was then distinctly sunk might be promptly heightened, and to do so without impairing the sound foundation upon which the nation's prosperity then rested.

To this difficult task Mr. Coolidge brought staunch courage, freedom from theatrical posturing, intelligent grasp and more than ordinary penetrating discernment. He has kept in the middle of the road on more questions than one. To alter the figure of speech, he has refrained from rocking the boat, and induced others to desist from attempting to rock it. The good ship of state that was undeniably riding a stormy sea when he was called to the helm seems now to be anchored in quiet waters.

The president deserves this trip to Cuba. May it not be added that the lower South deserves this expected visit from him? Alabama would give the president a welcome here in Birmingham that would remind this town's older residents of the stirring reception with which President Roosevelt was greeted here in 1905. Now, as then, this town's head would be expected to make a speech of welcome. Now, as then, it is hoped, the town's present head Mr. Jones, would have the sense to make a speech like George B. Ward's 22 years ago.

"I had a fine speech corked up in my chest to spring on you, Mr. President," said Mayor Ward, "gut I'm so glad to see you I've clean forgot every word of it." "That's the best speech I've heard since I left Washington," said Col. Roosevelt, heartily.

If the president will come to this town, The Birmingham News will promise that Jimmie Jones, the City Commission's president, will make an even better speech than George Ward made 22 years ago.—Birmingham News.

KNOCKING THE KNOCKERS

A protective tariff is assailed as "special privelege" by foes of what Henry Clay well named "the American policy" of protection.

We are told that the right to buy where one can buy the cheapest is a natural right, and that the denial of that right is class legislation.

But does the American producer have this privelege to buy labor where he can buy it cheapest?

By our laws we prohibit child labor, we restrict the hours of labor for both men and women, we forbid the free immigration of foreign labor, we forbid the importation of labor under contract.

We would not tolerate the importation by an American manufacturer of coolie, peasant and peon laborers to work here for such a wage as they receive at home, which is from one-tenth to one-half the American wage.

Why then should the American people, who for good reasons have enacted such protective legislation, demand the right for themselves to buy abroad the product of the coolie labor, peasant labor, child labor, unregulated female labor, on the mere ground that it is cheaper?

Is "special privilege" involved in extending to the American producing employer the same protection from the destructive effects of cheap labor competition, that we demand and enforce in behalf of all other elements of our citizenship?

Every American industry and its employes are subjected to heavy local, state and federal taxation. Is it "special privilege" when foreign industry, free from this burden, is asked to pay something toward the upkeep of our government at the custom house?

Of course there won't be any tariff war between the United States and Europe because this would be one war in which Uncle Sam would have the most weapons.

Yes, it is true that men do have the advantage of the women in summer. They can take something off if they feel too warm.—Sacramento Union.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

The tariff troubles between the United States and France have again served to emphasize the different principles on which national and international policies are based in the United States and Europe. In our own country tariffs are assessed against all nations alike. They are assessed on the theory that in order to assure the American wage scale and the American standard of living goods coming from Europe must be taxed to a point which will equal the difference between the cost of production at home and abroad, which is after all the difference in the wage scale and the standards of living.

But in Europe the tariff question is approached differently as the recent action of France shows. There tariffs are made not on a broad general basis but for bargaining purposes in an effort to get certain commercial or political advantages from this or that nation. Hence one nation may be discriminated against and the other favored in the matter of tariffs. All nations are not treated alike. It is the old European scheme of bargaining and intriguing for national advantage, playing one nation against another.

The free trade internationalists in our own country therefore, who gleefully declare that France in discriminating against America in favor of Germany, is giving us a dose of our own medicine, show by their statements that they do not understand the different tariff principles of the two nations. As Mr. McKelway in the Washington Star well put it recently: "The principle of high or low tariff is not concerned in the present situation. American exporters would have no basis for complaint if France fixed a high rate of tariff applying to everybody. Trade can adjust itself to a high duty, but not to unfair competition. A nation is at liberty to fix as high a duty as she pleases on imports and America would be the last nation in the world to complain against a high tariff. The complaint in this case is that America has been discriminated against and virtually shut out of a market which is at the same time left open to competitor nations. France has fixed rates on the same commodities, four times higher for American made products than for those made in Germany, England and other countries of a favored status. The right of a nation to fix a high rate of duty is not questioned. America has preached and practiced that doctrine. But the right of a nation deliberately to discriminate against a friendly power by agreeing to cease the discrimination under the conditions, while it may not be a subject for debate is at least conducive of strong protest from the nation which is a victim of the discrimination."

Here is the meat of the cocoanut. But there is more to be said. While our tariff laws do not permit us to discriminate against any other nation, they do give the President the right to retaliate and defend the country when we have been discriminated against. There is not apt to be any tariff war because the French realize the potence of this weapon as well as we do. In any tariff war Uncle Sam would have all the better of it. What France sends us is much more important to her in a business way than what we send France is to us. Moreover the things we import from France are mostly luxuries which we can well do without. But the things we send to France are in the main necessities which the French can not so well afford to do without. These are good reasons why the tariff misunderstanding will be settled in a way satisfactory to America.

Many complaints have been made to the New York police lately that gangs of young men are lurking in the subways and snatching hats off the heads of passengers through car windows. Maybe these young fellows are just training themselves for jobs as hat checkers in the up-town hotels and restaurants.

Klan Revival Drawing Large Crowds

SPECIAL MEETING FOR MEN ONLY ON FRIDAY NIGHT

Klansmen Dressed In Robes Act As Ushers At Services

The Ku Klux Klan revival has been in progress in Clanton for the past week, and is drawing capacity crowds. Practically every service has been attended by more people than could get seats under the big tent. The place of meeting is on the Ellis lot near the Hillcrest Filling Station.

Ira W. Stout is in charge of the meeting. His addresses have proven to be of much interest. With the announced purpose of correctly informing the public at large as to the Klan program, its ideas and operations, Mr. Stout has been ploughing into his task with vigor and enthusiasm. Mr. Stout is a lecturer who is well-informed upon Bible and historical subjects, and he displays a peculiar ability to portray the relation of those subjects to what he terms the great plans and purposes of the Klan.

His special address of Tuesday night on the seven things wrong with Clanton drew an extra large audience, and his remarks were of much interest.

Friday night of this week, Mr. Stout announces that his special meeting for men will be held, at which time he promises to uncork a few extra special things. He also states that the meeting Friday night will be an invitation meeting at which all who desire may make application for membership in the Klan. He says he expects not less than a hundred men to sign up on that night.

Klansmen in robes are acting as ushers at the services. On Friday night it is planned that twenty-five men in robes will be on hand to take care of the record crowd of men who are expected.

It is said that Democrats and Republicans in Congress will disagree on the kind of tax reduction law which will be passed. It is our opinion that the only popular tax law will be the one which wipes 'em out entirely.

MULBERRY—ISABELLA

Last Friday afternoon the Isabella football team played Marbury team at Marbury. It was Isabella's first game. The score was 12 to 0 in favor of Marbury.

A box supper was given Saturday night for the purpose of getting up money for the expenses of the football team. We had Mr. Stapp, our County Agent to sell the boxes and if any other community wants a man to auction the boxes off when they have a box supper they ought to get Mr. Stapp for he surely makes a good one.

Messrs. George Wright and Jimmie Ward from Birmingham were visiting in our county Sunday.

LECROY-BELL

CHEVROLETS CARRY CIRCUS

When the circus comes to town—if it happens to be Downie Brothers Wild Animal Circus—it comes by Chevrolets. Seventy five of them—sturdy one ton trucks make up the train that transports this entire show, wild animals and all, from the time in early spring it leaves its winter quarters at Harve de Grace, Maryland, until it returns there late in Autumn.

Andrew Downie, head of the show, fixed on Chevrolets after trying other methods of transportation during his 42 years in the show business. He experimented with horses and wagons, canal barges, steam tractors hitched to trailers, motor trucks and railway circus trains.

Now the 75 Chevrolets carry the entire show, consisting of 200 clowns musicians, tight rope walkers and other employes, as well as lions, tigers, the "big top," side shows and complete equipment everywhere on the circuit from inaccessible mountain hamlets to seaside towns. One truck used by General Manager Harron as a summer home provides him with a residence en route. Another carries a complete electric lighting plant.

Last year the circus caravan traveled 7,000 miles over roads of every sort, up mountain trails and dragging in and out of muddy circus lots.

Not one spring was broken and no trouble was experienced with rear ends, or gears or clutches, according to statement by the chief mechanic, despite the grueling test that each truck underwent and despite the fact that each truck carried an average load of more than 4,000 pounds.

Dependability, Mr. Downie explained, was the big thing that decided him in favor of Chevrolets. His advance guard draws up a traveling schedule which he must adhere rigidly to. His trucks may not break down en route lest he disappoint the youngsters in the next town keyed up for the big parade. Another factor favoring Chevrolets, he says, is the ease and convenience with which new parts or service may be obtained even in remote country districts.

His is said to be the largest motor circus in the world.

MR. A. A. JACKSON WRITES

Dear Editor Union-Banner:

As I read in the Birmingham Post today that Governor Al Smith of New York is the most prominent Democratic candidate for president of the United Stateh and read in the same paper from a correspondent that he is not afraid of the catholics, but regards the Ku Klux Klan as a very dangerous organization and that they must be stripped of power and put out of business. And still I come in contact with people who tell me that they are protestants and that they are in favor of Al Smith, and would vote for him if nominated.

It calls my mind back to Lincoln's prophecy when he said, "I do not pretend to be a prophet, but though not a prophet I see a very dark cloud on our horizon and that dark cloud is coming from Rome. It is filled with tears of blood; it will rise and increase till its flanks will be torn by a flash of lightning followed by a fearful peal of thunder; then a cyclone such as the world has never seen will pass over this country."

Also of Lafaytte's warning which was that if ever the liberties of this country were destroyed it would be by the Roman Catholic priest.

Did Canon Melville say to Americans: "Make peace if you will with popery, receive it into your senate, shrine it in your churches, plant it in your hearts, but be certain, as certain as there is a heaven above you and a God over you that the popery thus honored and embraced is the same popery that was loathed by the holiest of your fathers; the same who in intolerance and haughtiness lorded it over kings, assumed the prerogative of diety, cruched human liberty, and slew the saints of God?"

Is it a fact the Roman Catholics have practical control of American politics, and if unchecked in their course, will continue to usurp power until they can turn over our whole nation to their lord and master the pope of Rome. Respectfully,—A. A. Jackson.

IS THERE NO RELIEF FROM SKIN TORTURE?

Must I Continue to Suffer the Unbearable Itching?

Are you one of those unfortunates who are going through life suffering with a skin disease, making you uncomfortable, making you less efficient, interfering with your working hours, ruining your sleep? You may have tried many things without relief. Why not try S.S.S.? For more than 100 years it has been giving relief in many forms of skin disease. Thousands of letters of gratitude prove its worth.

"I feel so happy for what S.S.S. has done for me that I want others to know about it. I suffered twenty long years from eczema. At times the itching was unbearable. During that time, I used all kinds of salves without receiving any real benefit. After taking six bottles of S.S.S., I was cured of this dreadful disease. I recommend S.S.S. to anyone suffering from eczema, because I can not praise it enough for what it has done for me." Cleophas Forte, Soldiers and Sailors Home, Quincy, Ill.

S.S.S. is purely vegetable. It is extracted from the fresh roots of medicinal plants and herbs and gives to Nature what she needs in building you up so that your system throws off the cause.

S.S.S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.

PROVIDENCE, BEAT 13

As I haven't seen anything from this place in quite a while just thought that I would say a few words in behalf of our community and our church.

The health of this community is good at present.

The people are moving along nicely with their gathering. Cotton picking is just about done for this season.

Quite a number of the people of this place especially the young people, had the pleausre of meeting with the people of Bethlehem Church out east of Marbury Sunday, October 2, for the purpose of organizing a B. Y. P. U., and were given a most friendly welcome.

We wish to congratulate the young people of Providence on the effort they are putting forth in the good work they are carrying on, and too, our church is progressing very nicely with Rev. Thomas as pastor. The church voted unanimously for him for another year.

We wish to say that Rev. William Pilgreen of Calera is expected to preach at this place the second Sunday in October, and we urge and insist on all who can and will to come and hear him for Bro. Pilgreen will tell you something good.

The second Sunday evening in October is the regular time for singing at this place, and we cordially invite all the adjoining classes to come and be with us in the song service.

With best wishes to The Union-Banner and its many readers.—A Reader.

PLEASANT GROVE

There will be an all day singing at Pleasant Grove the second Sunday in October. Everybody invited. Five miles west of Maplesville. We cordially invite Mr. J. N.
